Poetry.

The Inebriate's Wife to her Husband.

Fur away from Britain's Isle,
Far from my youthful home,
I've roamed to claim thy genial smile,
And cheer thy lonely home.
I've sailed the ocean's vast expanse,
And left endearing, cherished friends,
To tread life's thorny, chequered road,
While I my duties do attend
Where frigid hearts do roam!

Thy words were gentle, sweet,
And given with a smile,
Thy promises were charming, sweet,
On that, my native Isle
I deemed thee true, I deemed that nought
Could turn aside thy love from me,
So genial, so confiding thou,
Did st ever seem to be
When thou wast free from guile.

But, ah! how changed the scene,
The poisonous demon rum,
Hath ruffled the congenial stream
Where love love free did run,
Of we our children all in rags,
With scarcely aught upon their feet;
And listen to their constant cries,
"Mother give me a crust to eat,"
They ask in vain—I've none!

Forsake the deathly cup,
And be thyself again,
Too long the horrid draught thou'st supped—
Ah! must I plead in vain?
Let not their cries be longer heard—
Grant their requests, oh! husband, do;
And love us as in days gone by
When thou wert cheerful, kind and true,
Let me not plead in vain!

Selections.

A Letter from a Washington Ethiopian to his Friend, another Ethiopian, in Greenville, Tennessee.

From the Toledo Blada.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.

Dear Samyoosel:—Yoo notis dat I 'dresses yoo by yoor full name, instid ob, 'brevintin it to Sam as I yoost to do.—Dat's cause dis chile is gettin education into him. Edducation, Samyoosel, is the first ting wat we niggahs want. De ballot, Samyoosel, in de hands ob a niggerant man is berry much like loadin a shot gun wid de shot and watten down fo-t. Dar aint no power in it. But it's a big ting. De larnin is de power, de ballot is de waddin and shot, and when de trigger is pulled, dar's a 'nplosion, and sumbody's bit ef it's aimed rite. Darefore dis chile's gone 'n on de larnin. I wrossel wid de spellin book contineyoually. Sumtimes de spellin book gits me down, and sumtimes I git de spellin book down, tho latterly I tink I'se got de upper hand ob it.

Dar's a bully time in Washington now. Washington is de place for niggahs.—Massa Johnson tole us in Nashville dat he was a gwine to be de Moses of de colored Izzelites, and I radder think he was.—He led us into the Red Sea and left us dar, flounderin about like cat fish in de mud. We pulled ourselves out and he started wid us troo de wilderness, same de 'riginal Moses did, and dat he mite imitate de 'xample of de fust Moses, de chile is ob de 'pinion dat he calkerlated to lead us 'bout for jist forty years to a day.

Dar's a strike similarity 'tween de two. De ole Izzelites was assailed wid all sorts ob rubble—so was we. Dey bed serpents to bite 'em—we bed de Copperheads after us. De heathin nations made war on em—was dar any wuss heathens in dem days dan dem at Memphis and Orleans? But Congress took de Moses bizness out ob his hands. Dey hatted de Civil Rites bill for de brazen serpent into our camp, and sich ob us as cood look at it ober de sides ob a gunwunnel muskit, lived. Den again, Congress found for us a short cut out ob de wilderness. Dey went into de woods dursel'as, wid dar axes dey hewed down de ole trees ob superstition, and dey grubbed up de ole stumps ob prejudis, and puttin de ballot into de niggah's hand made de road ober Jordan as easy as a street railroade.

Dar's a difference 'tween Washington now and Washington six week ago—a perceptible difference. Dey had a way ob kickin niggahs, dat was aggrivatin. Ebery accash in de de city had learned de most tenderest spot on de skin, an' brickbats!—Lord bress yoo, Samyoosel, dis chile nebber cood understan befor' why he niggah's skull was so thick. De Lord made it so on purpose, so dat brick-bats wood bounce off ob 'em. Ebery thing is fitted fo' de place it fills. Ef de niggah's skulls was like white men's, dar wouldn't a bin a little niggah in Washington to-day. But dar's a change in de soshel condishes ob tings.—Yesserday dar wuz a member ob de Common Council wat wants to be 'lected again nex March, come into my barber shop, and seg, I to him;—

"Shave, mas'r."

"My der sah," said he ketchin me by the hand an' foldin across my shoulder, "don't call me mas'r no more. Under de sladder ob dat flag," and he pointing to the Capitol, "ebery man is free, and dar ain't no mas'rs."

"When-a when?—scuse when?" sed I 'stonished, for he wuz de most 'feckshunt man I ebber did see scuse de der I wuz married.

"My brudder," sed he, "the Afrikin, ob which race yoor a magnificent specimen, is in a fare way ob workin out his mission. De shackles fall'd off his limbs, and he stans in de lite ob de bressed sun, a man, and a brudder, and a voter. Yoo is my ekal, and—"

"But wat's de matter?" said I, "I remember 'stinctly, only two free seberal weeks ago, yoo kicked me off de sidewalk for askin' yoo for de two las' shaves you owed me for. Wat's sum ober yoo? Am I more a man an' a brudder now dan I wuz den?"

"My friend," sed he, "I hope, I reverently hope, dat you won't 'member dem little spasms agin me. De fack is, I—I nebber yoo bed ambishin into yer, and I wuz feerful, 'deed I wuz, dat you'd rise faster dan wuz for your good. But dat's all stan.—Come."

And dat wuz made me shut up de shop, and we walked out arm-in-arm, and went to de beer shop wid me. On de way we met a pile of Irishmen, and dey wuz 'stonished. "Nigger!" dey yelled—and dey made fo' me, but dey seed I wuz in good company and stopped der hans. We stopped into all de beer-shops and he payed for all de freshments, ebery time touching my glass and drinkin' to de 'petual harmony ob de races, and hopin that so far as de Democracy and de colored men of Washington wuz concerned, de hatchet wuz burried forebber.

"My friend," sed he, in a whisper, "de fac is dat de gubernment ob de city has kum to de 'clusion dat de Irishmen workin on de public works ob de city ain't got de 'pasity in em, and 'spet we shall hab to turn 'em loose. Kin we git, d'yoo spose, two or three hundred culled men to take dere places? and when de 'lection kums ef we've 'lected dar'll be more places for 'em."

It seemed to me jes es though I smelt suffin. Sez I. "My free—for we are frens now, aint we?"

"Kin you doubt it," sed he.

"I nebber take a 'cisive step widdout 'sultin Potifer."

"And who is Potifer," sed he.

"He's a man an a brudder too," sed I. "Now I tell you wot. We'll go back to de shop and 'scourse on dis pint."

He went back wid me, an' I went to Potifer an' told him all 'bout it. We 'cluded we'd see jis how far dis 'ticular man and brudder wud go to get a niggah's vote.

When we 'rived we talked it all ober till half past one, P. M., (dat means in de nite season, member dat,) when dis man and brudder sed it wuz high time for him to go.

"No," sed I, "my frend—for you is my frend, its rainin' out, de streets is dark; stay here, here is my mattrass, it's rudder scarse for three ob us, but dat's better dan goin out. Stay wid us, and we'll talk it ober: dat's a good deal to be sed, ain't dey, Potifer?"

And Potifer said yes, and finally for fear ob 'fendin us, he 'cluded to do it. I bilt up a rousin fire, an dat 'twas hotter dan a groun'-hog's hole, and Potifer who's a larbarin man an' hadn't washed his feet for a week, an 'sides all dat he's counted de hoodest smellin' shade in de city, laid down at de back side ob de single mattrass and de man and brudder sat wants to be aldermans, in de middle, and I on de fore side; and dar we lay and swet and swet till de poor fellah was almost smuddered. When I thot he bed e'nuff ob it I got up.

"Now," sed I, pullin him out. "Git!"

"Wat," sed he, "I—

"Git," sed I. "Dus you tink dis chile a fool; dus you tink dis nigguh don't know p'cisely wat you want an' how you spec to git it. What you doin' hear sleepin wid niggahs in a seven foot squar room, wid a hot fire, and atween em at dat! Dus you tink I don't member de kickin two weeks ago and wonderin you do it to mek it 'swun't dat I got de power ob kickin you next month at the ballot box? 'Pears like its all I can do to keep my hans off ob you now. Pay me dem two shaves and git."

An he did it.

Dis ting ob votin's a big ting. Half de niggahs in de city is liven high at de 'spence ob de hundred or so wat want de offices. I don't smoke nuffin less dan fifteen cent cigars, and I think I'se shaved half de copperheads in de city. Dey go 'bout gettin shaved so long as dar face'll stan it—and I've shuck more wite hans dan Gen. Grant has for a year.

Dis ting ob votin 'mounts to suffin.

I'll write agin in a week, or two weeks, or a fortnit a de furdest.

GABRIEL BONAPARTE JOHNSON.

St. Peter's at Rome.

St. Peter's is the grandest church in the world. It is connected with the Vatican, the central point of that ecclesiastical system which has had a hand in nearly all movements, political and religious, for more than fifteen hundred years. Looking at the building from the square in front, it does not seem to be very large, but entering it, you look along a nave 613 feet, and up to a golden arch 152 feet. You see a row of immense square pillars, and outside of these, two aisles; these, with the nave and pillars, make a width of 198 feet.—This is enough of statistics. Beholding it, you at once feel that it is an immense edifice, but it is not easy to comprehend its magnitude till you stand beneath the great dome and look across the transept, back along the nave and up the great dome—up 403 feet—almost as high again as Bunker Hill monument. The distance is so great that the letters of the inscription at the base of the dome, which seem to be about a foot in length, are in reality six feet long. Beneath the dome is the high altar, over which stands an ugly shaped canopy, made of bronze torn from the ancient Pantheon; it seems to be about thirty feet to its top, but the actual distance is ninety-five. Comprehending these distances, you can then understand that the building is large enough and high enough to take in eight or ten of the largest churches in Boston, steeples and all. I dare say that all the church edifices in Newburyport, or Concord, N. H., or Springfield, might be set down within its walls, and then there would perhaps be room enough for one or two cotton factories! This, I am aware is not approximating very closely to its size, but I intend only to give you a general idea of its magnitude. You behold a marble pavement, curiously wrought, in Mosaic, marble pilasters and columns, statutes of the apostles, effigies of saints, angels, cupids, tombs of old popes—some of whom were great villains—paintings, mosaics, medallions, bronze and gold—gold enough if melted and coined into money, to make every beggar in Rome a wealthy citizen. One hundred thousand dollars on the canopy, or baldachino, as it is called, golden lamps, candlesticks, crosses, gold on the tombs of the popes, gold on the walls, on the vaulted roof, up the great dome, on the mitres, crosses, golden cupids, golden palm leaves so lavishly displayed that it would seem that there was no lack of the precious metals in the treasury of the church.

AMERICANS ABROAD.

THEIR SNOBBISHNESS, IGNORANCE AND VULGARITY.

The strictures below by no means apply to all Americans who go abroad, but that they do to a large class of ignorant and pretentious people who spend their money like fools, and become the laughing stock of intelligent foreigners, is, unfortunately, too true. The writer is a lady who has seen much of European life, and gives the results of what she has seen to the Springfield Republican:—

BAD ENGLISH AND WORSE BREEDING.

The way our language is mispronounced by even educated Americans, is startling, when one hears it in contrast with the clear, generous enunciation of the English. Not only do we speak through our noses instead of our throats, but the muscles of the throat and lips seem wanting in flexibility. We do not give the delicate shades and dainty inflexions of the language. I thought this came partly from our use of stimulants, tobacco, whisky, &c., which seems to thicken the lips and paralyze the throat and from the neglect to study other languages, and thus acquire practice in modulating the voice.

We met very few educated English persons who did not speak French or Italian, or both, as well as their own language.—Also, we drawl, and are affected in our speech. I met, in Paris, a stranger who introduced himself thus—first gazing at me from head to foot, and speaking through the whole length of her long nose, as if it were a trumpet:—

'So, you're kum Bawston. I have friends there. Do you know my cousins there ——'a! They live in Beacon street. They're one of the fust families in Bawston and they're my own cousins. You kum from Bawston, didn't yer?'

'Yes, but not lately; we have now come from Lucerne.'

'Oh, you don't say? Well, I'm again there soon. What's it like now. Is ter a hansum place around yer know, the lakes, and hills, and all, hansum -scene-ry?'

Before I could answer, her attention was drawn to the remark of an old gentleman beside me, and screaming like a hawk, she attacked him:—

'Well, dawkter, (Dr.) what is the thaiger; any kinder hotels—anythin' fit ter eat? If 'tis Switzerland yer carut live on scenes yer know!'

The doctor appealed to me as a more recent traveller in the mooted region, and I fell into a conversation with him, pitching my voice as nearly as possible to the same height as that of our friend. I supposed him to be as deaf as Beethoven, but after a day or two I found my mistake,

Said at a table d'hote, an aristocratic New Yorker, whom I met in Rome—

'How much have you seen to day—not half as much as I, I'll bet. Come let's compare notes.'

We drove on the Campagne, and stopped at the Colosseum; wasn't that glory enough for one day?

'So you are one of the Roman mad sort, then?'

'No, I ain't; I can't say that I see much in Rome except stone walls. We could build just as good walls at home, only we're something better to do. Why look'er rour railroads! I'm a true American, I believe in progress and in keeping things up trig an' nice.'

'But you do not care for the pictures?' said I.

'So -so, I'd as lieves have one of Church's or Gifford's as any of Raphael's. I'm doing these things so as not to be bored with bragging what I've lost, after I get home; but I make short work of it. Let's see! To day I did the capitol St. Peter's, the Vatican, (it needs ten days to walk through the Vatican) the Forum, the Triumphal Arches, Tarpeian Rock and some churches. To night I'll see the Colosseum illuminated, and I call this a good day's work.'

A beautiful young girl, educated and an aristocratic, vexed by the raillery of a young Italian requaintance, in regard to American manners, exclaimed—

'Our manners er as good as yours, any day, and if yer talk that way when yer go to tar Amerika, I hope some of um 'll duck yer.'

The look of amused and puzzled dismay on the Italian's face was indeed something to remember.

A RHINE INCIDENT.

The day on which war was declared in Europe, we were sailing up the Rhine. It was a beaming morning in spring, and every old tower and ruin had a flag waving from its topmost stone. There were on the boat people of many nations—Dutch, Germans, Austrians, Americans. Among the latter was a young man, with his family, apparently a journeyman mechanic, who had suddenly grown rich. Armed with charts and guide books, he paced up and down the deck, and announced each ruin, as if he was the hired showman of the panorama.

I asked a question of a silent Englishman, and his reply was—

'Indeed I don't know ma'am; I never was here but twice before. Ask that young American, he knows everything.—And the Americans are a very intelligent people, if they were not so vulgar.'

I could not help retorting to the remark he made me of, and said—

'Judge us as we do you, by our best.—If that man had been born in England, would he be the serf of some duke, or travelling on the Rhine with his wife, and instructing you and me?'

'You're right,' said the honest Englishman, 'he would, surely chance in a hundred, be buried in a coal mine, and unable to spell his letters.'

Here the American's voice interrupted us—he was admonishing his wife—'There you set, a crow-shay-ing, and we are goin' past all this new scenery, I never see such thin's as we pass are.

Two young men, evidently from a higher grade of society, but not a whit more intelligence than the journeyman, consulted him in regard to their route, and he good naturedly attended to their difficulty—the three attached themselves to each other for the rest of the voyage. They all dined together, and after their repast the most fine and elegant of the three began to cut out a tooth pick from a bit of wood. This awoke the American instinct of the second, who straightway carved letters on his Alpine stock, when the journeyman armed himself with provision for like amusement, took out his jack knife, and my last and most amusing recollection of the Rhine is of those three Americans seated in a row and all vehemently whittling.

Instead of the worst, we should have the best manner in the world, for, as Americans we are abundantly endowed with that kindness of heart which is the soul of courtesy. A woman who is travelling asks a favor of any American, at home or abroad, is sure of assistance as she is of light when she goes into the sunshine. It is a proverb in Paris,—'If you want a favor, ask an American.' A French lady said to me, while conversing on one occasion—

'If I am caught in rain, I never think of asking a Frenchman, or an Englishman, to call a coach.'

'Why?' I asked.

'O, he would stare, and bow politely, and walk straight past the stand without even thinking of me.

MEAN SNOBBISHNESS.

There are two classes of social offenders among us, those who never have been taught good manners, and those who, instructed in every rule of etiquette, are only willing to wear their manners with their dresses; their instincts are not towards refinement; they are decent in order to enter decent society. At home they yawn, talk slang, swear—yes, I know ladies in Boston, in Beacon street, who swear 'like the French in Flanders,' abuse their dependents, cringe to their superiors, beat down the prices of the poor, while their names shine on subscription lists, and commit many other vulgarities. One of these came to my room last winter, and there confessed—

'I really owe you an apology. Knowing the feelings you have about American manners, it was wrong to leave you so, this evening at table d'hote. I saw your look of dismay, and the spirit of mischief took full possession of me.'

I answered gravely that it had seemed to me rather the spirit of vulgarity.

'Ah, do not be savage; forgive me.'

'I am only sorry for you; but I do think you owe an apology to your country.'

'To my country! What have I done?'

'Did you not take an oath before leaving home to uphold America among the nations, and is it not, therefore, perjury to behave in so coarse,—or, if you prefer, uncourteous manner as to disgust them with the Americans, and to strengthen the prejudices of her enemies?'

'Hear her preach! This grows rather amusing. Pray state my sin for this evening.'

'You appeared at the public table in a light party silk, with three black grosgrain spots down the front.'

'It is true, but—'

'Never mind 'buts' till I have finished. You laughed when ——— told how he had blown out one of the lamps before St. Peter's court.'

'True, and I was ashamed of myself the moment after, the miserable rebel! I suppose that was Southern chivalry.'

'You made no reply to the stranger who asked you a civil question.'

'How did I know who he was? I do not associate with the crowd.'

'And finally, for ten minutes you leaned on both elbows, picking your teeth with a pin, while you gazed down the table.'

'I had no toothpick, and my tooth ached badly.'

'Would you do such things at home?'

'Of course not. Do you suppose I don't know better? I am travelling for amusement, and among this throng of common Americans whom we meet it is not worth while to be very exquisite; too much trouble. You cannot appreciate aristocratic mentelbalance because yourself is such an obstinate democrat; but depend upon it I have my admirers, even among those whom I snub.'

What is Gossip?

We are often asked, "What is gossip?" We answer, in a general way that it is talking of persons rather than of things.—Nothing shows the poverty of ideas more than this talking about the affairs of your neighbor. It is not only malicious people who originate scandal; it is narrow-minded people, ignorant people, stupid people. Persons of culture and intelligence are not so hard run for topics of conversation. They can usually find something to say about literature, fashion or society. The moment people begin to talk of their neighbors, of persons rather than of things, they are apt to degenerate into scandal; for where one speaks of the virtues of an acquaintance a dozen expatiate on his or her shortcomings. And this brings us to speak of real culture, or what we consider to be such, at least. A cultivated person, in the highest sense of the term, is not merely one who can talk of books, pictures, and other elevated subjects of human interest. To be thoroughly cultivated, the heart as well as the intellect should be refined and enlarged. Sometimes we see women who, without education, yet having been born amiable, when education has taught to talk of things, not persons.—The perfect woman in this respect, is one who is both amiable and educated. But education does not always elevate people above the regions of gossip. A really bad heart is always malicious. The best advice we can give is the homely old adage, "Mind your own business." Very few of us ever know the whole truth about anything concerning a neighbor, and to speak of his or her conduct, is usually to run the risk

Poetry.

The Inebriate's Wife to her Husband.

Far away from Britain's Isle,
Far from my youthful home,
I've roamed to shake thy genial smile,
And cheer thy lonely home.
I've sailed the ocean's vast expanse,
And left endearing, cherished friends,
To tread life's thorny, chequered road,
While I my duties do attend
Where frigid hearts do roam!

Thy words were gentle, mooh,
And given with a smile,
Thy promises were charming, sweet,
On that, my native Isle
I deemed thee true, I deemed that nought
Could turn aside thy love from me,
So genial, so confiding thou,
Did'st ever seem to be
When thou wast free from guile.

But, ah! how changed the scene,
The poisonous demon rum,
Hath ruffled the congenial stream
Where true love free did run,
Oh! see our children all in rags,
With scarcely aught upon their feet;
And listen to their constant cries,
"Mother give me a crust to eat,"
They ask in vain—I've none!

Forsake the deathly cup,
And be thyself again,
Too long the horrid draught thou'st supped—
Ah! must I plead in vain?
Let not their cries be longer heard—
Grant their requests, oh! husband, do;
And love us as in days gone by
When thou wert cheerful, kind and true,
Let me not plead in vain!

Selections.

A Letter from a Washington Ethiopian to his Friend, another Ethiopian, in Greenville, Tennessee.

From the Toledo Blade.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.

Deer Samyoosel:—Yoo notis dat I 'dresses yoo by yore full name, instid ob, 'brevitatim' it to Sam ez I yoost to do.—Dat's cause dis chile is gettin edication in to him. Eddication, Samyoosel, is the first ting wat we niggahs want. De ballot, Samyoosel, in de hands ob a iggernant man is berry much like loadin a shot gun wid de shot and watten down fust. Dar aint no power in it. But it's a big ting. De larnin in de power, de ballot is de waddin and shot, and when de trigger is pulled, dar's a 'splosion, and sumbody's bit of it's aimed rite. Darefore dis chile's gone in on de larnin. I wrassel wid de spellin book contingoously. Sumtimes de spellin book gits me down, and sumtimes I git de spellin book down, tho latterly I tink I'se got de upper hand ob it.

Dar's a buly time in Washington now. Washington is de place for niggahs.—Massa Johnson tole us in Nashville dat he wuz a gwine to be de Moses of de colored Izzelites, and I rudder think he was.—He led us into the Red Sea and left us dar, flounderin about like cat fish in de mud. We pulled ourselves out and he started wid us troo de wilderness, same de 'riginal Moses did, and dat he mite imitate de 'zample of de fust Moses, dis chile is ob de 'pinion dat he calkerlated to lead us 'bout for jist forty years to a day.

Dar's a strikin similarity 'tween de two. De ole Izzehites wuz assailed wid all sorts ob trubble—so wus we. Dey hed serpents to bite 'em—we hed de Copperheads after us. De heathen nitions made war on em—wus dar any warser heathens in dem days dan dem at Memphis an Orleans? But Congress took de Moses bizness out ob his hands. Dey histed de Civil Rites bill for de brazen serpent into our camp, and sich ob us as cood look at it ober de sites ob a government musket, lived. Den again, Congress found for us a short cut out ob de wilderness. Dey went into de woods darselves, wid dar sarp dey hewed down de ole trees ob superstition and dey grubbed up de ole stumps ob prejuds, and puttin de ballot into de niggah's hand made de road ober Jordan ez easy ez a street ralerode.

Dar's a difference 'tween Washington now and Washington six week ago—a purceptible diffrense. Dey had a way ob kickin niggahs, dat wus aggrivatin. Ebery seceshman in de city hed learned de most tenderest spot on de skin, an' brickbats!—Lord bress yoo, Samyoosel, dis chile nebber cood understan befor' why he niggah's skull was so thick. De Lord made it so on purpose, so dat brick-bats wood bounce off ob 'em. Ebery thing is fitted fo' de place it fills. Ef de niggah's skulls was like white men's, dar woodn't a bin a litin niggah in Washington to-day. But dar's a change in de seshel conshiben ob tings.—Yesserday dar wuz a member ob de Common Council wat wants to be 'lected again nex March, come into my barber shop, and seq I to him;—

"Share, wan'r."

"My ter sah." said he ketchin me by the hand an' fallin across my shoulder, "don't call me mas'r no more. Under de shadder ob dat flag," and he pointing to the Capitol, "ebery man is free, and dar ain't no mas'rs."

"Whars-a when?—sence when?" sed I 'stonished, for he wus de most 'feckshant man I reber did see sence de day I wuz married.

"My brudder," sed he, "the Afrikin, ob which race your a magnificent specimen, is in a fare way ob workin out his mission. De shackles fall's of his limbs, and he stans in de lite ob de brezed sun, a man, and a brudder, and a voter. Yoo is my ideal, and—"

"But wat's de matter?" said I, "I rember 'stinctly, only two free ederal weeks ago, you kicked me off de sidewalk for askin' yoo for de two las' shaves you owed me for. Wat's cum ober yoo? Am I more a man an' a brudder now dan I wuz den?"

"My friend," sed he, "I hope, I correctly hope, dat you won't 'member dem little spasms ag'in me. De fack is, I—I mout yoo hed ambishin into yer, and I wuz feerful, 'deed I wuz, dat you'd rise faster dan wuz for your good. But dat's all ober.—Come."

And dat man made me shut up de shop, and we walked out arm-in-arm, and went to de beer shop wid me. On de way we met a pile of Irishmen, and dey was 'stonished. "Nigger!" dey yelled—and dey made fo' we, but dey seed I wuz in good company and stopped der hans. We stopped into all de beer-shops and he payed for all de freshments, ebery time touching my glass and drinkin' to de 'petual harmony ob de races, and hopin that so far ez de Democrisy and de colored men of Washington was consarned, de hatchet wuz buried forebber.

"My friend," sed he, in a whisper, "de fac is dat de guberniment ob de city hez kum to de 'clusion dat de Irishmen workin on de public works ob de city ain't got de 'pearly in em, and 'spect we shall hab to turn 'em loose. Kin we git, d'yoo spose, two or three hundred culled men to take dere places? and when de 'lection kums on we'se 'lected dar'll be more places for 'em."

It seemed to me jus ez though I smelt suffin. Sez I. "My free—for we are frens now, aint we?"

"Kin you doubt it," sed he.

"I nebber take a 'scisive step widdout 'sultin Potifer."

"And who is Potifer," sed he.

"He's a man an a brudder too," sed I.

"Now I tell you wot. We'll go back to de shop, and 'scourse on du pint."

He went back wid me, an' I went to Potifer an' told him all 'bout it. We 'cluded we'd see jis how far dis 'ticular man and brudder wud go to git a niggah's vote.

When we 'ribed we talked it all ober till half past one, P. M., (dat means in de nite season, member dat,) wh n dis man and brudder sed it wuz high time for him to go.

"No," sed I, "my frend—for you is my frend, its rainin' out, de streets is dark; stay here, here is my mattarass, it's rudder narrar for three ob us, but dat's better dan goin out. Stay wid us, and we'll talk it ober: dar's a good deal to be sed, ain't dey, Potif r?"

And Potifer said yes, and finally for fear ob 'fendin us, he 'cluded to do it. I bilt up a roosin fire, so dat 'twas hotter dan a groun'-hog's hole, and Potifer who's a larbarin man an' hadn't washed his feet for a week, an 'sides all dat he's counted de loudest smellin' shade in de city, laid down at de back side ob de single mattarass and de man and brudder sat wants to be alderman, in de middle, and I on de fore side; and dar we lay and swet and swet til de poor lil-leh was almost smuddered. When I thot he hed e'nuff ob it I got up.

"Now," sed I, pul in him out. "Git!"

"Wat," sed he, "I—

"Git," sed I. "Duz you tink dis chile a fool; duz you tink dis nigguh don't know p'cisely wat you want an' how you spec to git it. An he did it.

Dis ting ob votin's a big ting. Half de niggahs in de city is liven hign at de 'spence ob de imagined or so wat want de offices I don't smoke suffin less dan fifteen cent cigars, and I think I've shaved half de copperheads in de city. Dey go 'bout gettin shaved so long as dar faces'll stan it—and I've struck more wite hans dan Gen. Grant has for a year.

Dis ting ob votin 'mounts to suffin.

I'll write agin in a week, or two weeks, or a fortnit a de furdest.

GABRIEL BONAPARTE JOHNSON.

St. Peter's at Rome.

St. Peter's is the grandest church in the world. Itwas connected with the Vatican, the central point of that ecclesiastical system which has had a hand in nearly all movements, political and religious, for more than fifteen hundred years Looking at the building from the square in front, it does not seem to be very large, but entering it, you look along a nave 613 feet, and up to a golden arch 152 feet. You see a row of immense square pillars, and outside of these, two aisles; these, with the nave and pillars, make a width of 198 feet.—This is enough of statistics. Beholding it, you at once feel that it is an immense edifice, but it is not easy to comprehend its magnitude till you stand beneath the great dome and look across the transept, back along the nave and up the great dome—up 405 feet—almost as high again as Bunker Hill monument. The distance is so great that the letters of the inscription at the base of the dome, which seem to be about a foot in length, are in reality six feet long Beneath the dome is the high altar, over which stands an ugly shaped canopy, made of bronze torn from the ancient Pantheon; it seems to be about thirty feet to its top, but the actual distance is ninety-five. Comprehending these distances, you can then understand that the building is large enough and high enough to take in eight or ten of the largest churches in Boston, steeples and all. I dare say that all the church edifices in Newburyport, or Concord, N. H., or Springfield, might be set down within its walls, and then there would perhaps be room enough for one or two cotton factories! This, I am aware is not appreciating very closely to its size, but I intend only to give you a general idea of its magnitude. You behold a marble pavement, curiously wrought, in Mosaic, marble pilasters and columns, statutes of the apostles, effigies of saints, angels, cupids, tombs of old popes—some of whom were great villains—paintings, mosaics, medallions, bronze and gold—gold enough if melted and coined into money, to make every beggar in Rome a wealthy citizen. One hundred thousand dollars on the canopy, or Baldachino, as it is called, golden lamps, candlesticks, arcoses, gold on the tombs of the popes, gold on the walls, on the vaulted roof, up the great dome, on the mitres, crosses, golden cupids, golden palm leaves so lavishly displayed that it would seem that there was no lack of the precious metals in the treasury of the church.

AMERICANS ABROAD.

THEIR SNOBBISHNESS, IGNORANCE AND VULGARITY.

The strictures below by no means apply to all Americans who go abroad, but that they do to a large class of ignorant and pretentious people who spend their money like fools, and become the laughing stock of intelligent foreigners, is, unfortunately, too true. The writer is a lady who has seen much of European life, and gives the results of what she has seen to the Springfield Republican:—

BAD ENGLISH AND WORSE BREEDING.

The way our language is mispronounced by even educated Americans, is startling, when one hears it in contrast with the clear, generous enunciation of the English. Not only do we speak through our noses instead of our throats, but the muscles of the throat and lips seem wanting in flexibility. We do not give the delicate shades and dainty inflections of the language. I thought this came partly from our use of stimulants, tobacco, whisky, &c., which seems to thicken the lips and paralyze the throat and from the neglect to study other languages, and thus acquire practice in modulating the voice.

We met very few educated English persons who did not speak French or Italian, or both, as well as their own language.—Also, we heard, and are affected in our speech. I met, in Paris, a stranger who introduced himself thus—first gazing at me from head to foot, and speaking through the whole length of her long nose, as if it were a trumpet:—

'So, you've kum Bawstun. I have friends there. Do you know my cousins there ——'s? They live in Beacon street. They're one of the fust families in Bawstun and they're my own cousins. You kum from Bawstun, didn't yer?'

'Yes, but not lately; we have now come from Lucerne.'

'Oh, you don't say? Well, I'm again there soon. What's it like now. Is ter a hansum place around yer know, the lakes, and hills, and all, hansum scenes?'

Before I could answer, her attention was drawn to the remark of an old gentleman beside me, and screaming like a hawk, she attacked him:—

'Well, dawkter, (Dr.) what is the thaiyer; any kinder hotels—anythin' fit ter rest in? If 'tis Switzerland yue carnt live on scenes yer know?'

The doctor appealed to me as a more recent traveller in the mooted region, and I fell into a conversation with him, pitching my voice as nearly as possible to the same height as that of our friend. I supposed him to be as deaf as Beethoven, but after a day or two I found my mistake,

Sold at a table d'hote, an aristocratic New Yorker, whom I met in Rome—

'How much have you seen to day—not half as much as I, I'll bet. Come let's compare notes.'

We drove to the Campagne, and stopped at the Colosseum; wasn't that glory enough for one day?

'So you are one of the Roman mad sort, then?'

'No, I ain't; I can't say that I see much in Rome except stone walls. We could build just as good walls at home, only we've something better to do. Why look'er your railroads! I'm a true American, I believe in progress and in keeping things up trig and nice.'

'But you do not care for the pictures?' said I.

'So—so, I'd as lieves have one of Church's or Cliff rd's as any of Raphael's. I'm doing these things so as not to be bored with hearing what I've lost, after I get home; but I make short work of it. Let's see! To day I did the capitol St. Peter's, the Vatican, (it needs ten days to walk through the Vatrean) the Forum, the Triumphal Arches, Tarpeian Rock and some churches. To night I'll see the Colosseum illuminated, and I call this a good day's work.'

A beautiful young girl, educated and an aristocratic, vexed by the raillery of a young Italian acquaintance, in regard to American manners, exclaimed—

'Our manners or as good as yours, any day, and if yer talk that way when yer go to ter Ameriker, I hope some of um'll duck yer.'

The look of amused and puzzled dismay on the Italian's face was indeed something to remember.

A RHINE INCIDENT.

The day on which war was declared in Europe, we were sailing up the Rhine. It was a beaming morning in spring, and every old tower and ruin had a flag waving from its topmost stone. There were on the boat people of many nations—Dutch, Germans, Austrians, Americans. Among the latter was a young man, with his family, apparently a journeyman mechanic, who had suddenly grown rich. Armed with charts and guide books, he paced up and down the deck, and announced each ruin, as if he was the hired showman of the panorama.

I asked a question of a stout English woman, and his reply was—

'Indeed I don't know ma'am; I never was here but twice before. Ask that young American, he knows everything.—And the Americans are a very intelligent people, if they were not so vulgar.'

I could not help retorting to the remark he made use of, and said—

'Judge us as we do you by our best.—If that man had been born in England, would he be the serf of some duke, or travelling on the Rhine with his wife, and instructing you and me?'

'You're right,' said the honest Englishman, 'he would, ninety chances in a hundred, be buried in a coal mine, and unable to spell his letters.'

Here the American's voice interrupted us—he was admonishing his wife—'There you set, a crow-shay-ing, and we are goin' past all this nice scenery, I never see such thin's as ma'am's are.

Two young men, evidently from a higher grade of society, but not a shade less ea and less intelligence than the journeyman, consulted him in regard to their route, and he good naturedly attended to the ir difficulties—the three attached themselves to each other for the rest of the voyage. They all dined together, and after their repast the most fine and elegant of the three began to cut out a tooth pick from a bit of wood. This awoke the American instinct of the second, who straightway carved letters on his Alpine stock, when the journeyman armed himself with provision for like amusement, took out his jack knife, and my last and most amusing recollection of the Rhine is of those three Americans seated in a row and all vehemently whittling.

Instead of the worst, we should have the best manner in the world, for, as Americans we are absolutely endowed with that kindness of heart which is the soul of courtesy—a woman who is travelling asks a favor of any American, at home or abroad, is sure of assistance as she is of light when she goes into the sunshine. It is a proverb in Paris,—'If you want a favor, ask an American.' A French lady said to me, while conversing on one occasion—

'If I am caught in rain, I never think of asking a Frenchman, or an Englishman, to call a coach.'

'Why?' I asked.

'O, he would stare, and bow politely, and walk straight past the stand without even thinking of me.

MEAN SNOBBISHNESS.

There are two classes of social offenders among us, those who never have been taught good manners, and those who, instructed in every rule of etiquette, are only willing to wear their manners with their dresses; their instincts are not towards refinement; they are decent in order to enter decent society. At home they yawn, talk slang, swear—yes, I know ladies in Boston, in Beacon street, who swear 'like the French in Flanders,' abuse their dependents, cringe to their superiors, beat down the prices of the poor, while their names shine on subscription lists, and commit many other vulgarities. One of these come to my room last winter, and there confessed—

'I really owe you an apology. Knowing the feelings you have about American manners, it was wrong to leave you so, this evening at table d'hote. I saw your look of dismay, and the spirit of mischief took full possession of me.'

I answered generally that it had seemed to me rather the spirit of vulgarity.

'Ah, do not be savage; forgive me.'

'I am only sorry for you; but I do think you owe an apology to your country.'

'To my country! What have I done?'

'Did you not take an oath before leaving home to uphold America among the nations, and is it not, therefore, perjury to behave in so coarse,—or, if you prefer, mischievous manner as to disgust them with America, and to strengthen the prejudices of her enemies?'

'Hear her preach! This grows rather amusing. Pray state my sins for this evening.'

'You appeared at the public table in a light party silk, with three black grease spots down the front.'

'It is true, but—'

'Never mind 'buts' till I have finished. You laughed when ——— told how he had blown out one of the lamps before St. Peter's court.'

'True, and I was ashamed of myself the moment after, the miserable rebel! I suppose that was Southern chivalry.'

'You made no reply to the stranger who asked you a civil question.'

'How did I know who he was? I do not associate with the crowd.'

'And finally, for ten minutes you leaned on both elbows, picking your teeth with a pin, while you gazed down the table.'

'I had no toothpick, and my tooth ached badly.'

'Would you do such things at home?'

'Of course not. Do you suppose I don't know better? I am travelling for amusement, and among this throng of common Americans whom we meet it is not worth while to be very exquisite; too much trouble. You cannot appreciate aristocratic nonchalance because yourself is such an obstinate democrat; but depend upon it I have my admirers, even among those whom I snub.'

What is Gossip?

We are often asked, "What is gossip?" We answer, in a general way that it is talking of persons rather than of things.—Nothing shows the poverty of ideas more than this talking about the affairs of your neighbor. It is not only malicious [people] who originate scandal; it is narrow-minded people, ignorant people, stupid people. Persons of culture and intelligence are not so hard run for topics of conversation. They can usually find something to say about literature, fashion or society. The moment people begin to talk of their neighbors, of persons rather than of things, they are apt to degenerate into scandal; for where one speaks of the virtues of an acquaintance a dozen expatiate on his or her shortcomings. And this brings us to speak of real culture, or what we consider to be such, at least. A cultivated person, in the highest sense of the term, is not merely one who can talk of books, pictures, and other elevated subjects of human interest. To be thoroughly cultivated, the heart as well as the intellect should be refined and enlarged. Sometimes we see women who, without education, yet having been born amiable, when education has taught to talk of things, not persons.—The perfect woman in this respect, is one who is both amiable and educated. But education does not always elevate people above the regions of gossip. A really bad heart is always malicious. The best advice we can give is the homely old adage, "Mind your own business." Very few of us ever know the whole truth about anything concerning a neighbor, and to speak of his or her conduct, is usually to run the risk of being unjust. Much less should we talk of

GOLD ITEMS.

From the Intelligencer.

Mr. Barron.—The Gold news from the North for the past week, so far as I can ascertain, amounts to this:

Robert Harry, Esq., of Elzevir, on lot 5, 3rd Concession, informs me that he has sold the mining right to his land, 200 acres, to Messrs. Stevens & Co., for $25,000, $5000 of which was paid down, the remainder to be paid in 40 days from purchase. I understand Mr. Stevens is connected with an experienced Californian miner, who is on the spot, with men and tools, working with every prospect of success.

James Mairs, Esq., informs me that he has formed a Company of [illegible] including himself, to work on his lot, within half a mile of Bridgewater, on Lot 2, 3rd Concession. This Company also includes a Californian miner, and the parties, from all the indications, feel confident of success. I saw several specimens of the quartz rock, and they are fully equal to the top rock of the famous Richardson Mine.

At present there is nothing doing at Bridgewater in gold mining. We are waiting patiently until the frost leaves the earth in a proper state to work to advantage, in order to work the alluvial deposits, and the quartz until we get a crushing mill erected.

There are other lots not far from Bridgewater upon which quartz has been found, containing a show of gold, and there are plenty of indications coming in from nearly all parts of Elzevir.

I have a piece of black quartz, with gold in it, from Anglesea taken from a lot owned by R. Jones, Esq., of Belleville, and which leads fair to prove to be rich in the "precious metal." I have also a splendid show of gold taken from land in the Township of Belmont.

The lands in Elzevir are selling off fast to parties, and from present appearances, by the 1st of April the whole Township will have been taken up.

From what miners have told me, Elzevir is likely to prove a far richer township than Madoc, and I have no doubt but the rush of fortune hunters will be as great within the next two months.

The large number of places in which gold has been found, and at remote points from the Richardson Mine, gives evidence that the County is rich, and that said mine does not contain all the gold in North Hastings.

Yours, etc.,

BILLA FLINT.

A CORRUPT CONGRESS.

Those who have labored under the delusion that the present Congress is a Congress of issues, or a Congress of anything except of gigantic jobs, have only to watch the markets and the disturbed course of business from day to day. All the talk about reconstruction, impeachment, and military government of the Southern States, is only a cover to the Radical riot, now in a general game of grab and jobs. Congress in the face of argument, in the face of all financial history, persists in the insane policy of taxing articles—whiskey, for instance—three or four times the cost of manufacture and the actual value. The manufacturers are the men who favor these extraordinary imposts—the manufacturers who mean to return two gallons or so out of every five those distil; the illicit distillers favor it, for they get full price—the extravagant price Congress gives them—for whiskey on which they intend to pay no tax whatever; and Congress favors it because a more corrupt Congress never sat in Washington.

It is toasted that the passage of a simple resolution against contraction the other day was "worth" a round million in greenbacks to the members who voted for it. A broker in this city has asked from the national banks throughout the country the modest sum of $2000,000 to further their interests in Washington. The lobby is crowded with manufacturers from New England with railroad jobbers and land speculators from the West, who have turned the entrance halls into an exchange where the jobbers stand and coolly calculate the price of that or this Congressman as they would talk about buying an ox or an ass. This open shame is only equalled by the bare-facedness of the actual selling of what is called by courtesy and this congress "legislation." A few days ends the thirty-ninth Congress, and there is a general scramble now to make hay while the sun shines.—World.

Murder in Manchester, N. H.—James Mace was murdered on the evening of the 1st March in the drinking-saloon of James Myers in Piscataquog village, Manchester, about a mile from the City Hall. Mace and four others went into the saloon to drink, and soon afterward a dispute occurred about some money. Mace thought he had lost his pocket book in the saloon. Afterward he found he had it. One of the company then proposed to count the money and ascertain if it was all right. A dispute of some kind then arose and a fight ensued, Myers, the saloon keeper, grabbed a stool and struck Mace over the head, knocking him senseless to the floor. The fight then stopped.—Mace was placed on a settee, and one of the party thought a physician had better be called. The others objected, saying that the man would be all right by morning. Finally Mace was left alone in the saloon, and the keeper and the rest of the party went away for the night. This morning Myers and others of the party went to the saloon, and found Mace dead upon the settee. The police were notified, and the City Marshal immediately arrested Myers, who made no resistance.

Victoria College.—It affords us much pleasure to learn that the Royal College of Surgeons, England has recognized the high standard of examination and graduation by the Medical Department of Victoria College, and entered it on the list of affiliated institutions. No higher compliment could be paid to our institution than this recognition by so distinguished an institution as the Royal College of Surgeons, but the compliment is well deserved, as the alumni of the Medical Department of Victoria are proving by their successful practice the efficiency of the instruction they have received.

An affiliation has also recently taken place with the French School of Medicine of Montreal and an application for a like purpose has been received from the French Canadian Institute in the departments of Arts and Law.—Sun.

Rochester, Feb. 23., Friday evening two boys named Ellsworth and Wilson, about seventeen years of age, each left their homes in the city, armed with an old musket and single barrelled pistol with the express determination to murder the first man they should meet on the highway. They jumped into a sleigh and shot a man named Keafin in the back of the head with the pistol. The young desperadoes returned home and were arrested. They confessed all, and say before meeting Keafin they jumped into several sleighs, but had no favorable opportunity to shoot.

Kingston, 8th.—Two soldiers belonging to the Royal Artillery deserted last night from Fort Henry, taking their arms and ammunition with them. A little boy about 5 years of age, son of Mr. Philip Ryan, farmer of Wolf Island, was accidently hanged yesterday, while playing with a rope attached to a beam. A batch of prisoners for the Provincial Penitentiary, arrived from Montreal this afternoon.—Citizen.

Hon. George Brown.—In a speech at Thornbury, Oxford, Mr. Brown announced his retirement from parliamentary but not from political life. We hope there is some truth in the report that Mr. Brown is to be the first Lieutenant Governor of Ontario.

POLITICAL.

A friend from the East Riding sends us word that on last Saturday there was a meeting at Westwood of persons of all shades of politics, and that the names of Col. Hanltain, A. H. Campbell, Esq., and Mr. Standley, were talked of as probable candidates for the House of Commons in the coming election. Also that the friends of Mr. Laing, of Otonabee, were anxious that he should run for the Local Parliament, but that Mr. Laing declines to do so. We have abundance of material in the county; it is true, some of them may require to be brought out, but now is the time to determine on whom the choice is to fall.

We have been informed, also, that Peter Pearce, Esq., Ex-Warden of the County, will be solicited to become a candidate; and there was some talk that the late Warden and present Warden would be brought out for the Local Parliament. Of course all these are in the East Riding. But as the above is only in the shape of rumour, we can only give the names, as those from among whom candidates are likely to be chosen.

We forbear to give any opinion until we receive something more tangible than mere report. But these are all from the East.—What is the West doing?

FENIANS.

The Fenian uprising in Ireland commenced and has been quelled since our last issue. The risings of the rebels at the places reported was not so strong as anticipated, and they have been able to effect nothing beyond causing a little stir among the constabulary and soldiers. In almost every instance a few police were a match for the rebel forces. The cautious and reflecting portion of the people refrained from taking any part in the affair; and, hence, the greater part of the work was undertaken by a few American Fenians, who have gone over to agitate. Several of these have suffered and those that are in the hands of the authorities will, at least, undergo a while's penal servitude. The British Government has hitherto been very lenient towards those caught in rebellion and also towards those who invaded our shores. The wisdom of such a policy may reasonably be doubted, as there can be no doubt that an example or two would do much to deter others and put a stop to proceedings. As regards our own country, we may expect more trouble if the least opportunity should offer itself. Our government learned a lesson last year that may be of use in future and we trust, therefore, reasonable arrangements will be made to meet circumstances. It is better to maintain a small force at exposed points, than be forced to call out a large one when an enemy has entered our country.

THE GOLD LANDS.

Since the cry about gold has taken the tangible shape of mining, or rather prospecting the spirit of speculation has also been aroused, and in consequence very many are staking considerable in those rocks and stones that heretofore were considered worthless. In the County of Hastings all available lands are bought up, and where purchases cannot be made, leases are being obtained on such terms as can be procured. In our County two parties are on the look out to obtain land in those places where gold is expected to exist. At present, however, there is not the same amount of speculation here that is in Madoc and vicinity. As soon as the snow removes we expect to hear of great activity in our near Townships. Harvey, Burleigh, Anstruther, Chandos, Galway, Snowden, and Dysart will be carefully explored, with a view to finding the precious metal, and we expect to realize our highest present expectation. There can be no doubt that if gold exists in Hastings County it does also in this County. Already Belmont is declared to be rich in one of the precious metals besides the marble, &c., that it contains. It is rumored, however, that all the Government lands in those Townships where gold is supposed to exist have been withdrawn from the market. This we think is right. Just now none but speculators care for investing in those Townships, and not one of them would ever become a settler, so that if disappointed there would be no advantage to the settlements. But independent of this, we hear of considerable purchases having been made in Hastings by friends of the government at rates that are far too low if gold should be found. To prevent this, government should withdraw the lands until the real value therefor is known, and then give every one a fair chance; but most certainly it ought not to be put up in large blocks, so that everything may be done in this County decently and in order. There is one thing of which we would remind our readers, that there can be no doubt but that all our back country is just as rich as Madoc or Elzevir, and hence we would advise our

Just now none but speculators care for investing in those Townships, and not one of them would ever become a settler, so that if disappointed there would be no advantage to the settlements. But independent of this, we hear of considerable purchases having been made in Hastings by friends of the government at rates that are far too low if gold should be found. To prevent this, government should withdraw the lands until the real value therefor is known, and then give every one a fair chance; but most certainly it ought not to be put up in large blocks, so that everything may be done in this County decently and in order. There is one thing of which we would remind our readers, that there can be no doubt but that all our back country is just as rich as Madoc or Elzevir, and hence we would advise our

OUR UNION SCHOOL.

We have been shown a letter from a gentleman of Simcoe, in reference to the opinion of Col. Wilson, L. L. D., who lately lectured here, concerning our Union School, and the letter speaks volumes in praise of the present system of management. Col. Wilson while here visited the Institution and spoke in the most flattering terms of its orderly and well arranged classes. And as soon as he returned home he communicated to his own Board, of which he is the chairman, the efficient state of our School and he has taken steps to introduce the same system, if possible, into the Simcoe School. In consequence, Mr. King, of the Peterborough Grammar and Union Scool, has received a letter, asking for information, from which we have been permitted to take the following extract:—

Simcoe, 7 March, 1867.

Dear Sir,—Col. Wilson, the chairman of our Board of School Trustees, was speaking in very high terms of the school under your charge and of its general management; the Board after hearing his explanation thought it would be advisable to introduce the same system here. I have, therefore, been requested to ask you to be kind enough to send us up your last annual report and a monthly and quarterly report of one of the best divisions in your school, filled up, which will be carefully returned. You will oblige by saying how much per quire we could be furnished with monthly and quarterly blank teacher's reports. I hope you will pardon the trouble given you in answering our queries. You might also state the annual cost of your school, the number of teachers employed, the number of pupils in attendance and any other information you, from your experience, might think of value to us in organizing a school on the same system as followed by you.

Mr. King has great reason to be proud of praise coming from such a quarter and the Board also in having the advantages of his services.

Fires.

On Sabbath morning last, a small house on the river bank was consumed by fire.—We did not learn the loss.

Tuesday even'g between 9 and 10 o'clock, a house just in rear of Mr. Waddell's Saddlery was consumed. The house, at the time, was occupied by a Mrs. Shenette, who, it is reported, allowed other fair ones to remain with her in the house. We also hear a rumor that some one was seen in the rear of the premises just before the alarm was given. The property belonged to Mr. Harper.

Bobcaygeon.

On Friday morning last, the 8th inst., many of the villagers were surprised to see a fine Buck quietly walking between the house of Mr. John Ellis and the stable.—Chase was given and he was nearly caught among the lumber piles. He then passed over the Canal Bridge and along the main street at a nice little canter. He was afterwards seen leisurely walking towards Pigeon Lake, and was secured during the day by one of the villagers.—Com.

There will be a meeting of the Literary Club this evening, when the following subject will be discussed:—"Was the impeachment of Warren Hasting's justifiable." Affirmative—Messrs. Eastwood, Bunnett and Cornell. Negative—Messrs. Hall, Mason and Haggart. The debate to be public.—Chair taken at 8 o'clock.

St. Andrew's Church Concert, on Monday evening, we learn, was a great success. All the readings and music were rendered in the most pleasing and artistic manner, and a crowded audience listened attentively and were delighted with the whole proceedings.

It is rumored in Montreal, that judge Caron will be appointed Lieut. Governor for the Province of Quebec.

County Court and Quarter Session.

This Court opened here on Tuesday, His Honor, Judge Boucher, presiding.

Grand Jury.—Andrew Powles, Esq., Foreman, Andrew Duncan, Matthew Boyce, John Coulter, Henry Collins, Wm. Carter, Wm. Curtin, Wm. Foley, Robt. Johnston, John Lamberts, Peter McIntyre, Duncan McFarlane, Wm. Reid, Jas. Sanderson, Jno. Sherin, John Scott, Joseph Walton, John Whibbs and J. L. Williamson, Esqs.

The first case was Rogers vs. Perry. Verdict for plf., $114.20.

Toole vs. Huston & Co.—This was an action brought to recover damages for shingle logs said not to have been delivered to plf. by defts. The plf. had purchased in 1862 from 500 to 1500 logs to be taken out of the refuse of those logs where defts. had been lumbering that year. Mr. Toole had selected about 270, but received only about 160, although all he had marked had been driven to the Nassau Mills. On the other hand it was set up that there was no agreement to deliver logs, only to drive them to the mills, which had been done. The Jury gave verdict for plf. for $36.00. Scott, Burnham and Smith for plf.; Cameron, Burnham and Waller for defts.

The Bank of Toronto vs. Lacourse.—Verdict by consent, $320.49. Waller for plf.

WEDNESDAY.

Landy vs. Mullens.—An action to recover the amount of several notes and accounts. Verdict for plf., $185.12.

Buck vs. Sheriff Reynolds of Ontario.—To recover the amount of a judgement that had been placed in his hands but which he failed to make when he could have done so, as was alleged. After the discussions of some points set up by the Learned Council, the case was left with liberty to apply for leave to amend. Scott for plf.; Cameron for deft.

Dickson vs. Toole.—An action to recover rent for a water privilege, &c., occupied by Toole previous to the burning of the building. Denuistoun for plf.; Smith for deft. Verdict for deft.

At the present court there have been few cases comparatively speaking, as will be seen from the Report. And it is satisfactory to learn from the pre-eutment of the Grand Jury that there are very few prisoners in the Jail, and only one against whom there is any charge of a criminal nature. The jail is reported in good order and clean, and we are glad to be able to report that the jailer has so few to attend to.

London, March 11.—Artemus Ward has directed in his will that his property shall go after the death of his mother towards the erection of an asylum for printers.

ASHBURNHAM.

The Council of the Village met on Tuesday evening. All the members present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

On motion of Mr. Sutherland, Messrs. P. Sargent, Louis Glover and Jonathon Stephenson were appointed Assessors for the current year.

The subject of granting saloon licenses to Mr. Thos. Armstrong was discussed, but it was concluded not to do so.

At the previous meeting Mr. Malcolm McGregor had petitioned for an additional sum for his services as Health Officer for 1866, and a motion to grant the desire of the petition was lost.

The Report of the Auditors was received, and the Abstract ordered to be printed.

A communication was read from Dr. Poole, asking the Council to purchase a number of copies of his "Early Settlement and Present Prosperity of the County," to lay by among the archives of the Council, or to present to the school for competition among the prizes. The communication was received.

The Council adjourned to the first Monday of April, at 7 o'clock, p.m.

The following is a letter forwarded to us by our respected friend and former townsman, Mr. Geo. Stevenson. It deserves a reading and may be of benefit to some one who longs to reave for gold in foriegn lands:

San Francisco, Feb. 9th, 1867.

Dear Sir,—I scarcely know what to write as everything seems to be upside down here; however, I will do my best to give you an account of my voyage, as for business, is that I am not as yet posted. We started on board the steamship San Francisco on the 20th of last November, with four hundred passengers and three hundred and fifty soldiers. Oh! what miserable beings they were; what a dirty, ragged appearance, by no means clean or tidy. Why, you would think they had not seen a bit 'o eat for forty days by the way they would devour the soup and hard tack. Two days and we were snugly stowed away out on the foaming billows and the great sea roaring, heaving and flashing its phosphorescent fire on every side of the tossed craft. But my thoughts turned from these sublimities and wandered back to the humble fireside of home and the gentle affections and cosey comforts which nestled about it. Now a break-down, which caused us to turn back and steer for a little sandy Bole, called Fortress Monroe, their to remain until another steam ship should arrive from New York. This fast traveling lasted four days.—At last the steam ship Santiago De Cuba arrived, and after removing our baggage and freight we were once more ourselves again. The bell of the steamer clinked an impatient warning; tingle, tingle, whispered the captain's bell from the wheel-house, to which the engine responded with a loud snort, and threw out its gigantic arms in preparatory struggle, provoking the waters into a seething agony of rage. Drinking deeply, sleeping heavily, promenading the deck perpetually, smoking vigorously, observing each other curiously, attempting to read vainly, yawning infinitely and eating voraciously when we could get it; thus we passed 24 days. The steamer in the meantime moved on in her course at the regular jot-trot rate of 240 miles a day, giving us a passing glimpse of the green hills of Cuba and St. Domingo and a glorious vision of the Blue mountains of Jamaica, a hundred miles distant, set in the golden frame of a tropical sunset. Finally on the 25th day of the voyage, stopped her perpetual wheels and cast anchor in the ocean opposite Greytown. Here we lay on board of the ship for ten days, through the mismanagement of the agent sending the ship on the Pacific off with out us, which, I understand, is very often the case. Gladly would we have exchanged the dangerous delights of a tropical summer for the safe, though rude, discomforts of a northern winter. The baggage was hoisted up, lumbering the deck with a miscellaneous heap of trunks, chests and other travelling encumbrances, and bringing together the throng of anxious owners, who hovered watchfully around their property. At last our time came to make a move, so picking up our traps we scrambled down by the side of the ship into a small boat which carried eight at a time. This bore us to the flat boat on the river. All this being done we steamed away through the tropical forest, stopping here and there to feed the engine with wood which lay in piles along the banks; or, perhaps, make some repairs. Often we would lie by the bank for a whole day and night. I saw a great many varieties of yellow flowers growing upon lofty spreading forest trees, some white lilies brought out in bright relief from the thick surface of green which mantled the marshes, and abundant crimson blossomed spikes which protruded from the deep caverns of verdure on either side, like enormous red tongues of tired monsters lolling out and cooling in the fresh air. Now and again we saw an alligator sunning himself by the river's side, parrots and monkeys without number. Still onward we move, arriving across the Nicharagua lake at ten o'clock at night and then a chase up to the settlement, which is called Virgin Bay. There we had to find quarters to stop in until the arrival of the next ship which was expected in the course of a week or ten days, and here sickness commenced, when a great many were taken to their last resting place. Twelve miles more to go and that on mules and a ride it was sure enough. However, here another load of passengers with as many more soldiers from New York overtook us, this making our number up to fourteen hundred—the population of a fair sized county town; but once booked, ticketed, and shipped in one of those floating herring boxes you wont mind it. Tall or short, stout or meagre, you must submit to the inexorable fate of 5x2. "Over the deep, o'er the deep, where the whale, and the shark, and the sword-fish sleep," arriving here on the 18th of January, 1867.

Billiards.—About a fortnight since, Mr. J. W. Crosn, one of the most renowned billiard experts of the Upper Province, lately a resident of Peterboro, but now of Quebec, wrote a formal challenge to Mr. Cyrille Dion, Champion of Canada, offering to play him a game of 1200 points, American four ball game for $500 and the champion cue, provided Mr. Dion would play in Quebec. We have now an intimation through the New York sporting papers that the challenge has been accepted, and that it will come off in May next, during the billiard tournament to be held by Mr. Jos. Dion. One essential condition of the match is that it takes place in Quebec. If it does our citizens will have an opportunity of witnessing a scientific display of the royal game such as has seldom taken place in Canada, or in the united States. Mr. Dion's powers with the cue are well known, but he will find no mean adversary in our champion.—Quebec News.

The Leader Says.—A special telegram from Clifton says that to-morrow afternoon the sole remaining portion of Table Rock will go blown from its present dangerous position into the river below. About two kegs of powder will be used in the explosion. This will entirely obliterate every trace of that natural curiosity. The work will be done by order of the town council.

Athens, March 10.—A terrible earthquake has taken place in the Island of Mytilene. All the habitants on the Island are in ruins, and thousands of lives have been lost.

Fenian Agitation in Ireland Again Renewed.

London, March 6, evening.—The Fenian agitation in Ireland has been renewed, and is increasing. A meeting of several hundred Irishmen near Dublin has been dispersed by the troops. Telegraph wires have been cut in various parts of the country.

London, March 6, evening.—In the House of Commons, Lord Naas, Chief Secretary of Ireland, stated to-day that the Fenian rising around Dublin was supposed to number from 1,000 to 4,000.

Dublin, March 6.—An attack was made by a body of Fenians upon the Drogheda Barracks yesterday. The attacking party was received with great gallantry by the military and police stationed in the barracks and several volleys were given to the assailants, who retired in confusion, losing a number killed and wounded, whom they took from the field. The repulse was complete. Several of the Government forces were wounded, including three of the police.

Liverpool, March 6.—Despatches have been received by the Government, stating that an attack was made by a small force of Fenians upon Castle Martyr yesterday, but the enemy were repulsed and driven off.—One of the attacking force, said to be an American officer, was shot.

London, March 6.—The Fenians have torn up the rails and blocked up the roads between Cork and Dublin, completely suspending railway travel between those cities.

The Government does not feel any alarm at the aspect of affairs, as very efficient measures have been made and are now making to suppress all at empts at insurrection throughout Ireland.

There have been, as yet, no serious outrages committed by Fenians either upon the persons or property of private subjects—the rebels appearing to be in a quasi state of strict military discipline.

General Massey, a supposed Fenian leader, has been arrested in Limerick.

FURTHER DETAILS.

London, March 7, (evening.)—Despatches received during the day from Dublin and Cork give the following particulars of the last outbreaks in Ireland.

A fight took place on Tuesday night at Tallaght, about 8 miles north-west of Dublin, between the armed police and a large body of the Fenians; one of the latter was killed and five wounded. The police captured eighty prisoners and six loads of ammunition and up to dark to-day over 200 prisoners have been brought into Dublin.—The main body of the Fenians engaged in the fight retreated to the hills south of Dublin, with Lord Strathmarn, the commander of the British forces in Ireland, in vigorous pursuit.

The police-station at Killmallock, nineteen miles south of Limerick, in the province of Munster, was attacked by 200 Fenians, who were repulsed, leaving 3 of their number dead upon the field and losing 14 prisoners.

The barracks of the police at Dromore, county Down, in the North had been fired by an incendiary and totally destroyed.

The manager of the Union Bank and a mounted police messenger had been shot in Dromore.

Reports from Dublin state that the various bands of Fenians appear to be well supplied with arms and they seem to have risen suddenly in all parts of the island.—They attacked the coast guards stationed at Killaligh, in the county of Clare, and took away their arms. They made assaults upon the stations at Carylort in Wicklow county, and upon that at the Holy Cross and supplied themselves with arms at all these places.

The excitement at Tipperary is intense.—General Gleeson is reported to be there.

London, March, 7 (evening)—Lord Derby stated this evening that the railroad trains are again running between Dublin and Cork.

Dublin, March 7th (evening)—Thirteen prisoners in all have been taken at Limerick. All is quite in this city to-day, and reports from Cork, Limerick and Waterford represent that there are no apparent signs of disturbance there.

Dublin, March 8, evening.—A despatch from Waterford reports that the Fenians had appeared in force on Devil's Mountain, in Tipperary county. Troops with artillery had been despatched to dislodge them. The result of the battle is not yet known.

The insurgents muster in strong force particularly in the county of Tipperary.—No bands have yet appeared in Wicklow county, and the town of Wicklow is quite.

Reports from Drogheda state that there has been no further disturbance in that city up to this hour. Twelve of the foremost rebel leaders have been captured.

The Fenians have captured and hold possession of the police barrack at Kilteel in the county of Kildare.

London, March 9.—It is reported from Ireland to-day that tranquility has been restored throughout the Province of Leinster, and that there has been no recent disturbances in the County of Kerry, the scene of the abortive outbreake of last month.

Dublin, March 9.—A despatch from Waterford states that the Galty Mountains, on the borders of Tipperary and Cork Counties, are swarming with Fenians, and it is feared that an attack will be made upon the Town of Tipperary, the inhabitants of which are said to be disaffected and strongly disposed to help them.

London, March 9.—Official despatches received from Ireland say that bands of arms have been discovered and seized by the military, and that this fact seems to confirm the reports that the rising of the Irish had failed to be general.

London, March 9, evening.—Despatches from Dublin state that small bands of Fenians are patrolling the counties of Cork, Waterford, Tipperary and Limerick, pressing the people into their ranks, and committing robberies everywhere. The taverns in the city of Cork are to be closed every evening at dark.

James Stephens is reported to be still in Paris.

Dublin, March 10.—The band of Fenians which was previously reported to have taken possession of the barracks at Kilteel, in Kildare, have been dispersed by the troops.

The insurgents made an attack on the barracks at Mount Mellik at the foot of Slievebloom Mountain, and repulsed. Two of the attacking party were shot. The rebels are said to have assembled to the number of three hundred in the neighbourhood of Aberl's Abby, Laix, in Queen's County. Troops have been sent out to disperse them.

Dublin, March 10.—The existence of a Fenian Council, which has been secretly in session in this city, has been discovered, and its members have been arrested by the police. Gen. Burke, one of the Fenian leaders in the South, has been captured at Tipperary.

London, March 11.—All the accounts from the scene of the disturbance in Ireland represent that matters have become quite, and that order reigns there once more.—There have been no fresh conflicts between the armed police and the Fenian bands, who are fleeing to the mountains, and hiding from the pursuit of the military.

The Government is organizing the forces into six flying columns, for pursuit of the scattered bands of Fenians, and active service in case the necessity should arise.

The band of Fenians which was recently encamped on the Galtee mountains has vanished, leaving no trace of their whereabouts.

The Government has offered a reward for the apprehension of Dunne, one of the Fenian leaders.

The Right Hon. S. H. Walpole, Secretary of State for the Home Department, announced in the House of Commons this evening, that the news from Ireland was good. Mr. Walpole also stated that the Government will not proclaim martial law in Ireland, but will try the Fenians by special commission.

London, March 12, noon.—The Fenian bands in Ireland have all been dispersed, and the entire island is tranquil. The authorities, however, have reason to fear another rising, and have taken the necessary measures to frustrate it.

Dublin, March 12, evening.—Arrests of Fenians are being made in all parts of the country, and large quantities of arms have been seized by the police.

A despatch from Cork states that a detachment has been sent in pursuit of a large number of insurgents, who were reported to have gathered in the vicinity of Mallow Junction, an important railway centre in the county of Cork.

AMERICAN DESPATCHES.

Chicago, March 11.—President Roberts is expected to arrive at midnight, to attend the State Convention of Fenians to be held in this city to-morrow. A large attendance is expected. Seventy-five circles have reported and forwarded their certificates of delegates.

New York, March 12.—Efforts are making in this city by the Fenians to raise money enough to set afloat a fleet of Fenians privateers.

Washington, March 11.—A large meeting of the friends of Ireland took place to-night. Speeches were made by Mr. McMahonhany of the city, Hon. W. E. Robinson, of Brooklyn, and Hon. W. A. Darling, of New York. Their addresses elicited enthusiastic responses. The address issued by the Irishmen of New York, appealing for aid in this hour of Erin's trial, was read by a gentleman of that city, and received with general applause. The meeting unanimously adopted a preamble and resolutions, pledging themselves to sustain by all honorable means, what appears to be a general uprising in Ireland, until the communications should be rendered certain; and calling on the Federal authorities to recognize as belligerents their countrymen now in the field. A band played Irish tunes during the intervals of the proceedings. Gen. Gleason was introduced, not as an orator, but as a fighting man. He said he had drilled some of the men now battling against the oppressor, and seemed to regard the chances of success as more hopeful than the meagre cable telegrams would indicate. Subscriptions of money were then taken up, as affording the best evidence of sympathy for the cause.

Large numbers of Fenians are in Washington urging Congressmen to immediately recognize their rights as belligerents. They will appear before the committee on Foreign Affairs as soon as that committee is organized.

Washington, March 12.—About $1,000 were collected and subscribed for the aid of Ireland as a public meeting held last night.

Advices from Turkey state that the Servian prince has been summoned to Constantinople by the Porte.

Intelligence has been received from Japan that the Tycoon has requested an interview with the ambassadors of the United States and European Powers.

Londonderry, March 6, noon.—The Canadian steamship Nestorian, from Portland, Maine, has arrived.

London, March 8, evening.—It is stated that the leading Powers of Europe have united in urging upon the Ottoman Government the immediate enforcement of the Provisions of the treaties of 1856, and the granting of liberal concessions to its Christian subjects.

London, March 9.—Mr. Cyrus W. Field has communicated the purpose on which chiefly he came hither a few weeks ago, by contracting for a submarine cable to be laid from Placentia, Newfoundland, to Sydney, Cape Breton. This enterprise looks to still greater security for regular and prompt transmission of cable news between the United States and the old world.

The reorganization of the Derby Government has been completed. The Duke of Marlborough becomes Lord President of the Privy Council, in place of the Duke of Buckingham, who was appointed Colonial Secretary, and the Duke of Richmond will take the chair at the head of the Board of Trade.

The funeral of Artemus Ward (Charles F. Browne,) took place to-day. The remains were buried in Kensal Green, and were followed to the grave by a great number of literary gentlemen and friends, including many Americans.

A funny story is going round in Paris: A lady in the first society was recently obliged to dismiss her nurse on account of an excess of firemen and private soldiers too often repeated. After choosing as a successor to this criminal a very pretty girl, the lady explained why the first was sent away; enjoined it on the second not to do likewise. She submitted that she shouldn't, "I can endure a great deal," said the lady, "but soldiers about the kitchen I won't endure." After a week or eight days the lady came one morning into the kitchen, opened a cupboard, and discovered a youthful military character. "Oh, ma'm!" cried the girl, frightened "I give you my word I never saw that soldier before in my life—he must have been one of the old ones left over by the other girls."

We have been shown a document signed by the Mayors in office of the cities of the United States and Canada, certifying to the superior excellence of Dr. Ayer's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla and to the value of all his remedies as articles of great public utility. Such evidence from such high sources bears us out triumphantly in the position we have long maintained with regard to Dost. Ayer's preparations, or more particularly our advertisements of them. We publishers need be more opposed than we are to the promulgation of quackery in any shape, but we knew whom we began, that his remedies were above any suspicion of Her heart is as pure and gentle as her mind is noble and refined. Though sentimental in the truest acceptation of the term she is not morbidly so. Her observations does not border upon levity, her charming candor upon impudence, and though her speech is frank and her manner unrestrained, the boldest are awed by the indescribable dignity which pervades her every look, tone and motion.

She is no votary of Fashion, running wild after the latest mode, and setting her Papa almost frantic by periodical inflictions of milliners' bills, and demands upon "the needful" wherewith to discharge those provoking dues. Her taste in dress, as in all things, is exquisitely simple and elegant. Her toilet is always in perfect keeping with her position in society and her own ideas of fitness and comfort. She does not compress her waist, until her health is completely ruined, in the most fashionable and approved style. She has sufficient courage to wear her boots large enough to allow for the growth of corns, which agreeable excrescences, however, seldom make their appearance upon her feet, preferring to infest the toes of others. Her hair is not purchased at the hair dresser's, and heaped in a huge, unnatural mass at the back of her head, as if she feared that, without this precautionary measure, her head would be blown away, in consequence of the absence of anything weighty about it. She never uses her best dress for the purpose of performing the office of the scavenger's broom on the street-crossings. Finally, she is so unconscious of her merits and so mindful of her defects that I feel convinced that even if she were to read this article she would never recognize in herself the original of "The Model Young Lady."

A Valuable Table.

A box twenty six by fifteen inches square, and eight inches deep, will contain a bushel.

A box twelve by seven and a half inches square, and nine inches deep, will contain half a bushel.

A box eight by eight and one fourth inches square, and eight inches deep, will contain a peck.

A box eight by eight inches square, and four and one eighth inches deep, will contain one gallon.

A box seven by eight inches square, and four and one eight inches deep, will contain half a gallon.

A box four inches square, and four and one fourth inches deep, will contain a quart.

AN ANECDOTE WORTH PRESERVING.—A Paris correspondent guarantees the following:—"A Frenchman, a prisoner in Edinburgh, having managed to escape, took refuge in the powder magazine.—When the authorities wished to seize him, they found him sitting on a barrel with a lighted match, and threatening to blow up the town. The authorities reflected prudently, and the result of their deliberations was, that it would be better to starve the Frenchman out. But they reckoned without their prisoner, who loved good cheer, and was determined to live well. In consequence, he called out that he would blow up the town to pieces if he did not get three meals a day; he would write out the bill of fare. Sawney succumbed, and the demands of the prisoner went on increasing. Sometimes he had a serenade under his window; then a review of the garrison; afterwards a sham fight, in which the troops representing the French beat the Highlanders. At last he exacted that every Sabbath morning, before breakfast, the Lord Provost, in full uniform, should make his appearance, and read him an address. This lasted until the allies entered Paris."

THE DELIGHTS OF A DAILY PAPER.—The editor of the New Albany Commercial, apologizing for the slimness of his news columns, which he solemnly lays to the failure of "the gas, the mail, and the telegraph," says:—"A belief has grown up in daily newspaper officers that eternal beatitude awaits the faithful publisher and printer when, having closed his last form, he passes over the dark waters that roll between time and eternity. The belief is founded on the fact that any editor who works faithfully at his profession in this world sees and feels enough of hell to last him for all eternity. We solemnly subscribe to the doctrine. The great law of compensation that pervades all nature sustains it. Cheered and soothed with this faith we plod along, content to bear the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune in certain hope of a final rest in that comfortable country where slow gas factories, lazy mail agents, extortionate telegraph companies, libel suits and Sons of Liberty are unknown.

TELEGRAMS TO THE SUN.—The waves of sound go only 577 yards in a second, while the earth itself goes eighteen and one-third miles, and light ten thousand times faster than that; while electricity (which again is probably another kind of vibration of the solid atoms of bodies, and certainly not a fluid), runs along a wire about half as fast again as light. So, if the earth were a cannon ball, shot at the sun from its present distance, with the velocity it now travels with, and the moment of explosion telegraphed to the sun, they would get the telegram there in about five minutes, and see the earth coming in eight minutes, and would have nearly two months to prepare for the blow, which they would receive about fifteen years before they heard the original explosion. This is merely taking the sun as a target to be shot at, without regard to his power of attracting the earth at the final rate of 390 miles a second.—Denison's Astronomy Without Mathematics.

WOMAN'S RIGHTS.—While the Woman's Rights Convention was in session at Albany, a horse car was crowded. There entered a severe looking female. An old gent rose to give her a seat. He then asked—

'Be you one of those womanrighters?'

'I be,' replied the society.

'You believe a woman should have all the rights of a man, do you?' he inquired.

'Yes I do,' was the emphatic answer.

'Then,' said the other, 'stand up an enjoy them like a man.' And she had to stand up.

NO MORE LEFT.—'According to Milton, Eve kept silence in Eden to hear her husband talk,' said a gentleman to a lady friend, and then added in a melancholy tone, 'Alas! there have been no Eves since.' 'Because there are no husbands worth listening to,' was the quick retort.

An Irish spirit merchant announces that he has still for sale a small quantity of the whiskey drank by the Prince of Wales, when H. R. H. was at Killarney.

One good turn deserves another, as the Judge said when he discharged the thief who voted for him.

MADOC GOLD.

Notice for a Cold—Relief in five Minutes

WHY do you suffer with a bad Cold when one bottle of Morris's Electric Invigorating Fluid will cure the worst cold in three days. It is far superior to any pain killer or Liniment or Ready-relief. Try it once and you will not keep your house without it, for after all other remedies have failed it has cured hundreds of rheumatism, frost bites, chilblains, burns, scalds, bruises, sprains, pains in the bowels, fresh cuts, lame back, headache and all pains internal and external. Sold everywhere at 25 cents per bottle. Retail and wholesale only by E. MORRIS, Peterborough, C. W. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money refunded. Every one should have a bottle.

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed without assistance from others. In fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY

Of the Celebrated Indian, Dr. Lewis Josephus, of the Distinguished Tribe of Shoshonees, British Columbia, is now for sale in Canada.

THIS all-possessing Great Indian Remedy is wanted, and in broad and emphatic language, we can safely say may be replied upon to make a permanent cure of all Diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, &c., as well as Scrofula, the various Skin Diseases, Humors, and all diseases arising from impurity of the Blood, excepting the third stage of Consumption. In the Western Country where this Great Remedy has been in use for a short time, it has indeed affected some of the most Marvellous Cures ever recorded in the annals of Historical Medicine. Such being the case, in addition to its former renown and celebrity, we defy humanity to dispute the fact, that this, the Great Shoshonees Remedy, in connection with the Shoshonees Vegetable Restorative Pills, is the Remedy of Remedies of the 19th Century, and the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

CANCERS CURED!

By a new, but certain, speedy, and nearly painless process, and

WITHOUT THE USE OF THE KNIFE.

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will cost less and is more speedily cured than when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, eye lid or elsewhere, or small wart or sore on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. If required, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. No money required in advance, and none until the cure is complete.

AYER'S

Sarsaparilla

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

And for the speedy cure of the following complaints:—Scrofula and Scrofulous Affections, such as Tumors, Ulcers, Sores, Eruptions, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Scald Head, Ringworm, Rose or Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfiness, and all Skin Diseases.

GUILFORD, Ind., 6th June, 1866.

J. C. AYER & Co.: Gents: I feel in my duty to acknowledge what your Sarsaparilla has done for me. Having inherited a Scrofulous infection, I have suffered from it in various ways for years. Sometimes it broke out in blotches on my hands and arms; sometimes it turned inward and threatened me at the stomach. Two years ago it broke out on my head and covered my body and limbs with one sore, which was painful and loathsome beyond description. I tried many medicines and several physicians, but without much relief from any thing. In fact, the disorder grew worse. At length I was induced to read in the Gospel Messenger that you had prepared an alterative (Sarsaparilla), for I knew from your reputation that any thing you made must be good. I sent to Cincinnati and got it, and used it till it cured me. I took it, as you advise, in small doses at a time, and never gave it a fair trial, which your agent gave me, that this Preparation from your laboratory must be a great remedy; consequently, these truly remarkable results with it have not surprised me.

Fraternally yours, G. V. LARIMER, M. D.

Rheumatism, Gout, Liver Complaint.

INDEPENDENCE, Preston Co., Va., 4th July, 1866.

Dr. J. C. AYER: Sir, I have been afflicted with a painful chronic Rheumatism for a long time, which baffled the skill of physicians, and stuck to me in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I tried your Sarsaparilla. One bottle cured me in two weeks and restored my general health so much that I am fat today than before I was attacked. I think its wonderful medicine. S. PUMAM.

John W. Getchell, of St. Louis, writes: "I have been afflicted for years with an affection of the Liver, which destroyed my health. I tried every thing, and every thing failed to relieve me; and I have been a broken-down man for some years from no other cause than derangement of the Liver. My beloved pastor, the Rev. Mr. Clapp, advised me to try your Sarsaparilla, because he said he knew you, and any thing you made was worth trying. By the blessing of God it has cured me, and has so purified my blood as to make a new man of me. I feel young again. The best that can be said of you is not half good enough."

Schirrus, Cancer Tumors, Enlargement, Ulceration, Caries and Exfoliation of the Bones.

A great variety of cases have been reported to us where cures of these formidable complaints have resulted from the use of this remedy, but our space here will not admit them. Some of them may be found in our American Almanac, which the agents below named are pleased to furnish gratis to all who call for them.

Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Melancholy, Neuralgia

Many remarkable cures of these affections have been made by the alterative power of this medicine. It stimulates the vital functions into vigorous action, and thus overcomes disorders which would be supposed beyond its reach. Such a remedy has long been required by the necessities of the people, and we are confident that this will do for them all that medicine can do.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the Relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced Stages of the Disease.

This is a remedy so extensively known to surpass any other for the cure of those distressing complaints that it is useless here to publish the evidence of its virtues. Its unrivalled excellence for coughs and colds and its truly wonderful cures of pulmonary diseases, have made it known throughout the civilized nations of the earth. Few are the communities, or even families, among them who have not some personal experience to its effects—some living trophy in their midst of its victory over the subtle and dangerous disorders of the throat and lungs. As all know the dreadful fatality of these disorders, and as they know, too, the efficacy of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them that it has now all the virtues that it did have when making the cures which have won so strongly upon the confidence of mankind.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold in Peterboro by Ormond & Gilmour, A. W. Kempt, and Wm. Coulter. In Keene by A. Campbell, Campbell McNeil & Co., C. Britton, Lindsay, and all Medicine Dealers.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

CONSUMPTION

BY THE

GREAT SHOSHONESS REMEDY

IN CANADA.

MESSRS. Y. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I Wilson Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say—I feel much pleasure in letting you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coughed nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Esq. Wellington, and he; perceived to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve my cough." He said "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once which I felt through my whole system; at night I took a table-spoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I got hearty and strong. I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was affected with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

Arabian Heave Remedy and Condition Medicine

IS positively superior to any or all other preparations for the cure of Heaves, Coughs, Thick and Broken Wind, and all diseases which affect the Wind of Horses; also, as a Condition Medicine, surpassing everything of the kind; is easy to give, sure to cure, and safe in all cases and at all times, and does not prevent the horse from being worked while using it.

It cleanses the breathing apparatus, by removing from the air-cells the coagulable lymph, or that secretion which in Heaves clogs them, causing a difficulty in breathing, and by its action on the diseased part restoring the spongy membrane to resume its natural dimensions, thus equalizing the circulation of the blood, and restoring the distended vessels to their natural size; by its use the horse's appetite is improved, all derangements of the digestive organs corrected, softening the skin, and giving to the coat a sleek and shining appearance.

"ARE YOU A MASON?"

The following lines were written by Rev Mr. Magill, Rector of St. Paul's Church, Peru, Ill., in answer to a question once put to him by a lady, "Are you a mason?" and originally published in the Masonic Review.

REPLY TO THE QUESTION.

I am one of a band
Who will faithfully stand
In the bonds of affection and love;
I have knocked at the door
Once wretched and poor,
And there for admission I stood.

By the help of a friend,
Who assistance did lend,
I succeeded an entrance to gain;
Was received in the West,
By command from the East,
But not without feeling some pain.

Here my conscience was taught
By a moral quite fraught
With sentiments holy and true;
Then onward I traveled
To have it unraveled
What Hiram intended to do.

Very soon to the East
I made known my request,
And "light" by command did attend;
When lo! I perceived,
In due form revealed,
A Master, and Brother, and Friend.

Thus far I have stated,
And simply related,
What happiness when I was made free;
But I've "passed" since then,
And was raised up again
To a sublime and ancient degree.

Thence onward I marched,
That I might be "Arched,"
And bud out those treasures long lost;
When, behold! a bright flame,
From the midst of which came
A voice which my ears did accost.

Through the "vails" I then went,
And succeeded at length
The "Sanctum Sanctorum" to find;
By the "Signet" I gained,
And quickly obtained
Employment which suited my mind.

In the depths I then wrought,
And most carefully sought
For treasure so long hidden there;
And by labor and toil,
I discovered rich spoil,
Which are kept by the Craft with due care.

Having thus far arrived,
I further contrived
Among valiant Knights to appear;
And as Pilgrim and Knight,
I stood ready to fight,
Nor Saracen foe did I fear.

For the widow distressed
There's a chord in my breast;
For the helpless and orphan I feel;
And my sword I could draw
To maintain the pure law
Which the duty of Masons reveal.

Thus have I revealed,
(Yet wisely concealed,)
What the "free and accepted" well know;
I am one of a band
Who will faithfully stand
As a brother wherever I go.

The Magistrate and the Murderer.

It was late one night, in the month of March of the year 18—, that a party was gathered round the fire of the Coach and Horses—a small wayside public-house at one of the cross-roads intersecting Salisbury Plain. The day had been wild and tempestuous; and, after carrying on a long struggle with the rain, the wind had at last succumbed; and the lurid and overcharged sky discharged its wrath in torrents that thundered on the ground like the march of armed men.

'I wonder, neighbour Hardiman,' said a little old man, puffing out a great quantity of smoke (for he had a huge 'brogies' stuck knowingly in the corner of his mouth)—'I wonder, neighbour Hardiman, if this here is anything like the Deluge in Master Noah's time?'

'Shouldn't he surprised if it was the old one come back ag in' answered Master Hardiman; 'or p'raps it's only a twin—they're as like as peas.'

A lau h followed this observation; and it was very evident, from the looks bent on the speaker, that something out of the common way was expected from him when he spoke.

'Well, it's a lucky thing,' replied the first speaker, 'that I have a good big boat on the Kennet. It will hold me and a few friends that I care about, and the rest may be drowned if they choose.'

'That's right, old Morris" said another of the party; 'and if our landlord here will give us a few casks of his ale, I should not at all care to make one of your crew; Master Hardiman would keep us all alive, and cheer the voyage with a song.'

"Ark away?" ark away! I suppose?" said the wit; 'but hafloo, master, the tankard's out, bring us another jug—lay on fresh coals—and a fig, say I, for the wind and rain. Here's the health of Captain Noah, gentlemen!'

While the members of his little senate were thus receiving the laws of Master Hardiman, and doing justice to his toast, a voice was heard without, but still at some distance, as if crying for assistance.

'Coach upset! I'll bet a guinea,' exclaimed Hardiman.

'Likely enough,' replied the old man who had been addressed as Master Morris—'likely enough; I always said how it would be when our waywarden insisted on raising that 'ere back. The passengers are all thrown out on it at this very moment.'

'A regular books for deposits,' said Hardiman; but without showing any intention of going to offer his assistance. 'It is a very dangerous experiment to make a run on the bank.'

The shouts were now heard more distinctly; but they appear to come from an opposite quarter to the high road, and to proceed from the heath beyond the house.

'Come, gentlemen,' said the landlord, 'I really think some of us ought to go out and see what's to be done. Perhaps the poor people are perishing for want of a light; give me the lantern sally, and off I go.'

But the bold example thus set by Boniface had no imitators among the group beside the fire. They looked, indeed, at each other, but 'twas 'blank amazement all.' Uneasy glances were thrown every now and then towards the door, but courage always seemed to fail them to open it.

'Why, for my part,' said Master Morris, who had been silent for some time, 'I don't half like these cries of distress on the plain. It aint many years since some men near Marlborough were lured out by screams just like these, and every soul of them murdered. Some people say as this horrid fellow, Greenacre, that has escaped from the police, was one of the band."

'Greenacre! has he escaped?' inquired several voices. 'Who told you that?'

'Young Sims, the post-boy of the Somerset Arms; he heard it in Devizes.'

'Greenacre escaped!' echoed the party, in various tones, several of which might be detected a slight admixture of alarm.—'How was it?'

'I know nothing else,' replied the old man. 'I wish I did: for Sims says there's a reward of five hundred pounds for his apprehension—it would stock a farm.'

While the party were preparing to sally forth, the door opened, and Master Mitchell, the landlord of the Coach and Horses, walked into the room, accompanied by a stranger, whose dripping condition bore evidence to the pelting of the pitiless storm. He was a tall young man, of four or five-and-twenty; with bright black eyes, shaded by long silken lashes, that gave an appearance of melancholy to his fine features; but a quick glance thrown carelessly round the circle, and a curle of laughter at the corner of the mouth, showed very soon that the melancholy we have noticed could easily be exchanged for a different expression.

'Pray be seated,' said the stranger; 'and, as my friend who has led me here has offered me a change of clothes, I hope to join your circle in few minutes.'

'Much need both of beer and rest, Sir,' replied the landlord; 'but by the time you have put on my toggery you shall have some bacon and eggs and a foaming tankard—then you can either stop here all night, or go on to London by the Tantivy at twelve o'clock.'

The stranger proceeded up-stairs to avail myself of Mitchell's offer, and the party below were earnest in their inquiries as to all he knew of the gentleman.

'All I know,' said the cautious landlord, 'is what he has told me; and as he is soon coming down to join us, perhaps he will be as communicative to you.'

'He's too young, by thirty years at least,' said old Morris, after a thoughtful pause; 'but, in spite of his fine appearance and surtout coat, he may be one of the gang.'

'What are you thinking of?' inquired Hardiman.

'Of Greenacre, to be sure,' responded Morris. 'Twould be a good night's work for all of us if we could get hold of him. Five hundred pounds is too good a thing to be thrown away.'

'Who the dickens talks of throwing it away? Had you not better catch your fish before you think of putting it in the frying-pan?'

'I don't know,' replied Morris, musingly; 'Sims told me 'twas thought he was making for Bristol; now, you know, Salisbury is just about half way; so that——'

'You're sure to catch him just as he passes the door. Does he carry his name written on his back, or how are you to find him out?'

'Dads! that's what I never thought on. Who knows anything about the rascal's looks?'

The amateur constables of the Coach and Horses were nonplussed as to the method of recognising the murderer, even if he came among them; and, as a last hope, they resolved to apply for information to the gentleman upstairs, whose toilet, they supposed, was by this time nearly concluded.

While they are waiting with this intent, we may as well take the opportunity of informing the reader by what means Harry Neville, Esq., of the Inner Temple, found himself in the situation we have described.

The prettiest girl in Bath, all last Winter, was Fanny Dingle. Her smiles were fascinating, and her charms, great as they were, received a considerable augmentation in the eyes of the judicious when it was ascertained that she had thirty thousand pounds at her own disposal, besides great expectations from her father. As to allowing any human being to carry off Miss Dingle, of Dingleton Hall, her father would as soon have thought of allowing any one to cut off his right hand. And the instant, accordingly, that an enamouring youth seemed to be too particular in his attentions, the doors of Mr. Dingle were hermetically sealed against him. Among others, Harry Neville had seen, and, of course, fallen in love with the beautiful Fanny.—After a few weeks' acquaintance, the grey eyes of the father opened to a preternatural width with surprise at the effrontery of such an assault as he was manifestly making on the heart of his daughter, and the existence of exclusion was passed. But, luckily for Harry, he had managed to secure a strong party on his side in the citadel itself, and though he was now banished from the drawing-room in the Crescent, it was impossible for even the power of Mr. Dingle to get him expelled from the city, or prevent him from writing notes, or hinder him from giving them to the abigail of the lovely Fanny, or render it impossible to receive answers by the same channel. All this was beyond his power; but with a blunderus very common on those occasions, the old gentleman thought he had prevented all danger, since he had shut his own eyes to it, and after the steed was stolen, was particularly careful in double-barring the door.

'Fanny Dingle,' he said; 'remember, Madam, whose daughter you are, and behave yourself accordingly. I can't see anything in that young man, Neville; and sooner than marry him I would——"

'You, papa?'

'If I were a woman, I mean. You are now nineteen years old, and have too much sense to disobey my commands. I flatter myself my opinions are of some weight, or I must have made a poor use of my time as chairman of quarter-sessions."

Fancy could not exactly see what connexion there could be between a chairmanship of the quarter-sessions and her liking Harry Neville, but she made no reply.

'That's right, child; never answer me, but obey without a murmur. Come, you don't care for this young fellow?'

'Why—no—that is, how should I know, papa?'

'Answer me plainly, Miss Dingle; if I were on the bench I can inform you, Madam, you should be differently questioned. But, after all, 'tis quite impossible you should care for him, for, upon my honor, I don't care for him at all; and I flatter myself my judgment is worth something or I have not had much benefit from twenty five year's practice as an active county magistrate. You are not to think of this Neville any more; be obedient; remember you are my daughter, and forget him!'

'He has not been here for a whole week,' said Miss Dingle.

'No, nor never shall be here again. In another week you shall scarcely remember his name; if you do, you must prepare to go into Wiltshire. Your aunt, Miss Dorothea Dingle, will be happy to receive you at Dewlap Cottage; and you shall rejoin me at Dingleton early in the Spring.'

'Wiltshire! Aunt Dorothy! Oh, papa, you won't send me to that low, dull, horrid quagmire of a place!'

'I've stated my intentions to you, Miss Dingle; and if you do not assure me solemnly by this day week that you have forgotten the very name of this Mr. Neville, I will make out your mittimus without fail. I flatter myself my firmness is not the least of my good qualities, or I must have derived little advantage from my experience as a justice of the peace.'

When the week passed away the question was asked, have you or have you not forgotten the existence of Mr Neville? But as poor Fanny had a letter from him at that very moment in the left-hand drawer of her work table, to which she had nearly finished an answer, she could not declare that she had arrived at such a pitch of forgetfulness; but had to confess that she recollected him very well. Whether a little piece of information contained in Harry's letter had any influence in producing this tenacity of memory we cannot pretend to decide; all we can do is to lay the information before our readers, and let them judge for themselves. After a few flourishes, which we believe are always indispensable on such occasions, the letter stated that Harry was well acquainted with the neighborhood of Dewlap Cottage; and that he had a most pressing invitation to spend a month with an old college friend, the rector of a parish about fifteen miles to the South of it. Then followed a few pleasant hints, as to the possibility of a good horse trotting that distance in an hour, and a little more about rapture and gratitude, which is not material to the story. Old Dingle was as positive as the old block heads who indited the laws of the Medes and Persians; and in one hour after the confession of Fanny's continued reminiscence, that young lady was rolling along the Salisbury road in the travelling carriage, and accompanied by nobody but the faithful Jane. This was the end of February; snow was on the ground, and the 'lake of the dismal swamp' would have seemed a paradise upon earth compared to the cold dull, ivy-covered cottage inhabited by her father's sister. Even without the latter incumbrance it would have been wretched enough, but with such a female dragon for her sole companion, the prospect was miserable beyond description. There was but one alleviation to the misery of the prospect, and that was the recollection that Harry Neville's horse could trot fifteen miles in an hour.

What a useful animal a horse is!' she sighed, and threw herself into the corner of the carriage, and sank into a fit of musing that lasted many miles. But useful as a horse might be, Harry very soon persuaded her that a couple of them with a neat postchaise at their heels would be more useful still. When he had succeeded in establishing this fact theoretically, it did not require much time to convince her of the property of having a practical proof of it. And accordingly, on a certain day, at about eight o'clock in the evening, it was resolved to have a chaise stationed at the end of aunt Dorothy's lane, so as to convey the lovers to the house of a relation of Mr Neville, a widow lady, in the neighbourhood of Salisbury, under whose protection Miss Dingle was to remain that night, and the knot to be tied by the rector of —— next morning. But alas! alas! in affairs of the heart it would almost seem as if the better a plan was laid, the more certain it was to fail. Harry Neville at the appointed hour was sitting in melancholy mood, and perishing with cold, in the wretched chaise at the corner of the lane; the rain was pouring as if it were the first time it had ever had a holiday before; mingled with the rain occasionally fell a sharp shower of hail, and the wind in the intervals howled in the most dismal manner imaginable. 'Poor Fanny!' sighed the lover; 'tis impossible she would venture out in a storm like this. Why should not I drive boldly up to the door, murder the plethoric footman, assassinate the lane gardener, and carry off my angel, after tying aunt Dorothy to the sideboard?'

While deeply immersed in these plans and cogitations, steps became distinctly audible along the garden walk; the door was open, but as it was pitch dark, and the noise still at a few yards' distance, Harry could see nothing. He stepped out of the chaise, and going up to the door of the garden, whispered—'Hush, hush! this way, my angel!' He heard no answer, and spread out his arms; 'give me your hand, my darling! The chaise is all ready.'

'Catch him!' cried a voice of thunder, which Harry recognised in a moment for that of old Dingle. 'I know him; 'tis that atrocious housebreaker, Mr. Neville; and Miss Dingle particeps criminis—lay hold of him. I will make him pay for this audacious attempt, or all my knowledge of the law of abduction goes for nothing!'

More steps were now heard rushing forward, and Harry felt a hand laid on his shoulder. This in the most appalling of all connexions to a young Templar on bad terms with his tailor; and, in the horror of the moment, the fingers of Mr. Henry Neville formed themselves into a round mass as hard as a cricket-ball, and projected themselves almost involuntarily with the force of a battering-ram into the countenance of the assailant, who professed his gratification at the compliment by a deep grunt and a heavy "squelch" on the wet ground, that sounded like the fall of a sack of peas. In another instant two similar sounds showed the undiminished activity of the aforesaid cricket-ball; and being now satisfied with the execution he had done, the performer of these cupl its hurried forward to the chaise, to make the best of his way out of the scrape he felt he had got into. But his sensations were by no means agreeable when he discovered that his last hope had got into the hands of the Philistines, and that the postillion was in custody. A rescue he perceived was hopeless, and he considered that his best plan would be to cut across the plain into the great Bath and London road, and avail himself of the first coach to proceed to the house of his friend, and explain to her the cause of his disappointment. Tired, miserable, and wet to the skin, he pursued his way amid torrents of rain across the 'starlers wold,' and at last, after many wanderings, found his way, as we have already related, to the Coach and Horses, where we left him profiting by the cares of the good Master Mitchell.

'But here comes the gentleman himself,' said Hardiman as Harry Neville walked into the room; 'you can ask him all about it.'

'Let the gentleman eat and drink first,' interposed the landlord; 'you can't expect him to tell you much when he is both dry and hungry.'

'I hope, Sir,' said old Morris, 'you'll take a share of my can, Sir, and give me a little information.'

'With all my heart,' said Harry; 'only let me pay my respects to the eggs and bacon, and, ask me what you like, I'll answer.'

While Morris was arranging how to shape his question so as to get the desired information without putting the stranger on the scent of such a lucrative game as would be the apprehension of the murderer, Mr. Neville played a remarkably good knife and fork, and showed a vehement desire to see the bottom of the huge tankard that showed its pyramid of foam at his right hand.

'You've heard, I dare say, Sir,' said Morris, at length, 'of one Greenacre?'

'The murderer? Oh, yes, I saw him in court.'

'Were you near him, Sir?'

'As close as I am to you.'

'Indeed! Well now, that's delightful. Was he a pleasant-looking man, Sir?'

'Pleasant? Why, he had not the most agreeable prospect before him, certainly; but I should say he was a sort of a——'

'Coach is up at last,' interrupted Hardiman; 'I hear it coming along the long hollow.'

'It can't be the coach yet,' said Mr. Mitchell; 'it won't be up for an hour.—'Tis a post-chaise; I hear only two horses.'

'By-the-bye,' inquired Harry Neville, 'would a carriage from Marnell Down pass this way on its road to Bath?'

'Surely, Sir; it could not get to Bath in any other way. What a night to travel in!'

Further conversation was now put to an end by the pulling up of the chaise at the door; and, in a moment afterwards by the entrance of the post-boy.

'A pot o' beer, if you please; and set John Ostler give my horses a pail. Oh, Sir,' he cried, fixing his eyes on Harry Neville, 'who'd have expected to see you here? What a fine-up!'

'Hush, my good fellow,' said Harry, motioning him to be silent, and going up to him at the other end of the room 'How did you get off?'

'With a kick or two, your honour. I hope you'll consider them.'

'Ay, but the lady? did you see anything of her?'

The postillion made no answer to this, but pointed his thumb over his shoulder, with a knowingl ook to the door.

'What—there—she there! What do you mean?'

'Why, what I tell you; there she is sure enough, and the old gentleman with her, with his eye wrapped up in cloths steeped in vinegar, and a huge patch over his nose to keep one half from parting company with the other.'

'How strange! My good fellow, the five guineas I promise you shall be ten, if you will manage to upset the chaise so as to break the old fellow's neck.'

'And the lady, Sir?'

'No, no, you must do nothing to put her into the slightest danger. What's to be done? Manage to delay here half-an-hour, and you have your full pay to-morrow.'

'The feat, Sir? Oh, then, as to that, Brown Moll can cast her shoe; or Bob the Tinker take the staggers—which you please Sir.'

'Do as you like, only don't more for half-an-hour.'

After this colloquy Harry resumed his seat, and Master Morris pursued his examination. Time, however, passed on, and the occupant of the chaise became impatient, and kept calling out continually for the postillion to make haste. That worthy, however, took no notice of his summons, and enjoyed himself very leisurely over his pipe.

'And you saw him face to face, Sir,' continued Morris—'a whole day in court. You're a councillor, perhaps, Sir?'

Harry bowed in acquiescence, not yet perceiving what the old man was driving at.

'Would you just describe him to us, Sir, for you must know some people says he has escaped, and that there's a reward for his apprehension?'

'Escaped, indeed?' said Harry thoughtfully; 'and the reward, gentlemen—what is the reward?'

'Five hundred pounds,' said Hardiman; 'and old Morris here has thoughts of nothing else than how to get a hold of him.'

'Oh, then, I can have no hesitation in describing him to you. In the first place he is very fat, and dresses something like an old clergyman—tight-fitting pantaloons and black coat and waistcoat——'

'Post-boy, post-boy, I say! I'll make you suffer like this, you villain!' the impatient traveller.

'He height is about five feet seven; but the surest way to know him is by a prodigious bandage over his eye, and his perpetual beseechings that he is a country gentleman and a justice of peace.'

'Ha, ha, ha!' said Hardiman; 'he must be an impudent rascal to talk of justice at all; but if he's a justice, it would seem, sir, he's blind, too; and that's the exact way that every justice is painted I have ever seen in the Book of Emblems.'

'Rascal!' repeated the voice from the outside; 'you shall have three months of Brigton for your insolence. I'll come and fetch you myself.'

'The traveller seems impatient,' remarked Harry.

A noise of the letting down of steps was now heard, and the door opened, and Mr. Dingle hurried angrily into the room.

'You insolent scoundrel!' he began, clenching his fist at the philosophical postillion, who continued very deliberately to emit huge wreaths of smoke from each corner of his mouth alternately—'I'll teach you to disobey a magistrate of twenty-five years' standing.'

'Tis he—Greenacre himself,' whispered Harry to the wondering circle, and withdrawing himself into a dark corner of the apartment.

'Now, then, boys, for five hundred pounds,' whispered Morris, arranging himself up for a rush on the murderer; 'let us all help, and divide the spoil. Three of us can manage him, and that will be a good haul for each of us.'

'Wait a while and let us be sure of our man,' hinted Hardiman, dubiously.

'Why, what's the use in waiting—everything is exact; height—dress; and did you hear him talk of being a magistrate at the very first words he spoke?'

In the meantime the postillion's silence added tenfold fury to the traveller's indignation.

'Vagabond! I will get you hanged for this misdemeanour! You have hitherto aided me in my escape——'

'Hear him,' whispered Morris, 'he confesses he has escaped.'

'I should not wonder if that bloodhound of the law were after me at this moment—'

'Hear! hear! shall we rush on him now?' said Morris, drawing near.

'And now that I have got out of his clutches, I wish to keep free from him.'

'Yes, Sir,' said the postillion, 'if you can cure Bob the Tinker, my off-hand horse, of the staggers, there would be some use talking.'

'Staggers, rascal! Here, don't you see what an eye I've got?'

'Not so bad as the one he gave the poor woman with the Billy-roller,' whispered Hardiman.

But Morris now resolved to make sure of the reward, and touching Mr. Dingle on the shoulder, said, 'Come, come, old man, take it quietly; here we are three of us, and you don't move a peg from this.'

'How, fellows! exclaimed the gentleman in surprise; 'are you robbers or murderers?'

'There's only one murderer here, that I know of,' said old Morris; 'and you know who that is as well as I can tell you. What name do you call yourself, you ruffian?'

'This to me!—ruffian to me!—a gentleman—a magistrate of a quarter of a century!'

'Humbug!' said Hardiman, 'let us have no more talk, but surrender at once; we know who you are.'

'I am John Theodosius Dingle, Esq., of Dingleton Hall. What, then?'

'Why, that you will soon change your name to John Dangle, Esq., of Tyburn Tree—that's all,' said Hardiman. 'What do you say to that, Mr. Greenacre?'

'Greenacre!' exclaimed Mr. Dingle; 'what do you mean?—my name is not Greenacre.'

'Oh! Wiseacre will do as well, and anybody could swear you are that. Are you not ashamed of yourself? Come, off with an to Salisbury Jail.'

'Sir! gentlemen!' exclaimed Mr. Dingle; 'you are on dangerous ground—you shall be prosecuted for an illegal arrest as sure as I am chairman of Quarter Sessions.'

'Off! off into the chaise with him!'

'Gentlemen, there is a lady in the chaise—touch me at your peril.'

'A lady!' whistled Hardiman; 'what a bony-headed wretch!—he will murder her to a certainty and carry her head on his knee. Come, Sir, you don't budge. Mitchell, help us to carry this villain into the carriage, and tell the post-boy to make all speed into Salisburry.'

Saying this, the whole party laid violent hands on Mr. Dingle, and hurried him to the door; but great was the surprise of the zealous performers when they perceived that, in the midst of the squabble, the chaise, the lawyer, and the postillion had all disappeared.

'He is gone before us,' exclaimed Morris, in despair, 'to give information, and claim the reward! As that we can do is to keep the miscreant here till the morning, and then take him on in a cart. But the reward! the reward!—oh, that cunning counsellor! he has got the reward!'

And true enough it was that the counsellor had got the reward; but what the reward consisted in may be seen by quoting a section that appeared in a few days in the Morning Post:—

'Married: Harry Neville, Esq., of the Inner Temple, eldest son of General Sir H. Neville, to Fanny, only child of J. T. Dingle, Esq., of Dingleton Hall. The bridegroom owes the consent of Mr. Dingle to his zeal in extricating the old gentleman from an embarrassment into which he was thrown by the mistake of some rustics near Salisbury. We are in possession of all the particulars, but from obvious motives refrain from making them public.'

THURSDAY, MARCH 21, 1867.

OUR PRESENT DUTY.

For some time past there has been a calm in things political. Parties by mutual consent agreed to allow time for arrangement, so as to bring about a better and safer state of affairs in which progressiveness and reform would have due prominence. The confederation of our provinces will be a matter of fact in a few days, and in consequence the people will be called upon to select proper men to represent them in the Confederate and Local Legislatures. We cannot but regret that our Delegates have agreed to leave the Upper House to the appointment of the crown. The elective scheme worked well and should have been adopted in the new state of Canada, but we must accept it as it is and try to make the best of it. In regard to the House of Commons, there the people will be represented and ere long we will be called upon to choose those representatives. In the time, therefore, that something was being done to bring out fit and proper persons to represent popular and progressive principles in our Confederation. There are those amongst us in Canada that wish to have party lines effaced and a political union brought about, setting forth this as a panacea for all evil, and imagining that it would introduce a political millennium when all would be peace and prosperity. We hold no such views. Party is as necessary for our political and national safety as police are for the safety and protection of a city, or an army is for the protection of our country and institutions. The Reform party has been submitting to the greatest injustice for the sake of those principles for which they contended. The present government, or rather the majority of them, aided by the Lower Canada members have forced themselves upon the country long enough, and if they are to go into the new Legislatures to carry on their old nefarious system of self-aggrandisement at the expense of the ruin of the country we ill have ourselves to blame for it.

What is to be done? is the query put forth from day to day? The answer is simple. Let Reformers organize. Every Township should have an organization. The work of agitation should be going on. Reform principles should be brought before the people and corruption exposed, and then when the people are aware of the evils that we have to endure they will rise as one man and carry their principles triumphantly at the polls. The "no party" howl is a dangerous one, and it is one that is got up to deceive, for all the while there is the greatest activity among those who use it. But independent of the deception, we hold that political parties are stimulants to political honesty, and a consequence of the watchfulness of parties is the prevention of the corruption of the whole body politic. But the no party cry is got up in consideration of the uncertain tenure of a certain party who have long retained their positions to the great detriment of the country, and Reformers should rise now in the power of their might and see that our national institutions, and in a greater degree our local institutions do not get into the hands of men who have all along disregarded the desire or will of Upper Canada, while the Hierarchy was at their back to support them at elections.

Reformers need not imagine that Confederation will have cured all the evils under which we have been laboring. There will still be work for them to do. Grave questions will still arise, in which they will be interested, and with the wise settlement of which, the welfare of our country is intimately connected. The management of our finances should not fall into the hands of men in whom Reformers have no confidence. The educational affairs of the country should be confided to men who cannot be bought and sold at the beck of those who have long exercised an unhallowed influence in those matters. The amalgamation of the great railroad corporations requires strenuous opposition, and many other things may arise that will require the attention of upright, judicious men. We, therefore, say there never was a time when greater care in the selection of our representatives was needed and hence no one should be absent from his post. This county can send four Reformers, if the electors but bestir themselves.

We regret that we cannot yet say who are likely to become candidates, but we may be able to do so ere long. We have undoubted authority for saying that our present worthy representative has decided not to be one.—We trust that he will be prevailed upon to change his mind, as there does not appear to us the least shadow of a doubt of his being elected over any opponent if he should allow himself to be put in nomination. No Reform candidate is yet named, and not a moment is to be lost. The contest may be sooner than is generally expected. Besides the opponents of Reform are already busy; they neither slumber nor sleep, and their example, in this respect, is worthy of imitation.

Already we hear of Mr. Dennistoun as a probable candidate, and we understand that A. H. Campbell, Esq., has consented to become a candidate in the Conservative interest, in the West Riding, for the House of Commons, and report says for the Local Legislature also. Last week we gave the reports from the East Riding. There however are reports, but there cannot be a long period of suspense. We warn Reformers not to allow themselves to be entrapped, or to make promises until sure of supporting the right men.

IS CANADA LOYAL?

In a recent debate in the Imperial Parliament on the Confederation bill, Mr. Bright urged that the action of the Government appeared to be too hasty, remarking that a petition was then in London, signed by 31,000 of the male population of Nova Scotia, complaining of the hasty proceedings, and asking for delay. This petition was not wholly against the union, but against pressing it through without due consideration.—Mr. Bright also remarked that no one denied that the Canadians who having had a nominated council had changed it for an elective one, had, if they pleased, a right to return to the old system; but no body professed that the people of Canada preferred a nominated council to an elective one. This is the truth. The people of Upper Canada would have given an overwhelming majority for an elective council, and it is very strange that the delegates well know this, yet to gratify their own ends or the vanity of some of the English members, they permitted it to become nominative.

Mr. Bright's prophecy that the nominated Council of 72 to be chosen for life by the Governor-General contained the germ of a malady which would spread, and which would ere long render necessary the alteration of the constitution of the confederation, will no doubt be fulfilled. But the insinuation that the loyalty of the people of Canada depended on the amount received from England was unwarrantable and entirely without foundation. Canadians are warmly attached to Britain and British institution, and despise American instability and selfishness. In fact there could not be a more thoroughly loyal people, and nothing but sheer folly would tempt British statesmen to doubt it or cast the least damper upon it. Whatever may have been the annexation proclivities of Messrs. Galt & Co. some years past, there is not the slightest idea of such a thing now, and probably no change of constitution was ever more heartly entered into by any people than is confederation by Canadians, and chiefly on the grounds that by it they are drawn more closely to England.

FENIANISM.

The rising of the Fenians in Ireland appears to be completely suppressed. Arrests are being made daily. From Cable despatches it appears that Head Centre Dunnovan has been caught in Cork. General Burke and 40 others who were captured have been carried in irons to Clonmel Jail.

In America they are again threatening to invade Canada. Roberts is making speeches, money is asked for, and Ireland is to be the objective point. Canada is also to come in for a share of attention. Captains of companies here have received instructions to keep their men in readiness for a moments notice. This, however, is merely precautionery, for any attempt to invade Canada would be disastrous to the invaders. The country is now prepared for them. The means of getting away is not as good as it was last June, and the ice is not safe, so that we need not be alarmed. It is wisdom, however, to be ready, so that if they come they may receive their desert; and we trust if prisoners be taken, that Canada will be able to teach them a lesson on the good qualities of hemp in the cure of Feninism.

Latest reports from Ireland do not represent the disturbance there as of a very serious nature—Cork, Tipperary, Waterford and Limerick being the scenes of the great excitement. The number of rebels at any one place was not large, and the approach of a few soldiers caused a general stampede among the Fenians. The country is in a very unsettled state, many districts will feel the danger of plunder and the unsafe state of society; but the result of the rebellion will be disastrous to those engaged in it. The country will be ruined. Just now is the season of putting in the crops there; the unsettled state of things will prevent its being done, if not entirely, to a great extent; famine will follow, and ruin. This will be the liberty they will receive. Surely a curse is on the soil.

Union School.

There was to be a special meeting of the Board, on Wednesday evening, for the purpose of appointing a teacher to the third division, (boys) in the place of Mr. Milne, who has resigned. There was no quorum, however. In consequence of the pressing urgency to fill the place, the Committee on Appointments recommended that Mr. F. C. Taylor be appointed, and authorized the Secretary to notify him.

Fire.

About 8 o'clock yesterday evening an old house on George street, opposite Boswell's Brewery, was consumed by fire. It was occupied by two families at the time. The building was not worth much. The only loss will be to the poor creatures who have thus been summarily ejected, and perhaps have no place to which they can go.

ASHBURNHAM AHEAD AGAIN.—The Ashburnham drill shed is up, enclosed and has the roof on—in fact will be finished in a short time. It is a fine looking building and will be a credit to the Village, and to Capt. Rogers by whose efforts it was projected and will be completed.

St. Patrick's Day passed off very quietly and so did the day following. There was no procession and no undue stir.

GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK for April, has been received. The following are the contents:—In the Woods, a steel engraving; a Colored Fashion-plate; Colored plate of fancy work; The Hoop Mania, a handsome wood-cut; Spring dresses for ladies and children; The Rivoli Sack, and The Aquasine Mantle; Spring Bonnets and hats, six engravings; Ornamented parasols, three engravings; Walking-dress for a young girl; two new styles of coiffures, one a bridal coiffure; Crochet patterns for covers for dishes; gentleman's braided slipper; smoking chair; netted nightcap; baby's shoe in crochet; pen wiper; spotted crochet; a fancy stitch in crochet; letters for marking; embroidery patterns, etc.; an engraving of a handsome village or suburban residence, with plan.—The literary matter is furnished by such writers as Marion Harland, Mary Janvrin, S. Annie Frost, Florence Hartland, and others.

The Port Hope Guide comes to us this week greatly enlarged and improved. The proprietors exhibit a commendable zeal to keep pace with the progressiveness of the age, and now they claim to issue the largest paper published in the County of Durham. The enlargement of their paper is a satisfactory sign of the prosperity and influence of the Guide, which we wish will continue.

Curlians.

Last week our Peterborough Curling Club received an invitation from their compeers of Otonabee, to play a friendly game on the ice at Keene. The invitation was accepted and on Tuesday last nine members of our Club went to Keene to enjoy a days sport, in which, we are glad to learn, they were not disappointed. The game commenced at a quarter to two o'clock, and continued until five, when "time" was called. After a due inspection of figures, the Otonabee Club was declared to be the winners, by, however, only three shots. Our Club not having had any practice during the winter, cannot be disappointed at the result, especially when opposed to such veteran curlers as the Otonabee Club is composed of. The day was a very pleasant one and passed off to the perfect satisfaction of all present.—The "creature comforts" for the day was admirably provided by mine host of the American Hotel in Keene, Mr. McLaughlin, and nothing was wanting in his line that any Keene curler could desire.

The Committee of the Protestant Home have to acknowledge the receipt of $13 10, collected in the Methodist church upon the evening of the 17th instant, and of $6.53 from Mrs. Hollaird.

TOWN COUNCIL.

Wednesday, March 13th, 1867.

The Council met in pursuance of an order issued by the Mayor.

Present—His Worship the Mayor and Messrs. Patterson, Clinton, Kennedy, Leonard, Doherty, Toole, Stevenson and J. H. Dixon.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication was read from the Assistant Commissioner of Crown Lands, addressed to Col. Haultain, calling the attention of the Council, through him, to the appropriation made by the Council last year of $1500, for the Harvey Road.

An account from John Kincaid, claiming $30, as Inspector of Buildings for 1866, was referred to Committee on Finance.

Mr. Clinton, as chairman of the Committee on Charities, recommended payment of the account of Thos. Chambers & Son for bread, amounting to $39.27. The report was received and adopted.

In amendment it was proposed by Mr. Stevenson, seconded by Mr. Patterson,—That the tenders for printing be confined to the parties who publish papers.

The amendment was lost and the original put and carried.

The Council adjourned to Monday evening.

Monday, March 18th, 1867.

The Council met. Present—His Worship the Mayor and Messrs. Chamberlen, Kennedy, Stevenson, Doherty, Patterson, Clinton, Dixon, Wrighton and Leonard.

The minutes of previous meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication was read from James Henry, Market Clerk, asking the Council to regulate the measurement of wood and to impose a toll thereon.

An account from Henry Cronn, for drawing wood, amounting to $2.00, was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Clinton, as chairman of Committee on Finance, submitted the following report, which was received and adopted:—

The Committee on Finance beg leave to report that they have carefully examined the several items referred to them, and recommend payment of the following accounts, viz:

Henry Cronn and John Martin, $3.02½;
Henry Cronn, $2.00; Robert Dennistoun, Esq., $2.00.

With regard to Mr. Caisse's claim, from the information your Committee have been able to obtain, they see no reason why any change should be made from the decision of the Council and Finance Committee of last year.

Your Committee have been informed that no appointment of a Building Inspector was made last year by the Council and consequently they do not feel warranted in recommending the Council to pay the account submitted to them in favor of Mr. Kincaid.

Before reporting on the application of Mrs. F. W. Haultain, in behalf of the Protestant Home, your Committee would recommend that a statement be made out, of all sums expended both by the Charity Committee and Council, and laid before the Council by the Clerk at its next sitting.

With regard to the letter from the Crown Lands Department, your Committee think that a more satisfactory decision will be arrived at by a full discussion of the matter in the Council, than by a report from your Committee.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Signed) W. CLUXTON, Chairman.

The Special Committee appointed to report on the advisability of amalgamating certain offices, submitted a Report which was received and adopted.

The Report recommended that the offices of Collector, Inspector of Houses of Entertainment, Health Inspector, Inspector of Buildings and Overseer of Streets and Bridges, be amalgamated. They also recommend that David Carlyle receive the appointment at $300 a year. They further recommend that the Chief Constable be relieved of the duty of Overseer of Streets and Bridges; and that his salary be $300 a year.

Mr. Stevenson gave notice of a motion to limit the appropriation of the Council for charities, for the present year, to $300.

The Council adjourned for 2 weeks.

Three members of the Derby Government have resigned on account of the Reform Bill. Earl Derby is confident of being able to fill their places, and intends pushing through the bill, although it will be changed a little from the one that has been introduced, and on which the Cabinet was divided in opinion.

First Fruits of Confederation.—The Intercolonial Railway.

It is to cost $20,000,000 and this money has to be raised under the Imperial guarantee. $20,000,000 at 4½ per cent. per an. $900,000
Sinking fund to be provided..... 300,000

$1,200,000

At the tariff on the Intercolonial for years will not pay expenses, it will be necessary to provide an annual which is now under consideration in England, and this subsidy cannot be less than $1,000 per day, making, say..... 300,000

Per annum.....$1,400,000

In the expenditure of the $20,000,000 in the construction of the Intercolonial we shall doubtless have re-enacted the corruption and jobbery that was perpetrated during the early days of the Grand Trunk; hence the flocking to London of those who are most noted for liking to have a share of what is going, some of whom are not likely to come back without their dinner.—Witness.

(From the Canadien.)

The accidents which happen almost daily on the line of the Grand Trunk begin to frighten the public. It seems as if the lives of travellers were trifled with. The Government always shuts its eyes and dares not act against this powerful Company, which is already sovereign in Canada.

It is known that the Attorney-General is at the same time the solicitor and favorite of the Grand Trunk. It is impossible to serve two masters at the same time. This strange anomaly is the cause that the interests and lives of the people occupy so little of the attention of the Attorney General as those that represent him.

(Here the Canadien gives an account of the inquest on the death of Jean Bte. and the verdict found against Mr. Brydges, and adds:—)

Mr. Brydges left immediately for England, and it is probable that the government will let the affair drop. This is the way that the administration of justice may be expected to go in a country where the Attorney-General is permitted to be the salaried advocate of a company so powerful as the Grand Trunk.

It is thus that human life is trifled with. It is probable that before long we shall hear of some other catastrophe, and that lawyers, representatives of Mr. Cartier, will be sent to elude the law, save the guilty who pay them so well, and leave the dead to be buried without saying anything more about it. What a country! What jurisprudence!

HORRIBLE MURDER IN GARAFRAXA.—We learn the particulars of a shocking occurrence, resulting in the death on Thursday last, of a man Carlton, who lived in the township of Garafraxa, near Arthur. On Wednesday, as came out in evidence at the coroner's inquest, the deceased, John Carlton, had a dispute with his son Richard in reference to a sleigh. Very angry words were passed and the father took a knife from the table and threatened to rip up his son. His wife interfering, he also threatened her. She then went out of the house, but soon after, hearing her husband shouting, returned and found him lying down, and was told that "Dick had kicked him." Dr. Henderson was sent for, and came early on Thursday morning, but was unable to render any assistance. At the inquest he gave it as his opinion that death was the result of kicking received. The son was arrested, and on Saturday morning committed to Guelph jail. An inquest was held on Friday last, at Green's hotel, Arthur, by Dr. Gordon. The jury returned a verdict "That the deceased, John Carlton, came to his death by kicks in the abdomen wilfully inflicted by Richard Carlton, his son, on the 27th Feb., 1867."—Guelph paper.

TEMPERANCE LECTURE BY HON. M. CAMERON—NEW KIND OF LICENSE LAW.—The Hon. Malcolm Cameron delivered a temperance lecture in this city on Tuesday evening last, and it was largely attended. He said that there is great difference of opinion relative to the license law: the difficulty of conviction under any system that has been tried; the weakness and the unwillingness to inform, and the interest involved by landlords, politicians, and magistrates; and he thought the revenue would be largely increased, and the quantity of liquor consumed less, if his new system were adopted.—His idea is, that if the Legislature were asked to do so, it would abolish all licenses and so free itself from the crime of sustaining inquiry, or of making that lawful, which all feel ruinous and destructive to the country, and then enact that every man who wishes to drink, must procure a license to do so for one year. He trusts that Parliament will be flooded with petitions on this subject, and that it will be the first act of the Federal Legislature.—Ottawa paper.

EAST DURHAM.—At last a step has been taken in the right direction. The Reformers of East Durham are alive to the importance of the approaching contest and the principles involved therein, and a determined effort is to be made to bring about a proper understanding amongst the liberals who have in times past fought side by side in this constituency. It is the intention to hold an informal meeting here to-morrow, when the farmers from the different sections of the country are in town, and arrange the preliminaries for the holding of an official meeting in Millbrook, at an early day, for the purpose of selecting a candidate for the House of Commons and another for the Local Legislature. This is as it should be. The Reformers of East Durham may be a little slow in entering the field, but they are sure when once aroused.—Guide.

The Boston Traveller says:—"If we can trust report, the Roberts wing of our Fenians will make another flight Canada-ward. They declare 'they go to stay,' this time—in their graves it will turn out. As the best means of getting rid of a miserable humbug, we could almost wish they would invade Canada again, for we believe the Canadians are prepared to receive them, and would make such examples of them as would put a stop to the foraying business for the next twenty years. It is a disgrace to this country, that it should be the scene of such illegal plottings against the safety of a country with which we are at peace."

SUDDEN DEATH.—Mr. Buchanan, of the Bank of Montreal, Port Hope, died very suddenly on Friday evening last. At about four o'clock in the afternoon, while out walking, he complained of being dizzy, and returned to his boarding-house, corner of Cavan and Walton Streets, where he died at about eight o'clock. He had vomited considerable and broken a blood vessel.—Deceased was a stout and apparently very healthy young man, of something like twenty-one years of age, and has resided in town since the opening of the Bank of Montreal Agency last fall.

THE CANDIDATES FOR VICTORIA.—As far as we can learn, at the present time, the candidates spoken of for the North Riding of Victoria are John Cameron, Esq., Joseph Staples, Esq., A. P. Cockburn, Esq., John Morrison, Esq., and Duncan McCrea, Esq., the two former in the Conservative interest. For the South Riding, the gentlemen who are spoken of as probable candidates are J. W. Dunsford, Esq., Hector Cameron, Esq., T. Matchett, Esq., Wm. Cottingham, Esq., and John D. Smith, Esq. Surely the electors will be able to make a good choice.—Warder.

The Mitsrre says:—"As soon as confederation is established it appears certain that government will give the country a net-work of telegraphic wires running in all directions. As this will not be a speculation, and government will be satisfied if expenses are paid, the tariff will probably be reduced to a cent a word or less. It will be greatly for the advantage of the country to have a telegraph extending everywhere, at a cheap rate."

THE BISHOP OF MONTREAL IN LONDON.—We see by the London Herald of the 28th ult. that the Bishop of Montreal and Metropolitan was present at the annual meeting of the Anglo Continental Society the previous afternoon. Its objects are to make the principles of the English Church known in the different countries of Europe and throughout the world; to help forward the internal reformation of national churches and other religious communities by spreading information within them rather than by proselyting from them; and the publication in different languages of books and tracts illustrative of the doctrine, discipline, and religious spirit of the English Church and of the character of her Reformation.

Bishop Fulford moved the first resolution, "That schemes of Christian union and comprehension must be presented by English Churchmen in a spirit of loyalty to the Church of England, and that the middle position in Christendom occupied by the Anglican communion appears to point out the work providentially assigned to it in bringing together the whole of the Christian family while still retaining its own standing ground;" and in doing so held that the "middle position" spoken of in the resolution as held by the Church of England placed her in a situation which, if rightly used, might enable her to take action in assisting to diminish the divisions of Christendom.—He was glad that, in the ensuing autumn, there was likely to be a reunion of Anglican bishops from all parts of the world under the headship of the Archbishop of Canterbury. This would be a most important demonstration of a fact that Anglicanism was essentially one, whether as set forth by established or non-established churches, and would display a grand visible evidence of union among the various churches of that communion throughout the world (hear, hear).

PRESENTED TO HER MAJESTY.—The Queen held a court at Buckingham Palace on the 27th ult., which, the London papers say, was very brilliantly attended. Her Majesty was attended by several members of the Royal family and many of the great officers of State, and most of the diplomatic corps were also present. The Queen wore a rich black silk dress with a train trimmed with grebe and crape, and a Mary Queen of Scots cap, with a long veil of white crape lisse, the cap ornamented with large diamonds and surmounted by a small coronet of diamonds and sapphires. Her Majesty also wore a diamond necklace and earrings, a brooch composed of a large sapphire set in diamonds, the Riband and the Star of the Order of the Garter, and the Victoria and Albert Order. Among those who were presented to Her Majesty upon this occasion were Mrs. Macdonald, by the Countess of Carnarvon; the Viscount Monck, on being created an English peer, by the Earl of Carnarvon; and Mrs. Charles Tupper, by the Countess of Carnarvon. Among those who had the honor of receiving notifications to attend the court were Viscount and Viscountess Monck and the Hon. Misses Monck, the Hon. J. A. Macdonald and Mrs. Macdonald, the Hon. G. E. Cartier, the Hon. C. Tupper and Mrs. Tupper, the Hon. S. L. Tilley and the Hon. A. T. Galt.—Leader.

FIRE IN BEAMSVILLE.—FIVE CHILDREN BADLY BURNED.—On the night of the 14th inst., at 11 o'clock, the house of Mr. James Wilkins, of Beamsville, was destroyed by fire. No men were about the house, and five of the children of the family were badly burned. Two of them are not expected to live. The fire was caused by a quantity of flax hanging about the stove, and the house was burned to the ground in ten minutes.—It was insured for $500.—Leader.

THE REV. DR. LIVINGSTONE.—He was born at Blantyre, upon the banks of the Clyde, near Glasgow, in 1817. As a youth he earned his livelihood in the cotton mills of Blantyre, but by hard labor he was enabled to pursue, during the winter months, his studies at Glasgow. As he grew up, he resolved to devote himself to the life of a missionary, hoping that Africa or China would be the scene of his labours. After studying medicine and theology, he offered his services, in 1838, to the London Missionary Society and was accepted. He reached the shores of Africa in the summer of 1840. For sixteen years (1840–56) he labored at various stations in South Africa. In 1855 the Royal Geographical Society of England conferred upon him the Victoria or Founder's gold medal. In the same year, Dr. Livingstone successfully made a journey across Southern Africa. He visited England in 1856, and met with a magnificent reception. In 1866 he returned to Africa and continued his geographical explorations. His works on his travels in Africa have had an immense sale, and conferred his name to tens of thousands in both hemispheres.

A SALT LAKE TRAGEDY.—More than five years ago, Dr. J. King Robinson was ordained in Salt Lake city as surgeon of (United States) troops stationed there to watch the Mormons, and look after Price's rebel soldiers. Active, clever, preserving, self-reliant, he quickly got into extensive practice outside the army, both among Gentiles and Mormons. Brigham Young touches the laying on of hands for the healing of the sick, but he found that his people had more faith in the doctor. When the troops were disbanded the young surgeon with his young wife determined to remain. His fame had spread throughout Utah, and he was a general favorite. But he never failed to denounce Mormonism and to avow his utter contempt for its leaders. He took charge of a Sunday-school, to which, notwithstanding all threats, Mormon children would go, and would take home the tracts he gave them. He acquired some land containing warm (sulphur) springs, outside the mud wall north of Salt Lake, and was about to build; he has the land recorded in the land office at Washington, as "the town of warm springs." These things could not be tolerated. The result was lately telegraphed. At midnight he was summoned "to attend a sick man;" his wife walked him out to go, but he did not like to refuse. Within 100 feet of his door the man who came for him assassinated him.

We have been shown a document signed by the Mayors in office of the cities of the United States and Canada, certifying to the superior excellence of Dr. Ayer's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla and to the value of all his remedies as articles of great public utility. Such evidence from such high sources bears us out triumphantly in the position we have long maintained with regard to Doct. Ayer's preparations, or more particularly our advertisements of them. No publishers need be more opposed than we are to the promulgation of quackery in any shape, but we know where we began, that his remedies were above any suspicion of deception—that they were about the best it is possible to produce for the cure of disease, and that they have the confidence of all communities where they are known. Not alone because the Mayors of the whole country believe them useful to their people, but because we know from experience that they are so to ours, do we believe we are rendering a substantial service to our readers in making their virtues known to them.—(Courier, Princeton, Ky.

MR JOHNSON BRIGGS,
Sir,

I Have used your Prof. Velpeau's Hair Restorative, having been troubled with an itching scalp and loss of hair.

A few Applications of the Restorer entirely cured me, and stopped the Hair from falling off.

My family have also used it with satisfaction, and I give it the preference over any other article I have ever used as an Cosmetic or Hair Restorer.

"Jes' so!"—Exactly!—Solon Shingle said, they were there "every time." If he felt "owly" in the morning, he took Plantation Bitters; if he felt weary at night, he took Plantation Bitters; if he lacked appetite, was weak, languid or in any way oppressed, he took Plantation Bitters; and they never failed to set him on his pins square and firm.

Few persons want any better authority; but as some may, just read the following:

" " " I owe much to you, for I verily believe the Plantation Bitters have saved my life.

" " " I have been a great sufferer from Dyspepsia, and had to abandon preaching. " " The Plantation Elixir have cured me

The original quality and high character of these goods will be sustained under every and all circumstances. A New Discovery better than the MADOC COLD.

Notice for a Cold—Relief in five Minutes

WHY do you suffer with a bad Cold when one bottle of Morrat's Electric Invigorating Fluid will cure the worst cold in three days. It is far superior to any pain-killer or Liniment or Ready-relief. Try it once and you will not keep your house without it, for after all other remedies have failed it has cured hundreds of rheumatism, fruit bites, chilblains, burns, scalds, bruises, sprains, pains in the bowels, fresh cuts, lame back, headache and all pains internal and external. Sold everywhere at 25 cents per bottle. Retail and wholesale only by E. MORRIS, Peterborough, C. W. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money refunded. Every one should have a bottle.

Peterboro', Jan. 3th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed with out assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will cost less and is more speedily cured the when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small wart or a sore on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. If required, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS.

Are you sick, feeble, and complaining? Are you out of order, with your system deranged, and your blood impure? Are you troubled with Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfy, Pustular Eruptions, Sores, Ulcers, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Gout, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Female Weakness, Sterility, Piles, or any of the diseases which arise from impure blood? Take Ayer's Pills, and cleanse the vitiated blood, which will remove all these diseases, and restore the health which they always confer.

Ayer's Pills are the result of many years' patient research and investigation into the nature and cure of the class of complaints they are designed to remedy. While in their composition, and power to cure, they are the most effective purgative that medical skill can devise, they are, at the same time, the mildest and most agreeable to take. Sugar and wine enter into their preparation, but neither of these will preserve them from decomposition. The only preservative they contain is the vitalizing principle which makes the vitalizing principle which makes the virtues of the other ingredients active. Hence they are the best laxative for children, because they are the most thorough, yet the mildest in their operation. Being sugar-coated, they are pleasant to take, and do not gripe or sicken the patient, unless large doses are given than necessary to cure. Explicit directions are given in the American Almanac, which is furnished gratis to all who call for it, for the use of the following complaints, which these Pills speedily cure: Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Bilious Fevers, Inflammation of the Bowels, Piles, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Dropsy, Erysipelas, Itch, Humors, Boils, Pimples, Blotches, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Scrofula, Scrofulous Complaints, Ulcers, Pain in the Side, Back and Loins, Female Complaints, Sterility, Leucorrhœa, or Whites, Uterine Pains, Menstrual Derangements, Incipient Paralysis, Dizziness, Mental Depression, Hypochondria, Hysterics, Headache, Sick Headache, Nervousness, Irritability, Sleeplessness, and all Nervous Complaints. Also, for Worms, they are a safe and certain remedy.

Ayer's Pills have had a long trial in my practice, and I hold them in esteem as one of the best aperients I have ever found. Their alterative effect upon the liver makes them an excellent remedy, when given in small doses for bilious dysentery and diarrhœa. Their sugar-coating makes them very acceptable and convenient for the use of women and children.

Dyspepsia, Impurity of the Blood.

From Rev. J. V. Himes, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood, they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.

WARSAW, Wyoming Co., N. Y., Oct. 24, 1865.

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and feel them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.

JOHN G. MEACHAM, M. D.

Constipation, Costiveness, Suppression, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Dropsy, Paralysis, Piles, &c.

From Dr. J. P. Vaughn, Montreal, Canada.

Too much cannot be said of your Pills for the cure of costiveness. If others of your patent medicines are as efficacious as I have, they should join me in practicing it for the benefit of the multitudes who suffer from that complaint, which, although bad enough in itself, is the progenitor of others that are worse. I believe costiveness to originate in the liver, but your Pills affect that organ and cure the disease.

From Mrs. E. Stuart, Physician and Midwife, Boston.

I find one or two large doses of your Pills taken at the proper time, are excellent preventives of the natural sorrow when wholly or partially suppressed, and also very effectual to cleanse the stomach and expel worms. They are so much the best physic we have that I recommend no other to my patients.

From the Rev. Dr. Hawkes, of the Methodist Epis. Church.

PULASKI HOUSE, Savannah, Ga., Jan. 6, 1866.

HONORED SIR: I should be ungrateful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best of physicians the disease grew worse and worse, until by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr. Mackenzie, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By perseverance in the use of them, I am now entirely well.

SENATE CHAMBER, Baton Rouge, La., 8 Dec. 1866.

DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured, by your Pills, of Rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had afflicted me for years. VINCENT SLIDELL.

☞ Most of the Pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. Those contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

Price, 25 cents per Box, or 5 Boxes for $1.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold in Peterboro by Ormond & Gilmour, A. W. Kempt, and Wm. Coulter. In Keene by A. Campbell, Campbell McNeil & Co., C. Britton, Lindsay, and all Medicine Dealers.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

CONSUMPTION

BY THE

GREAT SHOSHONESS REMEDY

IN CANADA.

MESSRS Y. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I Wilson Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say,—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coughed nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Esq., Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve my cough." He said "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once which I felt through my whole system; at night I took a tablespoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I got hearty and strong. I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was afflicted with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

IS positively superior to any or all other preparations for the cure of Hoarse, Coughs, Thick and Broken Wind, and all diseases of the other Wind of Horses; also, as a Condition Medicine, surpassing everything of the kind; in easy to give, sure to cause, and safe in all cases and at all times, and does not prevent the horse from being worked while using it.

It cleanses the breathing apparatus, by removing from the air-cells the coagulable lymph, or that secretion which in Heaves clogs them, causing a difficulty in breathing, and by its action on the diseased part causing the nervous membranes to reassume its healthy action, thus expanding the air-cells to their full extent, and restoring the distended vessels to their natural size; by its use the horse's appetite is improved, all derangements of the digestive organs corrected, restoring the skin, and giving to the coat a sleek and shining appearance.

Poetry.

True Freedom—How to Gain It.

BY CHARLES MACKAY.

We want no flag—no flaunting flag
For liberty to fight;
No sanguinary ensanguined gore
To struggle for the right.
Our spears and pens do one prized words
The mind our fighting-plain;
We've won such victories before,
And we will win again.

We have no standards shining of steel,
They make her brightest caste,
The sun is blood that liberty
Inscribes for civil laws;
She wat es them on the people's hearts
In language clear and plain;
True thoughts have moved the world before,
And so they shall again.

We yield to none, in earnest love,
Of Freedom's cause sublime;
We join to cry "Fraternity"
We keep the march of time.
And yet we grasp no pike or spear
Our victories to obtain;
We've won without their aid before,
And so we shall again.

We want no aid of barricade
To show a front of wrong;
We have a citadel of truth
More durable and strong.
Calm words, great thoughts unflinching faith,
Have never striven in vain;
And even our battle many a time,
And so they shall again.

Peace, progress, knowledge brotherhood
The ignorant may sneer,
The bad deny; but we rely
To see their triumph near.
No widow's cry an shall haul our cause,
No blood of brothers slain;
We've won without such aid before,
And so we shall again.

Selections.

Suggestions to Young Teachers.

BY JAMES MONTEITH.

1. To become a successful disciplinarian, vigilance, energy, erection, firmness and mildness are the essential requirements.

2. To a pupil, the Teacher is the example—the pattern he imitates; hence the necessity for continued watchfulness on the part of the teacher. "As is the Teacher, so is the School"—so is the class; therefore, he should, in the presence of his pupil, do nothing that he would not have him imitate. The pupil should not be censured for an offence similar, in whole or in part, to that which he sees committed by the Teacher.

3. The Teacher should first discipline himself; afterward his pupils.

4. Commence with setting an example of punctuality, neatness and good taste in habits and dress—then self control.

5. Let everything on the part of both Teacher and pupil, be done quietly and in order.

6. It is generally admitted, that in whatever a bit a Teacher commences his duties of the day, in the same spirit he will perform and end them; therefore, begin the day in a cheerful and pleasant mood. The exercises of the day will thus be rendered beneficial to the pupil and more agreeable to the Teacher.

7. Order can be better obtained and secured by quiet and coolness on the part of the Teacher, than by impatience or excitement. True order is that which is maintained with the least apparent effort of the Teacher.

8. In discipline, be uniform and consistent; teach by example more than by words.

9. "A silent Teacher makes a silent School"—a silent class.

10. Begin and change exercises in silence and order. It is always better to sacrifice a few moments than good order.

11. Teachers in the same School or Department should evince a feeling of goodwill and confidence toward each other; but they never should, within hearing of a scholar, engage in any discussion or argument; for the pupil is sure to view one as successful, and the other as defeated; hence, his confidence in the ability of the latter is diminished. Neither should light, frivolous conversation of any nature, be indulged in by the Teachers in the presence of the pupil.

12. Study the character, disposition and peculiarities of your pupils; and, to a certain extent, adapt your course of discipline to them. The same result cannot be accomplished from materials of different qualities, and in the same time, and by precisely the same process.

13. In giving orders, signs are generally preferable to words.

14. Speak sufficiently loud for all to hear—no louder. Let the expression be as concise as possible.

15. A low, decided tone of voice accomplishes much more than a loud, blustering one; the former attracts and fixes attention; the latter divides and confuses it.

16. Let every motion of the Teacher, as well as his language and tone of voice, be easy and graceful, free from any rudeness or awkward negligence. Of course, in the grammatical construction of the expression on the part of the Teacher, correctness is of vital importance; otherwise his practice contradicts his theory, and renders his teaching of that branch a burlesque.

17. Respect the feelings of a pupil and he will respect yours.

ARRANGEMENT OF CLASSES IN A SCHOOL.

A Teacher in Missouri writes as follows in regard to the arrangement of classes in his school:—

I give weekly, quarterly and yearly Reports, (I enclose a copy of the weekly and quarterly). I divide the course of study adopted in the Model School, Toronto, into 8 classes or subdivisions, and I generally take a year in putting a class through each subdivision; and, therefore, I call the first subdivision the 1st class or year; the second subdivision, 2nd class or year, &c. I divide the 1st lessons (as adopted in the Model School) into two subdivisions, the second division into two, and the third division into four. Since I can give beautifully executed certificates I would like to adopt the plan of giving a certificate of promotion with honor to pupils who gain ¾ of the Maximum number of Marks for the class or year; a certificate of promotion without honor to the pupil who gain between ½ and ¾ of the maximum number.—I give Discredit Marks for Absence, Late Attendance and Misbehavior; and those pupils who gain ¾ of the maximum number and after deducting all Discredit Marks will still have half the maximum number to be entitled, to the maximum number of Marks, or all the Marks possible in that class, and I would like to give it the name of "Scholarship" instead of "Prize."

ROMANCE IN REAL LIFE.

DEATH OF AN ALLEGED NATURAL DAUGHTER OF KING GEORGE IV., OF ENGLAND.

A few weeks ago there died in our midst a woman of remarkable antecedents, one was whose life and character were marked by some strange incidents and chequered scenes. She affirms that she was born July 1, 1820, and was the daughter of George IV., and that her mother died when she was only two weeks old.

Unconscious of the high position which her reputed father occupied, she was brought up in the family of Lord Pemberton, and when about sixteen years of age married to Frederick Theodore St. Felix, a Frenchman, who received the appointment to a government contractorship in South Africa. In company with her husband, she passed through some adventurous scenes in that colony, and affairs not being propitious, they sailed for New York. Her husband died of cholera after a few hours' illness while near New York. She afterwards came to Lower Canada and married Mr. Charles Peterborough in 1851. Up to about ten years since, the subject of our sketch was unacquainted with the secret of her birth, until revealed to her by Lady Pemberton, since on her deathbed, and who also gave her proofs of her parentage. The result was that the deceased, accordingly to her own statement, had an interview with the Queen, and made known to her the fact that George the IV. was her father. She stated previous to her death that of this interview she was offered a competency if she would resign her claim, but refused to do so. After returning to this country she removed with her husband to Georgian Bay, and remained there until the breaking out of the civil war. While there they accumulated a considerable amount of property, of which they were plundered in turn by the North and South. About two years ago they re-turned to Canada, since which time both had resided in the neighbourhood of Niles town near London. Just previous to the death of deceased, she removed to London, where she died and was interred in the Wesleyan Methodist Cemetery. The day before her decease she wrote her own epitaph, which she desired should be inscribed on her tombstone viz: "Sacred to the memory of Lavinia, Hermenia, Geraldine, Amelia Guelph, born July 1, 1820, daughter of George IV., King of England." The deceased had been a consistent member of the Primitive Methodist Church for a number of years and shortly after her death a funeral sermon was preached in the Primitive Methodist Church, in this city, by the Rev. R. Cade, embracing the above facts. The deceased was a very intelligent and well-learned woman, and while in the States she frequently lectured to large audiences, and contributed to a number of periodicals. During her lifetime she frequently expressed her determination to write her own biography, and it was expected it would have been found among her effects. The manuscript of a religious novel was discovered and a number of other papers, but no trace of the biography. Some papers connected with her origin are in the hands of a lawyer named Hall, in Lower Canada and when examined, may throw considerable light on her past life. That the "first gentleman in Europe" was in no way distinguished for high morality, the records of his time amply convince, and that the mother of the subject of the above sketch may have been seduced from the path of virtue by the princely rouse through a mock marriage, is no wise improbable. One thing is certain, that this woman, whose reliability none of her acquaintances will doubt, persisted through life, and died in the sure conviction that she was the daughter of a king.—London C. W. Prototype.

A GENTLEMAN.—Show me the man who can quit the brilliant society of the young to listen to the kindly voice of age—who can hold cheerful converse with one whom years have deprived of its charms—show me the man who is willing to help the deformed who stand in need of help as if the blush of Helen mantled on her cheek—show me the man who would as more look rudely at the poor girl in the village than at the elegant and well dressed lady in the saloon—show me the man who treats protected manhood as he would the heiress, surrounded by the powerful protection of rank, riches, and family—show me the man who would abhor the libertine's gibe, who shows as much sauciness to the tradesman of his mother's sex—who scorns as he would a coward the ridicule of woman's foibles, or the exposer of womanly reputation—show me that man who never forgets for an instant the delicacy, the respect that is due to woman as woman in any condition or class—show me such a man, and you show me a gentleman, nay, you show me better, you shall show me a true Christian.—Exiles.

TICKLE HER YOURSELF.—Lord Erskine when at the bar, was retained for a lady named Tickle, against whom an action for libel had been brought. On the trial he commenced his address to the court thus:—"Tickle, my client, the defendant, my lord." The audience, amazed with the oddity of the speech, were almost driven into hysterics by the judge's replying—"Tickle her yourself, Harry; you are as well able to do it as I."

Corn Kobb Tries the Spencer Rifle.

(From the London Free Press.)

I flatter myself I know some thing about firearms, re- Editor. I have been familiar with them, men and boy, for over fifty years, and know them all by heart, from a pop-gun to a stocked battery. I never was remarkable for very great precision with the rifle—I believe on one or two memorable occasions I came within a yard and a half of the bull's eye—but with the shot gun I was immense. That was my forte. Anything I had suffered—gun one solely invest your pile on that. I was instant death to all the four-footed animals in the neighborhood. No cats serenaded on my roof—no dogs yelped in my back yard. My fowling piece was as good as a notice to quit, and a good deal better too. Rifles are all very well in their place, but for general purposes give me shot gun. You have the great advantage with that weapon in that, even if you miss the object aimed at, you are almost certain to hit something.—As a case in point, I remember once taking deliberate and deadly aim at a woodpecker but, by some unaccountable accident instead of decently hanging the bird, I peared the whole change into a poor, inoffensive farmer, who was ploughing in a neighboring field, thereby irretrievably damaging his trousers, and making it a matter of astonishment, should he be would be able to secure a rotting posture for six weeks to come. I cite these little incidents of my early days, not for the sake of bragging about them, but merely to show beyond a doubt that I am capable of judging of the good or bad qualities of any new invention to the shape of firearms. The officers of the Seventh Battalion, therefore, knowing that I was well up in such matters, requested me to test the new Spencer Rifle with which their corps has just been supplied, and pass my opinion on it. I have tried it, Mr. Editor, and am satisfied that it is a most remarkable affair altogether. The butt end opens like the lid of a trunk, and into the cavity two discovered you shove four or five handfuls of powder, two or three hundred bullets, and about half a bushel of gun wads. You then close the door, bring the rifle up to your shoulder, shut your eyes, and blaze away like thunder. You can continue doing this as long as your ammunition lasts, or until you get howled over by the enemy. Even then the Spencer proves its superiority over other weapons by loading and firing on its own account, a circumstance which shows the effects of discipline on inanimate nature. In six seconds I put three hundred and fifty bullets into a ten acre field. Just fancy that field full of Fenians. There would have been three hundred and fifty dead patriots—dead as dead could make them, not to mention three hundred and fifty more who would certainly have been frightened to death. Just reckon that up, and see what it amounts to. With six good Spencer Rifles, I could dispose of the whole Fenian Brotherhood—men, women and children—any morning before breakfast.—Let the government see to this, and reward me suitably for my suggestion.

The butt end of this weapon contains all that is necessary for a soldier's kit. One compartment has the full complement of shirts, stockings, etc. Another contains pipes, tobacco and matches, and the third and most important, has an imperial quart of the best rye whiskey, pure and unadulterated, with the duty paid. There is also a musical box so that the soldier by turning a crank can keep up a continual shower of bullets to such martial airs as Rule Britannia, and old Dog Tray. This has a decidedly inspiriting effect on the men, besides saving the expense of a regimental band. The Spencer Rifle is a most economical arm. You win it up once a week like an eight day clock. It costs nothing for running expenses, and consumes its own smoke. For medicine I purpose it's A 1 at Lloyd's. One little pill from it taken properly will cure anything, from a sick headache to the cholera morbus. When hard pressed in a fight you can throw it down and cut your lucky, much the same as you would with a commoner weapon. It is needless for me to enlarge further on the beauties of this piece. Its good qualities must be patent to all, and the government deserve great praise for furnishing our noble volunteers with such a superior arm of defence.

In an English exchange we read the following startling announcement:—"The Countess of Galloway left the pier this evening for Liverpool with 111 cattle, 580 sheep, 70 pigs, 20 carcases, and 556 bags of oats. The Countess has only recently resumed her duties, after having been completely overhauled and renovated in Glasgow. She now looks really very smart." The Countess of Galloway must be an extraordinary specimen of the British nobility. A press who could leave her pier (or peer,) taking with her the above mentioned quantity of sheep, pigs and cattle, must be a remarkably strong bodied, as well as strong minded female, with an eye to the main chance. Further on we read that the "Countess" intends to ply regularly between the two ports.

THE SWEET SMALL COURTESIES.—I want to tell you a secret. The way to make yourself pleasant to others is to show them attention. The whole world is like the miller at Mansfield, who cared for nobody—no, not he, because nobody cared for him. And the whole world serves you so, if you give him the same cause. Let every one, therefore, see that you do care for them, by showing them the small courtesies in which there is no parade, whose voice is still to please, and which manifests themselves by tender and affectionate looks, and little acts of attention, giving others the preference in every little enjoyment at the table, in the field, walking, sitting or standing.

To ridicule old age is to pour cold water in the bed where you may yet sleep.

The only good you will get out of this world is the good you do in it.

Why talk about not sleeping a wink, when people in their sleep never wink?

NEW YORK AND CANADA.

There is no part of the Continent superior to Western Canada as an agricultural country. This is abundantly borne out by statistics. These prove not only our Western lands to be unexcelled in fertility, but that our system of husbandry is of the most satisfactory kind. We have no later Canadian statistics than those of the census of 1860, but even these—and we have made great progress since then—compare favorably with any of the adjoining American States. Take New York the computer. Peel County—regarded as one of the best agricultural districts in the Union, and not regards climate, occupies pretty much the same latitude as the Western Province. Its average agricultural production for the year 1860—the nearest year after ours many values based yet in many particulars on comparatively value the land.—The following are the principal agricultural returns of each country—States of Canada, it should be remembered, being for the year 1861, and those of New York for 1855:—

	C. W.	N. Y.
Population	1,396,091	4,361,254
Acres improved land	6,041,616	14,228,710
Acres unimproved	1,949,136	10,414,536
Cash value of farms	$180,000,000	423,991,331
Value of implements	$ 6,000,000	21,184,378
Acres of fall wheat	1,111,111	2,494,894
Bushels do	14,747,445	8,433,328
Acres spring wheat	1,111,111	164,990
Bushels do	12,000,000
Acres of barley	111,111	149,036
Bushels do	2,000,000	3,075,170
Acres of rye	111,111	233,119
Bushels do	973,181	2,578,436
Acres peas	600,000	64,491
Bushels do	9,661,000	1,540,817
Acres oats	670,331	1,109,565
Bushels do	24,330,874	19,052,633
Acres corn	79,918	632,385
Bushels do	2,000,000	17,943,898
Acres potatoes	187,200	235,073
Bushels do	15,500,000	23,237,702
Acres turnips	75,000	8,124
Bushel do	18,700,950	1,287,388

The contest between New York State and Canada, as afforded by these statistics, is very favorable to us. With far less population, less improved land, and less value of implements, our farmers turn out far more fall wheat, spring wheat, peas, oats, turnips, &c. Of Indian corn, rye and potatoes, the New Yorkers rather take the lead, and they are also set down as doing so in barley to the above table. But the barley has had an immense increase in Upper Canada since 1851, and we have little doubt that our next census will show that we now raise more barley than New York does. As to quality, it is freely admitted by the Americans themselves that we raise the best barley to be had on the continent. The higher price paid for our barley fully attest this fact.

One of the most gratifying features of the above comparison, is the fact that our lands yield more per acre than those of New York state. Of fall wheat New York sowed within some 25,000 acres of the breadth sown in Canada West, but we reaped over 2,000,000 bushels more than they did. The average quantity of oats raised by us in 1861 was fully more than 31 bushels per acre—but New York only averaged 17 bushels per acre! As will be seen by reference to the table, New York reaped 19,053,198 bushels of oats from 1,109,565 acres sown, whilst our Western farmers, from 678,337 acres, took off no less than 21,220,874 bushels! This fact, of itself, speaks volumes for the fertility of Canadian soil. The small quantity of turnips raised in New York appears singular—our returns being 18,206,950 bushels as against 1,287,388. Taking the returns all in all, they and cause pretty clearly that our farmers have nothing to envy in the Empire State, and that either as regards excellent soil or good farming, we can compare favorably with our neighbors.—Trade Review.

JOHN QUINCY ADAMS' MOTHER.—"Twelve or fifteen years ago," says ex-Governor Briggs, "I left Washington three or four weeks in the spring. While at home, I possessed myself of the letters of Mr. Adams' mother, and read them with exceeding interest. I remember an expression in one of the letters addressed to her son while yet a boy of twelve years of age in Europe. Said she;

"I would rather see you laid in your grave than you should grow up a profane and graceless boy."

After returning to Washington, I went over and said to Mr. Adams:—

"I have found out who made you."

"What do you mean?" said he.

I replied:

"I have been reading the letters of your mother."

If I had spoken that dear name to some little boy who had been for weeks away from his dear mother, his eyes could not have flashed more brightly, or his face glowed more quickly, than did the eyes and face of that venerable man, when I pronounced the name of his mother. He stood up in his peculiar manner, and emphatically said:—

"Yes, Mr. Briggs, all that is good in me I owe to my mother."

O, what a testimony was that from this venerable man to his mother, who had, in his remembrance, all the stages of his manhood. "All that is good in me I owe to my mother!"

Mothers, think of this when your brighteyed little boy is about. Mothers make the first impression upon their children, and these are last to be effaced."—Myrtle.

An amusing incident occurred recently at a Sunday School. The subject was the history of Sampson, and the question, "What foolish thing did Sampson once do?" Expectation was on the tiptoe to ascertain his particular weakness when from a seat came the reply, given with solemn preciseness and irresistible lugubrious accent, "He went down among the Philistines and got a wife."

A man in Brooklyn advertises; "Wanted a boarding-place, where the terms are not moderate and where none of the comforts of a home are guaranteed. A pious family not preferred."

Is Fenianism a Present Danger?

The effect of the recent outrage in Ireland, opinionated and successful though they have been, has been to quicken into a more busy and lively existence the brotherhood who find shelter and encouragement beneath the wing of the "Bird of Freedom." The excessive calm which the air has been full for some time, are gradually becoming more circumstantial in their nature, and very positive statements are made as to the saying, and doings of the group centre; but so far, to the best of our knowledge, and from all the information direct and indirect, which has come to us, the avowedly contemplated attack upon these Provinces will not take place for some time to come. The arrangements are as yet immature; money and men are ably praying for the Fenian treasury is low, and the facilities of the invaders are conspicuously unfurnished and ammunition are not yet provided in sufficient measure, and, in fact, should the attack be made now, it would be a more miserable fiasco than its predecessor of last June. And we have another temporary defence of an almost insurmountable character in the state of the country itself during the spring thaws which have now set in; so that we may, while not suffering ourselves to be lulled into a state of security which would leave us open to surprise, permit ourselves to feel sufficiently secure to go on with our ordinary avocations unroubled by harrassing fears.

That another attempt to invade Canada will be made during the course of the present year is possible, but that it will miserably fail is certain. Whether the attempt be made earlier or later will depend somewhat on Fenian finances, or the ability of Roberts and his colleagues to draw contributions from the already impoverished pockets of their dupes; but as they are doubtless aware of the danger involved in delay, they will endeavour to hurry matters and be prepared to pay us a visit by the end of May or beginning of June. If they mean to come at all, the sooner they make their appearance the better it will be for Canada, in putting an end to a state of suspense that at times becomes positive y painful to very many. "Coming events cast their shadows before," but many times these shadows are exaggerated caricatures of the events they prognosticate, and the actual evil of a Fenian invasion promptly grappled with would soon be overcome, and be found to be much less dreadful in its consequences than uncertainly had portrayed it.

Probably there will be bloodshed, but will not every man, who is a man, be willing to shed his blood in ridding the soil of his country of the lawless wretches who will be found fighting beneath the green standard—fighting emblem of verdancy—of the Irish Republic. Will not every man fight for his country, for his family, for himself, till not a living man of the invading mob be left to tell the tale, and until it has been made plain to all the world that the road to Ireland, via Canada, is a long, long journey, and not to be accomplished by any man in his lifetime.

Let our government then be watchful and vigilant; let our military as hordes have their troops, legulars, volunteers and militia, ready to meet the foe at any moment; and then let necessary and unmanly fears be laid aside. Let us make up our minds not to be troubled by every baseless report and lying rumour that comes on the wind, to give no credence to stories fabricated to create a sensation, but to go quickly on until the signs of approaching danger are very much more apparent than they are at, present.—Trade Review.

BISHOP LYNCH'S MARRIAGE CARE.—A correspondent of the Leader referring to the fact that the Roman Catholic Bishop of Toronto lately married a couple without license or the proclamation of banns, by an alleged power vested in himself, says that she has it also, on undoubted authority, that marriages are of very frequent occurrence in Romish churches throughout Canada West where the banns are only published once, instead of "three times on separate Sundays." This is done by means of a "dispensation," for which a charge is made. The correspondent concludes by pertinently asking if Bishop Lynch can marry without license or banns by virtue of some power inherent in himself, why cannot the Bishops of Toronto, Niagara, Hurun, and Ontario, do the same? And again, if it be legal for the Church of Rome to marry by one calling of banns, "dispensing" with two, why may not other denominations do likewise. The case in question is a grave one, and the questions are pointed and of serious nature. It is not probable that by unauthorized claims of an "inherent power" to override the laws of the land, Roman Catholic Bishops, such as Lynch, have in many cases been consenting parties to unlawful marriages.—Witness.

STATE OF EDUCATION IN ENGLAND.—A letter in the Times gives the following facts:—The present condition of education in Great Britain may be thus stated:—One-half of the children of the working classes between three and 13 years of age, are under no scholastic education at all; and of the other half it cannot be truely said that under our present system they will ever be half educated. The returns of the Manchester and Salford Education Aid Association have established the fact that, of one hundred and four thousand children between the ages of three and thirteen in those towns last year, there were no fewer than 49,000 children whose names were not even "on the books" of any school. This fearful statement finds an echo in that put forth last year by the London Diocesan Board of Education; viz., that in the Diocese of London additional means of education were wanting for from 155,000 to 200,000 children.

ATTEMPTING SUICIDE AT WINDSOR.—On Wednesday afternoon a colored woman named Maria Johnson, resident in Windsor, attempted to commit suicide by drowning herself, but fortunately her avocation was so expensive as to prevent her completing her design. There was recently been a revival of religion among the colored population of that town, and she became so excited on the subject of religion as to become deranged. She stated to several persons that she intended to die and go to Heaven, and while in a state of derangement the attempted self-destruction. She jumped into the river from the dock at the coal yard, a short distance below the ferry dock. In jumping, her clothes spread out so as to catch a volume of air sufficient to keep her from going to the bottom of the river. She made several attempts to roll over and sink, but found it impossible, and was soon rescued by several men who hastened to her assistance.

THURSDAY, MARCH 28, 1867.

Col. Haultain has declined to become a candidate at the approaching election.

In our last issue we referred to this subject; but at that time we had not received the information so as to positively declare it. At a meeting of that gentleman's friends, on Saturday last, he made known his intention not to be a candidate in the approaching election. This is to be regretted, for had the Col. allowed himself to be put in nomination, there is not the slightest doubt in our mind but that he could be elected by a large majority. He, however, for reasons, of which he is certainly the best judge, declines, and now it becomes a duty to select another to take his place.

There is little doubt but that the elections will take place about the month of June, as at that time the period of the present parliament will be completed, and in consequence of the shortness of the time there is no time to be lost. Some of our best men decline to undergo the annoyances and cost of an election; they prefer their ease and comfort at home to the bustle of meetings and speeches, and we cannot wonder at their decision.—There is another evil that yet remains, and which few are willing to meet, and that is the cost of an election. It is true that we often hear people say that they do not see why there should be any serious cost, and certainly if society was as it should be, the cost of an election would be a mere trifle.—Heretofore, and even yet, the qualities of a candidate are measured by the length of his purse and his willingness to spend its contents. Even within a few days we have heard it said "He has money and will spend it." Let the electors consider the full meaning of this expression, and see is it calculated to heap any honor on them. Is it not a disgrace to a free, civilized, and we will add a professedly christianized people, to have it said that money is required—for what? To buy and sell the free and independent electors of the freest people under the sun, and yet so it is. We trust, however, that there is honesty and independence enough in this county to contemptuously spurn the man who asks their support because he has money and will spend it. The desire of the people should be to get good men, men of integrity, men to whom they can commit their affairs with confidence, men who desire to aid in establishing the Dominion of Canada on a healthy and solid basis, and men who cannot be bought like sheep in the market. Of this one thing we may feel confident: the man who dares to buy another is salable himself, as few men will spend their money unless under expectation of getting their own with usury. We say to the people, look out among you men of "Honest repute," select and send them, and let it be without cost to those you do send. Then will you find that honest men will come forward, while now they hold back rather than gain their seats by wrong means. We hear it said over and anon—how few men we have in whom we have confidence that are able and willing to come out. But is it not because of this very evil? Electors require to be paid; they must get pay for their team, or time, or influence; otherwise they will do nothing. Just after last election, the current talk was that $200 more would have turned the scale the other way, that in these two hundred dollars would have brought out thirty or forty more voters, thus reckoning at the rate of five to six dollars a head; just the price of a sheep. In a late election in a neighboring county, $50 it was said would have put in a certain candidate. In this case they must have valued their man at a low rate when even $50 could not be raised for him; he must have been miserably poor or the votes must have been almost worthless; whichever way we look at it, it is preposterous, and is a lasting curse and shame. Let the electors choose their candidates and then put them in by every man, of his own free will, going and recording his vote for the right man. Let the man who offers a bribe be exposed and punished, and soon will we find that "honest men" can be easily persuaded to undertake the cost of an election, for their will be almost no cost.

THE SUN BURST.

The name of a flag carried on St. Patrick's Day in Ottawa, is causing a sensation. It is said to be the flag that the Fenians have adopted as their standard, and consequently that it is the emblem of disloyalty and should not be tolerated. A numerously signed petition to the Mayor, requests that steps be taken to discover in whose possession it is to be, if to screen the holders of Fenianism.—Correspondents of the Citizen assert that it is the flag of Erin, the Standard of Ireland, and was carried at the battle of Clontarf by the troops of Brian Boru and consequently is not Fenian. The matter in dispute is to be referred to higher quarters. The Mayor of Ottawa is about to ask the government what course to pursue. Erin my country and her flag!

Something may soon be done to settle the valuable lands between Canada and the Rocky Mountains, the means of communication would follow when the desire could be effected and the dominion of Canada extended from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

The Americans are beginning to open their eyes to the true character of their Fenian subjects. St. Patrick's day in New York has had a happy effect upon their minds, when they had to call out their police in force to keep the patriots in check. We wish them more of it, until the scales fall off entirely. The Times says:—

"Not only ought it to be understood that we are not at war with England, and, that being the case, cannot allow armed attacks upon our neighbors by Fenians, but that the American people ought not to be compelled to foot the bill more than once. When the last raid took place it was a dismal failure, but it was expensive to our people, who have burdens enough of their own already.—When Gen. Meade franked home and fed the 'Army of the Irish Republic' last year, he did not suppose that the process was to be repeated every year, or probably he would not have been so generous. The Fenians have no right to cause the expenditure of public money in the way it is spent. Let the farce come to an end, and if a few troublesome spirits choose to foment trouble, let them be notified that we are tired of them ourselves. If America is to be ruled by Fenians let us know it; but so long as America is ruled either by native or adopted Americans, let her not be plagued and plundered by unauthorized and illegal schemes of foreign invasion from our shores or across our borders."

Public Meeting.

We invite the attention of our readers in reference to a meeting on Saturday, the 6th of April, and as it is desirable that there be a large meeting, let the friends be as active as possible in making it known to others. At the last meeting only one gentleman from South Monaghan was present. We trust that this will not be the case on Saturday next. The people there are equally interested with us and should come forward and have a voice in the matter.

AYRES' PATENT TIRE UPSETTING MACHINE!

THIS MACHINE was awarded an EXTRA PRIZE at the last Provincial Exhibition. It is useful, easily managed and durable. By this Machine the Tire while being upset is held in position by self-acting dogs, which let go as readily as they take hold.

Every Blacksmith, Waggon, or Carriage maker should have one for the following reasons.

1st. One man can upset a tire in one-third of the time it takes two men to cut and weld one.

2nd. By cutting and welding the tire is weakened, whereas by this process it is rendered stronger and more durable than before.

3rd. In setting tires the lap will sometimes slip, or in taking a second heat be reduced and weakened; whereas by simply returning it to the machine it may be upset to the proper size and strength.

4th. Persons wanting work done will go to the shop where this machine is in use, as there the best satisfaction can be given

☞ The Machine is warranted to upset a tire 2½ inches by ¼ inches.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

We, the undersigned, have tried one of Ayres' Tire Upsetting Machines, and find it to be very handy and useful, and fully as good as is represented above.

Carriage Makers—Tobias Fitzgerald, John Doherty, Wm Metherall, James McWilliams, John Douglass, Minaker & Thayer, Wm Keighley, Flynn & Redmond, Patrick Galvin, Wm. Yelland.

Blacksmiths—John Moffat, John Kennedy, John English.

These Machines are now manufactured at Peterboro' by Mr. Wm. Hamilton and Mr John Whyte, and at Hamilton by Messrs. John Thomas & Co.

WASTED TIME.

Night in the dark and silent night,
When the heavy thought of a misspent year,
Within us all deeds come back to sight,
And good deeds rise with a welcome cheer;
Alone with the company of the past,
That comes with the old year's dying chime,
When all come one shadow dark and vast,
The shadow of wasted time.

The chances of happiness cast away,
The opportunities never caught,
The good resolves of every day
Have died in the impotence of thought.
The place we chose and the backward step
In the rugged path we have striven to climb,
Now they furrow the brow and pale the lip,
When we talk with wasted time.

What are we now? what had we been
Had we hearded time as the miser's gold,
Striving our most to win,
Through the moment's blast and the winter's cold;
Shrinking from naught that the world could do;
Fearing naught but the touch of crime;
Laboring, struggling, all seasons through,
And knowing no wasted time?

The years that pass come not again,
The things that die no life renew;
But rise from the rest of his enslaving chain
A golden truth is glimmering through;
That to him who learns from errors past,
And turns away with strength sublime,
And maketh each year outdo the last,
There is no wasted time.

PAT MALONEY'S CAT.

Pat Maloney, better known by the name of Father Pat, on returning from work one evening was met at the gate by Biddy, his better half, in a state of excitement.

'Pat,' said she, 'there's a strange cat in the ca'vin.'

'Cast her out, then; don't be bothersome about the baste.'

'Faix an' I've been strivin' to do that for the matter of tin minits or more but she is beyant my rache, behind the big red chist in the corner. Will yez be after helpin' me throice her out, Pat?'

'To be sure I will; bad luck to the cowardly sky hoo for me house. Show her to me, Biddy, till I make her the respect that's due to a man in his own house—to be skin' possessions without as much as be yer lave—the thafe o' the world!'

Now Pat had a special antipathy to cats, and never let pass an opportunity to kill one. This he resolved to do in the present case, and instantly formed a plan for the purpose. Perceiving but one way of egress for the animal, he says to Biddy:

'Have yez iver a male-bag in the house, me darlint?'

'Died a cow is there, Pat. Yez took it to the mill wid yez, to bring home chips, this mornin'.'

'Faix, an' I did, and there it is yet, thin. And have ye nothing at all at all in the house that will tie up like a bag, Biddy?'

'I rotha'n' I have, Pat; there's me Sunday petticoat—ye can draw the strings close at the top, an' sure it will be better for not lettin' the cat larin' yez.'

'Biddy, darlint; ye're a jewel; just be after bringing it to me at wance.'

Biddy brought the garment, and sure enough it made a good substitute for a bag. Pat declared at a glance that it was 'illigent.' So, holding it close against the edge of the chest, he took a look behind, and saw a pair of eyes glaring at him.

'An' is it there ye are, ye divil? Be out o' that, now bad luck to yez, ye tharin' vagabone. Be-dad, an' ye must love it all with perfict asin—yerself will bate the pigs intirely. Biddy, have yez any hot water?'

'Sure, I've the full of a tay-kittle all a-bilin', Pat.'

'Be afther castin' the matter of a quart this, behind the chist, and we'll see how the bastes mind the like o' that.'

'Hould close this—here goes the steamin' hot water.'

So saying, dash went the water, and out came the animal into Pat's trap.

'Arrah, be the holy poker, I have 'im now, Biddy,' said Pat. 'Is it ame lives ye hav, to-day? Well, now be aisin pa.don for all the tharin' ye've bin doin' in me house, or it is the nine lives will not save ye.' Biddy, seize hoult o' the poker, and what I shoulder the bag, just whack the brights out of the haythen divil intirely.' Pat threw the bundle over his shoulder, and Biddy struck about three blows to the tune of St. Patrick's day in the morning, when she suddenly stopped.

'What smells so quare, Pat? Sure it's taken me brath away the power of it. O, murther Pat, its the devil ye have in the sack!'

'Bate him, thin—bate the bones off.'

'I'm faintin',' said Biddy; 'cast him off ye, Pat.'

'Och, murther, murther! Biddy Maloney what have ye done? Ye're went and murthered a horrible polecat for a harrumless cane cat!'

'Pat, for the love o' God, if ye're convanient to the door, unlose it, for I'm perisht entirely. O, Biddy Maloney, that iver you should lave auld Ireland, to be smothered an' murthered in this way!'

'Fegs, the little villain bates the mischief himself; he's ruined me breeze, and kilt Biddy, an' put me out o' convanience and mesilf. O, the murtherin' baste!'

By the dint of washing, and scouring and airing, and the burial of Biddy's best petticoat under the ground for a space of time, things were at length set to rights again. But not a little recrimination took place between them on the occasion, and neither ever forgot the expulsion from the cabin of Biddy's strange cat.

A BITER BIT.—About lunch-time one day lately, says an Ayrshire paper, a young gentleman entered the shop of a confectioner, and, standing at the counter, with considerable gusto discovered a pretty large tart. He tendered the good woman in charge a shilling to pay for his repast, which she had to take to a neighbouring shop to obtain change. Left alone with the viands, our friend found his appetite return, and he proceeded to help himself to some small, neat-twisted, and very enticing looking ginger-snaps, which lay "convenient." He had demolished twelve of these each being only a bite, when the shopman returned. The youngster pointed to the ashes by way inquiring what was the damage, and was rather surprised by the exclamation—"Gude save us, ye hae no eaten any o' thae snaps!" Just twal o' them," said the youth; "what for no?" "What for no! because they're medicine for horses; ilka yin's a dose for a mear; it has twa gesins o' jalap an' a grain o' calomel in't; ye're got phesic yince, I'm thinkin'." It was enough. How much he paid, or whether he paid at all, we never heard, and how he spent the afternoon we know not.

SCIENTIFIC SAVAGE.—A philosopher's wife attempted to move him by her tears. "Ah!" said he, "tears! they are useless. I have analyzed them. They contain phosphate of lime, some chlorate of sodium, mucus, and water!"

A country paper begins a forcible appeal to its delinquents with the touching sentence: "We want them or be done."

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed without assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who resided in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will cost less and is more speedily cured than when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, ear-lid or elsewhere, or small wart on a or on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. DARLEY'S

Arabian Bitters, Blood and Constitution Regulator.

IS positively superior to any or all other preparations for the cure of Nervous Complaints. Those who have tried it feel, and all others who feel the Want of Strength and Energy as a Constitutional Invigorator, may rest assured of the fact; it is easy to take, it gives the system new life, and gives to the blood those healing properties which are so much required in all cases of Debility.

It obviates the necessity of using any other medicine, as it is a perfect substitute for all other remedies in the market. It is a sure cure for that nervous weakness which is the result of indiscretion, and which renders marriage impossible, and is the cause of much misery in the married state. It gives strength to the whole system, and is the only remedy that will cure Seminal Weakness, Spermatorrhœa, Impotency, Nervousness, Debility, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Loss of Memory, Universal Lassitude of the Muscular System, Pains in the Back, Dimness of Vision, Premature Old Age, Hysterics, Irritability, Paleness, Female Weakness, Involuntary Discharges, Spermatic Weakness, Impotency, Diseases of the Urinary Organs, and all diseases requiring a Tonic.

MY JEWELS.

Long ago I gathered riches,
Stored them up with careful hand,
Gathered bright and golden riches,
Wove them in a jewelled band.

There was Trust, all pure and pearly,
Bound with sprays of golden love,
Love, that ever late and early,
Gleaned its brightness from above.

There was Hope, a diamond vieing,
With the rainbow's arch of light,
In its hues all changing, flying,
Gleaming still with radiance bright.

There was Truth, a gem of beauty,
Gem so rare, 'twere worth a throne,
Braided round with sprays of duty,
Sprays which brighten as they're known.

There was Patience, pearl combining,
Light and beauty 'bove all prai e,
With the wreath of prayer entwining,
Flashing out with golden rays.

These with other jewels sparkling,
Twined I once with skillful hand,
E'er the waves of life rolled darkling,
Wove them close in youth's bright band.

But the band then strong and golden,
Now is worn and wasted all,
And the treasures gleaned of olden,
Wear a dark and shadowy pall.

Once I gave to other keeping,
Sunny Hope with Love and Trust,
But while I was heedless sleeping,
They were trampled in the dust.

Then the waves all deep and darkling,
Swept their billows o'er my hand,
And the jewels once so sparkling,
Were in ruins round me spread.

Long I strove with bitter weeping,
Madly wild to stem the tide,
While the mold was slowly creeping,
O'er the jewels scattered wide.

Now the light is slowly breaking,
And the darkness drifts away,
While my soul to life awaking,
Gathers up each golden ray.

Gathers up the jewels pearly,
From the muddied waves of time,
Seeking late, and seeking early,
All the gems that may be mine.

Stores them up in mansions holy,
Where no blight can ever come,
Where the pure in heart, though lowly
Find an everlasting home.

THE FENIANS.

THEIR MOVEMENTS AND INTENTIONS.

(From the Buffalo Commercial Advertiser.)

We detailed a squad of our pearl-handled reporters the other day for special duty.

Their instructions were to look after the Fenians and the Fenian movements generally.

And to give the result of their investigations, with such facts as they might be able to collect, without regard to expense or authenticity.

How they acquitted themselves, let the public, who pays its money and takes its paper, decide

We carefully compiled the various accounts submitted, erasing such statements and speculations as might appear contradictory or inconsistent.

The grand combined total figured up somewhere about as follows:—

The Fenian movement from head centre to circumference, may be considered as played.

Though the wildest excitement still prevail in this and other localities, and active preparations are making for the coming campaign.

Which is supposed to be coming faster and faster every day.

At the present time the leaders are reported to be comin' through the old rye.

The number of troops already enrolled and uniformed is estimated to be about three million.

Or thereabouts.

Each of whom is to have a farm when Canada is gobbled.

Every man, on joining the organization, swears—

(In fact they all swear more or less.)

—That he will remember the glories of Brian the Brave, and strike wherever he sees a hat—

—That he will also strike for his home on the first convenient opportunity.

—That he will have his rights, forcibly if he can, peaceably if he must—

—That he believes St. Patrick to have been a better man than ever the Fourth of July was—

—That "God Save the Queen" can't hold a candle to "Garry Owen," nor "Rule Britannia" to the "Shan Van Vocht."—

—That the "Harp that once through Tara's Halls" lays clear over the "Harp of a thousand strings"—

—And that he will deliver Ireland or die, or perish in the attempt.

The men are all armed with repeating shamrocks, and breech-loading shillelahs.

The latter are of an improved pattern, and warranted never to miss fire.

The uniform to be worn consists principally of pants and trowsers

The coats are of a green color.

While the trowsers, by way of contrast, are much the same.

The stripes and trimmings being of green

Each Fenian, when fully equipped, will carry, in addition to the other traps, a saddle and bridle.

To supply the Canadians, who are understood to be short of these articles.

The various Fenian regiments in this city meet for drill fourteen nights in the week.

One of our reporters accepted an invitation to visit the head-quarters a few nights since.

He was in company with General O'Neil, President Roberts, and Mr. O'Day, whose christian name, as we have had occasion to state heretofore, is Patrick, not Prep.

Our reporter, though not of Irish belief himself, has a friend who has a cousin from the county Down.

Therefore he was regarded as sound, and admitted to the confidence of the leaders.

Who told him everything in relation to their future plans.

And gave him a programme.

Of course he is not at liberty to disclose anything calculated to injure the cause.

And is therefore only able to give a few unimportant facts.

The great flank movement upon the kingdom of Canada will take place early some fine morning.

The army of invasion will be concentrated on Bird Island pier the night previous.

And will be conveyed over the river by the steamers Michigan Commodore Perry and Fessenden.

Which have been chartered for the purpose.

These vessels will also be on hand with open scows, to receive the Feunians on their return.

The artillery, which will be spiked to prevent accidents, will be dismounted and floated across.

On reaching the other side forty rounds of pamphlets on the sufferings of Ireland will be issued to the troops.

Together with one day's rations of cold Queen's Own and mountain dew.

They will then move for the interior.

The horses for the cavalry being kindly loaned for the occasion by the inhabitants.

Who will appear against the Fenians when put upon trial.

After blowing up the Welland canal, in retaliation for the seven hundred years of wrong inflicted upon their ancestors, they will march upon Suspension Bridge.

Having captured and paroled the bridge the next thing will be something else.

And then, in succession, Toronto, Hamilton, Quebec and Montreal will rapidly fall.

So will Niagara Falls.

In the battles which are to take place, no quarter to be shown.

As no one of the men is expected to have one about him.

The captured cities will be garrisoned, and guards placed around the banks.

To prevent the soldiers from taking the bills to light their pipes with.

President Roberts will be detailed to act as controller of currency.

And it is pretty generally conceded that he can control currency, if anybody can.

It would be mighty hard currency to control, if he couldn't.

On reaching Kingston, the army under Gen. John O'Neil will be welcomed by Father McMahon and Col. Lynch.

Who will sing—

"In the prison cell we sat,
Thinking, Johnny dear, of you."

To which Gen. O'Neil will respond by tendering them the freedom of the city.

And agreeing to take charge of their interests in the paddling business.

After blowing all the smaller cities and towns into smithereens, preparations will be made for paying a visit to Ottawa, the capital.

This will be a capital idea.

After the place has capitulated, General O'Neil will occupy the Parliament buildings as his headquarters.

And proceed to establish a new government—which will be known as the United States of Ireland.

With new scenery and music.

No constitution will be adopted.

Thus, it is right will effectually euchre all attempts at amendment.

And thus enable the republic to avoid the rock upon which America split.

A law will be immediately enacted forbidding the circulation of anything except the counterfeit postal currency.

Which will be furnished from this side, and be recognized as a legal tender.

Every man will be appointed to a fat office, and his salary will be paid in advance.

Neither Thad. Stevens, Sumner nor General Butler, will be allowed to enter the country.

Consequently the government will never be broken up, nor the silver-ware be found missing.

And all the people will spend their lives in peace and die happily.

CHURCH AMUSEMENTS.

Some body Somewhere has said that he is a benefactor of the human race who causes two blades of grass to grow where only one grew before. On the same principle it may be alleged, with equal propriety, that the Christian philosopher who lately discovered that every Christian possesses an amusement faculty, hitherto dormant and undeveloped, and lying intent through the past ages, most surely deserves the title of a benefactor of the genus homo and which patent fact, will, as a mark of everlasting gratitude, oblige the apostate Church to place his name in the highest niche, of the calendar of saints. It is said that the principle of every new discovery is as old as the everlasting hills, and that every new development, which men call rare and marvelous, is only the sudden and accidental unfolding of a continuous series of principles in the programme of nature Is not, therefore, the grand discovery and the beautiful unfolding of the amusement faculty, (A link in an infinite series) an analogous case? We most ardently think so. Wonder how the ancient Christians got along without a knowledge of the use of this divine amusement organ.

The amusements of the Apostles and of the primitive disciples of Christ were somewhat singular and unique. The contrast between them and now is sublimely horrifying. In that reconte and obscure age of the world, the people of God we suppose, because they had nothing else to do, put in their pastime, and recreated their wasted energies by wrestling with wild beasts, looking into lions' mouths and fighting in the gladiorial ring. As a gymnastic performance, some preferred thirty-nine lashes on the bare back; some preferred for the variety, to be pelted with stones, and to be beaten with rods; as a climax on double-refined agony, a particular few handkerched after being sawn in sunder; some thought it was very funny to have their feet put in stock and in some dark prison having nothing else to do but sing songs all day and all night. Some had a taste for being shipwrecked; some loved the pearls of the sea; some made choice pearls of by land; some spent their precious time among robbers (We suppose playing "games of skill;") as a kind of saintly masquerade, and for the benefit of some orphan asylum, some wandered about in sheep-skins and goat-skins;" only pastors, who were dejected with the ennui, and who were subject to fits of hypochondriasis, being released from their heavy charges, spent their vacations "wandering in deserts, and in mountains, and in dens, and in caves of the earth." (These latter diversions were doubtless geological, and ornithological, and etumological explorations.)

But now all this is changed! The other day I picked up the St. Paul's Daily Gazette published by the authority of the Episcopalean Church of this city, in which were advertised the programmes of a lady's festival, which was to continue four days, the ostensible object of which was to raise money to build a rectory for the Pastor of St. Paul's church to live in. Here is one of the evening amusements:—

THE AMUSEMENTS.

This evening will be unique and somewhat varied; first on the carpet will be the Grand Vocal and Instrumental Concert, conducted by Mr.——assisted by Miss——and Keating's Orchestra Band. Miss——, of Chicago, the most celebrated singer in the West, will take part in the concert.—It will be a rich treat that our citizens should take the advantage of. A beautiful and well conducted Fish pond has been arranged in the hall, in which the Isaac Waltons of our city will have the pleasure of trying their luck in angling for Gudgeons, Sucklebacks, Polgee, Suckers, Huddock and Halibut. A very nice Wheelbarrow-duck is built in the corner of the room, in which the "What is it?" is kept, and any one desiring a change of programme can be accommodated on short notice. The intervals can be filled up with Oysters, Coffees, Ice Cream and Hot Tea. If any member of the human family can not enjoy that entertainment, he deserves to have his "cabbbage probe smitter pack."

If the object is good, of course the end sought after justifies the means. So pronounces an apostate church. Behold the announcements of a noble trio, who no doubt continually walk in the fear of God:

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

—— would respectfully solicit the votes of his friends, as he has secured a beautiful twist in the corner of his face and in consequence he thinks he will be successful at the polls. Yours till death.

—— presents his compliments, and his Phisamahogany to his friends, satisfied that on close inspection he will be the successful competitor.

Miss —— presents her claims for the scissors as she has purchased a splendid Waterfall, Tilters, Heaver, &c., &c., and is satisfied that she will lead in the race, and bear off the honors.

MANY FRIENDS.

Are these Christians or infidels? fools or wise men? saints or sinners? which? Is all this foolery transacted in the name of Jesus Christ, or in the name of a carnalized institution? Is this the climax of purity and Godliness or the vain "superfluity of naughtiness?" We must be pardoned for subjoining a few more illustrations of the scientiousness of the present age:—

"The amusements this evening will be, first, a beautiful tableau entitled, "Evening song to the Virgin." It has been gotten up with great care and will be splendid by gas-light. Two Charades will be presented, and the audience invited to put on their thinking caps. A pantomime of "The Ghost of Pea Nut Stand," and accompanying song by —— will be placed on the boards, and any person not a believe in spiritual rappings had better be on hand, and see the Ghost, a terrible "bone and sinner feller," with a glass eye. If any accident should happen at the sight, Dr.——, (late News Dealer) will be on hand with Wheeler's celebrated "Wonder of the World, for which he is now sole agent.

"A Veto" establishing a Post Office in the Hall; has just been received from Andy Johnson, and the only Valentines delivered in the city, will be from this office. I saw a beautiful lot of Hearts, Arrow Heads, Cupid Heels, Love-knots and Button-holes, ready for transmission by way of the Mails; look out for the bell when the post office rings.

"Two charades, entitled the Car-Pet and the Cat-Ass-Trophe, disturbed the equilibrum of the house. But the Ghost of the Pea-nut stand, when it came in and disturbed the refreshing slumbers of its mistress, and compelled her precipitate retreat, by its weird and faltering movement would have been very refreshing to any spiritual medium of the land. The song accompanying it, and that of Pat Malloy, as sung by ——, were well rendered.

"The Grand Fue de Joi will come off at dinner to-morrow. It will be the last reception of the Ladies of St. Paul's.—Extra efforts are being made to make that dinner the cap-stone of the whole reception. Stews and Fries, Bakes and Boils, that would make a French cook faint away for sheer envy, will be prepared and grace the tables. Several distinguished visitors from abroad will be present.

"The post-office had its attractions.—Valentines were as plenty as vermin in a City Hotel. Jerusha Slumpkin and her devoted Jonathan did the honors. We noticed the gentlemanly conductor, with the auburn locks, of Uncle Sam's P.O., watching them, and hereafter he will adopt the peculiar style in his department.

We introduce these copious extracts to show the tendency of things in nearly all the orthodox churches. From one pulpit all. Is it so that Orthodoxy has sold its birth-right for a mess of pottage? Is it so, then, that unsanctified and ungodly men and women, if they do not settle the doctrines of the church, at least control the finances of the same, and in a large measure dictates the politics to be pursued by every secularized church.

Another orthodox church started up a Sunday School festival, and run it three or four nights. Among the tableaux was one illustrating the Lord's prayer; one of the characters, a little girl, representing the Lamb of God. Another church advertises, on flaming posters, as a grand inducement to patronize the concern, that a "Grand Prize Masquerade" will go off. One church festival wound up the other night with a great ball, gray-haired church members taking part. And another "evangelical church" has employed a band of German infidel singers to give tone and prestige to their holy apostolic tiltings and tumblings. And so it goes. If all this is not idolatry and image worship, it is something much more offensive and criminal. In this respect, are Protestants a whit better than Roman Catholics, whom they despise? Is it any wonder you hear every day from scoffers on the corners of the streets such shameful epithets as "Religion is played out." Does the hope of the world's salvation rest on the teaching and examples of modern orthodoxy? What do these few churches of ours, who have lately slipped off into this shameful abasement, and who boast (or did once) the apostolic pattern, think of themselves when they look into this mirror of a gross, and groveling, and demoralized church? Is it not a strange coincidence, that in the ratio that the Disciples of Christ cease as to the sectarian world around them, they gradually assimilate to their plans and practices? Will they still advocate games of skill, and play chess and checkers and backgammon, and pander to the vitiated tastes of a Godless and Christless world, in order to raise money to meet their bills due the Lord? Sectarianism is doomed—nothing but the Bible, and the Christ the Bible, reveals can save the people.

Spring Fashions—Styles of Dresses, Hoops, &c.

In some articles of dress the change, since a year ago, is quite marked. The tilting hoops, which were adopted by the majority, have been banished from fashionable society, and they are at last voted a relic of bad taste, and an unbecoming style. The "tilters" have been followed by a much smaller hoop, and, when proportioned to the figure, the new ones are far more graceful, both for in-door and out-door wear.

The gored dress, so long in fashion, will be the prevailing style for the coming season. It is made plain at the top—or with plaits at the back, according to taste—For the house the skirt is very wide at the bottom, with a long train. For receptions this skirt is very suitable.

In street dresses there is a decided and apparently very popular change. The short dresses, with petticoat to match, are a great improvement upon the looped up dresses, with trains which would sometimes escape from the best of loopers to sweep the streets. These short dresses require a saque or jacket to be worn with them, and are generally made en suite. Shawls cannot be worn with them; they have too heavy a look, and are not graceful with the new short dresses.

The coat sleeve is still to some extent a favorite, but gradually the flowing sleeve is gaining popularity, and no doubt will have many admirers before the summer is over. Some of the designs for the sleeves are very pretty and novel. One is a half flowing sleeve over a coat sleeve, or a coat sleeve open on the outside and lined, with the loose-flowing sleeve falling gracefully over the elbow.

There are several different styles of the pelisse basque, each having something in its favor. A short, loose saque, a trifle shorter at the sides than the back and front, and beautifully trimmed, is very attractive.

The short dresses for the streets are made plain at the top, or with plaits at the back, both of which are fashionable. The skirt is usually cut with points around the bottom, and is worn over a plaited petticoat of the same material; but the petticoat is now often made plain, and when trimmed with graduated bands of velvet is very pretty, and many prefer it to the plaited. Everything in the way of dress is elaborately trimmed.

The spring styles in bonnets have not yet been brought out, except at the opening of the importers, when the milliners gathered up all the novelties and ordered them home immediately, where they will be hidden until the general opening day.—Some change has taken place in shapes, but it is not so great as many predicted in early winter. When the small bonnets of the past year made their appearance, the universal belief was that they would not be worn more than a season. But they have survived the winter, and the ladies declare they are almost as much in love with them as ever, especially when they remember "coal-scuttle" or "sky-scraper," or the Quaker-like bonnet that hides the little "face divine." The fact that large bonnets would conceal much beautiful hair, natural or artificial, that now adorns the heads of the ladies, will effectually keep them at their distance.—N. Y. Evening Post.

If anything in the world will make a man feel badly, except pinching his fingers in the crack of a door, it is unquestionably a quarrel. No man fails to think less of himself after it than before. It degrades him in the eyes of others, and, what is worse, blunts his sensibilities on the one hand, and increases the power of passionate irritability on the other. The truth is, the more peaceably and quietly we get on the better for our neighbours. In nine cases out of ten the course is, if a man cheats you, cease to deal with him, if he is abusive, quit his company; if he slanders you, take care to live so that no one will believe him. No matter who he is, or how he misuses you the wisest way is to let him alone; for there is nothing better than this cool, calm, and quiet way of dealing with the wrongs we meet with.

Many young men would pay very little regard to the church bells but for the thought of the church belles.

"All is not Gold that Glitters!"

The Western section of Canada had, during the past two years, its oil speculation and excitement. During the period that the "fever" lasted, some money was made by lucky speculators, and a great deal lost by those not so lucky. Taking the whole community, it is doubtful whether more harm or good was done.

The same spirit of speculation and excitement seems likely to be manifested as soon as spring opens, at a point further East—the Madoc gold diggings. Where gold exists, a "fever" is easily produced. And that there is gold to be found in Madoc and in some of the adjoining townships, admits of no doubt. Property is changing hands there at high prices. The amount obtained for the Richardson and other farms, upon which it is known the precious metal is obtainable, has already induced speculation, and fabulous accounts of the extent and richness of the gold deposits are in circulation. Both Tide, Madoc, and adjoining places, are filled with visitors, all with "an eye" for a profitable speculation. The great desire of all is for the disappearance of the snow and the opening of spring, so that mining operations may be begun in earnest.

The state of matters bids fair to result in—a gold mania. We, therefore, feel it to be our duty to warn those of an excitable nature to "keep cool." "All is not gold that glitters!" Our El Dorado may outstrip the "diggins'" of California and Australia. But that important point requires yet to be proved, and in the absence of proof, it is wise to conclude that reports are exaggerated. Whilst there is no uncertainty as to the presence of gold in the neighborhood of Madoc, it is very doubtful if it exists in sufficient quantities to pay individual miners. The probability is, that large companies and extensive machinery will be required to render mining a paying operation. In the case of the Richardson mine, possibly we may have an exception. But judging from geological reports, and the statements of perfectly disinterested persons, we incline to the belief that fortunes are not going to be made by individuals working separately.

Until the extent of the deposits of the precious metal is known, parties should operate cautiously. Speculation is dangerous. It may make a fortune for the few, but ruin the many. This is not a good state of affairs for the country as a whole. It is astonishing how gullible some people are when hopes of making a fortune in a day are dangled before their eyes! Any way—every way—is liked by some better than by patient, plodding industry. These individuals should remember how much has been lost in wild oil ventures, before falling victims to the gold "fever" with which we are threatened. Paying fabulous prices for lands which may or may not have gold upon them—but which certainly have abundance of swamp—is a dangerous operation. Those who have cut their eye teeth in the way of speculation, will be very careful how they invest therein.

We do not wish to be understood as opposing the efforts of enterprising men to develop the Madoc gold region. Far from it. Those efforts are worthy of admiration, and should be held up as an example to others. But we do protest against raising anything like a gold mania, with its reckless speculations inflation, excitement, demoralisation and losses. There is no necessity for this. Up to the present time at least, there is nothing to warrant it. That gold has been found, is a fact at once undeniable and gratifying; but what quantity exists, or if mining will pay, has yet to be determined.

Under these circumstances, the public should take matters quietly. If the deposits prove to be more extensive than anticipated, there will be plenty of time for legitimate speculation and enterprise. If not, thousands will continue to have full pockets which a "fever" might have emptied.

Canadian and Halifax Trade.

The following extract from a letter of one of the leading merchants of Halifax to a Montreal correspondent, is of great interest to all engaged in the trade with the Lower Provinces. The writer, after stating that a large increase of business may be expected under the improved arrangements already made, goes on to say:

"I notice that there are several projects under discussion in Canada for opening up a regular trade through the Gulf of St. Lawrence. This is all well, and the more the better. But perhaps most people are not aware that for our supplies for fishermen and traders, east and west, we must have them here in April or the beginning of May, before the Gulf is opened and free from ice. Again, for the winter supplies—these are not required till November and December, after the Gulf is closed, or insurance so high, and steams so uncertain as to render that route impracticable. There are then only a few months in the summer, in which flour particularly, is not extensively wanted and therefore the route via Portland, must be the principal avenue for your exports to the Maritime Provinces, until the Intercolonial Railway is completed. In all my business experience, I have never witnessed such a complete revolution in the trade—particularly as regards flour and other breadstuffs, leather, &c. We do not now think of importing a single barrel of American flour. The article from Canada is better in quality and cheaper in price, and it will come entirely from Canada in future, or until the American change their Tariff. We require in Nova Scotia every year about 370,000 barrels of flour and 100,000 of corn meal. This is no small item to be completely changed in favor of Canada; and the Americans already begin to feel it very sensibly. I congratulate you and all our friends on the complete success of Confederation, the result of which I feel satisfied will exceed our most sanguine expectations."

THE FATE OF DR. LIVINGSTONE.—Sir Roderick Murchison entertains serious doubts as to the veracity of the Johanna men who brought the story of Livingstone's massacre to the vice-consul at Zanzibar. In a letter to a daughter of Dr. L., the learned says:—"The more I reflect on the story told us by the Johanna, the more I doubt its veracity. It seems very probable that they ran away by concert among each other, and left your father with the Indian hawker and another or two, and then cooked up the story they have told. If it were true that they really buried him, they would, I think, have brought away some relic to prove the truth of their tale. I shall, therefore, cling to the hope until Dr. Kirk clears up the matter."

Kennedy recently arrested on suspicion of being a Fenian spy, has been released from gaol. The account he gave of himself was tolerably straightforward, and was in the main borne out by corroborative evidence. The petition signed by the jury who tried his case was produced, and the map found on his person was accounted for, by stating that it was to guide him to the residence of the parties whose signatures he required. THE NO PARTY CRY.

The Tories, of Upper Canada at least, are doing their utmost to instil into the public mind the idea of "no party." We are again told that there are no principles now at stake no controversy on which to form parties.—"No guiding principle" that is sufficient to cause division into parties. We are told that the new government will consist of men from every one of the provinces; and that these men will come together without any principles? they tell us, and consequently the people should be without principles of course. Such an idea is absurd in the extreme.

Mr. Howe, for one, will come to the Confederate Parliament a bitter opponitionist, opposed to Confederation and ready to advocate annexation in preference to it. Now here will be a man with some principle.—J. A. McDonald, expects to be in the new Parliament, and will any one tell us that John A. will be there without principles? Surely they must believe that their leader is gone daft, since he wedded, if they believe the doctrines they set forth. Will J. A. McDonald's right hand forget its cunning? Not a bit of it. Mr. Galt will be a member also. Now are we insane enough to imagine that Mr. Galt will give up his old finance schemes, his treasury notes, his provincial debenture scheme by which the Bank of Montreal is already said to be reaping a rich harvest.—If any one imagines so, he will find himself disappointed. Will Lower Canada cease to cry give! give! give! or the Hierarchy cease to dabble in politics? Who ever imagines they will? Not even the "no party" men. They know full well that those men and parties will cease to exist ere they give up the "hope of their game." And these men have had their satellites in Upper Canada. Men who sold themselves to do the bidding of Messrs. McDonald, Galt, Cartier & Co. Yes, and some that are ready to do it again if required.

Is there no need for party? no need for reform? The "no party" men, however, are busy, they are leaving no stone unturned to insure return of their old confederates. Daily we hear of Conservative conventions and Conservative candidates, and the Conservative party; and that is all right, but it is wrong to say a word to Reformers. Was there ever such silly twaddle uttered by the most silly lunatic? "No party," while sea and land is encompassed to return tories.—We trust that those noble patriots who have long fought for Upper Canada's rights, and who were opposed to Lower Canada domination, priestly influence and corruption will remember that the cry is only to deceive. It is the cry of "peace, peace," when there is no peace; but, on the contrary, open war. Never was there a time when reform was more needed; never was there a time that required Reformers to be so united as the present. The acts that shall be passed during the first session of the Parliament of the Dominion of Canada will have their effect for weal or for woe on our future; and, hence, the necessity that good and true men be sent to see after those matters, men in whom Reformers have confidence, men who will do justice to Upper Canada without doing injustice to any other Province, men above the suspicion of being venal. And from among whom can the people of this County choose their men better than from among Reformers. We are told that the great question is whether the candidate is qualified for the position and likely to serve the public interest. This will be admitted, but we have no confidence that the principles set forth will ever be carried out by the party who seek to lull to rest, or to draw away to their side by the cry of "no party." Whenever we see the advocates of the policy of forgetting old party lines choosing a candidate who was known to be a Reformer heretofore, then, and not till then will we believe that they mean what they say. The Coalition Government agreed to allow old feuds and parties to cease until Confederation should be carried, but the first election after the agreement found the Tories as determined to return Tory candidates as ever they had been before it. And during the approaching elections we will find them trying the same game, and we warn the electors not to allow themselves to be entrapped in the snare set so cunningly for them.

CONFEDERATION.

On Friday this famous bill became law, and from henceforth the Provinces of Canada, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick are to form one dominion. There is no doubt but that all British North America will yet become one, and be under one government

CESSION OF RUSSIAN AMERICA TO THE UNITED STATES.—Late telegraph reports state that Russia has ceded to the United States a portion of Territory lying north of British Columbia along the pacific coast.—The price is $7,000,000. It is not worth one half of the money, unless to gratify the Yankee love of territory. The New York papers say they thus shut out British America from the pacific ocean; they must have forgotten that Russia still owns British Columbia and Vancouver Island!

SUICIDE.

One of those unfortunate outcasts of society, who live by prostitution and in degredation and misery, put an end to her miserable existence, on Thursday last, by taking Laudanum. Her name was Eliza McKnight and had been brought here from Trenton, last fall, by a man named Wm. McCoy.—McCoy had left her in town during the winter while he was at the shanties; during this time, at least, she abandoned herself to vice; and on McCoy's return he kicked and cleaned her through jealously as it would appear from the evidence at the inquest, and she then becoming weary of existence determined to become her own murderer. After being abused by McCoy on Wednesday last and previous days, and after lying behind a fence all Wednesday night, on Thursday morning she enterred Mrs. Shinette's, a house of unenviable notoriety, and got one James Wright to bring her ten cent's worth of laudanum, and in the presence of all there (three or four) poured it into a glass along with some beer and drank it remarking that she did it to kill herself, for "she might as well be dead as alive." Medical aid of course was obtained, but the poison had taken such effect that aid was of no avail. An inquest was held by Dr. Poole, Coroner, and a verdict given to the effect that her death was caused by laudanum taken voluntarily with intent to take away her life. Thus has passed away another immortal spirit, unprepared too; no doubt of it. She appeared to be about 20 years of age.

And Mrs. Shinette is still allowed to ply her work of destruction and pollution, misery and death, by keeping her house a rendezvous for such characters and their accomplices in guilt. What a pity some philanthropic gentleman or lady of influence could not get a peep at the state of this Mrs. Shinette's dwelling on the day of the inquest.—If the town council but saw the dead and the dying, the drunkard and the drunkenness that was apparent all round. If the citizens did but see the work of ruin that is permitted in their midst, surely they would rise as one man and force something to be done to rid their skirts of the blood of the dead and the dying. Mrs. Shinette has repeatedly been in the police court, and fined too, but no fine has been collected, nor has she been put to jail according to law. The plea set up is, "If you put her to jail the town must support her family," and it is successful in her case. She is not sent to jail but is allowed to return to her trade in the destruction of men and women's souls. Is it not horrible to think of it. For the sake of a few paltry shillings, or rather for fear of spending a few shillings, seduction, prostitution, ruin, death and hell are permitted to go on in their work and the agents to go unpunished and all this in the very centre of christian churches that are crowning almost every knowle round the town. A part of the town is a perfect Sodom of one half we hear is true, and nothing is done to remedy the evil. It is called a giant evil, an evil that can't be got rid of; now, if they would say won't, it would be nearer the truth. There is a groggery on Charlotte street of which sickening stories of vice and pollution are told, and yet nothing is done to break it up. Of this and other houses the chief constable is perfectly aware, and yet nothing is done to remove the evil. Parties owning houses rent them to doubtful characters, nay more than doubtful characters.—Would it not be a blessing if our citizens would at once unite with the county and build a house of refuge for those creatures that cannot take care of themselves, and there provide a way for them to earn their bread in a decent and harmless manner, away from the influence of those dirty curs who go about seducing and polluting society, and then leave the victims to starve or destroy themselves.

Is it possible that there are not christians enough in Peterboro to volunteer to carry on a war until something be done to remedy this crying evil? Some one will say it is but one that has perished, but let that man think that it was one soul. How many more are on the way to ruin few can tell. We can tell that nothing is being done here to save them; yet how many of them would join in saying,

Oh! pass not, pass not heedless by,
Perhaps thou canst redeem
The breaking heart from misery:—

There is need for something to be done, and the sooner the better.

Meeting of Norwood Board.

We would call the attention of Teachers and others interested, to the change of time for the meeting of the above Board. The Secretary has been forced to change the day of meeting to the 30th of May, instead of the 23rd, as at first advertised. When we recommended the 23rd we had lost sight of the 24th being a holiday, and in consequence of which the change is now made, to give all an opportunity of celebrating the birth of our beloved Queen Victoria.

We, in some way omitted, last week, to mention the destruction by fire of Mr. Brownscombe's pottery. The entire building and works in which Mr. Brownscombe carried on his extensive business was consumed, together with wood, stock, patterns, and other material to a large amount. Mr. Brownscombe's loss must be very great, as he was insured only to the amount of $600. But for the exertion of the Fire Company and others, more damage would have been done, as Mr. Brownscombe's dwelling and stable and other houses in the vicinity were in imminent danger for a time. The cause of the fire is unknown, as the place where it was first seen had not been in use that day. We are glad to learn that Mr. B. intends rebuilding immediately. We trust his energy and industry will be better repaid in future.

"HATEFULL, AND HATING ONE ANOTHER."—Truly! what a spectacle to look upon? what a spirit to exhibit? The Review on the rampage last week, let him bite the bit. His small shot does not effect our very worthy representative one iota.

The Reform meeting on Saturday will be held in the Town Hall. We were not able to give the place in the notice, as it had not been then decided. The friends will remember the place.

On Monday we had a whole day's rain.—This will prove refreshing to the crops and will aid in bringing better roads, as it will take the frost out and help to harden them.

Mr. T. White, jr., has been nominated by a convention of delegates, as a candidate for South Wentworth, in the Legislature of Ontario.

The inhabitants of Sherbrooke are about to give a public dinner to Mr. Galt, in consequence of his services

Of this and other houses the chief constable is perfectly aware, and yet nothing is done to remove the evil. Parties owning houses rent them to doubtful characters, nay more than doubtful characters.—Would it not be a blessing if our citizens would at once unite with the county and build a house of refuge for those creatures that cannot take care of themselves, and there provide a way for them to earn their bread in a decent and harmless manner, away from the influence of those dirty curs who go about seducing and polluting society, and then leave the victims to starve or destroy themselves.

Is it possible that there are not christians enough in Peterboro to volunteer to carry on a war until something be done to remedy this crying evil? Some one will say it is but one that has perished, but let that man think that it was one soul. How many more are on the way to ruin few can tell. We can tell that nothing is being done here to save them; yet how many of them would join in saying,

Oh! pass not, pass not heedless by,
Perhaps thou canst redeem
The breaking heart from misery:—

There is need for something to be done, and the sooner the better.

Meeting of Norwood Board.

We would call the attention of Teachers and others interested, to the change of time for the meeting of the above Board. The Secretary has been forced to change the day of meeting to the 30th of May, instead of the 23rd, as at first advertised. When we recommended the 23rd we had lost sight of the 24th being a holiday, and in consequence of which the change is now made, to give all an opportunity of celebrating the birth of our beloved Queen Victoria.

We, in some way omitted, last week, to mention the destruction by fire of Mr. Brownscombe's pottery. The entire building and works in which Mr. Brownscombe carried on his extensive business was consumed, together with wood, stock, patterns, and other material to a large amount. Mr. Brownscombe's loss must be very great, as he was insured only to the amount of $600. But for the exertion of the Fire Company and others, more damage would have been done, as Mr. Brownscombe's dwelling and stable and other houses in the vicinity were in imminent danger for a time. The cause of the fire is unknown, as the place where it was first seen had not been in use that day. We are glad to learn that Mr. B. intends rebuilding immediately. We trust his energy and industry will be better repaid in future.

"HATEFULL, AND HATING ONE ANOTHER."—Truly! what a spectacle to look upon? what a spirit to exhibit? The Review on the rampage last week, let him bite the bit. His small shot does not effect our very worthy representative one iota.

The Reform meeting on Saturday will be held in the Town Hall. We were not able to give the place in the notice, as it had not been then decided. The friends will remember the place.

On Monday we had a whole day's rain.—This will prove refreshing to the crops and will aid in bringing better roads, as it will take the frost out and help to harden them.

Mr. T. White, jr., has been nominated by a convention of delegates, as a candidate for South Wentworth, in the Legislature of Ontario.

A Row.

Yesterday in our streets were scenes that would disgrace any community. Fighting, swearing, yelling and the usual number of lookers-on, aiders and abettors made the town hideous. Two or three were taken up, and one of those who could boast of outswearing even the arch-fiend himself, was taken up and for the offence fined one dollar. Really the Mayor should take pity on the general public and make an example of those vagabonds who so pollute the very air by their profanity. The idea of one dollar of a fine for such an offence is too lenient. If such men were made suffer according to the utmost rigor of the law, our ears would not be so often pained with oaths and obscenity that are heard every day; even boys vie with each other in vice and profanity.

The punishment was too light, as was evident from their after conduct. These same scoundrels afterwards proceeded to Ashburnham and there had a pitched fight, one Wm. Montgomery acting as a common seconder to afford what they call fair play. After a few strokes Mr. Ainslie took the combatants, when Montgomery interfered and abused Mr. Ainslie severely, taking advantage of his position in trying to keep the two prisoners. All this was caused by whiskey; under its influence men become brutes and worry and devour each other like dogs.

Literary Club.

This Club will give another of their Reunions this evening. The programme is an interesting one. The readers and performers we feel confident will be able to sustain their parts with credit. The evening's amusement will equal any of those heretofore, and a full house should reward their efforts to amuse, please and in-truct.

PRESENTATION.—We learn from the Lindsay papers that Mr. G. L. Fisk, long and favorably known as conductor on the Port Hope and Lindsay Road, was presented with a very handsome testimonial in the shape of a "service of plate" and an address from the merchants of Lindsay, on the occasion of his departure for the United States.

The employees of the Road at Port Hope also presented Mr. Fisk with an address, accompanied by a beautiful watch and chain. In both cases Mr. Fisk replied in very suitable terms. He is to be succeeded by Mr. Bradley, who is also well known on the line, and whose services will no doubt be faithful to his employers and courteous to the travelling public.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—At Gananoque, on the 13th ult., while a young man named John Mitchel was lifting some water from a stream under a circular saw in his father's mill, his cap in some way caught on the saw, when he jerked his head as if to save it, but, unfortunately, the saw caught his head and took a piece out of the top of the head and penetrated to the brain. He lived in a semi-conscious state for a week, dying on the 21st of March. What a necessity for carefulness on the part of those who are around machinery in which circulars are used.

The Peterboro' Home committee beg to thank the following friends for donations in February and March:—Cakes and bread from the Presbyterian and Baptist church tea meetings; a cord of wood from Mr. Thos. Porter, of Douro; a box of herrings and some bacon from Mrs. Robert Hamilton; butter from Mrs. Fife, of Otonabee; a piece of Bacon and a pair of stockings from a friend; three loaves of bread from a friend; bread, cakes, meat, &c., from the St. Andrews' church Bazaar.

From a discussion anent railway matters in the Cobourg papers, we learn that hands are at work taking up the rails on the railroad north of Rice Lake. This is a very strange way to make a connection with Peterboro. Perhaps the idea is now dropped. It looks like it, since the company is removing the rails.

The venerable Lord Brougham, in a telegram from Cairo, France, to Mr. Gladstone, strongly urges that "Household Suffrage" be conceded to the enfranchised classes. He also says that the whole Liberal party, in 1829, were favorable to that form of settlement, but it was overlooked in the reform bill of '32. He thinks that if bribers as well as bribed were sent to the treadmill nobody would venture into the bribing business.

It is said to be the intention of Lord Derby to recommend for one of the higher grades of the order of the Bath, Mr. Macdonald, on whom, as Chancellor of the University of Oxford, his lords' ip conferred the degree of D. C. L. during Mr. Mcdonaldis visit to England."

The London Canadian News copies the above extract, and adds, "We understand it is the intention of the noble Earl to beatow a like honor on Mr. Cartier."

The Paris Exhibition will have a host of royal visitors. The King and Queen of Portugal, the Prince of Wales, the Crown Prince of Prussia, Prince Humbert of Italy, Prince Oscar of Sweden, the Prince of Orange, the brother of the Tycoon of Japan, the Viceroy of Egypt, and the King of Sweden, are all expected to be present.

The Greenock (Scotland) Young Men's Protestant Association are trying to aid Father Chiniquy. They have copied, from the Montreal Witness, a considerable portion of his letter of December last, and circulated it widely as a tract, and are making collections on his behalf.

The Times notices the healthful example set by Lord Fitzwilliam, who with his family has gone to reside upon his Irish estate; and it is thought that this departure will be followed by those of some other large Irish proprietors who habitually reside in England and France.

The New Brunswick Government is negotiating for the establishment of a line of steamers between that Province and Montreal and the West.

Ex-Governor Eyre has been tried and acquitted. His character has not been freed from the accusation of blood-thirstiness however.

The English newspaper, John Bull, warns its friends in the country to prepare for a general election at any moment.

Jefferson Davis, it was asserted, was to be released in a few days; now, it is said he will be tried in May.

The Steamer Corinthian made her first trip on Saturday last, and returned to Port Hope the same day.

Verulam Township Council.

This Council met at Bobcaygeon on Monday last. W. B. Read, Esq., Reeve, in the chair, and Chas. Fairbairn, John Bredin, P. H. Murdoch and John Junkin, Councillors, present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

Mr. Murdoch moved, seconded by Mr. Bredin,—That south half of Lot No. 7 in the 8th concession be withdrawn from School Section No. 9, and attached to School Section No. 1, and that the proper notices be given by the Clerk of the Council, that a By law will be passed to that effect at the next meeting of the Council.

It was moved in amendment by Mr. Fairbairn and seconded by Mr. Junkin,—That said lot remain as it is in S. S. No. 9.

Yeas—Bredin, Murdoch and the Reeve.
Nays—Fairbairn and Junkin.

The original motion was carried.

Moved by Mr. Murdoch and seconded by Mr. Bredin,—That Lot No. 10 in the 10th concession be withdrawn from S. S. No. 9, and attached to S. S. No. 6, and that the proper notices be given by the Clerk, that a By-law will be passed to that effect at the next meeting of the Council.

In amendment it was moved by Mr. Fairbairn and seconded by Mr. Junkin,—That said lot remain as at present,

The original motion was carried.

On motion of Mr. Murdoch and seconded by Mr. Fairbairn, the sum of $49.11 was made as an abatement for taxes due by Jas. Cunningham, for the years 1861-2-3-4, on east half of lot 16 in the 3rd concession of Verulam.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Fairbairn and seconded by Mr. Murdoch,—That Mr. Kennedy be instructed to put in a culvert across William sarcel, opposite his premises, and that his statute labor for the next three years be allowed him as payment in lieu thereof.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Fairbairn, the sum of $5 was granted to E. Bottum to assist him in building a sidewalk from the Bridge south to John Ellis' house.

On motion of Mr. Murdoch, the Auditors Report was received and adopted.

Moved by Mr. Fairbairn and seconded by Mr. Junkin,—That the printing for the present year be given to the Victoria Warder.

In amendment, it was moved by Mr. Bredin and seconded by Mr. Murdoch,—That the printing be let by tender, and that the Clerk receive tenders therefor from the Lindsay offices, and the lowest to receive the printing.

After a good deal of discussion on the subject, and on account of Mr. Cooper of the Warder having done the printing in a satisfactory manner and at a saving of about thirty-five dollars to the Township for the last year, the amendment was withdrawn and the printing ordered to be done at the Warder office for the present year.

Several accounts, amounting to $88.73, were passed and ordered to be paid.

Moved by Mr. Bredin and seconded by Mr. Murdoch,—That whereas the law requires the Treasurer to make a return to the County Treasurer of all rates unpaid on the Collector's Roll, on or before the 7th day of April, that the Clerk be and is hereby instructed to call upon the Collector for the Roll.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Fairbairn, William Hamilton was appointed to collect the unpaid taxes of 1866.

The Council then adjourned to be called together by the Reeve.

MADOC.

(From the Toronto Telegraph.)

We have just had an interview with a gentleman who returned on Saturday from our now celebrated Canadian gold fields.—He says the country is still covered with snow, in many parts to a depth of several feet, and the present thaw has so softened this that the country is in a very unpleasant state. On the low lands the snow has not yet melted, and those who dig through the crust in their search after the precious metal, find an immediate and plentiful supply of water. Of course, under such circumstances, no operations can be commenced, save the sinking of shafts on the high lands, a process savouring far too much of a close union between labour and capital to be agreeable to those whose romantic ideas of the gold region are associated with "nuggets" requiring only transportation to the nearest bank of deposit.

As we have said, no true and exact test of the value of low lands or "placer digging" can be made under such circumstances, for it is well known to all miners, who have had experience in other gold fields, that the deposits of gold are almost invariably found on the "bed rock." But, as was observed by a most sagacious miner of many years practical experience, "a speck of gold discovered in the present bed of any creek may safely be considered to denote a valuable deposit lower down."

We learn that the promoters of the "Madoc Gold Mining Company of Toronto" have subjected their flat land to thorough test: Men appointed for the purpose, and under the direction and supervision of the manager, waded along the Richardson Creek, where it winds through the property of this company, and scooping up sufficient sand and gravel at various points, washed out three pans. The result was all that could be desired, for in the language of miners, there were more than one hundred colours of gold. We have seen the specimens produced in this crude manner, and do not wonder that the "experienced sage" of Madoc, were startled into a new outbreak of excitement when the fact became known.

This discovery must be most satisfactory to the company, as it gives them positive proof that their lands contain deposits of the precious metal, not only in paying, but apparently in large quantities.

There is an immense rush of strangers to the mines at present, and it will no doubt increase as the spring advances. In the vicinity of the Richardson mine, where only one building stood last fall, there are now nearly one hundred, and others are being built. The town thus quickly formed, is called "El Dorado," and is divided into upper and lower town. Stores, taverns, and workshops are being opened, and the town at present contains hotel accommodation, such as it is, for nearly one thousand persons, and several hundred are there each night.

R. W. Errett is agent for the company in Peterborough.

An American gentleman over 80 years of age, alluding to the present treatment of the South, says: "Was there ever a people on earth so humbly, debasely submissive as are the Americans at this moment? I have lived under the rule of Napoleon the Great, under the Bourbons in Spain, under various governments in Italy, Naples, Florence, Turin, and the Pope, and even under the Moslem in Africa, and in none of them did I ever see the tyranny, over free thought and free speech, exercised as it is at this moment in these United States. It makes my old blood tingle to my very finger ends.—But the American people, like whipped spaniels, bow down and submit, and the whole of the Radical press support, and even applaud it."

It is announced that King George, of Greece, is about to marry a niece of Queen Vic

A terrible storm has occurred in the Black Sea, in which a number of vessels and lives have been lost.

The disturbances in Ireland do not seem to have affected the festivities in Dublin, which have been unusually gay and abundant this season under the viceroyalty of Lord Abercorn. Her Majesty the Queen and the Prince of Wales will not visit the Island, however, this summer, as at first intended, in consequence of the Fenian outbreak.

The following from a contemporary is worth reading:—

SIR,—In looking over my old papers I found the following copy of an Act introduced into Parliament, which, if it became the law and has not been repealed, is of vital importance to young ladies of the present day, as fashion runs to such an unreasonable extent:

"An Act was introduced into the English Parliament in 1770. 'That all women of whatever age, rank, profession, or degree, whether virgins, maids, or widows, that shall, from and after such Act, impose upon, seduce, and betray into matrimony any of his Majesty's male subjects by the scents, paints, cosmetic washes, artificial teeth, false hair, Spanish wool, iron stays, hoops, high heeled shoes, or bolstered hips, shall incur the penalty of the law now in force against witch-craft and like misdemeanors, and that the marriage upon conviction, shall stand null and void."

I am, Sir, yours obediently,

THE RAT HOLE FLEET.—The Yankees have sunk some 20 vessels loaded with stone at the mouth of Charleston Harbour, which will doubtless prevent any vessels drawing over a few feet of water, entering that port for all times to come, this must prove a serious loss to the property owners there, but it will not at all interfere with the supply of the "Canadian Pain Destroyer" for the cure of rheumatism, Tiedoloureux, neuralgia, toothache, and all complaints of that nature. Sold by Medicine Dealers everywhere, price 25 cents per bottle.

BRYAN'S WAFERS.—The great public remedy have now been in use over twenty years, hence it cannot be said that they are on trial. They have been thoroughly tried, and pronounced (on the authority of those whose lives and health they have preserved) to be a pure, harmless, and eminently salutary preparation, and if taken in season will invariably cure colds, coughs, sore throat, and all Bronchial affection One fair trial will convince the most skeptical. It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man and beats, than any article ever discovered. Families, livery-men and planters should always have it on hand. Quick and sure it certainly is. All genuine is wrapped in steel-plate engravings, bearing the signature of G. W. Westbrook Chemist, and the private U. S. stamp of Demas Barnes & Co over the top.

An effort has been made to counterfeit it with a cheap stone plate imitation. Look closely!

AYRES' PATENT TIRE UPSETTING MACHINE!

THIS MACHINE was awarded an EXTRA PRIZE at the last Provincial Exhibition. It is useful, easily managed and durable. By this Machine the Tire while being upset is held in position by self-acting dogs, which let go as readily as they take hold.

Every Blacksmith, Wagon, or Carriage maker should have one for the following reasons.

1st. One man can upset a tire in one-third of the time it takes two men to cut and weld one.

2nd. By cutting and welding the tire is weakened, whereas by this process it is rendered stronger and more durable than before.

3rd. In set ling tires the lap will sometimes slip, or in taking a second heat be reduced and weakened; whereas by simply returning it to the machine it may be upset to the proper size and strength.

4th. Persons wanting work done will go to the shop where this machine is in use, as there the best satisfaction can be given.

☞ The Machine is warranted to upset a tire 2½ inches by ¼ inches.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

We, the undersigned, have tried one of Ayres' Tire Upsetting Machines, and find it to be very handy and useful, and fully as good as is represented above.

Carriage Makers—Tobias Fitzgerald, John Doherty, Wm Metherall, James McWilliams, John Douglass, Minaker & Thayer, Wm English, Flynn & Redmond, Patrick Galvin, Wm Yelland.

Blacksmiths—John Moffat, John Kennedy, John English.

AN ASTONISHED LADY.

An old lady whose home is in the country, and who hadn't been in Cincinnati for several years, came in yesterday to do some trading, her principal business being one of the few eventful incidents in her life, the purchase of a new bonnet. She hadn't had a new bonnet since she was in Cincinnati the last time, and that was seven years ago, nor had she seen any of the new fangled contrivances—"a trifle a light as air"—which the women wear now-a-days in the place of bonnets. As a new bonnet was the engrossing theme in her mind on entering the city, of course she was on the alert at once to see what the fashion was. Imagine her consternation, then, in standing on Fourth street, watching the people as they passed by. For a time she was perfectly speechless, and then she was observed to throw up her hands, and exclaim:—

"For the land sakes! are the wimmun all crazy, gaddin' through the streets with nothin' on their blessed heads? What's become of all their bunnets?"

She went into a millinery store, and accosted a 'gentlemanly and obliging' young lady in attendance:

"You see I come the hull way from Clermount county to buy a bunnit. I've worn this one goin' eight years. It's a little out of fashion, I reckon, and I want ere that is right in style. I don't know what the wimmin was wearin', so I stood out here a blessed hour to see 'em pass and I hope never to see my old man again if I saw one with a bunnit on during the hull time! Some had a doll's handkercher laid on the top of the head; others had what looked for all the world like oyster patties trimmed with blowed glass, and I declare to goodness if one woman, with a big ruttabaga turnip on the back of her head, in a fly net, wore any covering 'cept a galler circus ticket tied on with a string!"

When informed that the styles she had seen were the latest thing in the bonnet line, the old lady's astonishment increased, and she was thoroughly bewildered by the time she had examined each of the varieties embraced in the milliner's collection, particularly when she learned the accompanying prices. She looked at her old bonnet, which had been preserved so carefully during the changing fashions of seven years, and compared it with the fashions of to-day, when the old lady fairly wept. She declared it was enough to drive one crazy to see such vanities as the women are running to now-a-day.—"Twan't so when I was a gal," said she. "Wimmen were bunnits in them days that covered their heads and tied 'em under their chin instead of fash'n 'em to the back hair." She left in great disgust, and said she would go right back to Clairmount and wear her old bonnet till milliners got to making bonnets again.

A GEN ROUS DONATION.—We notice in the published minutes of the Beckwith Township Council that the handsome sum of two dollars has been set apart by that body for the purpose of Prize Books for the Schools of the Township, and that the Rev. Mr. Preston and Robert Bell, Esq., have been appointed a Committee to expend the same. The generosity of the Council in appropriating so large a sum for educational purposes, is deserving of great praise; and we are sure that the Committee have good reason to feel proud of the confidence reposed in their integrity and judgement in being entrusted with such a vast an aunt of money. It is not every day in the year that a Master of Arts and an ex member of Parliament, are honored by so learned a body as the Beckwith Council with the expenditure of two dollars for the promotion of education in a single Township. There are only fourteen schools in Beckwith, and the eightpence farthing that falls to the lot of each of them out of this appropriation cannot fail to have a vast effect in stimulating competitor amongst the scholars. We expect to see several University Professors coming from Beckwith before long.—Perth Courier.

A New Discovery better than the MADOC GOLD.

Notice for a Cold—Relief in five Minutes

WHY do you suffer with a bad Cold when one bottle of Morris's Electric Invigorating Fluid will cure the worst cold in three days. It is far superior to any pain-killer or Liniment or Ready-relief. Try it once and you will not keep your house without it, for after all other remedies have failed it has cured hundreds of rheumatism, frost bites, chilblains, burns, scalds, bruises, sprains, pains in the bowels, fresh cuts, lame back, headache and all pains internal and external. Sold everywhere at 25 cents per bottle. Retail and wholesale only by E. MORRIS, Peterborough, C. W. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money refunded. Every one should have a bottle.

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed with out assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neak, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small wart or sore on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS.

Are you sick, feeble, and complaining? Are you out of order, with your system deranged, and you looking for comfortable? These symptoms come often the prelude to serious illness. Some fit of sickness is coming upon you, and should be averted by a timely use of the right remedy. Take Ayer's Pills, and cleanse out the disordered humors—the cause of the illness, and let the kindly forces on earth, directed by Heaven, restore the blessing of health again. They promote the functions of the body into vigorous activity, purify the system from the elaborations which make disease. A cold neither comes here in the body, and obstructs its natural functions. Thus, if not relieved, fixed upon themselves and the surrounding organs, producing general aggravation, suffering, and disease. While in this condition, oppressed by the derangement, take Ayer's Pills, and see how directly they restore the natural action of the system, and with it the buoyant feeling of health again. What is true and so apparent in this trivial and common complaint, is also true in many of the deep-seated and dangerous disorganents. The same purgative effect expels them. Caused by similar obstruction and derangements of the natural functions of the body, they are rapidly, and many of them surely, cured by the same means. None who learn the virtues of these Pills, will neglect to employ them when suffering from the disorders they cure.

Statements from leading physicians in some of the principal cities, and from other well known public persons

From a Forwarding Merchant of St. Louis, Feb. 4, 1866.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the paragon of all that is great in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of viru ent sores upon her hands and feet that had pronced incurable for years. Her mother has been long grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and in her hair. After our child was cured, she also tried your Pills, and they have cured her.

ASA MORGRIDGE.

As a Family Physic.

From Dr. E. W. Cartwright, New Orleans.

Your Pills are the prince of purges. Their excellent qualities surpass any cathartic we possess. They are mild, but very certain and effectual in their action on the bowels, which makes them invaluable to us in the daily treatment of disease.

Headache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach.

From Dr. Edward Boyd, Baltimore.

DEAR SIR, AYER: I cannot answer you what complaints I have cured with your Pills better than to say all that on one tried such a purgative medicine. I place great dependence on an effectual cathartic in my daily contest with disease, and believing as I do that your Pills afford us the best we have, I of course value them highly.

PARSONS, Pa., May 1, 1865.

DR. J. C. AYER, Sir: I have been repeatedly cured of the worst headache any body can have by a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to arise from a foul stomach, which they cleanse at once.

Yours with great respect, ED. W. PEARLE, Clerk of Shawnee Clarion.

Bilious Disorders—Liver Complaints.

From Dr. Theodore Bell, of New York City.

We only are your Pills admirably adapted to their purpose as an aperient, but I find their beneficial effects upon the Liver very marked indeed. They have in my practice proved more effectual for the cure of bilious complaints than any one remedy I can mention. I sincerely rejoice that we have at length a purgative which is worthy the confidence of the profession and the people.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, Washington, D. C., 7th Feb., 1866.

SIR: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disease so obstinate that it did not readily yield to them. Fraternally yours, ALONZO BALL, M. D., Physician of the Marine Hospital.

Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Colic, Worms.

From Dr. J. S. Green, of Chicago.

Your Pills have had a long trial in my practice, and I hold them in esteem as one of the best aperients I have ever found. Their alterative effect upon the liver makes them an excellent remedy, when given in small doses for bilious dysentery and diarrhœa. Their sugar-coating makes them very acceptable and convenient for the use of women and children.

Dyspepsia, Impurity of the Blood.

From Rev. J. K. Mines, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood, they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.

WARSAW, Wyoming Co., N. Y., Oct. 26, 1855.

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.

JOHN G. MEACHAM, M. D.

Constipation, Costiveness, Suppression, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Dropsy, Paralysis, Fits, etc.

From Dr. J. P. Vaughn, Montreal, Canada.

Too much cannot be said of your Pills for the cure of costiveness. Hundreds of our fraternity have found them as efficacious as I have, they should join me in proclaiming it for the benefit of the multitudes who suffer from that complaint, which, although bad enough in itself, is the progenitor of others that are worse. I believe sedentariness to originate in the liver, but your Pills affect that organ and cure the disease.

From Mrs. E. Stuart, Physician and Midwife, Boston.

I find one or two large doses of your Pills, taken at the proper time, are excellent promotives of the natural secretions when wholly or partially suppressed, and also very effectual to cleanse the stomach and small intestines. They are so much the best physic we have that I recommend no other to my patients.

From the Rev. Dr. Hawkes, of the Methodist Epis. Church.

PETLEY HOUSE, Savannah, Ga., Jan. 6, 1866.

HONORED SIR: I should be unresistful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best of physicians, the disease grew worse and worse, until by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr. Mackenzie, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them, I am now entirely well.

PRIVATE CHAMBER, Baton Rouge, La., 8 Dec. 1855.

DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured, by your Pills, of Rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had afflicted me five years. VINCENT SIDDELL.

☞ Most of the Pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands in disguise, as a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

Price, 25 cents per Box, or 5 Boxes for $1.

Prepared by Dr. J. C AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold in Peterboro by Ormond & Gilmour, A. W. Kempt, and Wm. Coulter. In Keene by A. Campbell, Campbell McNeil & Co., C. Britton, Lindsay, and all Medicine Dealers.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

CONSUMPTION

BY THE

GREAT SHOSHONESS REMEDY IN CANADA.

MESSRS. Y. & C.—GENTLEMEN.—I Wilson Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say,—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and often has death Prontinued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coughed nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Esq., Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve my cough." He said "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once which I felt through my whole system: at night I took a tablespoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I got hearty and strong. I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was afflicted with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

DARLEY'S

Arabian Heave Remedy and Condition Medicine

IS positively superior to any or all other preparations for the cure of Heaves, Coughs, Thick and Broken Wind, and all diseases which affect the Wind of Horses; also, as a Condition Medicine, surpassing everything of the kind; is easy to give, sure to cure, and safe in all cases and at all times, and does not prevent the horse from being worked while using it.

It advances the breathing apparatus, by removing from the air-cells the coagulable lymph, or that secretion which in Heaves clogs them, causing a difficulty in breathing, and by its action on the diseased part causing the mucous membrane to resume its natural dimensions, thus equalizing the circulation of the blood, and restoring the diseased vessels to their natural size; by its use the horse's appetite is improved, all derangements of the digestive organs corrected, softening the skin, and giving to the coat a sleek and shining appearance.

SYMPATHY.

Ros xii, 15.

"And is there aught my daughters dear,"
Asked a young, pious mother;
"That you have gone at school to-day,
Which happy made another?"

Blushing, they bowed their faces bright,
When a innocence was seated;
Nor did they speak until at length
The question was repeated.

Then little Eva said, "Mamma,
To-day, Maria Lester,
When we were spelling gained the head,
I smiled on her and kissed her."

A tear-drop stood in Clara's eye,
She said, "You know dear mother,
My classmate—darling Abby Lane
Has lost her baby brother.

What anguish did she feel mamma,
I often heard her sighing,
The tear drops down her cheeks would steal,
Her eyes were red with crying.

And O, I felt so sad for her!
She seemed so broken hearted:
I dropped my books and stole to her,
And words of cheer imparted.

She smiled and wiped away her tears,
Nor wept for her dear brother,
But called me good, I know not why,
For that was all I dear mother."

"Come to my arms blessed ones,"
Exclaimed that gladdened mother;
"It is the will of Christ our Lord,
To feel with one another."

BY MEETA M. DUNCAN.

"Truth is stranger than fiction"

About nine o'clock on the morning of the nineteenth of July, 1830, a group, consisting of some six or eight gentlemen, stood upon the deck of the safety barge, Lady Clinton, lying in the North River, at New York. A quick observer, even though out of ear-shot, would have pronounced them Frenchmen, by their volubility, eagerness, and violence of gesticulation. This description, however, does not apply to one member of the party, a gentleman past the middle period of life, who stood, as it were among, but not of them and in whose attitude and bearing there was a something which vaguely accounted to be beholder for the marked deference and respect which was evident in the manner of those around him. His countenance was grave and thoughtful, and the faint smile which broke at rare intervals over his features was one almost of painfulness—such smiles as breathe from lips that never laugh, and are common to those to whom the moral earthquakes of the world have been familiar. He talked but little, and what he said was uttered in a quiet, undemonstrative manner. All listened respectfully as he spoke; but when he ceased, the conversation flowed on with its former animation. This person was but little above the middle height, stoutly built though by no means bulky. His countenance, full of dignified repose, was expressive of mildness and benevolence. His complexion was a clear, healthy brown, and the full outline of his belly former face was exhibited by the entire absence of all shirt-collar. A square and massive chin, mouth beautifully chiselled, and displaying, small pearl-like teeth, grey eyes, a well-proportioned, straight nose, and a broad, expansive forehead, but partially shaded by soft, dark hair which, slightly sprinkled with grey, grew thin upon the temples, and fell pointed down the middle of the brow—presented a countenance which, independently of all association, would have been considered remarkable.—To complete the portrait, we may add, feet small and well shaped, and hands, though embrowned by exposure, symmetrical as the finished work of the sculptor, the round and taping fingers of which might have well called forth the envy of a woman.

It was early, and there was still some time before the departure of the boat.—The group which we have described still stood conversing, when they were interrupted by the approach of an old man, accompanied by two children, a boy and girl, of some twelve and fourteen years of age.—This man, spare and remarkably tall, though somewhat bent by age and toil, possessed that martial look and bearing which it is impossible to mistake. Careworn and weather beaten as he was, he had evidently seen better days. As he reached the group he drew himself up, and making the military salute apologised for intruding, adding that he was a Frenchman, and hearing his own language spoken, had taken the liberty to address them and beg for some information. He said that he had lost his wife, and knew not how he should recover her. They had just arrived in America, he added, and had intended setting off the day before for Bordentown, in New Jersey, when, through ignorance of the language, they had placed their luggage on board the wrong boat, and while his wife was endeavouring to have it removed on shore again, the boat pushed off and carried her he knew not where. He had now come down among the steamboats, he said, to see if he could obtain any information about her, and would be grateful if any of the gentlemen would tell him whether they had seen a little Frenchwoman 'so high'—marking her height with his hand—or if they would tell him how to proceed to recover her.

The gentleman whom we have described turned to the old man, and inquired why, at his age, he had left his own country to seek a home in a strange land, and among a people of whose language and customs he was entirely ignorant?

The old man replied that he had been a French soldier, and that, since the abdication of his emperor he had known nothing but persecution, ill-treatment, and misery. Driven from the service, his pension as a soldier of the Legion of Honor withheld, his cap, cloak and uniform taken from him; he had even been obliged, to secure his cap-plate, a brass eagle, his cross of the Legion of Honor and some of his accoutrements, to bury them secretly.

To the next question—'Why he was going to Bordentown?'—he replied, that he had been informed that King Joseph, the brother of Napoleon, resided there; that he owned large tracts of land in the United States, and gave portions of it freely to destitute soldiers who had served the emperor; and that he was proceeding to Bordentown to apply to the prince, when the mistake occurred which deprived him of his wife.

'But how,' replied the gentleman, 'can you, who appear old and broken in constitution, expect to find a support in the forests of America? These tracts that you speak of are new and heavily timbered; you cannot, at your age, clear land and begin life anew?'

The old man replied, that, though broken down in body, he was stout of heart, and would make an effort to succeed; that anything would be better than the life he had led and the treatment he had received in his own country, where he had been obliged to earn, laboriously, a miserable subsistence in a saw-mill, deprived of all consideration, and treated with contumely.

The next question was as to his rank and position in the French service.

'Sir,' replied the old man, elevating his tall form, his eye lighting up, and the expression of pride and enthusiasm in his countenance painfully at variance with his broken and ill worn appearance, "I am a grenadier of the Old Guard! I was one of the "six hundred" who followed the Emperor Napoleon to Elba, and returned with him in the Inconstant. I stood by his side at Fontainbleau, and witnessed that scene which made children of grey-haired men—I mingled my tears with theirs! I followed him in his march of triumph to Paris—lived to see him a captive, and a Bourbon upon the throne! What is France to me now? Crushed, persecuted, and heart-broken! It availed me nothing," continued the old man with tremulous energy, after a pause full of emotion, 'that I had fought at Wagram and at Austerlitz; and had trod the frozen plains of Russia! True, I had served my country, but it was in following the voice which led all France to glory! I was faithful to him, and that they could not forgive!'

The old man removed his cap, and taking from it his eagle, the cross of the Legion of Honor, and the papers proving his identity, he handed them to one of the gentlemen.

It must not be supposed that the recital of his sorrows and misfortunes by the old man had been listened to without emotion. There was a truthfulness, a natural dignity and pride about the old grenadier, that carried conviction and deep sympathy with it, and each listner felt from the first moment that he was all that he represented himself to be. A few more questions were asked, and satisfactorily answered by the old man, when the gentleman whom we have described informed him that he would not find the Count de Survilliers at Bordentown at present; that he was travelling, and would not return to his residence for some weeks.

Distressed and deeply disappointed, this intelligence appeared to overwhelm the old man. He paused an instant in painful reflection, and then said that he knew not what he should do, reduced as he was to his last dollar, friendless in a strange land, and with his wife torn from him.

'Remain here for a moment,' said the gentleman, after a short silence; 'I will aid you;' and moving aside, spoke for some minutes with a member of the party, in a low voice, who immediately proceeded to the captain's office, where he remained some time. When he returned he held in his hand a letter with a small roll of bank notes, which, in obedience to a sign from the gentleman, he handed to the old grenadier, directing him to remain in New York until the following day, by which time the steamboat agent would see that his wife was restored to him. After which he counselled him to proceed with the money now placed in hands, according to his original intention, to Bordentown, and present himself at Point Breeze, the residence of the Count Survilliers, to whose agent there the letter was addressed. On so doing, he further informed him he would be immediately placed in suitable lodgings, with an allowance monthly till the return of the count, when he would be comfortably provided for, for the remainder of his life.

The old man gazed at the letter and the money with a bewildered expression, his countenance worked with emotion, while his eye, glancing rapidly over the group, fixed itself upon the face of the principal person of the party, with a wistful inquiring look.

The appeal was irresistible, and was answered by the gentleman who had given him the letter, who, in a low voice, motioning with his hand towards the gentleman'—

'This is Monsieur le Comte!' 'This is Prince Joseph you have been relating your history!'

With an inarticulate cry of joy the old man sprung forward, and flinging himself upon his knees before the count, he seized his hand and covered it with kisses. Tears deluged his rugged cheeks, loud sobs burst from his full heart, while, in a shocking voice, he exclaimed—'Mon Prince! mon Prince!'

It was a moment of deep feeling; and so sudden, so startling had the old grenadier's action been, that it was some moments before the count could collect himself and raise him from his kneeling posture, while in all that group of strong men there was not a dry eye. Even he who shared the blood of a hero, and had passed through scenes that wring the sternest hearts turned aside to conceal the emotion which he could not resist.

The children of the grenadier, who had stood a little apart during all the scenes, surprised at his agitation and at the posture which he had assumed, drew near him in childish amazement, and began to question him. The old man turned to them abruptly, and with the dignity of an Indian chief, waved his hand and said, sternly, 'Tais toi. C'est le Roi!' Silence.—'I'm the king!'

On the following day, having been rejoined by his wife, who returned in the first boat from Albany, to which place she had been carried, he set off for Bordentown, delivered his letter to the Count's agent, and was immediately accommodated in comfortable lodgings. On the return of the Count, in a few weeks, from his estates at Black River, in New York, which he was on his way to visit when encountered by the grenadier, he provided him with a dwelling upon his place, with a little plot of ground to cultivate for a garden, and allowed him a monthly pension; his duty, a merely nominal one, being to take charge of some of the gravel walks, and keep them free from grass and weeds. The children were also given some trifling employment, while the 'little wife' kindly received and entertained by the numerous families and followers on the place, soon threw aside her homely peasant's dress, and sailed about with her little round figure in gay gowns and finery, such as in her native land she had never dreamed of possessing. Careful and thrifty, however, in the midst of her prosperity, she did not hesitate even at a merrymaking, given by one of the count's people, to pull up the skirt of her clean white dress, least her entertainer's chairs should soil it.

In the winter of 1833, during the first visit made by the count to England, the poor old grenadier sunk under the accumulated weight of years and hardships.—His latter days, through the kindness of his benefactor, were passed in contentment and ease, and his last moments were accompanied by all that could solace a death-bed. As life ebbed away his mind wandered, and the low mutterings of delirium betrayed that his thoughts had reverted to the past. 'Vive l'Empereur!—'En avant, grenadiers!'—with other similar expressions, constantly escaped him, 'denoting,' as Scott has so beautifully said of his dying chief, 'that his thoughts were full among the current of a heavy fight!

The grenadier was decently interred in the burial-ground at Bordentown, and on the return of the Count to the United States in the autumn of 1834 finding that the widow was desirous of returning to her native land, he sent her, with her children to France, and allowed her a pension which he continued till his death in 1844.

Joseph Buonaparte returned to Europe, finally, in 1839, leaving a vacuum in a wide circle of friends which it was impossible to refill, and profound sorrow in the hearts which loved and honoured him; while by a numerous class whom his bounty and liberality provided for, his departure was deeply lamented. A large income was expended by him yearly, at his estate which flowed through a thousand channels, to the enrichment of the neighbourhood. Numerous labourers and artisans were in his constant employ, and the requirements of the different members of an establishment so extensive gave encouragement to trade.—The poor and needy of all nations were succoured by him. All Frenchmen found to him a friend, always substantial assistance in their various necessities, and often a home and a support, like the old grenadier. His residence was a place of pilgrimage to the elevated and distinguished of every land. In his home, adorned by the choicest specimens of the sculptor and painter, he dispensed an elegant and liberal hospitality, though always the chief object of interest himself from his instructive conversation, benignant manners, and through the strange charm which (in his extraordinary) resemblance to his illustrious brother threw around him. It may be safely said, that during a residence of nearly twenty years in this country, he made countless friends and not one enemy.

Those who had the good fortune to live near the Count Survilliers, who beheld him in his home, who daily observed the evidences of his benevolence, and witnessed the kindness of a nature which sympathised with the most lowly, and never thought of self when it could minister, even in the most trifling matter, to the happiness of others, will not be required to be reminded of what they once enjoyed; but in our wide land there are many who are scarcely aware that this distinguished individual lived so long among us. To these the anecdote here related may prove interesting. It is recorded without embellishment, as one of those little incidents of romance that so often occur in real life, and can be attested by numbers now on the spot, who knew the story, and well remember the 'old grenadier.'

The residence of Joseph Buonaparte in the United States must form a portion of history; and when that history comes to be written, and we see the occupant of two thrones, the active participator in some of the most extraordinary events that ever befell mankind, the friend and cherished brother of the greatest genius of this, or perhaps any age, retiring into the modest privacy of an American farmer's life, cultivating the simple pleasures of country pursuits, and spending the evening of a life of strange vicissitudes in the dignified retirement of a philosopher and a philanthropist, shall we not feel a pleasure in dwelling upon this page, and feel proud that, to his dying day, he never named America but with strong affection, and a high tribute to the worth of the people who had received him, an exile, with a cordial welcome, and afforded him for years a safe and honorable asylum?

But little more than a year since the name of Buonaparte had ceased to stir the minds of men save in the echoes of the past. The survivors of that name had fallen back into the ranks, bidding fair to pass down the stream of time, with others less marked, into the ocean of oblivion. Within this short period, however, Europe has been again shaken by another French Revolution, and a new Buonaparte occupies the scene—Louis Napoleon has been elected President of the French people! How far France may have reason to rejoice that she has thus elevated him, time must prove. One evidence of genius he has, undoubtedly exhibited. He has had the sagacity to take his 'tide at the flood,' and it has led on to fortune; though none can doubt who sees that tide had its rise, nor fail to trace its source to the mouldering ashes beneath the 'dome of the Invalides.'

The newly awakened interest in his family which Louis Napoleon's elevation has aroused, renders everything connected with the name a subject of curiosity, and it is from this conviction that the foregoing anecdote has been penned, though we cannot but believe that an incident so deeply touching to all who witnessed it, must in the simple recital, retain its power over the feelings in some degree.

With this explanation to the reader, and the renewed assurance that ours is a 'true story,' we leave him as we began, reiterating, 'Truth is stranger than fiction.'

An Extract from Senator Yates' Eloquent Temperance Speech.

There is another reason why I feel permitted to refer to myself, and that is because, while I have considered that I was only a moderate drinker, it has been published all over the land that I was a drunkard.

Fellow-citizens, there was some truth in this, and there was a vast deal of error in it, too. I was addicted to drink occasionally as a stimulous, as I supposed, to strengthen my nerves (laughter), and as a heightener of social joys. But, Mr. Chairman, differently from other men, I had a most unfortunate difficulty with myself, and that was, I had a wonderful faculty, whenever I drank, of letting everybody know it. (Laughter.) My sprees were not frequent but they were long and loud. (Laughter.) The grand prairies of Illinois did not furnish area enough for one of my forward movements. (Laughter.) That was not only the case, but whatever I have done for the last seventeen years,—whether I lied to make a speech to a political meeting; whether I spoke against the Nebraska bill upon the floor of the House; whether, as Governor, I wrote a message, or published a proclamation, or prorogued a secession Legislature (great applause), the universal charge of the Opposition was, that all these acts were done under the influence of whiskey. (Laughter.) Now, fellow-citizens, I have concluded to put a stop to this matter. The editors and reporters of newspapers are an honorable class of gentlemen whom I respect; but, I want those libelious scribblers who have made so many misrepresentations as to my course of conduct to understand that from this time henceforward their vocation in that respect is gone (laughter and applause), and they may now publish their libels until the hand that writes them shall fall withered and palsied; but I never intend that they shall have any license or authority to publish me as a drunkard again, even if I have to abstain, as I will abstain, from the mildest glass of claret that even the fair hand of the fairest lady in this land should present to me. (Applause)

There is the evil in the thing; this misrepresentation. Why, sir, after I had made those speeches, some sharp article of abuse would be published in the same paper, and some "Friendly Indian" of mine—(laughter)—would mark around it with black lines and send it to me for my Christian contemplation and supreme delight. (Laughter.) I will stop it. I have promised that proud Commonwealth which for twenty-five consecutive years has honored me with her public positions, in the Legislature, as Governor, as member of both Houses of Congress; I have promised all who love me; and I have promised Katie and the children—(loud applause)—that I will never touch, taste, or handle the unclean thing—(applause)—and, by the blessing of God and my own unfaltering purpose, I intend to fight it out on this line to the last day in the evening of my life. (Applause.) If all you, gentlemen, would do the same thing you would lose nothing in mind, body or estate. (Applause.)

The reformed drunkard accomplishes a more heroic achievement than did the Spartan band at Thermopylæ, because he conquers himself. That man is only great who seeks right and truth and justice, and adheres to them with strong, vigorous and perpetual purpose.

As to the effects upon the nation, Mr. Jefferson said, many years ago, that

"That habit of using alcoholic liquors by men in office has created more injury to the public service, and given more trouble to me, than any other circumstance which has occurred in the internal concerns of the country during my Administration. If I had to commence my Administration again, with the knowledge I have from experience derived, the first question I would ask from a candidate for public favor would be, is he addicted to the use of ardent spirits."

The man who is to legislate for a great country, to help to make laws and constitutions involving the destinies of millions of human beings, ought to be a man of reflection, moral principle, integrity, and, above all, a sober man. (Applause.) Go into your legislative halls, State and National, and behold the drunkard staggering to his seat or sleeping at his post, and ask yourself the question whether he is not more fit to be called a monument of his country's shame than the representative of free men. Would it not be most fearful to contemplate that ill-fated epoch in the history of our country when the demon of intemperance shall come into our legislative halls without shame, remorse or rebuke; when he shall sit upon juries, upon the bench, and drunkenness run riot among the people? Who will then protect the ship of State upon this maddening tide; who will steer her in her onward course amid the dashing below; who will spread her starry flag to the free, fresh, wild winds of heaven?

If you would be known and not know, vegetate in a village; if you would know and not be known, live in a city.

What is contentment? To sit in the house and see other people stuck in the mud. In other words, to be a little better off than our neighbors.

THE KEENE MEETING.

On Saturday, a large and influential meeting of the electors of Otonabee was held in the Village of Keene, presided over by Wm. Lang, Esq., Reeve of that Township. The meeting had been called by men of different parties; we noticed that both parties were represented. Matters went on swimmingly till it came to the matter of calling meetings in the different municipalities, when the staunch Reformers of Otonabee refused to unite with their old enemies, to even have the appearance of selecting one of them.—Who knows who the coming man is to be, and wisely, therefore, the Reformers of Otonabee as a party refused to pledge themselves to support any but Reformers.

It is all fudge to talk about no party, no principles and all the other nonsense that accompanies the "no party" cry. There have been parties and there will be, and woe worth the day to Canada when wholesome party opposition ceases. The curse of these Provinces for several years has been misgovernment, corruption, extravagance and wrecklessnes. One party has favored this extravagance and corruption, and the other has opposed. Now, what a spectacle it would be to see a coalition of principles such that nature would shudder at, and all to suit the whims of those who fear the loss of their grab. We have had a coalition of the two parties in the government of Canada already. Do Reformers wish to see it continued? Do they wish to see our local affairs in the hands of men in whom they have no confidence? nor can they have any. Do Reformers wish to have a continuance of railroad jobbery and card shuffling, such as has disgraced the country for the last ten years? or do they wish to leave the affairs of the country to men without any principles, but the love of gain? Reformers have fought many a hard battle for their rights and the rights of the people. Are they now ready to leave the working out of those principles in the hands of those who have all along opposed them, and who are still opposed to progress, satisfied only with the fogyism of the dark ages? Are they willing to endorse all the corruption and misgovernment of McDonald Cartier government, by sending an enemy to their principles to represent them? surely not. Let them rather stand side by side and manfully endeavor to send one of their own number, and if they cannot do so they will have the satisfaction of having done what they could to imprint the principles of justice and equity on the first page of the new constitution. Let them not be traitors to those principles at at any rate.

The no party men would fain make us believe that their desire is to get the best men. But in what instance have they gone out of their party to choose a man? Who is the man they would put forth now? They do not tell us, and if they did we would find him to be one of their party They are very generous when they get all the men. They bring to their aid the present coalition as the result of the union of parties, but there is no analogy. The coalition was formed expressly to bring about Confederation, and for no other purpose. All other things were to remain in abeyance until that would be accomplished, when parties were to resume what ever course each desired. Messrs. McDonald & Co. violated this contract and did all in their power to carry their party schemes by the aid of votes that would not have been given to them but for fear of retarding or overthrowing the great end of the coalition, namely, Confederation, and just as sure as a coalition of principles is attained, the same party will prove traitorous.—We are also told that to maintain our name implies war; if it does, it is only war against corruption and misrule, and not against just and honest measures. Reformers do not go to fight, but to watch. A sentinel is as needful as an army, and knowing from the past history of the country there is necessity for honest sentinels. Reformers should not allow this fiend of the "no party" to lull them to sleep. List to the cunningly set phrase, "Our Conservative friends in the East and West Ridings number among their ranks a fair show it not a large proportion of the really available men in the County," &c. A very modest way of saying where the men, let us unite to send them. If Reformers cannot send their own men, why of course let the Conservatives send some of their available men, but let them do it themselves, let us have no compromise whatever, but rather consider him an enemy who proposes it. On the principles proposed by the "no party" men, there never can be a union, even for a single election. Who would agree to support any man that might be brought out? not one in his senses.

A Proclamation appears in Saturday's Gazette further proroguing Parliament from the 6th of April to the 16th of May. It is not said that it is then to meet "for the despatch of business"—the phrase always adopted when the Legislature is actually summoned to meet.

The Times says Lord Monck will resume his duties as Govern r General of Canada, and return to this country early in June.

THE MEETING ON SATURDAY.

We were unavoidedly called away from Town, and in consequently had to leave the minutes of the previous meeting unattended to.

We regret that the Saturday meeting was so spent in speeches and irrelevant matter. The object of the meeting was to decide whether it was best to nominate candidates at once, or recommend meetings to appoint delegates who should nominate candidates. As it is, it appears to have been the wish of the meeting to have delegates do the work of nominating candidates. We trust, therefore, that the leading Reformers in the Municipalities will go to work and appoint their delegates, so that some definite purpose can be pursued at once. Let the true men of Smith take the lead. Hold a meeting in each School Section and appoint one delegate for each section. Let North and South Monaghan do likewise, and as soon as this is done a convention can be convened and the intention of the Reform party made known.—There is material enough among them to afford representatives, and we consider that they will be culpable if they allow their enemies to continue their work of misgovernment to which they have accustomed themselves. In all other undertakings, industry and perseverance ensures success, and we know no reason why they should not in this matter also, and taking the last election return as the basis of probability, we consider that success will be sure to crown a united effort. We have no sympathy with amalgamation of parties. It is sure to be fraught with evil consequences, and he, most assuredly, is an enemy (perhaps unwillingly) of Reform, who would recommend such a thing. Let Reformers not compromise their principles by aiding to return the implacable enemies of Reform, rather let them stand aloof, and if misgovernment must be, let them do nothing to bring it about.

Personal.

We learn with pleasure that at the annual examination of the medical departments of Victoria College, just brought to a close after a week's duration, Mr. George Burnham, of Asburnham, and Mr. John Ray, of Smith, graduated successfully, both standing deservedly high. Mr. Burnham had graduated before at Bellevue, U. S.

Literary Club.

This evening the following subject will be discussed:—"Should the Province of Ontario have a Legislative Council," and taken part in by the following gentemen:—Affirmative—Messrs. Eastwood, Ewing, J. A. Hall and J. Burnham. Negative—Messrs. W. H. Scott, Haggart, Mason and Cornell.

To Correspondents.

It has been so often remarked, that correspondents should always give their names that we thought that it di l not again need to be mentioned. Yet still we receive notices of births, marriages and other matter, without any names attached. We wish, therefore, to state that all who desire the publication of any notice must invariable give their names, otherwise it will receive no attention whatever. The name is always in confidence if so desired.

Reunion.

The fourth reunion of the Literary Club took place on Thursday evening last, and was in every respect the best entertainment of the kind we have had this season. Notwithstanding the rain, the hall was well filled, and those who ventured out were amply repaid.

The musical part of the entertainment was particularly good; the song "Will ye no come back again," by Mrs. J. A. Hall, and the duett by the Misses Parnell being rapturously encored. The glee "Here in cool grot and mossy cell" was well rendered and elicited hearty applause, as did also the trio by Mrs. Hall, Miss Parnell and Mr. Leonard, and the flute duett by Messrs. Sheridan and Kennedy, accompanied by Mr. Heathfield on the piano.

The reading was decidedly the best we have heard in Peterborough. Mr. Hall read the "Pied Piper of Hamelin," and was followed by Mr. Mason, who recited "Bingen on the Rhine" in a very pleasing manner, while Messrs. Haggart and Burnham well supplied the humorous part of the entertainment; "Sam Weller's valentine," from the "Pickwick Papers," being particularly well given by the latter gentleman.

We may add that as a result of these very popular reunions the Club have made an addition to their library of a large number of handsome and readable volumes, and that they intend making a further addition at the close of the season, in May.—Com.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Town Council met on Monday Evening.

In the absence of his worship the Mayor, Mr. Chamberlen was called to the chair.

The members present—Messrs. Burnham, Paterson, Chamberlen, J. H. Dixon, Stevenson Wrighton, Clarton and Dickson.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

A By-law for uniting several offices in one person, to define the duties thereof, and for other purposes was read a first time and afterwards was passed.

A By-law was also passed extending the provisions of By-law No. 165.

Moved by Mr. Stevenson, seconded by Mr. Burnham,—That the auditors be requested to send in to the Council their reports before the 16th instant.—Carried.

Moved by Mr Stevenson, seconded by Mr. Wrighton—That the petition of James McFadden be granted, and that the Mayor be requested to administer the necessary oath. The appointment to continue during the pleasure of the Council.—Carried.

The Treasurer was instructed to pay to the Secretary of the Fire Company the Sum of fifty dollars, being the amount granted to them for the 24th of May last.

In reference to the application of Mrs Haultain, Secretary of the Protestant Home, the treasurer was authorized to pay for this purpose the sum of one hundred dollars.

The Council adjourned for two weeks.

We invite the attention of our readers to the advertisement of Mr. Thos. Eastland, Mr. E. intends selling out his large establishment of horses, stage waggons, carriages, buggies, &c., &c., a splendid opportunity to obtain such articles. The sale will take place on the fair d y, the 4th of June next.

The Meeting in the Town Hall.

On Saturday, according to previous announcement, a meeting of Reformers was held in the Town Hall, to take into consideration the course to adopt in view of the approaching elections. The Town and Township of Smith and Monaghan were represented, but very few from South Monaghan; but this could be easily accounted for on account of the impassable state of the roads, rendering travel impossible.

Mr. I. Garbutt was called to the chair.

Mr. D. W. Dumble expressed a desire that Col. Haultain should give his view as to the best course for the meeting to pursue to advance Reform interest in the riding.

Col. Haultain remarked that as a previous meeting he had given his views at some length on the state of public affairs, and the duty of all who desired their country's prosperity; and did not now wish to repeat those things, as a number of those present had been present at the former meeting. He was sure that all felt that the present position of the country was important and required the best efforts all could make to promote its well-being in the future. This was to be attained by sending fit and proper men to represent us, men guided by patriotism and integrity, men who were above suspicion, who would go to the House of Commons or to the Legislature to represent this constituency above all selfish purposes in doing so. He thought each gentleman present was as well qualified as he to state the best steps to take to select such men; for, whatever were his own opinions he would put them forward with all deference to the opinion of others. The future of the country was unknown; new political alliances were about to spring up; men, hitherto strangers, would be called to the general assembly; and new principles and a new policy in some degree would have to be considered. At such meetings in the past there were certain questions before the County on which there had been differences of opinion, but at the present time we could not tell what would be the principles before the country. Hitherto we had been guided in a great measure by men's opinions, by the views they professed to adhere to, but at the present they could not expect very distinct and absolute utterances on all points, because we could not know all the questions that might arise; hence a wise discretion should be left to candidates on some questions. There were, however, some things they should require their representatives to give distinct utterance. There was Mr. Gait's Financial Scheme—a scheme which, if carried out, would unwisely place too much p wer in the hands of the ministry. The subject of amalgamation of railways was also fraught with great danger to the country. It was belittled by some men; but these men were either interested or strangely blind to what had happened in the past. His votes in parliament would testify how seriously he viewed those amalgamation ideas, as he considered them fraught with the greatest dangers to the country. (Hear, hear.) He had no doubt that in the future efforts would be made to get the Grand Trunk railroad connected with the Intercolonial railroad, and the Grand Trunk would use its utmost to secure possession of the railroads, so as to gain more power; but when we knew the number employed on the road, and who could not give an independent vote, we might appreciate the danger of an increase of its power; for, if increased to the length sought, it would endanger the liberties of the government and the country.—The question of Separate Schools was another of those questions which required a distinct and certain sound. Catholics would attempt to obtain the complete control of their Separate Schools. On this question no doubt should exist, whatever other latitude should be given to representatives.—Hence men of ability and integrity should be appointed, as great temptations would be in the way of those in power, hence the necessity for them to guard against the introduction of evil. In local matters there was the settlement of our country and the lumbering interests, which he thought had been underrated. He had never failed to rate that interest highly, although accused of not doing so. He only wished to see a wise legislation on the subject. And another question likely to arise was the "Mineral Interests," and if they proved productive we should guard the interest, although so recently brought to light. The Reform party he thought had reason to be satisfied with the position attained in the past. They had obtained what they long fought for—the just and reasonable representation of the united provinces, and he wished to pay a tribute due to one of the most disinterested men in the country, namely, to the Hon. George Brown, (applause), as it was mainly through his unflinching perseverance that Western Canada had received her rights in regard to the representation, and no one could regret more than he, that Mr. Brown had retired from political life, for he (Col. Haultain) would like to see him have a voice, and a very large voice in the future government of the country, and he only hoped that we could find men that would worthily follow his noble example. He concluded by thanking the Reform party for the confidence they had reposed in him, a thing of which he was proud, and of which any man might be proud.

D. W. Dumble, as a Reformer, having always a Reformer, and its interest at heart, believed that distinct utterance and active exertion were needed, although there was uncertainty in the future; yet thought that as men were in the past they would be in the future, and held, therefore, that we should look to that party for a representative Reformers had worked for what was good and just, and won much that they fought for. They failed to get all they fought for, yet by agitating they received a portion. He considered J. A. McDonald and others of his stamp as unworthy of confidence as was his party, and hoped that they would not be allowed to carry this County now, for if Reformers fought manfully they could not do it. Let a Reformer be chosen, a man of no uncertain sound, and let there be earnest and vigorous action to ensure his return.

Mr. King was in favor of selecting a candidate in the county, a yeoman, whose interests were identical with the interest of the County. He had always been opposed to Confederation, and he was opposed to the senate being nominated and not elected.

It was then moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Fowler,—That Township meetings be held to elect delegates to nominate candidates.—Carried.

It was moved by Mr. Fairbairn, seconded by Mr. Alex. Graham,—That Col. Haultain, Messrs. John Walton, R. Kingan, Robert Nicholls, Isaac Garbutt, D. W. Dumble, John King, John Fowler, Wm. Tully, Jas. Stratton, John Hall, J. W. Gilmour, Jas. Jack, Jas. Mann, H. Collins, Jos. Walton, Adam Hall, Wm. Graham, Jas. Edwards, John Beckell, Wm. Hall, Jas. Davidson, William Tully, T. M. Fairbairn, be a Committee to carry out the resolution previously carried.

John Walton, Esq., said it was all important that we should choose a person fit to represent them, a man of good common sense, a man of integrity, a man whom they knew would do what was right, and it was important that he be elected, and if they intended to do so, effort must be made. It could not be done without it. If they expected to put their man in, they must work.

The meeting then broke up.

THE MEETING AT KEENE.

On Saturday the electors of Otonabee held a meeting at Keene for the purpose of obtaining an expression of opinion on political matters.

The requisition to the Reeve to call the meeting was signed by men of different shades of politics, and accordingly parties were represented at the meeting. At about one o'clock the meeting was called to order.

On motion of Mr. T. Buck, Wm. Lang, Esq., Reeve, took the chair, and Wm. Reid, Esq., was called to act as Secretary.

Mr. Lang briefly returned thanks for the honor, and proceeded at once to business which he mentioned was to get an expression of public opinion on political matters. He (Mr. Lang) did not know whether it would be best to proceed to nominate candidates or merely to appoint delegates to do so at some future time. He thought it would be best to hold meetings in all the Townships in the Riding, and at those meetings let delegates be appointed who could meet at some central place, and there appoint candidates.

Mr. Learmouth thought it would not be proper to propose candidates at this meeting, inasmuch as the other Municipalities had not been consulted. He would advise meetings and the appointing of delegates, and he thought that steps might be taken to that effect just now, and if the meeting thought well of the proposition of Mr. Lang, he (Mr. Learmouth) would now propose something to that effect. He, however, hardly knew how to proceed, but had been thinking that one delegate for every 100 voters in a Municipality would be enough, but a difficulty would arise in regard to the number of voters, and to avoid that he afterwards thought it would be better to have three delegates for every Reeve and Deputy Reeve sent to the County Council. This could give Otonabee six delegates, Asphodel six and the other Municipalities three each, and could have no very strong objections to it.

Mr. Geo. Reid agreed with Mr. Learmouth in the main, but thought that one delegate for every 100 voters would be the best and fairest, as the number of voters could easily be obtained by applying at Mr. Weller's office.

A voice, what had been done at the Westwood meeting.

Mr. Lang remarked, very little; there was considerable talk, and the names of 15 to 18 candidates mentioned, but nothing in particular done, as none of those present would agree to accept a nomination.

Mr. Learmouth then proposed, seconded by Mr. Geo. Reid,—That the different municipalites in the riding be requested to hold meetings, for the purpose of choosing delegates, who could meet at some central place and nominate candidates to represent the riding in the Federal and Local Parliament.—Carried.

It was also moved by Mr. Learmouth, seconded by Mr. Patterson,—That each municipality be requested to send three delegates for each Reeve and Deputy Reeve sent by such municipality to the County Council.—Carried.

Considerable discussion arose on the place for the meeting of delegates. Some contending for Lakefield, some for Ashburnham, one or two for Westwood and some for a School House near the boundaries of Douro, Otonabee and Asphodel. It was finally agreed that Ashburnham would suit the back townships the best, as they would almost all have to come by Peterboro, to get to Lakefield, or any of the places mentioned.

On motion of Mr. Learmouth, seconded by Dr. McKae, it was agreed that delegates meet at Ashburnham, on the FIRST day of May, at the Town Hall for the purpose of selecting candidates.—Carried.

But now came a turning point in the aspect of the meeting.

Mr Learmouth asked, how would the municipalities receive notice?

Mr. Reid—Write to the Reeves.

Mr. Learmouth—Is this meeting a Reform meeting or not?

The Chairman explained that it was called at the request of men of different shades of politics, and, in consequence, was not a party meeting.

Mr. Learmouth—Then I must stop, (laughter), for he (Mr. L.) could not and would not write to men who had supported the corruption of J. A. McDonald's government, and who would no doubt do so still. He (Mr. L.) had been opposed to the policy of J. A and of the Tories for the last 20 years, and most certainly he was not now going to endorse those things by calling on the Tories to unite to send men to the approaching parliaments.

Mr. Buck came to the meeting irrespective of party, to give his support to a good man, wherever he came from, and he was ready to support the chairman if he would come out, although a grit. He (Mr. Buck) had always been a conservative, and was still one, and, if the meeting was a Reform one, he would withdraw.

Mr. Campbell to Mr. Learmouth—Are you not ready to support honest men. Mr Learmouth replied he was ready to support honest men, but he was not ready to support men who had uniformly worked against Reform principles. Some persons and newspapers were crying "no party," but such a thing was impossible, there were parties, and there would be, and it would be an evil day for the country when parties ceased to be.—(Several voices, hear, hear.)

Mr. Eason thought "party" was necessary for the good of the country.

Mr. James Anderson remarked that in all constitutional governments their were parties and he had no doubt but there would be parties under our new constitution, indeed, there were likely to be three parties. He (Mr. Anderson) was a Reformer and would be until death. He d sired no new name. The Tories desired to change their name.—They had often done so, and desired to wait for a favorable opportunity to do so again. Their names had never had a nice odor, but he hoped their new one would. J. A. McDonald he would not support, George Brown he had supported and a good friend to Upper Canada he had been, and the Reformers of Otonabee could not stultify themselves by calling on the Tories to unite with them in choosing representatives.

Mr. Patterson was sorry to hear the party cry raised. He was a true Conservative, he had always voted for honest, if true men, Tory or Reformer; and would do so again either in the council or the parliament.—Both parties needed watching, as he feared there were black sheep on both sides.

Mr. Anderson would be sorry to offend any one. Socially and morally, there were Conservatives in Otonabee who stood deservedly high; and he was a Reformer and thought that meeting was a Reform meeting, and asked for a few minutes to prepare resolutions to that effect. A few minutes were granted, when a number of friends went out and prepared two resolutions; after which Mr. Anderson returned and moved the following, seconded by Mr. Learmouth:—

Resolved,—That in view of the very peculiar position of political matters at the present crisis of our country's history, we feel it to be our duty, as belonging to that great party which has uniformly supported progressive measures, and has steadily advocated those principles of reform which are considered essential to good government, and to the proper development of our resources, and which tend to the social, moral and material improvement of our country, to recommend the selection only of those men for our representatives, who have steadily supported reform principles, and who will pledge themselves to support the same principles in future.

It was then moved by Mr. Armstrong, seconded by Mr. Eason, and resolved,—That the Secretary be instructed to communicate with the leading Reformers of the other municipalities of this riding, in order that they may hold meetings for the purpose of choosing delegates to select candidates to represent us in the Federal and Local Parliaments.

Mr. Reid begged to be relieved from being secretary as he would not write to Reformers; it would not look well for a Conservative to write to Reformers.

It was agreed that Mr. Reid act for the day and that Mr. James Anderson be Secretary to communicate as above and for other matters.

Mr. Campbell moved that the word "party" be taken out and "body" inserted instead. This was lost and the original motion carried.

On motion of Mr. Learmouth, the meeting proceeded to select delegates for Otonabee, when Messrs. James Anderson, Wm. Learmouth, Wm. Armstrong, Mal. Campbell, Jas. Miller, and Wm. Lang were chosen.

On motion of Mr. Anderson, it was agreed to request all the delegates to vote in convention openly, not by ballott, as such voting was cowardly.

And a further motion was carried to select only from the Reform party.

The meeting then broke up.

THE PUBLIC MEETING.

To the Editor of the Peterborough Examiner.

SIR,—On Saturday there seemed to be quite a misunderstanding at the meeting as to its object Some contending that it was called to select persons who should be authorized to call public meeting in the townships or elector 1 divisions for the purpose of choosing delegates to meet and nominate candidates for Parliament. Others, that the meeting was called to decide whether it should proceed and nominate candidates, or appoint places for holding meetings in the several townships—This misunderstanding could not be corrected as neither the chairman nor the Secretary who was at the former meeting was present It was at length decided to proceed to choose persons to organize meetings, and a committee was named for this purpose

It seems to me strange that when we have no candidates in the field on the reform interest for nomination, the Townships should be requested to appoint delegates for a convention to name them. If we had as they have in many places several aspirants to the Parliament honours, it might be well enough to hold such a convention, and for it to decide who should be the candidates; but in our case it is very different, and the action taken on Saturday appears to me merely putting off what will have to be decided sooner or later, and which is, shall the reformers in the west riding of this county select representatives of their own to represent them? And if so, who are those to be? Have we the men or can we obtain them, or shall we look el ewhere? There and similar questions I suppose were to have been discussed on Saturday, and so I think in a great measure our meeting was a failure, as such questions were not even mooted. It would be a great pity if the reformers are not represented in the coming elections. If we cannot obtain those we would like, cannot we unite upon some that we can obtain. The proper place to have discussed these matters was the public meeting, which has passed, and with it I fear the opportunity of the concenience of the party. If I am mistaken I shall be glad, meantime.

I am Sir,
Yours tr dly
AN ELECTOR.

Gold Intelligence.

That gold has been found in what is called "placer diggings," has been pretty well established. Michel found particles of gold in the alluvial, and the public has been anxiously waiting for the opening up of Spring so that the creeks and marshes in the vicinity of the quartz ledges could be examined. Rumors of finding gold in the earth at Eldorado, and in creeks and marches in different parts of the gold bearing region, have been current for some time, but with one or two exceptions we have not been able to get these reports verified. Mr George Neilson informed us last week that gold had been found in a creek, on the farm of Mr. John Cook, Madoc. In company with Mr. Cook, Mr Neilson took some dirt out of the creek, and after washing it found several particles of gold Several parties had previously got gold from the same creek, and on Monday of last week, a gentleman of large experience in Caribou, examined the creek, and from one or two pans of dirt produced a good show of gold; his opinion was that the "indications" there were exceedingly promising.

The Madoc Mercury says that Mr. J. B. Cox of Huntingdon exhibited a rock in the village a small nugget of gold which has been obtained from his claim on lot 16 in the sixth Concession of Madoc. An agent of the "Madoc Gold Mining Company of Toronto," was here one day this week, and stated that the Company would soon have one hundred men at work on their claims, which are in the vicinity of the Richardson Mine.—Intelligence.

More Cattle Wanted.—The quantity of Live Stock taken from Canada into the United States during 1865, and the early part of 1866, was very large. Horses, Cattle, Sheep, and Pigs—all were in request. Not content with what Canadian drovers did, numerous Americans came over into the Province and bought largely in every section of the Western peninsula. For some time, however, this trade fell off. Everything became quiet in the Drowing line. Stock was scarce, prices high, and the inevitable Yankee ceased to find it profitable, and so stopped his visits. We have just learned from Upper Canada, however, that signs are manifest that this traffic is about to begin again. A number of Americans dealers lately arriving in one of the best farming sections, and were buying almost everything in the shape of Milch Cows upon which they could lay their hands. These were wanted mainly for the Dairies of New York State where, it would appear, Canadian Cows are highly esteemed. The buyers seemed to have plenty of gold, but from the scarcity of Stock, purchases were not made so rapidly as in former times. We are glad to find that Brother Jonathan likes Canadian Stock,—but when he finds it necessary to come over here—gold in hand—to make purchases, who pays the duty?—Trade Review.

A Fenian Organ in Toronto.

"Ireland still lives! The spirit of her nationality is still abroad. The unquenchable undying love of her children has been disembodied forth amid the beautiful glens and grand old mountain of Emery, and the remembrances of the mighty vales have been heard along the fertile slopes of Cork, Limerick, Clare, Tipperary, Waterford and Wicklow, till their echoes have been whispered into the most remotest recesses of the Island. The country is bristling with bayonets; but this time the Irish share the shoon of the treacherous metal, and wield a weapon native to the soil Not all on the side of the foreigner are the panoply and cannery of war, the deep mouthed cannon and the flashing sabre; the heady ammunition and the tanned citizen now cling to their shoulders the marring rifle; and invite to deadly conflict the ancient and implacable foe. The war for Irish independence has fairly begun; fiercely shall it be waged till victory crowns the efforts of the brave and true to our race or utter defeat abroad the last hopes of a national struggle e nacrated in blood of martyrs, and holy as ever invoked the blessing of the God of battles.

"The torch of insurrection which blazed on the hills of Kerry on the 14th of February, had in a brief space after a rising in that county," gradually tailed down to the pale flame of a rush light, by the end of the week it flickered its last gleam, and then it was hoped that the noxious element should never be relighted.—Indeed, the world was positively assured by the resident "gentry" and the British Government that the Fenian rebellion had been "stamped out" to perfection, and that no further trouble need be apprehended in Kerry, nor in any other section of the "Kingdom of Ireland."

"But the 'gentry' and the government rock oozed without their nest—altogether miscalculated the distance, and fell far short of their leap. The revolutionists followed the Kerry rising, were doubtless, unselected and very distressing to the nerves of the shoneens, who lately crowded the Killarney Railway Hotel and their collateral tribes far and near. They were electrified, if not petrified, by the rumbling of the Fenian volcano, which was heard at Dublin on the 4th instant, and quickly spread dismay amid the sacred circles of the nobility, as well as the vice-regal board of His Excellency, the Lord of Abercorn. The bears of the merciful landlords once more sank at the mere mention of the Fenian insurrection, and their cheecks grew pallid at the gloomy prospect before them. Their ill-gotten gains trembled in the balance, and they feared the wrath to come. Who shall say they have not cause to dread the vengeance of a people despoiled through their treachery and grasping avarice, of their inheritance for ages?"

The foregoing is a portion of an article taken from an editorial in the Irish Canadian, published at Toronto. We make the extract in order to show what rabid Fenians we have in our midst, and also what license our government allows to such people. We do not believe in fire-reaching upon the liberty of the press until its utterings become dangerous to the peace and safety of society. Such incendiary productions as the above are dangerous in more ways than one. They encourage the band of cut-throats and pirates on the other side of the line to carry out their threat of invasion, and thus give aid and comfort to our enemies. Fenians abroad will certainly think that their friends are both strong and numerous enough in Canada to intimidate our government, or such a press as the Irish Canadian would not be allowed to exist We call the attention of our government to the fact that there is a Fenian organ in Toronto, the supporters of which went looking not a quite as much as many of the suspicious characters the authorities have put under arrest.—Hastings Chronicle.

For some months past we have not seen a copy of the Irish Canadian; but the above extract shows that is still pursuing an inflammatory, disloyal course. There are persons

Who would not be beautiful? Who would not add to their beauty? What gives that marble purity and distingue appearance we observe upon the stage, and in the city belle? It is no longer a secret. They use Hagarty's Magnolia Balm. Its continued use removes tan, freckles, pimples and roughness, from the face and hands, and leaves the complexion smooth, transparent, blooming and ravishing. Unlike many cosmetics, it contains no material injurious to the skin. Any Druggists will order it for you, if not on hand, at 50 cts per bottle.

AYRES' PATENT

TIRE UPSETTING MACHINE!

THIS MACHINE was awarded an EXTRA PRIZE at the last Provincial Exhibition. It is useful, easily managed and durable. By this Machine the Tire while being upset is held in position by self acting dogs, which let go as readily as they take hold.

Every Blacksmith, Wagon, or Carriage maker should have one for the following reasons.

1st. One man can upset a tire in one-third of the time it takes two men to cut and weld one.

2nd. By cutting and welding the tire is weakened, whereas by this process it is rendered stronger and more durable than before.

3rd. In setting tires the lap will sometimes slip, or in taking a second heat be reduced and weakened, whereas by simply returning it to the machine it may be upset to the proper size and strength.

4th. Persons wanting work done will go to the shop where this machine is in use, as there the best satisfaction can be given

☞ The Machine is warranted to upset a tire 2½ inches by ¼ inches.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

We, the undersigned, have tried one of Ayres' Tire Upsetting Machines, and find it to be very handy and useful, and fully as good as is represented above.

Carriage Makers—Tobias Fitzgerald, John Doharty, Wm. Metherall, James McWilliams, John Douglass, Minaker & Thayer, Wm. English, Flynn & Redmond, Patrick Galvin, Wm. Yelland.

Miscellaneous.

BEAUTIFUL INCIDENT.—A naval officer being at sea in a dreadful storm, his lady was sitting in the cabin near him, and filled with alarm for the safety of the vessel, was so surprised at his composure and serenity, that she cried out.

"My dear, are you not afraid? How is it possible you can be so calm in such a dreadful storm?"

He rose from his chair lashed to the deck and supporting himself by a pillar of the bed place, drew his sword and pointed it to the breast of his wife, exclaiming,

"Are you not afraid?"

She instantly answered, "No."

"Why?" said the officer.

"Because, rejoined the lady, "I know the sword is in the hands of my husband, and he loves me me to well to hurt me."

"Then," said he, "remember I know in whom I believe, and that He holds the winds in His fist, and the waters in the hollow of his hand."

It is not the will of God to give us more troubles than will bring us to live by faith simply on him; he loves us too well to give us a moment of uneasiness.

A TRUE STORY.—A little Irish girl, thirteen years of age, without father and mother, ignorant of even her alphabet, lately came to live with us. Knowing she had been receiving very good wages we asked her, rather reproachfully, why her wardrobe was so miserably poor and scanty—cleanly and in good order as it was—she having the bare necessity of clothing. 'Ma'am,' said she, and her bright, honest eyes, filled with tears, 'my mother did not always do right. She owed a woman eight dollars for board. My wages have been saved to pay that debt, for it was an honest one. Until I had paid it, I felt I had no right to buy a single article of clothing I could do without.' 'Is it all paid Mary?' 'Yes, and now I can spend the wages you pay me on myself.' Generous and brave girl, she has her patent of nobility from God, and it was ever from among the poor and lowly, Christ chose those who should bear his cross here, and reign with him hereafter.

L. S. D. & SCRUPLES OF CONSCIENCE.—A person who gave evidence before the Gloucester Election Commission said, Beaumont (an elector) was away, but his wife took him into a room, declaring that she would "tell him all about it." She then said, "You yellows are a shabby lot. Our principles are yellow, but you are too crabby about your money. If you had given us anything likely we would have voted for you." She said the "blues" had been, and counted down £36 on the table for her husband's vote. He said at first it was against his conscience; but she replied, "Never mind your conscience; put that into your pocket, and see whether you like that or your conscience best.

FASHIONABLE LADY DESCRIBED GEOMETRICALLY.—(Seen from behind.) Consul, base equal to seventeenths the axis—four voluted zones, equi-distant on the planes of the sides—A cone truncated one module from the theoretical apex, with a warped surface placed diagonally upon the parabola of truncation intersected by the quadrant of a sphere, and it again by irregular polygonal planes of half the diameter of the sphere, sloping downwards in the angle of the cosine of the longitude of the figure

A QUAINT REMARK.—It was told of an old Miss Johnstone, of Hawkhill, that, when dying, a tremendous storm of rain and thunder came on, so as to shake the house. In the same quaint, eccentric spirit, and with no thought of profane or light allusions, she locked up, and listening to the storm, quietly remarked, in reference to her departure, "Ech, Sirs, what a nicht for me to be fleeing thro' the air!"—Dean Ramsay's Reminiscences.

"Mary, do you remember the text this morning?" "No, papa, I never can remember the text, I've such a bad memory." "Mary," said her mother, "did you notice Sarah Brown?" "Oh, yes. What a fright! She had on her last year's bonnet, done up, a pea-green silk, a black lace mantilla, brown gaiters, an imitation Hamilton collar, a lava bracelet, her old ear-drops, and such a fan! —oh, my! oh, my!" "Well, my dear, your memory is improving."

"Your father," said a young Wykehamist to his companion, "has only sent two pounds, you say? Well, he must be a mighty stingy man." "I don't know about that; two pounds is not so bad." "Whenever my father sends he never thinks of offering me less than five." "Indeed! And how oftensloes he send?" "Ahem! It's a long time since."

BORING FOR WATER.—An enraged gentleman addressing from his chamber window a youth who had been serenading his daughter half-an-hour, said: "You are a great bore, and I think you mean to keep on boring until you get water," adding, "there it is," emptying a pitcherful upon his head.

A picture in a late number of Punch represents a fashionable young couple, the husband searching vigorously in his waistcoat pocket. The wife inquires, "Have you lost your watch, love?" and he replies: "No, dear, 'twas a new bonnet I had for you somewhere."

To resuscitate a drowned Englishman, place a piece of roast beef under his nose; an Irishman, a gill of poteen; a Frenchman a pinch of snuff; a Spaniard, some fresh blood; an old maid, an offer of marriage; a Yankee, attempt to pick his dockets.

The Charivari gives a sketch of a Zouave taking leave of his friends of the camp; he tells them that he is going home to get married; to which a classic replies, "Ah, you are tired of peace already, are you; and going to war on your own account?"

There is something rich in the American's reply to the European traveller, when he asked him if he had crossed the Alps? 'Well now you call my attention to the fact, I guess I did pass over some risin' ground.'

To an indigent person who was perpetually boasting of his ancestry, an industrious, successful tradesman, of humble origin, observed, 'You, my friend, are proud of your descent; I am proud of my ascent.'

"This snow storm the boys regard as a joke," said one to D. S., during the late storm. "Yes," repied the Doctor, "and it is a joke, that any one can see the drift of!"

Paddy, where's the whiskey I gave you to clean the windows with? 'Och, master I just drank it, and I thought if I breathed on the glass it would be all the same!'

DOGS AND PUPPIES.—Keep your dog away from me, said a dandy to a butcher boy. Confound the dog, he is always snarling at puppies said the boy.

Brown, the other day, while looking at the skeleton of a donkey, made a natural quotation! Ah,' said he, 'we are fearfully and wonderfully made!'

A New Discovery better than the MADOC GOLD.

Notice for a Cold—Relief in five Minutes

WHY do you suffer with a bad Cold when one bottle of Morris's Electric Invigorating Fluid will cure the worst cold in three days. It is far superior to any pain-killer or Liniment or Ready-relief. Try it once and you will not keep your house without it, for after all other remedies have failed it has cured hundreds of rheumatism, frost bites, chilblains, burns, scalds, bruises, sprains, pains in the bowels, fresh cuts, lame back, headache and all pains internal and external. Sold everywhere at 25 cents per bottle. Retail and wholesale only by E. MORRIS, Peterborough, C. W. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money refunded. Every one should have a bottle.

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed without assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

WITHOUT THE USE OF THE KNIFE.

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will cost less and is more speedily cured then when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small wart or sore on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. If required, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. AYER'S Sarsaparilla

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

And for the speedy cure of the following complaints: Scrofulous and Constitutional Blood Affections, such as Tumors, Ulcers, Sores, Scrofulous Humors, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Itch, Scaly Skin, Rose or Erysipelatous Eruptions, Mercurial Diseases, Dropsy, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses, Uterine Diseases, Kidney Complaints, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Rheumatism, Gout, Debility, and all Complaints arising from Impure Blood.

Dr. J. C. AYER & Co.—Gentlemen: Having labored a long time with a scrofulous humor, which finally settled in my hands and arms, sometimes it turned inward and tightened me at the stomach. Two years ago it broke out on my head and completely scalped me over with running sores, which time and the best medical skill could do nothing to cure. I tried many remedies and several physicians, but without much relief from any thing. In fact, the disease grew worse. At length I was recommended to send to the Vermont Mineralogist that you had prepared an alterative (Sarsaparilla). I did so from your representation that any thing you made must be good. I sent to Cincinnati and got it, and used it till it cured me. I took it, as you advise, in small doses of a teaspoonful over a month and used about three bottles. New and healthy skin soon began to form under the scab, which after a while fell off. My skin is now clear, and I know by my feelings that the disease has gone from my system. You can well believe that I feel what I am saying when I tell you, that I hold you to be one of the apostles of the age, and remain ever gratefully yours,

ALEX. D. B. KELLEY.

St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Dropsy.

Dr. Robert M. Preble writes from Salem, N. Y., 12th Sept., 1859, that he has cured an inveterate case of Dropsy, which threatened to terminate fatally, by the persevering use of our Sarsaparilla, and also a dangerous Mil yeast Boy sores by large doses of the same; says he cures the common Scrofula by it constantly.

Bronchocele, Goitre or Swelled Neck.

Reuben Sloan of Prospect, Texas, writes: "Three bottles of your Sarsaparilla cured me from a Goitre—a hideous swelling on the neck, which I had suffered from over two years."

Leucorrhœa or Whites, Ovarian Tumor, Uterine Ulceration, Female Diseases.

Dr. J. B. S Channing, of New York City, writes; "I most cheerfully comply with the request of your agent in saying I have found your Sarsaparilla a most excellent alterative in the numerous complaints for which we employ such a remedy, but especially in Female Diseases of the Scrofulous diathesis. I have cured many inveterate cases of Leucorrhœa by it, and some where the complaint was caused by ulceration of the uterus. The ulceration itself was soon cured. Nothing within my knowledge equals it for these female derangements."

Edward S. Marrow, of Newbury, Ohio, writes, "A daughter of mine was troubled with a running sore on her face, which had defied all the remedies we could employ, has at length been completely cured by your Extract of Sarsaparilla. Our physician thought nothing but extirpation could afford relief, but he abided the trial of your Sarsaparilla as the last resort before cutting, and it proved effectual. After taking one remedy eight weeks no symptom of the disease remains."

Syphilis and Mercurial Disease.

New Orleans, 27th August, 1859.

Dr. J. C. AYER: Sir, I cheerfully comply with the request of your agent, and report to you some of the effects I have realized with your Sarsaparilla.

I have used it, in my practice, most of the complaints for which it is recommended, and have found its effects truly wonderful in the cure of Venereal and Mercurial Disease. One of my patients had syphilitic ulcers in his throat, which were consuming his palate and the top of his mouth. Your Sarsaparilla, steadily taken, cured him in five weeks. Another was attacked by mercurial symptoms in his nose, and the ulceration had extended to a considerable portion of it, so that I believe the disorder would soon reach the brain and kill him. But it yielded to the administration of your Sarsaparilla; the ulcers healed, and he is well again, but of course without some considerable portion of his face. A woman who had been treated for a disease somewhat similar, was suffering from this poison in her bones. They had become so much affected that one of the shin bones of her leg also suffered exfoliation, prior to her going under my care. She, too, was cured entirely by your Sarsaparilla in a few weeks. I know from its effects, which we ourselves gave me, that this Preparation from your laboratory must be a great remedy, and I consider it a truly remarkable result with it have not anticipated me.

Fraternally yours, G. V. LABIMER, M. D.

Rheumatism, Gout, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Broken Constitutions, &c.

Dr. J. C. AYER: Sir, I have been afflicted with a painful disease, Rheumatism for a long time which baffled the skill of physicians and struck to me in spite of all the remedies I could find until I tried your Sarsaparilla. One bottle proved not in fact work it, and I am better than before I was attacked. I think it a wonderful medicine. J. ORAM.

Jules V. Gilchrist of St. Louis, writes: "I have been afflicted for years with an enlargement of the Liver, which destroyed my health. I tried every thing and every thing failed to relieve me, and I have been a broken down man for some years from no other cause than derangement of the Liver. My beloved pastor the Rev. Dr. Eppy, advised me to try your Sarsaparilla because he said he knew you, and was sure that you made no worthless preparations. To the blessing I then received from it I have to attribute my present health, and I am happy to say that I am now a man of me. I feel young again. The best that can be said of you is not half good enough."

Schirrus, Cancer Tumors, Enlargement, Ulceration, Caries and Exfoliation of the Bones.

A great variety of cases have been reported to us where cures of these formidable complaints have resulted from the use of this remedy. But our space here will not admit them. Some of these may be found in our American Almanac, which the agents below named are pleased to furnish gratis to all who call for them.

Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Melancholy, Neuralgia

Many wonderful cures of these affections have been made by the alterative power of this medicine. It stimulates the vital functions into vigorous action, and thus overcomes disease which would be supposed beyond its reach. Such a remedy has long been required by the necessities of the people, and we are confident that this will do for them all that medicine can do

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the Relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced Stages of the Disease.

This is a remedy so universally known to surpass any other for the cure of the dreadful lung complaints that it is useless here to publish the evidence of its virtues. Its unrivalled excellence for coughs and colds and its truly wonderful cures of pulmonary disease, have made it known throughout the civilized nations of the earth. Few are the communities, or even families, among them who have not some personal experience of its effects—some living trophy in their midst of its victory over the subtle and dangerous disorders of the throat and lungs. As all know the dreadful fatality of these disorders, and as they know, too, the effects of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them that it has now all the virtue that it did have when making those cures which have won so strongly upon the confidence of mankind.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

CONSUMPTION

BY THE

GREAT SHOSHONESS REMEDY

IN CANADA.

MESSRS. Y. & C.—Gentlemen:—I Wilson Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say,—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats, congh nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c.; and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not relieve me since my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Esq. Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve me cough." He said "There is the finest medicine in the dy just introduced; Dr. Parker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once which I felt through my whole system: at night I took a table spoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the lung, &c., gradually left me, and I am healthy and strong. I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as healthy and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was afflicted with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

THE PATH.

The pilgrim treads a checkered way,
Through earth to the eternal dawning,
Not all one night, or all one day,
But now a night, and now a morning.

The sun, the shade,—the rise, the fall,—
Grief has its ebbing and its flowing,
Joy has its sunny mountain height,
And peace is ever coming—going.

If tears are meat and drink to-day,
Or sorrow like a tempest rages,
To-morrow God the rough wind stays
And plants him on the Rock of Ages.

One long, sweet day of perfect joy,
Might keep the heart from heaven;
One long, dark night of weary grief,
Might crush the spirit, were it given.

And so the mingled light and shade,
The checkered path of night and morning;
Is traced by the All-loving hand
Through earth to the Eternal dawning.

Selections.

A Fashionable Church in New York.

We enter an edifice, upon the interior of which the upholsterer and the cabinet maker have exhausted the resources of their trades. The word 'subdued' describes the effect at which those artists have aimed The woods employed are costly and rich but usually of a sombre hue, and, though elaborately carved, are frequently unpolished. The light which comes through the stained windows, or through the small diamond panes, is of that description which Mr Verplanck, in an unfortunate moment, styled 'dim religious.' Every part of the floor is thickly carpeted. The pews differ little from sofas, except in being more comfortable, and the cushions for the feet or knees are as soft as hair and cloth can make them. It is a fashion, at present, to put the organ out of sight, and to have a clock so unobstructive as not to be observed.—Galleries are now viewed with an ordinarily eye by the projectors of churches, and they are going out of use. Everything in the way of conspicuous lighting apparatus, such as gorgeous and dazzling chandeliers of fifteen years ago, and the translucent globes of later date, is discharged, and an attempt is sometimes made to hide the vulgar fact that the church is ever open in the evening. In a word, the design of the fashionable church builders of the present moment is to produce a richly furnished, quietly adorned, dimly illuminated, ecclesiastical parlor, in which a few hundred ladies and gentlemen, attired in kindred taste, may sit perfectly at their ease, and see no object not in harmony with the scene around them.

It is Sunday morning, and the doors of the beautiful drawing room are thrown open, ladies dressed in subdued magnificence glide in, along with some who have not been able to leave at home the shower articles of their wardrobe. Black silk, black velvet black laces, relieved by imitations of brighter colors, and by gleams of half-hidden jewellery, are the materials most employed Gentlemen in uniform of black cloth and white linen, announce their coming by the creaking of their boots, quenched in the padded carpeting. It cannot be said of those churches, as Mr. Carlyle remarked of certain London ones, that a pistol could be fired into a wood worship across the church without much danger of hitting a Christian. The attendance is not generally very large; but as the audience is evidently distributed over the whole surface, it looks larger than it is.

The congregation is assembled. The low mumble of the organ ceases. A female voice rises melodiously above the rustle of dry-goods and the whispers of those who wear them. So sweet and powerful is it, that a stranger might almost suppose it borrowed from the choir of heaven; but the inhabitants of the town recognise it as one that they have often heard at concerts or at the opera; and they listen critically, as to a professional performance, which it is. It is well that highly artificial singing prevents the hearer from catching the words of the song; for it would have rather an odd effect to hear rendered, in the modern Italian style, such plain, straight-forward words as these:

"Can sinners hope for heaven,
Who love this world so well?
Or dream of future happiness
While on the road to hell?"

The performance, however, is so exquisite that we do not think of these things, but listen in rapture to the voice alone.—When the lady has finished her stanza, a noble baritone, also recognized as professional, takes up the strain, and performs a stanza solo, at the conclusion of which four voices, in enchanting accord, breathe out a third. It is evident that the 'first talent that money can command' has been 'engaged' for the entertainment of the congregation; and we are not surprised when the information is proudly conveyed that the music costs one hundred and twenty dollars per Sunday.

When this fine prelude is ended, the minister's part begins, and unless he is a man of extraordinary learning and talents, every one present is conscious of a kind of lapse in the tone of the occasion. Genius composed the music; the 'first talent' executed it; the performance has thrilled the soul, and exalted expectation; but the voice now heard may be ordinary, and the words uttered may be homely, and even common. No one unaccustomed to the place can help feeling a certain incongruity between the language heard and the scene witnessed. Everything we see is modern; the words we hear are ancient. The preacher speaks of 'humble believers,' and we look around and ask, where are they? Are these costly and elegant persons humble believers? Far be it from us to intimate that they are not; we are speaking only of their appearance, and its effect upon a casual beholder. The clergyman reads,

"Come, let us join in sweet accord," and straightway four bored performers execute a piece of difficult music, to an audience sitting passive. He discourses upon the pleasures of the world, as being at war with the interests of the soul; and, while a severe sentence to this effect is coming from the lips, down the aisle marches the sexton, showing some stranger to a seat, who is a professional member of the revels. He expresses, perchance, a fervent desire that the heathen may be converted to christianity, and no earthly emotion saying, 'does he mean this sort of thing?' When we pronounce the word christianity, it calls up recollections and associations that we do not exactly harmonize with the scene around us. We think rather of the fishermen of Palestine, the lonely missionary of the hunted fugitives of Italy and Scotland; we think it is something lowly, and suited to the lowly—a refuge for the forsaken and the defeated, not the luxury of the rich, and the ornament of the strong. It may be an infirmity of our mind; but we experience a certain difficulty in realizing that the sumptuous and costly apparatus around us has anything in common with what we have been accustomed to think of as Christianity

Extract from John Wesley's Journal.

WHAT MR. WESLEY DID WRITE.

Monday, Feb. 23, 1776.—I went on to Birmingham. I was surprised to hear that a good deal of Plating was used there—But, upon enquiry, I found it was not the true plat ina; an original metal, between Gold and Silver (being in weight nearer to gold, even as 18 to 19), but a mere compound of brass and spelter.

Monday March 26, 1787.—I spent an agreeable hour with the Select Society, at Birmingham. Most of them still enjoy the pure love of God, and the rest are earnestly panting after it.

Friday, Feb. 19, 1790.—Went on to Birmingham, which I think is thrice as large as when I saw it fifty years ago. The behavior of the rich and poor is such as does honor to their profession—so decent, so serious, so devout, from the beginning to the end.

WHAT MR. WESLEY WOULD WRITE NOW

August 20, 1866.—It is nearly eighty years since I was in Birmingham. The Society hath much increased. There are many preaching houses, some of them large The town, I think, is thrice as great as when I saw it seventy years ago. Alas! that it grows not in grace in the same measure.

August 22.—The state of our Society distresses me. The preachers call themselves Reverend, and lord it over God's heritage. The people have become worldly. You cannot now tell a Methodist from one of the unconverted, neither by dress nor by soberness of manner. Nor are the poor regarded. I went to the preaching house in Cherry Street, where I met the Society a hundred years ago. It is larger and finer, and there was a fine congregation. Silks, laces, and feathers abounding. The simplicity of our earlier brethren wholly gone. I asked for a seat. Being unknown and seemingly poor, they thrust me into a dark corner, where it was hard to hear and see. But it was as well; that I could hear and see gave me no comfort. Still it was painful to have to make this entry in my Journal: "The Methodists have forgotten the founder of their Society."

September 10.—Come back to Birmingham meaning to call upon the senior preacher, and desire him to bring the Society together to meet me. Going through the principal street which is new since I visited the town, crowds of people were entering a fine large building, some of them were those I had seen at the meeting house in Cherry street. Concluding, from this, that it was a religious service, I would have entered with them; but one at the door put forth his hand, asking me for a shilling.—Then followed a little talk:

J. W.—Do you charge for entrance to the worship of God?

THE MAN—Nay; but this is not worship.

J. W.—Those were Methodists whom I saw go in.

THE MAN—True; but nevertheless this is not worship. It is a Bazaar.

J. W.—What is a Bazaar!

THE MAN.—A fancy fair, where young maidens offer goods for sale; and young men, enticed by the smiles of the maidens, come and buy them.

J. W.—The maidens or the goods?

THE MAN.—Both!

J. W.—Do the maidens take the money for a marriage portion?

THE MAN.—(Smiling gently.)—No, the money is to build a Chapel.

J. W.—A Methodist Chapel?

THE MAN—Yes, a Wesleyan Methodist.

J. W.—Do you know who I am?

THE MAN.—A stranger; or you would not be surprised at a Wesleyan Bazaar.

J. W.—I am John Wesley!

THE MAN.—Ah! that quite accounts for your wants of acquaintance with the manners and customes of the Wesleyan Methodists.

He again put forth his hand for the shilling, which I gave him, and went in. It was a spacious well-proportioned room—the Town Hall, I learned—filled with gay and worldly company. In a gallery was a company of musicians, dressed like soldiers, playing secular music. Around the walls were counters, behind which stood women—some of them quite middle aged, others young—these were tempting the spectators to buy their wares; tempting them with worldly blandishments, ogling, alluring entreaties Other women roved about the place, assailing whomsoever they met, and forcing upon them articles which appeared to be worthless, at a cost which I set down as exorbitant. Others, again, conducted a lottery, in which prizes were distributed to those who gained the highest numbers.—And all this dissipation was sanctioned by the presence and encouragement of persons who seemed to be preachers of the Gospel!

I groaned in spirit. Was this the enjoyment of the pure love of God, as recorded in my journals nearly eighty years ago? Were these giddy trifles passing after holiness? Was this the decent, serious, and fervent behavior which characterized the Birmingham Methodists seventy years ago?

A sober looking man fell in to talk with me. Are these people really Methodists? I inquired of him. He answered, yes—truly. Methodists. "And" I asked "have they made this a matter of prayer?" He left me; saying something as he went about "the spread of modern ideas!"—Truly, the fitly entry in my journal was right. The Methodists of Birmingham profess to have the fine gold of religion; and this not the true Platina, but a mere compound of brass and spelter; brass predominating. Sounding brass and tinkling cymbals. So I shook off the dust from my feet and left them!—From the Birmingham Town Crier.

THANKFULNESS.

A little girl did not want to pray when she retired to rest. I do not like to tell you her true name, so I will call her Helen.

'Have you nothing to thank God for?' asked her mother.

'No,' said Helen, 'you and papa give me everything.'

'Not for your pleasant house?' asked mother.

'It is my papa's house; he lets me live in it.'

'Where did the wood and stone come from to build it?' asked her mother.

'From trees and quarries,' answered Helen, 'and they were found in the earth and grew in big forests.'

'Who made the stone in the quarries,' asked her mother, 'and who planted the big forests? Who gave rain to water them? who gave the sun to warm them? who did not allow the winter to kill them, or the lightning to blast them? Who kept them growing from little trees to trees big enough to build houses with? Not papa, not man;—it was God.'

Helen looked her mother in the eye, and then said, 'Papa bought nails to put in the wood.'

'What are nails made of?' asked mother.

'Iron,' answered Helen, 'and men dig iron out of the ground.'

'Who put iron in the ground, and kept it there safe till the men wanted it?' asked mother. 'It was God.'

'We got this carpet from carpet men,' said Helen, drawing her small fat foot across it.

'Where did the carpet men get the wool to make it from?' asked mother.

'From farmers,' answered Helen.

'And where did the farmers get it?'

'From sheep and lambs' backs,' said the little girl.

'And clothed the lambs in dresses good enough for us? for your dress, I see, is made of lambs' wool. The belt thing we can get in their cast-off dresses. Where did the lambs get such good stuff?'

'God gave it to them I suppose,' said the little girl.

'It is you that gives me bread, mamma,' said she quickly.

'But,' said her mother, 'the flour we got from the shop, and the shopman bought it from the miller, and the miller took the wheat from the farmer, and the farmer had it from the ground, and the ground grew it all itself.'

'No,' cried Helen, emphatically, 'God grew it. The sun, and the rain, and the wind, and the air are his, and he sent them to the cornfield. The earth is his too. And so God does everything; doesn't he, mamma?'

'Yes,' said mother; 'God is the origin of every good and perfect gift which we enjoy.'

The little girl looked serious. She looked thinking. 'Then, mamma,' she said at last, 'I can't make a prayer long enough to thank God for everything.'

'And have you nothing to ask his forgiveness for?' asked the little girl's mother.

'Yes,' she said in a low tone, 'for not feeling grateful and trying to put him out of my thoughts.' The child fell on her knees, and never after that did she refuse to pray. She became indeed a child of prayer, for she tried to find God in everything, and she who finds God in everything will find a plenty to thank him for.

THE SOCIAL EVIL.

The influence of pure-minded women is almost boundless Let them exercise a little thought in this matter, let them be guided by common sense, let them give no occasion them-selves, and let them, with that majesty which feminine virtue possesses, indignantly frown down, even by social ostracism, others who give occasion to men to be less pure-minded and pure-lived than they ought to be. A great responsibility rests on married women, especially mothers. They know what their thoughtless daughters, in their innocence, do not know; and they should see to it that their daughters are modest in dress as well as in action.

It is not to be denied that early marriage is a great safeguard to both men and women. But how, especially in that "good society" which, from the ease and luxury abounding in it, produces simultaneously to vice on the part of men, is it possible for men to marry early? Extravagance and love of display, a desire on the part of both young men and young women starting in life to maintain the same state their parents live in, the costliness of female attire in the present day, etc.,—all operate as so many insuperable hindrances to early marriage; and for the men at any rate, the natural results follow. They too often gratify themselves illicitly, and society suffers proportionably; especially as, while a fallen woman is ostracized promptly, the fast men are rather popular than otherwise. If they were ostracized in like manner, as they ought to be, the evil would be greatly checked. One of the chief glories of Victoria's reign is that the English court has been rendered comparatively pure. This is due exclusively to her personal influence. All Christian women can exercise a like influence within a smaller sphere; and the cumulative influence of Christian women in society would produce greater because more general results.—New York Nation.

Artemus Ward and Mr. Howe.

The following letter by the late 'Artemus Ward' relative to Mr. Howe and Confederation, is, we think, one of the best of his 'unfortunate' productions. Besides the eccentricity of the orthography, there is a current of deep sarcastic humour prevading it that is quite irresistible:—

'In do time I arrove in London, and proceeded 4th with to that truly great show of deceased wild beests of Prey, the Menagerie. * * * Bimeby, I shant I saw in the distance an old friend, who hastily run to my show in the States. 'You,' sez I, 'those unsely form, those vores, those reverrible bed of hare, 'tis he—'tis Josef How.' He was gazin admirely at a figger called the Chameleon, a critter that frekently changes its colors accordin to circumstances. He didn't see me till I slapt him on the back and sed 'how air you old hoss.' He held out his hand and sed, 'I'm glad to see you Mr. Ward on British sile, how's Mrs. Ward and the orfspring.' I sed they ware well. 'How's things at Halifack's,' he sed, 'I see by the papers that you called there.' Sez I, 'I should like to discurse with you a few chapters on that topick.' Puttin my arm in his'n we sot down under the shadder of the allegayter for some tawk. Sez I, 'Mr. Howe I feel you air goin kerslap in literatoor and general paytritism. How d'ye find it answer as fur as ye've got?' 'Middlin,' sed he, 'sum times rayther mixed.—Publick men is unchily abused, an I believe.'

'Well,' sez I, 'I see them edditers air down onto hard on you about turnin tales on Confederashun.' 'It's almost a pity Mr. How you should have bin so strong on the other side. 'Well,' sed he, 'how wood you like if after grandm the organ outside and hollerin yer-self hoarse invitin people in, some ornery chap should shuv you onto 1 side, take the money at the door and commense showin off yer figgers and beast of Pray? ADVICE TO A BAIDE.—I beg to remind my new daughter that the husband has a thousand elements of disturbance in his daily avocation to which the wife is an utter stranger; and it will be her privilige and her title to the respect of all whose respect is worth having, to make his own fireside the most attractive place in the universe for the calm, repose of a wearied body or excited mind. The minor comforts, which are the most valuable, because the most constantly in requisition, will depend more upon her looks, her manner and the evidences of her forethought, than upon all the other occurences of life.—William Wirt.

WORTH REMEMBERING.—If you want to keep poor, buy two glasses of ale every day at five cents each, amounting in one year to $36 50; smoke three cigars, one after each meal, coasting up in the course of a year $54 75; keep a big dog which will consume in a year at least $12 worth of provisions; altogether the amounts to the snug sum of $106 75—sufficient to buy two barrels of flour, two tons of coal, a barrel of sugar, and a sack of coffee, besides a frock for the baby, and half a dozen pairs of shoes—more or less. Just think of it.

GOLD MINING INTELLIGENCE.

In bestowing the name of Eldorado upon the village which he laid out upon his farm, Mr. Mann appears to have been, unconsciously, a prophet for it turns out to be a veritable golden ground. The rumor that gold had actually been discovered in the centre of the village, which reached Madoc on Monday, created quite as much excitement as the news did that gold had been found in paying quantities at the Richardson Mine.—There was, of course, a certain amount of incredulity which attaches to a report which is felt to be "too good to be true," besides which, Monday was the "first of April," on which occasion it is quite legitimate, according to custom, to make any manner of "fools," by tales, no matter how much fool, provided they are not altogether impossible. We confess also, to sharing in the incredulity, for another reason, namely, that while passing through Eldorado recently, and hurrying to overtake some one already, we noticed two men at work almost on the very spot also e the new discovery has been made, one of whom called out that he had just found, and held up something a small shinny from the ground. We considered it at the moment as an attempted "fetch upon travellers," in which opinion we were confirmed by hearing no more about it at that time. Now, however, we are inclined to think that there is something in it, as we first felt with regard to the reality of the discovery by gentlemen who can be relied upon. We have been furnished with some particulars about it by Mr. John H Moore, whose word is sufficient guarantee with all who know him. It appears that while Mr. Jas. Acker, a carpenter, was digging a hole for the corner post of a house now being erected on lot No. 7, in the village of Eldorado, he handed out some of the earth to Mr. Moore, the owner of the lot, who washed it, but on a cursory examination did not find any signs of gold, and was going to throw the dirt away. He, however, said it occurred to him it was afterwards further washed by Mrs. Moore, who, on examining the residue with a magnifying glass, found some particles of gold. Mr. Moore informs us that he himself counted nearly forty specks of the precious metal in a small quantity of the washed earth spread out roughly on a shingle. This discovery, of course, created great excitement in the village and neighborhood, and, on the following day, Tuesday, Messrs A. Moore and Acker obtained the assistance of a California miner to prospect further, and together they found gold again in four different places.—From three pans of earth on Mr. Acker's lot they obtained eighteen particles of gold, one of them large enough to be estimated to be worth fifteen cents. As there will naturally be some doubts of the authenticity of this discovery, we may further state that Mr. J. N. Moore says that a dozen responsible persons are willing to make an affidavit that the gold was really found in the manner and in the locality above mentioned. The importance of this discovery can be easily understood, if not precisely estimated, as tending to show that gold may not only be found in the rocky hills but in the low lands of this locality as well. The disappearance of the snow will doubtless very soon lead to a good deal of prospecting in similar places. Since the above was written, Mr. John N. Moore has sent us word that he has found gold by the edge of a swale at the foot of a large hill, on the east half of 15 in the 6th concession of Madoc. He obtained about thirty "shows" of leaf gold.—Madoc Mercury.

The rush to the gold regions still continues. Every day during this week the stages from Belleville to Madoc have been crowded with passengers, and many, unable to obtain stage accommodation, strap their packs to their backs and tramp it through. On Wednesday not less than one hundred strangers arrived in Madoc Village, a large number of whom started at once for Eldorado, which is now the principal point of attraction. Our correspondent in another column speaks pretty positively of gold having been found in the creek and soil in the vicinity of the Richardson mine, and from what we have learned from different persons—whose statements we consider reliable—there seems scarcely any doubt that gold has been found in the soil at Eldorado and at Cook's place, and found in quantities which promise exceedingly well.

Major R. M. Norman, of Millbridge, in Tudor, has forwarded us a fine piece of gold in quartz, and also a specimen of the rock from whic it was taken. It came from lot number 10 in the 7th Concession of Tudor.

We are also informed by the proprietor, Mr. John Kehoe, that gold has been found on lot number 1 in the 3rd Concession of Elzivir, within eighteen inches of the surface.

Very little has been doing for some time past in the mines which have been opened, in consequence of the large quantity of surface water flowing into them. It will probably be two or three weeks before blasting will be resumed.

We understand that the Hon. Billa Flint intends commencing operations at his mines in the vicinity of Ridgewater within a week or two.—Intelligencer.

The Intercolonial Railway.

In the House of Commons, on March 28, in Committee of the Whole, Mr. Adderly moved the following resolution:—"That the Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury be authorized to guarantee interest at a rate not exceeding 4 per cent per annum on any sum not exceeding £3,000,000 sterling, to be raised by loans by the Government of Canada for the construction of a railway between Quebec and Halifax." Personally, he was not at all in favor of guaranteeing loans to the colonies, and he hoped that this would be the last of them. There were, however, special circumstances connected with this undertaking which had been talked about for many years, and many proposals had at different times been made with respect to it, but it had now become an essential condition in the Confederation of the British American Provinces. There was not the slightest chance of any demand being made upon this country, which, however, would be largely benefitted by the facilities that it would afford for the conveyance of troops and the defence of the Colonies, with which the communication would be kept open during all the year, thus allowing a considerable reduction in the force now maintained in North America. He showed that the revenue of the Colonies was amply sufficient to maintain the charge, and they only desired the guarantee to enable them to raise the money on more favorable terms for an undertaking which was to a great extent an Imperial concern, and absolutely essential for the future progress and development of the Colonies.

Mr. Aytoun opposed the resolution, protesting against any burden being thrown upon the taxpayers of this country for such a purpose.—He complained that no information or estimates of the cost of the proposed railway had been given, and contended that the money would be wasted for the defence of Canada, which, if attacked by the United States, was in his opinion indefensible.

Mr. T. Cave also opposed the resolution, contending that the loan would be a gigantic case of fraud—worse than any that had taken place in connection with American railways.

Mr. Gladstone would not dispute the experience of the honorable members. This case was, however, very different. The line would be construc ed by the responsible Government of the Colonies, and they must place some reliance in free government. The guarantee would not depend on the commercial success of the line, but on the credit and revenue of the colonial Governments. He supported the resolution, pointing out that no liability was likely to be thrown on this country, that the railway would be a valuable means of defence, and an important part of the great work of Confederation, for which the present Government was much responsible as the present Government. It would not only develop the material resources of the colonies, but also their sense of self-responsibility, and rescue the country from the false position in which it was placed by the present system of colonial defence. He pointed out the loyalty of the British Americans. The only source of danger to them arose from their connection with England, and he expressed a hope that the House would deal with them in a spirit of equity and liberality.

Mr. Lowe strongly opposed the resolution—He contended that, as a means of defence, the railway would be useless. In the event of a war, the Americans would at once seize it, and in that case it would be a source of great danger. The people in the North American Colonies were man for man better off than the people of England, and he protested against the poorer being asked to assist the richer, and objected to the assumption of any responsibility on behalf of the defence of Canada against the United States. The idea of doing so successfully was chimerical, and the Americans would naturally believe that we were setting up a rival and a competitor against them.

After some remarks from Mr. Watkin in favour of the motion, the Committee divided. For the resolution, 247; against, 87; majority for, 160. The resolution was then agreed to, and ordered to be read to the House.

A member of a fashionable church in New York electrified a music seller some time since by inquiring for "Solomon's Song," saying his minister had spoken of it as a production of great merit, and that he wanted his daughter to sing it.

BURLEIGH.

This is a subject to which we have drawn the attention of our readers heretofore. We also thought that the County Council at its last session would have taken the matter up and try to bring it before the government—The facts are these: One Birdsall made an original survey of Burleigh. The posts and marks got defaced, so that the lots could not be traced. In 1863 or 64, persons professing to be proprietors of lands in Burleigh petitioned to have the Township resurveyed; and, at the request of the County Council, a resurvey was ordered. Mr. Fitzgerald, P. L. S., resurveyed the whole Township according to instructions and a tracing furnished him by the Crown Lands Department.—These instructions directed that north of 15, of the original survey, he surveyed on a different plan than the original, so that now the lines of the north part are perpendicular to the lines of the south part.

In the case of Scott and Harvey vs Peterborough, against a resurvey of Harvey, the court held that the resurvey of Harvey was illegal; and, in consequence, no charges could be levied in lieu of such resurvey, the government having no power to order a resurvey of a whole township; and, now, in the case of Burleigh, Judge Wilson has ruled, and no lawyer dissented from it, that the resurvey of Burleigh is also illegal; moreover, Judge Wilson rules that the government cannot order the resurvey, of even a part of a township, on a plan different from the original survey. They may order the re-survey of any part according to the original plan, but not on a different plan.

This is just what we asserted after the Harvey case, but we were told then that Mr. Fitzgerald's survey was right; Judge Wilson now says Mr. Fitzgerald's survey is illegal, and could not be ordered even by the Crown Land's Department, it being contrary to law.

The effect of this foolish re-survey is to make a settler be on two or three lots instead of one as he imagined he was, for the lots really run parallel to the concession lines of the original survey, instead of being perpendicular thereto as they ought to be.

There is now no course open for the people of Burleigh but to petition the government to pass an act to establish Mr. Fitzgerald's survey, and as we said before, the sooner this is done the better; and the government will see the necessity of doing so at once. They must make their own illegal acts right. Until this is done there is no knowing on whose lot the settler is, for while he buys by Mr. Fitzgerald's survey, Birdsall's survey is the only legal one. We do not attach any blame to Mr. Fitzgerald; we believe he acted according to his instruction. The whole is now wrong, however, and the Township and County Councils ought to unite to get the affair put to rights.

Political.

There is nothing very new on this subject. Mr. Perry, Mr. Carnegie and others are said to be coming out in the West Riding, and an endless number are spoken of for the East. All spoken of will not run. We trust that the electors will choose honest men and induce them to come out. Office seekers are not the right men, or any who would fear would have personal or class interests in view. There is time to select, and we trust it will be wisely done.

Justice Wilson, who presided at the present assizes is the Judge who presided during the trial of the Fenians in Toronto. He exhibits a decision of character rarely shown by any of the Judges, confines the Lawyers to the matter in dispute, gives his rulings unhesitatingly, and allows no Lawyers to object if they wish to do so. He shows a clear judgement, terse in his language, and whatever faults he may possess he is not slow in pushing through the business. His address to the Jurors, too, will be admitted by all to be pointed and fair. He is a great improvement on the one who presided at the previous assizes.

France and Prussia.—There was some fear of a misunderstanding between these two countries, but although both are arming quietly, it is hoped that peace will prevail. Luxemburgh, the place in dispute, is to be declared neutral territory.

Mr. Tilley is reported to have said that the elections will not take place till August; that would be harvest time, and would certainly not be a proper time. June is the best part of the summer for them.

We kept back this issue a few hours in order to be able to give as full a report as possible of the court now sitting.

SPRING ASSIZES.

The Spring Assizes opened here on Tuesday, before the Hon. Mr. Justice Johnson.

We regret that we did not hear the address to the jury, but we have been informed that it was very concise and appropriate.

The first case was that of McGregor vs. Calcutt. This was an action to right to a portion of land claimed by Mr. McGregor as part of a lot purchased by him from the Rev. Mr. Burnham, but on which Mr. Calcutt had erected a building, imagining also that he had bought that portion of ground. The ground in dispute is of no value almost, the only thing being to establish to whom it belonged. The jury had to be dismissed for the night, and on Wednesday gave the verdict for plf., McGregor, and $1.00 damages. Smith for plf., Weller and Cameron for deft.

The next case was that of Patterson vs. Larmour. The plf., Patterson, had leased a portion of the church lot, on which he erected a building; but, it would appear, afterwards left it vacant. Mr. Larmour obtained possession of the building and improved and also payed Mr. Beck, the Rector, the ground rent for several years.

Patterson now returns and claims the property by right of his lease. The Court held that the lease was valid and directed a verdict to be given for the plf., Patterson.—Weller for plf., Smith for deft.

The next case was Burleigh vs. Hales.—This was a case brought to recover damages for timber cut on the allowance of a road in the Township of Burleigh, Anstruther, &c., especially in Burleigh, by the defendant Hales who had been lumbering for A. H. Campbell & Co.

Our readers will remember that this Municipality was re-surveyed about the year 1864 by Mr. Fitzgerald of this Town. He, of course, acted according to instruction and traced the south part of Burleigh according to original survey and plan—the north part he surveyed on a different plan from the original. The counsel for the defendants set forth that the Municipality had no property in road allowance, it being vested in the Crown, except to preserve or sell the trees on such roads, and even to enable them to do so, must pass a By-law for the purpose. They also put in the plea that inasmuch as the re-survey of the Township of Burleigh was made on a plan different from the original survey, they could not tell where the road allowance was, for the original survey was the only legal one, and referred to the case of Scott and Harvey vs. Peterborough, where the courts had decided that the Crown could not order a re-survey of the whole of a Township, having no power to do so.—Considerable argument was produced to establish the different views, but the Judge ruled "that inasmuch as the government had made an original survey and had adopted it by granting patents for lots described by such survey, they had no power to change the plan of that original survey, and hence the re-survey is illegal as far as relates to the northern division of Burleigh." There were, however, trees cut in the south of Burleigh by the same parties, and on this the plfs received a verdict and $3 damages for 14 trees proved to be cut on the lines in the south part. There were several other cases of trespass for cutting timber, but they being also in some way connected with the same parties, the plfs. took a non-suit in reference to the north part of Burleigh. Dumble, Smith and Patterson for plfs., Weller, H Cameron, and Galt for defts.

WEDNESDAY.

Molson vrs. Bradburn.—This case was brought by Molson of Montreal, through Mr. Cluxton, his agent, to recover damages for the non-delivery of 1000 bushels of wheat agreed to be delivered by Mr. Bradburn, but which the plaintiff declare was not. The counsel for defendent set up that there was a second agreement in writing, this writting could not be produced and in consequence, there was a non-suit.

The grand jury found a true bill in the case of Edmund Harvey, who has been in jail some time for the murder of Mansfield, back in Galway. The prisoner being placed in the dock the counsel put in affidavits of his inability to procure certain material witnesses, and in consequence the prisoner was taken back to his cell to remain till the fall assizes. If he is innocent it is a pity to have him return to the jail for so long a period; if guilty, it is adding to his punishment, but it will afford him time for serious reflection.

Hopkins vs. The Provincial Assurance Company.—This was a case brought to recover the amount of a policy of insurance on a store owned by Hopkins, but occupied by Denis Brennan and others when consumed. The case turned on this point: the answer to question—"State whether owner, lessee or mortgagee?" The answer given was "owner." Mr. Hopkins, however, was only lessee, as he paid ground rent to Mrs. Dixon, but he was really owner of the building; but, being lessee of the ground, the Judge directed a verdict for the Company.

This is really unjust, although law. The Company takes the premium for several years, and when asked to pay for the loss when burned, hides behind the subterfuge that a wrong answer had been given, although the Court admitted that he thought that the agent, Walton, made the entry and knew all about the affair. And the Judge justly remarked that the whole system was wrong, as the system of paying a commission on premiums was an inducement to agents to make false statements, in order to get their commission; and, afterward, the matter caused trouble to all concerned. This Company, however, has been several times in Court here—a fact that does not speak well for its willingness to pay its losses, although it willingly receives premiums.

THURSDAY.

Campbell vs. Peter, or really Bustin & Co. vs. Tanner.—This was an action brought to recover about $800 for goods sold by Mr. Tanner but which he obtained under a chattel mortgage from John S. Peter. The plaintiff set forth that such mortgage was taken while Mr. Tanner knew that Peter was insolvent at the time. The defendant submitted that there was no case inasmuch as it was not shown that the debts were refused or neglected to be paid, and that Tanner did not know at the time that Peter was insolvent. Verdict for plfs.

Miller vs. Mell or Lynch.—Verdict for plaintiff.

PRESENTMENT.

The Grand Jury of our Lady the Queen present,—That they have inspected the jail and yards attached thereto, and find them in excellent order so far as cleanliness and comfort is concerned. The jail has been recently painted and it appears that every attention is taken in its management. It speaks well for the safe keeping of the prisoners, but for their health and classification, much more indeed has been had for their health and comfort, and with no work of any consequence for them to do, that we appears to be—to some of them at least—more of a pleasure than a punishment, to be confined therein; consequently, the ends of justice are to a certain extent defeated, and the penalty inflicted on the honest and industrious inhabitants of the County, who are mainly for their support. In order to remove this evil, it is the opinion of the Grand Jury that some work, should be provided for them to do, if for no other purpose than to keep them employed, believing that it would have a salutary effect on some of them, and have a tendency to lessen crime, knowing that there are many of those characters on whom the greater punishment could be inflicted, while in jail, than to make them work.

The Grand Jurors further present that there are two females of unsound mind confined in the Gaol at present, and have been there for some time past. One of them, the Gaol Surgeon says, is almost, if not quite, so that said theasure incurable and should, therefore, be sent to some asylum provided for that class of people. The other he thinks could be cured if she could be placed in an asylum where her case would get that care and attention that it requires. The Sheriff says that he has written a number of times to see if he could get them into either of the asylums in the province, but the answer has been invariably, no room. This, it appears, is not as it should be, but that sufficient accommodation should be provided for these unfortunate individuals within the province, wherein they could be kept with the view of curing them if possible, as such can hardly be effected in the common Jail. Trusting that the proper authorities will take these matters into their serious consideration, with the view of dealing with them as they may deem the nature and importance required.

E. INGRAM,
Foreman.

Peterboro', April 18th, 1867.

The Judge in relieving the Jury, remarked that he was pleased to learn the state of the jail. It was just what he expected, knowing that the jail was built on modern improvement. In reference to work for the prisoners, he wondered that something had not been done to provide work for them, for it would be better to make them turn a grinding-stone even though it did not pay. But he thought that the County might keep them breaking stones, even if the work cost full value, as it would improve the roads very soon. And to the end that something may be done he would direct that a copy be placed in the hands of the Warden. In reference to the asylum, he would have the matter brought before the Government. He was pleased to find so little crime in the County. The great weight of crime did not belong to the County in which it was tried. Very little crime belongs to the rural districts, as crime is perpetrated by persons who ensually belong to the district. The rural districts had, therefore, very little crime of their own, but they had to pay for its punishment; the price they paid for the immunity from crime.

A Melancholy Death.

A poor man named McGee who lives in the neighborhood of where Mansfield was killed, back of Bolgaygeon, left home on Monday to be present as a witness on the trial of Harvey who is now in Jail. Being poor he and his wife were forced to walk the whole way. On Tuesday she got a severe wetting and afterwards was taken up and brought a few miles in a waggon. After walking it appears that in the waggon she took unwell, and had to be taken into a house on the way, where she remained till Wednesday morning when she died. She leaves seven children to mourn their loss. The husband appeared quite distracted.—When a poor woman is brought to court a conveyance should be allowed. It is hard to force a delicate woman 40 miles from her home, and then because she is unable to procure a conveyance be compelled to walk the whole way in such weather as was on Tuesday.

The Crops.

The fall wheat never looked better in this part. There is very little killed, and during the last two days of fine growing weather some fields are quite green.

A Novel Address.—The Ladies of Colborne have addressed the ratepayers of the Village on the propriety of giving a willing vote to sanction a By-law for the levying of money to erect a drill shed in the village. It bears the signatures of 148 ladies. The Council of Colborne should lay the original safely away. It is an unanswerable argument for the loyalty of Canadians. When the mothers and daughters of Canada are petitioning for drill sheds for the Volunteers, could the fathers and sons be anything but loyal. The ladies of Colborne deserve the greatest praise; and the young ladies should not be forgotten by the brave Volunteers!

Beef.—Mr. James Davidson, first concession of Smith, brought into Market a fine animal, on Tuesday last. Mr. C. Boyd was the purchaser, at $85. Mr. Boyd will, in consequence, be able to supply his customers with some excellent Easter Beef. We see from the advertisements of Mr. Webber and Mr. Hopkins, that they are also providing some excellent Easter Beef. Some excellent meat, therefore, may be obtained at the stalls of those caterers for the public appetite.

The Grand Trunk Robberies at Port Hope.—Some of the parties engaged in the robberies have been sentenced to penitentiary for several years. Allen, who was tried for rape, was also found guilty and sentenced to be hung, but will, no doubt, go to penitentiary instead. Allen was also found guilty of being a party in the robberies. Croker, who received the goods, goes down for 5 years.

A valuable horse, belonging to Mr. M. Boyd, Bobcaygeon, was drowned on Friday last, whilst crossing the foe to the Shaw River Mills; the man that accompanied the horse had a very narrow escape, as he broke through several times trying to save the horse.

The health of the Princess Alexandra is said to be improving; for a time it was considered dangerous, but it is now hoped that danger is past.

A commission of Portuguese Generals is at this moment engaged in the examination of the defensive works of Lisbon, with the object of forming a complete plan of fortifications for that city.

Lord Ernest Vane Tempest, who served in the Confederate cavalry, is said to be engaged in writing a history of the American war.

RITUALISM.

(From the New Brunswick Church Witness.)

An extract taken from "Mackenzie's Guide to the Churches of London and its Suburbs," which appears in the Encyclopedias of the dead language, [illegible] information which is worthy of [illegible] by our laymen in the Colonies. It appears from this extract that the symptoms of the Ritualistic disease are that Indirection in some of the churches instituted in an area of twelve miles around the General Post-office:—

Now, looking at this statement, the point that claims attention is, that these several inscriptions, widely as they differ from each other, and harmless or even praise-worthy, as in some instances they may seem to be, are all and singular part and parcel of one compact system, carefully planned and agreed upon, many years since, by the Romanizing party in Oxford, with a view to undermine and change the character of our truly Protestant Church.—They were not to be introduced all at once.—That would have startled the slumbering Laity. But they were to be carefully distributed and gradually introduced in the Mother Church and in the Colonies, here a little and there a little, so as to familiarize the minds of the Laity to them by degrees, but, with ultimate design, when the proper time came, of introducing them all.

The Russian Treaty.

The agony is over—the Senate has ratified the treaty for the purchase of Russian America. Our neighbors have been greatly excited over this matter. Anxious on the one hand to cause a sensation or do something which would have the appearance of "hemming in British America," and on the other to escape a bargain in which the Muscovite had a decided advantage, they have, during the past fortnight, been alternately hotel soly between deep grumbling and [illegible] paregoric. The treaty being ratified, their perplexity should now be great.

One despatch states that only two senators were opposed to the course while another says there were seven. The point is immaterial, however. All that now remains to be done is to get the House of Representatives to vote the $7,000,000. To us the cession of Russian America to the United States is a matter of perfect indifference, and practically will remain so for ever. If our neighbors are satisfied, no one can possibly have reason to complain, for the frozen region can never be utilized—it will stand at all—to the detriment of our country. But we now much doubt whether, on reflection, they do not think they have paid too dearly for their sensation.—Globe.

Education in England.—The London Spectator tells the following:—"The other day an excellent clergyman had all his farmers to dinner, wishing to ascertain their views on the education of agricultural laborers. Many of the farmers were much above the average British farmer, men of some feeling and even education. The clergyman asked them, "Well, now, ought the children of your laborers to go to school; and, if so, what do you think they ought to learn?" The farmers all thought the children ought to go to school; they "saw no harm in that." "Should they learn reading?" "Yes, reading, but not more than is necessary to read their Bible"—thus much in complete ear to the clergyman, "not more," in order that the school might be cheap, and not bear heavily on the parents. "Well—and writing?" "Oh! well, yes, just enough writing to sign their names," (not enough to open any other field of labor to them.) "Well—and arithmetic?" Emphatically "No!" from all the farmers, "No use at all in arithmetic." Arithmetic might throw an unpleasant light on the rate of wages, and, besides, it is a wonderful sharpener of childish faculties."

Prussian Anticipations of War.—The Prussian army anticipate a war with France, and rely—too confidently perhaps—on an easy victory. Great war preparations are being made at Mayence, the fortification of which are being extended and repaired, while the arsenal is being filled with stores.—Loans of needle guns and ammunition are being made to the troops at Baden. In France I can detect no corresponding activity. It is true that the manufacture of the Chassepot rifle and its cartridge is being carried on on a formidable scale, but it will be several months before 200,000 men can be armed with them and trained to their use. On the other hand, it must be kept in mind that the French army is of an essentially "mobile" character, and that by means of the railways which connect Lille, Paris, Lyons, Metz, Nancy, and Strasburg, it would be easy for France to concentrate—say in this very Duchy of Luxemburgh or in the valley of the Nahe (the river which runs into the Rhine at Bingen)—a force so overwhelming as to neutralize the superior armament of the Prussians. In the present state of public opinion we must also take notice that such a move would be far from unpopular. But, in spite of all this, I must again record my deliberate opinion that the Emperor does not mean to go to war—as yet, and that if war does take place Belgium is more likely to be the "objective" than the frontier of the Rhine.—Paris (March 25) Correspondence of the London Herald.

Montreal, April 6.—Colonel Browne was to-day acquitted and discharged. The defence set up several pretensions, but the ground of acquittal seemed to be that there was no felonious intent, that he merely drew on account at the bank intending to replace the money by remittances expected from England which he was in the habit of receiving.

The discharge of Lieut.-Col. Browne by a verdict of acquittal amid applause in court, and a complimentary declaration from the Bench, reminds us of some acquittals of ladies who had murdered their paramours in the States. It would really appear to be a popular and honorable thing for an officer high in rank and the confidence of his superiors to abuse that rank and confidence by embezzling, if not stealing, the funds entrusted to him for the payment of the men under his command. Had the Colonel been an ordinary foreman in a workshop, who had run off with the money given him to pay the men, the verdict and sentence would probably have been very different.—Witness.

The Ottawa Citizen says a case of Bigamy occurred in that city. A young man, son of a respectable farmer in the neighboring county, was sent by his father with a horse and sleigh to Ottawa to purchase a load of flour. He did so, but in the evening met with a charming damsel in some part of Lower Town, with whom he became desperately enamored. He proposed an elopement; she accepted it, and the young man pawning his horse, sleigh and load of flour for $15, got married to his inamorata, and the two left the city by the next train. The young man was married twice before, and has now three living wives. He has not yet returned to redeem the horse and sleigh load of flour, and though the police have been enquiring anxiously after them no trace has yet been discovered of the fugitives.

100 Negroes Drowned.—The town of DeSota, opposite Vicksburg, was suddenly inundated a few days since, and from eighty to one hundred negroes were drowned. The people of Vicksburg used strenuous efforts to relieve the poor creatures, but could only reach such as had obtained temporary places of safety. The town was exclusively occupied by negroes.

There is a strong feeling of distrust among business men on the other side of the Atlantic. Fears are entertained of a European war to be opened by Louis Napoleon. Britain has several ships of war to Cadiz, to enforce an indemnity from the Spanish Government for the seizure of the 'Tornado.'

The Hon. John Rose is believed to be a passenger by the "Great Eastern," now some fourteen days out. Mr. Cyrus Field, who has completed a mastiff, it is said, for a new cable from Placentia across the Atlantic, is also a passenger.

NORTH VICTORIA.

A correspondent sends us an account of a meeting which was held at the village of Kirkfield, in the south-east corner of the township of Eldon. Two candidates on both sides were proposed as follows:—

House of Commons—Mr. John Morrison, Reformer; Mr. John Cameron, Conservative.

Legislature of Ontario—Mr. Alexander P. Cockburn, Reformer; Mr. Jos. Staples, Conservative.

"The meeting was addressed by the several candidates; by Mr. D. McRae, ex Warden of Victoria; Dr. Clarge, of Woodville; Mr. Alex. Dennistown, of Bexley; Mr. Fell, of Summerville; Mr. Lockhart, Fenlon; and by several others. The Riding was pretty well represented from all the townships. On a show of hands being taken the result plainly showed that Mr. John Cameron may stay at house, as the vote was at least four to one in favour of Mr. Morrison. Those back townships were always supposed to be with Mr. Cameron, as he stated himself that they were conceived by him: but things have changed. Mr. Cockburn had a majority of three to one.—The place chosen was within a few miles of Mr. Stables' door, so that if he could have a majority any where it should have been at that meeting."—Globe.

Bowmanville, April 8.—The large three-story brick building, occupied as a factory by the Bowmanville Furniture Manufacturing Company, with its entire contents, including machinery, workmen's tools, unfinished furniture, &c., together with the finishing and upholstering shop, paint shop, drying and store rooms, and a great quantity of valuable lumber, were destroyed by fire, on Saturday night last. The office and principal ware-room with their contents were saved. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary. The loss is very heavy; partially insured. This is the most disastrous fire that ever occurred in this town, and by it about one hundred and thirty persons are thrown out of employment. It is presumed they intend to re-build it.

The mounted police at Bellville are reported to be a very efficient body of men.—The troop consists of 25 men, a sergeant-major, sergeant and corporal. The uniform is blue, with gold buttons and facings. The pay of the sergeant-major (corporal Foxton, late of the Kingston police), is $3 25 per day; of the sergeant $2 75; of the corporal $2 50, and of the privates $2 25 per day, with forage for the horses. The troop has left Belleville for their new barracks at Madoc, which has been built specially for their accomodation, with stables attached.

For Madoc.—Messrs. Cameron & Coulson, the well-known stage-owners of the County of Grey, left Toronto on Friday last, taking with them thirteen horses, a new stage-coach specially made for them in Albany, and five supernumeraries, with the object of establishing a stage-line between Belleville and Madoc. The coach is calculated to carry between twenty and thirty people, and its superior strength and durability render it calculated to travel on the roughest road.

Corinthian.—The Steamer Corinthian, after having repaired her rudder, lately broken, resumed her trips and continued them until Friday morning, when as she was coming from Cobourg, her rudder was unshipped and she allowed to drift almost helplessly. Fortunately, the tug Annie Reid was soon at hand, and towed her into port, where she remains. She will have to go on the dry dock before she will be able to resume her trips; this will take her some little time.

Princess of Wales.—The Cable brings us the sad news that "the Princess of Wales is at the point of death." As the tendency or caution is to represent mildly the illness of persons of her rank, it is to be feared that this announcement indicates a shock from which recovery is considered utterly hopeless. The many amiable qualities of the Princess had so endeared her to British subjects that the news of her death would cause profound regret throughout the vast Empire which expected to see her one day Queen Consort.—Globe.

The British have an equal right with the Russians to hunt, trade, and fish over the territory ceded to the United States, and will also have rights equal to the latter, should it be purchased by the Americans.

The Mints of the United States have coined since they commenced operations (some seventy years,) the large amount of eight hundred Million dollars, about one-fifth of the whole metallic currency of the world, of which amount $500,000,000 has been derived from their own mines; we are not without mines, but while we feel that they will not produce so much gold, we have the pleasure of knowing there is a sovereign remedy in the "Canadian Pain Destroyer" for sudden colds, rheumatism, neuralgia, tooth-ache, &c sold by all Medicine Dealers, at 25cts per bottle.

Bryan's Wafers.—The great public remedy have now been in use over twenty years, hence it cannot be said that they are on trial. They have been thoroughly tried, and pronounced (on the authority of those whose lives and health they have preserved) to be a pure, harmless and eminently salutary preparation, and if taken in season will invariably cure colds, coughs, sore throat, and all Bronchial affection. One fair trial will convince the most skeptical. Sold by all medicine dealers, at 25cts. per box.

AYRES' PATENT

TIRE UPSETTING MCHAINE!

THIS MACHINE was awarded an EXTRA PRIZE at the last Provincial Exhibition. It is useful, easily managed and durable. By this Machine the Tire while being upset is held in position by self-acting dogs, which let go as readily as they take hold.

Every Blacksmith, Wagon, or Carriage maker should have one for the following reasons.

1st. One man can upset a tire in one-third of the time it takes two men to cut and weld one.

2nd. By cutting and welding the tire is weakened, whereas by this process it is rendered stronger and more durable than before.

3rd. In setting tires the lap will sometimes slip, or in taking a second heat be reduced and weakened: whereas by simply returning it to the machine it may be upset to the proper size and strength.

4th. Persons wanting work done will go to the shop where this machine is in use, as there the best satisfaction can be given

☞ The Machine is warranted to upset a tire 2½ inches by ¼ inches.

RECOMMENDATIONS.

We, the undersigned, have tried one of Ayres' Tire Upsetting Machines, and find it to be very handy and useful, and fully as good as is represented above.

Carriage Makers—Tobias Fitzgerald, John Doherty, Wm. Metherall, James McWilliams, John Douglass, Minaker & Thayer, Wm. English, Flynn & Bodes and, Patrick Galvin, Wm. Yelland.

Poetry.

THE BOY AND ELEPHANT.

By John G. Saxe.

The following has a moral, which requires but little thought to discover:

In eastern state of Hindostan,
To learning much inclined,
Who went to see the elephant,
(Though all of them were blind,)
That each by observation
Might satisfy his mind.

The first approached the Elephant,
And happening to fall
Against his broad and sturdy side,
At once began to bawl:
"Oh bless me!—but the Elephant
Is very like a wall!"

The second, feeling of the tusk,
Cried, "Ho! what have we here
So very round and smooth and sharp?
To me 'tis mighty clear,
This wonder of an Elephant
Is very like a spear!"

The third approached the animal,
And, happening to take
The squirming trunk within his hands,
Thus boldly up and spake:
"I see," quoth he, "the Elephant
Is very like a snake!"

The fourth reached out his eager hand,
And felt about the knee;
"What most this wonderous beast is like
Is mighty plain," quoth he,
"'Tis clear enough the Elephant
Is very like a tree!"

The fifth who chanced to touch the ear,
Said, "E'en the blindest man
Can tell what this resemblies most;
Deny the fact who can,
This marvel of an Elephant
Is very like a fan!"

The sixth no sooner had begun
About the beast to grope,
Than, seizing on the swinging tail
That fell within his scope,
"I see," quoth he! "the Elephant
Is very like a rope!"

And so these men of Hindoostan
Disputed loud and long,
Each in his own opinion
Exceeding stiff and strong,
Though each was partly in the right,
And partly in the wrong.

Varieties.

A Doctor as is a Doctor.

A self-sufficient butabug, who took up the position of a physician, and pretended to a knowledge of the art, was once called to visit a man who was afflicted with apoplexy. Bolus gazed long, and had felt his pulse, and finally gave vent to the following sublime opinion:—

"I think he's a gone feller. Very doubtful case."

"No, no!" exclaimed the sorrowful wife; "do not say that."

"Yes," returned Bolus, lifting up his hat and eyes heavenward at the same time,—"yes, I do say so; there aint no hope—not the least mite. He has got an attack of mibil fit in his lost frontis."

"Where?" cried the wife, apparently much alarmed.

"In his lost frontis; and he can't be cured without some trouble and a great deal of pains. You see the whole planetary system is deranged. Fustly, his roxnopuli is pressing on his advalorum; secondly, his cutaneous cutaneous has swelled considerably—if not more; thirdly and lastly, his ribs are in a concussed state, and he hain't got any money,—and consequently he is bound to die!

Articles Wanted.

The Rural South ener hits off the fashionable airs of the present day in the following style:—

Wanted—An intended bride who is willing to commence housekeeping in the same style in which her parents began.

Twenty fashionable young ladies who dare to be seen wielding a dust brush, or darning their brothers stockings, if a gentleman should happen to make an early morning call.

Ten independent young ladies of "good families," who dare to wear their last winter's bonnets to church on a fine Sunday.

Fourteen young ladies, "who are anybody," who dare to be seen in the street, wearing shoes with soles thick enough to keep their feet warm.

Fifty young ladies of sufficient age "to go in company," who dare confess that they have ever made a loaf of bread or a pudding of any kind.

THE DRUNKARD'S Will.—I leave to society a ruined character, a wretched example, and a memory that will soon rot. I leave to my parents during the rest of their lives as much sorrow as humanity in a feeable and declining state can sustain. I leave to my brothers and sisters as much mortification and injury as I could bring on them. I leave to my wife a broken heart, a life of wretchedness and shame, to weep over my premature death. I give and bequeath to each of my children, poverty, ignorance, and low character. I leave the warning of my career to all who are using the drinks which have ruined me.

A tardy school boy, whose mother had refused him a note of excuse to the teacher, applied to a waggish young man to furnish him such a document as should ward off the dreaded punishment. The young man complied with the request, but as the boy could not read writing, worded the note in such a way as to deire the teacher to administer to the boy a sound flogging. The teacher was somewhat suspicious on receipt of the note, but as the boy stoutly averred that his mother wrote it, the teacher administered the correction in such a vigorous manner as to astonish the recipient.

LOST AND FOUND.—Some two years ago, a woman at East Lulworth lost her wedding ring whilst engaged in her domestic duties. A few days ago she was pelling potatoes, and, on dividing a sort of double potato, she found, in the inside of the potato the lost wedding ring, which she was able to indentify. The potatoes were grown in a field some half-a-mile from the cottage, where it is supposed the ring had been carried in the manure, and the potatoe had grown through it.

A certain Mr. Collin once being blessed by the birth of a son, a friend offered one hundred dollars for the privilege of naming him. The offer was, however, declined, when it was proposed to abridge the child Mahogany.

A Western orator, getting warmed with his subject, exclaimed, 'There is not a man, woman or child in the house who has arrived at the age of fifty years, but has felt this truth thundering through their minds for centuries.'

'How changeable the wind is,' said our village clerk. 'It is the most changeablest thing I ever did see. When I went up Yonge street it was blowin' in my face—and when I turned to go down, don't you think it was blowin' on my back?'

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed with t assistance f om others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

After one trial, thinking men will find these Pills the most reliable purgative that can be used in the family, and those who once try them will always continue to employ them when in need of a cathartic. There is not a remedy known to the medical profession, with which we are acquainted, so universally relied on by physicians. Those who have made the public aware of the virtues of their own private formulæ, have, sooner or later, been compelled to resort to the use of the pills of which we speak, and thus virtually proclaim them the best. Many apothecaries, who value their reputation, will not put up any other pills than these, when asked for a cathartic, and country merchants, who have once introduced them, find no others will take their place. Containing neither calomel nor any other mineral, these pills may be taken with perfect safety by any one. Their sugar coating makes them pleasant to take, and renders them innocent of harm to the most delicate child. Being purely vegetable, they operate with the certainty of a natural agent, to expel the impurities of the body, and to restore its disordered functions to healthful activity. They stimulate the assimilative powers into vigorous action, and cause the food we eat to nourish the system. In short, they are the active principle of life itself, and will overcome disease, if cold stillen preservation in the body, and obstruction be not of long standing. Thanks to the advanced position of medical science, and the corresponding extension of our knowledge of the human system, these pills are now introduced to the public, and are daily working wonderful cures of the various diseases which make mankind miserable. Ayer's Pills, and Ayer's Pills alone, are required to purge away the impurities of the blood, and to stimulate the vital organs into healthful action, whenever the system needs the influence of a medicine. Nothing can be more simple than the remedy, and nothing more certain in its effects. Purge out the foul humors—purify the blood, and the health must follow. Let the fountains be thus opened, and the streams will run pure. Let the vital organs be thus stimulated, and the health will be restored. Let the diseased be thus purified, and the sick will become well. Such are the effects of these pills, when they are judiciously employed, and such the reasons why they should be employed, by all who are afflicted with disease. A cold stillen preservation in the body, and obstruction be not of long standing, will generally result from derangement of the natural organs, and the corresponding remedy is Ayer's Pills, and this fact distinctly they restore the natural action of the system, and when in the incipient feeling of health again. What is true and so apparent in the special and common complaints, is also equally true of the more dreaded and fatal diseases. Ayer's Pills have performed cures which astonish the world. Many of the most dangerous diseases incident to the human frame are the result of derangements of the natural functions of the body, they are rapidly, and many of them surely, cured by these remedies. Those who know the virtues of Ayer's Pills will neglect to employ them when suffering from the disorders they cure.

Statements from leading physicians in some of the principal cities, and from other well known public persons.

From a Prosperity Merchant of St. Louis, Feb. 4, 1866.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the purgative of all that is good in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of a disease more than her friends and that had proved incurable for years. Her mother has been long grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and in her hair. After one child was cured, the also tried your Pills, and they have cured her.

ASA MORRISON.

As a Family Physic.

From Dr. E. S. Chesterfield, New Orleans.

Your Pills are the prince of purges. Their excellent qualities surpass any cathartic we possess. They are mild, but very certain and efficacious in their action on the bowels, which makes them invaluable to us in the daily treatment of disease.

Headache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach.

From Dr. Edward Hugel, Baltimore.

DEAR DR. AYER: I cannot sufficiently praise your excellent Pills. I have cured with your Pills better than in any other way ever tried such a purgative medicine. I place great dependence on an effectual cathartic in my daily contest with disease, and believing as I do that your Pills afford us the best we have, I of course value them highly.

Bilious Disorders—Liver Complaints.

From Dr. Theodore Hill, of New York City.

Not only are your Pills admirably adapted to their purpose as an aperient, but I find their beneficial effects upon the Liver very marked indeed. They have in my practice proved more effectual for the cure of bilious complaints than any one remedy I can mention. I sincerely rejoice that we have at length a purgative which is worthy the confidence of the profession and the people.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C., 7th Feb., 1866.

SIR: I have found your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disease so obstinate that it did not readily yield to them. Fraternally yours, ALEX. H. BALL, M. D.,
Physician of the Marine Hospital.

Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Relax, Worms.

From Dr. J. S. Green, of Chicago.

Your Pills have had a long trial in my practice, and I hold them in esteem as one of the best aperients I have ever found. Their admirable effect upon the liver makes them an excellent remedy, when given in small doses for bilious derangements and disorders. Their sugar-coating makes them very acceptable and convenient for the use of women and children.

Dyspepsia, Impurity of the Blood.

From Rev. J. F. Hume, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood, they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HUMES.

WARSAW, Wyoming Co., N. Y., Oct. 24, 1865.

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the foundations of the blood.

JOHN G. MEACHAM, M. D.

Constipation, Costiveness, Suppression, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Dropsy, Paralysis, Piles, etc.

From Dr. J. P. Vaughn, Mohawk, Canada.

Too much cannot be said of your Pills for the cure of costiveness. If others of our fraternity have found them as effectual as I have, they should join me in proclaiming it for the benefit of the multitudes who suffer from that complaint, which, although bad enough in itself, is the pro-cursor of others that are worse. I believe worthless to originate in the liver, but your Pills affect that organ and cure the disease.

From Mrs. E. Stuart, Physician and Midwife, Boston.

I find one or two large doses of your Pills taken at the proper time, are excellent promotives of the natural operation when wholly or partially suppressed, as I also very efficient to cleanse the stomach and expel worms. They are so much the best physic we have that I recommend no other to my patients.

From the Rev. Dr. Hawkes, of the Methodist Epis. Church.

PETERS' HOUSE, Savannah, Ga. Jan. 6, 1858.

HONORED SIR: I should be ungrateful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best of physicians the disease grew worse and worse, until by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr. Mackenzie, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them, I am now entirely well.

SERGT. CHARMER, Fallon Rouge, La., 5 Dec. 1858.

DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured, by your Pills, of Rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had afflicted me for years. VINCENT SIBELL.

☞ Most of the Pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

ASTONISHING! ASTOUNDING!! CONFOUNDING!!! BUT TRUE,

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

CONSUMPTION

BY THE

GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY IN CANADA.

MESSRS. Y. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I Wilson Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say,—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coughed nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours. While there I saw Esq., Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve my cough." He said "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once which I felt through my whole system: at night I took a table spoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I got hearty and strong. I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was affected with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

WILLIAM STORMS,

BRANDRETH'S

Antidote Remedy this Condition Medicine

IS positively superior to any or all other preparations for the cure of Fevers, Coughs, Colds and Influenza, and all diseases which affect the Vital Organs, and also Condition Medicine, purifying everything of the kind; is ready to give, there is peace, and safe in all cases and at all times, and does not prevent the horse from being worked while using it.

It enhances the breathing apparatus, by removing from the air-cells the combustible lymph or that secretion which in Heaves clogs them, causing a difficulty in breathing, and by its action on the diseased part causing the mucous membrane to resume its natural dimensions, thus expelling the superfluity of the blood, and restoring the divided vessels to their natural size; by its use the horse's appetite is improved, all derangements of the digestive organs corrected, restoring the skin, and giving to the coat a sleek and shining appearance.

THE PROVERBS REVERSED,

OR CHARITY PROVED NOT DESTINED TO REMAIN ALWAYS AT HOME.

Charity suffereth long and is kind—envieth not, vaunteth not itself; is not puffed up, &c.—Holy Writ.

If charity begin at hame,
'Tis only in some cases;
In several instances I'll name
It has a host of phases.

When self is in the balance laid,
'Tis sure to turn the beam,
Of charity it then is said,
She first begins at hame;
By rhyme and reason this I'll prove,
The charity of self,
And not that charity which loves
Our neighbor as ourself.

Where charity begins at hame,
In thought, in word, in deed,
We from our eye balls pluck the beam,
And human nature tread;
Now will we turn to scan the mote
That dims a neighbor's eye:
This is the means at hame (I wot)
To deal out charity.

Yet are we often doom'd to hear,
Unmerciful, unkind,
Calumniators most severe,
Debased their precious mind.
Men's vices they will magnify,
Their virtues all pass o'er,
And, like unto the common fly,
Will stick upon the sore.

When charity is in the bill,
We have no wish to ken
Our neighbour's actions, good or ill—
We've plenty of our ain;
But those that, loudest in the sound,
Are deepest in the dye,
There's no such elocution found
With honest charity.

Both sects and factions oft pervert
The meaning of the word,
And all who from their faith depart
Are errant and absurb;
Mole-hills are mountains most replete,
Raised by the rabble route;
Or, like a snow-ball through the street,
By children rolled about.

And this is charity they deem—
To cause men to refrain,
Their tattle oftentimes a whim,
A creature of their brain;
Does charity act such a part?
To all alike she's kind—
Has no suspicion in her breast,
Or guile within her mind.

Benevolence has often bound
The wounded when they bleed,
And were it not the trumpets sound,
True charity in deed;
But when it's echoed by the way,
'Tis all an empty name,
A shadow in the solar ray—
A bell upon the stream.

But charity was ne'er designed
To be confined at hame,
Her mission is to light the blind
As wide's the solar beam,
To herald forth salvation's plan,
And teach a guilty world,
That mercy has to fallen men
Her Bethat flag unfurled.

Hail Heaven-born virtue, pure and just,
Unspotted charity!
How often is the name traduced
By base hypocrisy!
Till man for fellow men shall feel,
And justice poise the beam,
'Tis only turning fortune's wheel
Such charity to name.

Thomas Mathers.

Miscellaneous.

THE SNOWING-UP OF STRATH LOGAS.

Jolly old Simon Kirton! thou art the very high priest of Hymen. There is something sofely persuasive to matrimony in thy contented, comfortable appearance; and thy, loose,—why though it is situated in the farthest past of Inverness-shire, it is as fertile in connubial joys as if it were placed upon Gretna Green. Single blessedness is a term unknown in thy vocabulary; Heaven itself would be a miserable place for thee, for there there is neither marrying nor giving in marriage.

Half the country was invited to a grand dinner and ball at Simon's house in January 1812. All the young ladies had looked forward to it in joyous anticipation and hope, and all the young gentlemen with considerable expectation—and fear. Everything was to be on the grandest scale; the dinner in the ancient hall, with the two family pipers discoursing sweet music between the courses, and the ball in the splendid new drawing-room, with a capital band from the country town. The duke was to be there with all the nobility, rank, and fashion of the district;—and, in short, such a splendid entertainment had never been given at Strath Logas in the memory of man. The editor of the country paper had a description of it in types a month before, and the millners far and near never said their prayers without a devout supplication for the health of Mr. Kirton. All this time that worthy gentleman was by no means idle. The drawing-room was dismantled of its furniture, and the floors industriously chalked over with innumerable groups of flowers. The larder was stocked as if for a siege; the domestics drilled into a knowledge of their respective duties; and every preparation completed in the most irreprehensible style. I question whether Gunter ever dreamt of such a supper as was laid out in the dining-room—profusion in all its forms, and fish of every kind. It would have victualled a seventy-four to China.

The day came at last, a fine sharp clear day as ever gave a bluish tinge to the countenance, or brought tears to beauty's eye. There had been a great fall of snow a few days before, but the weather seemed now settled into a firm enduring frost. The laird had not received a single apology, and waited in the hall along with his lady to receive his guests as they arrived.—'My dear, is na that a carriage coming up the Brow-fit-knowe? Auld Laddy Clavers, I declare! She'll be going to dress here, and the three girls.—Annie's turned religious; so I'm thinking she's owre auld to be married.—It's a pity the monsters so coming; his wife's just dead—but Jeanne'll be looking out for somebody.—We maun put her next to young Gerflesh.—We maun put her next to young Gerflesh.—Elizabeth's a thocht owre young; she can stay at the side-table with Tommy Maxwell—he's just a bobbletochey—it wud be a very good match in time.' In this way as each party made its appearance, the laird arranged in a moment the order in which every individual was to be placed at table; and even before dinner he had the satisfaction of seeing his guests breathing off into the quiet tete-a tetes, which the noise and occupation of a general company render sweet and seclude as a meeting 'by moonlight alone.' While his eye wandered round the various duos pleasantly engaged, it rested on the figure of a very beautiful girl whom he had not previously remarked. She sat apart from all the rest, and was amusing herself with looking at the pictures suspended round the room—a parently unconscious of the presence of so many strangers. She seemed in deep thought; but as she gazed on the representation of a battle-piece, her face changed its expression from the calmness of apathy to the most vivid enthusiasm.

'Mercy on us a'!' whispered the laird to his wife, 'what's she mean? that beautiful young lassie in the white goon? an' no a young bachelor within a mile o' her—Deil ane o' them deserves sneh an angel.'

'It's a Miss Mowbray,' was the reply; 'she came with Mrs. Carmichael—a great heiress, they say—it's the first time she was ever in Scotland.'

'Aha! say ye sae?—Then we'll see if we canna keep her amang us noo that she is come. Angus M'Leod—na, he'll no do—he's a gude enough lad, but he's ne bonny; Charlie Fletcher, he wad do well enough, but I'm thi king he'll do better for Bell Johnson. Od, donner'd auld man, not to think o' him before! Charlie Melville's the man—the landes neist, bravest, cleverest chield she could hae; and if she's gotten the sill-r, so much the better for Charlie—they'll be a bonny couple.'

And in an instant the laird laid his hand on the shoulder of a young man, who was engaged with a knot of gentlemen, discussing some recent news from the Peninsula, and dragging him away, said, 'For shame, Charlie, for shame! Did you no see that sweet, modest lassie s' by herse'f? Gang up till her this minute—bide by her as lang as ye can—she's well worth a' the attention ye can pay her.—Miss Mowbray,' he continued, 'I am sorrow my friend Mrs Carmichael has left ye see much to yourse'—but here's Charlie, or, rather, I should say, Mr Charles, or, rather, I should say, Lieutenant Charles Melville, that will be happy to supply her place. He'll tak' ye into ye'r dinner, and dance wi' ye at the ball.'

'All in the place of Mrs Carmichael, sir?' replied the young lady, with an arch look.

'Weel said, my dear, weel said—but I naun leave yonger folks to answer ye. I've seen the time I wanna hae been very blate to gie ye sic answer that wud hae stoppit your "wee bit mou," nae sweet and bonny.' Saying these words, and whispering to his young friend, 'Stick till her, Charlie,' he bustled off, 'on hospitable thoughts intent,' to another part of the room.

After this introduction, the young people soon entered into conversation; and, greatly to the laird's satisfaction, the young soldier conducted Miss Mowbray into the hall, sat next her all the time of dinner, and seemed as delighted with his companion as the most match-making lady or gentleman could desire. The lady on the other hand, seemed in high spirits, and laughed at the remarks of her neighbour with the highest appearance of enjoyment.

'How long have you been with Mrs. Carmichael?'

'I came the day before yesterday.'

'Rather a savage sort of a country, I'm afraid you find this, after the polished scenes of your own land.'

'Do you mean the country,' replied the lady, 'or the inhabitants. They are not nearly such savages as I expected; some of them seem half-civilised.'

'It is only your good-nature that makes you thinks so. When you know us better you will alter your opinion.'

'Nay, now, don't be angry, or talk, as all other Scotch people do about your national virtues. I know you are a very wonderful people—your men all heroes, your peasants philosophers, and women angels; but, seriously, I was very much disappointed to find you so much like other people.'

'Why, what did you expect? Did you think we were men whose heads grew beneath our shoulders?'

'No—I did not expect that; but I expected to find everything different from what I had been accustomed to. Now, the company here are dressed just like a party in England, and behave in the same manner. Even the language is intelligible at times; though the laird, I must say, would require an interpreter.'

'Ah! the jolly old laird—his face is a sort of polyglot ictionary—it is the expression for good humor, kindness and hospitality in all langua es.'

'And who is that at his right hand?'

'What? the henchman? That's Rory McTaggart—he was piper for twenty years in the 73rd, and killed three men with his own hand at Vimeira.'

'And is that the reason he is called the henchman?'

'Yes, henchman means, "The piper with the bloody hand, the slaughterer of three.'

'What a comprehensive word! It is almost equal to the laird's breath.'

But here the laird broke in upon their conversation. 'Miss Mowbray, diana be frightened at a' the daft things the wild scoger is saying to you. The.. he added, in a lower tone, 'Charlie wad settle doon into a douce, quiet, steady married man, for a' he taunwee. It would be a pity if a Frenchman's gun should spoil his beauty, poor fellow.'

The young lady bowed, without comprehending a syllable of the speech of the country-house—where you likely to be soon ordered abroad?' she said.

'We expect the route for Spain every day, and then hame for a passage to Westminster Abbey.'

'Ah! war is a fine game when it is played at a distance. Why can't kings settle their disputes without having recourse to the sword?'

'I regret I am unable to answer your question, but I think it must be out of a kind regard to the interests of younger brothers. A war is a capital provision for poor devils like myself, who are by no means to no estate but that excessively large one, which the catechism calls the "estate of sin and misery." But come, I see from your face you are very romantic, and are going to say something sentimental—luckily his grace is proposing a removal into the ball room; may I beg the honor of your hand?'

'Ahm, lad!' cried the laird, who had heard the last sentence, 'are ye at that work already—asking a lady's hand on sae short an acquaintance. Bot folk canna do it owre sune.'

The bustle caused by the secession of those who preferred Terpsichore to Bacchus, luckily prevented Miss Mowbray's hearing the lairds observation, and in a few minutes she found herself entering with heart and soul into the full enjoyment of a country dance.

Marriages, they say, are made in heaven. Charles Melville devoutly wished the laird's efforts might be successful, and that one could be made on earth. She was, indeed, as the laird expressed it, 'a bonny crater to look at.' I never could describe a beauty in my life—so loveliness of the English heiress much be left to the imagination. At all events she was 'the bright consummate flower of the whole wreath' which was then gathered together at Strath Logas; and even Lady Clavers said—'That Miss Mowbray's very weell put on indeed, for sae young a lassie. Her hair's something like our Anne's—only I think Annie's has a wee richer o' the golden.'

'Lord save us a'!' whispered the laird; 'poor Annie's hair's as red as a carrot.'

'An' dinna ye think her rosee,' said her ladship—'dinna ye think her voice is something like our Jeannie's—only may be no see rich in the tone.'

'Feth, ma'am,' said the laird, 'I maun wait till I hear Miss Mowbray speak the Gaelic, for really it soft o' beautiful English she speaks gies her a great advantage.'

'As ye say, Mr. Kirton,' continued her ladyship, who, like all great talkers, never attended to what anyone said but herself, 'Jeanne has a great advantage owre her—but she's weel enough, for a' that.'

In the meantime the young lady, who was the subject of this conversation troubled herself very little as to what Lady Clavers said or thought on the occasion. I shall not on any account say that she was in love, for I highly disapprove of such a speedy surrender to Dan Cupid in the softer sex; but at all events she was highly delighted with the novelty of the scene, and evidently pleased with her partner. No scruple of the same kind restrains me from mentioning the state of Charles Melville's heart. He was as deeply in love as ever was the hero of a romance; and in the pauses of the dance, indulged in various reveries about love in a cottage, and a number of other absurd notices, which are quite common, I believe, on such occasions. He never designed to think on so contemptible an object as a butcher's bill, or how incontinent it would be to maintain a wife and four or five angels of either sex, on ninety pounds a year; but at the same time I must do him the justice to state, that, although he was a Scotchman, the fact of Miss Mowbray's being an heiress never entered into his contemplation—and if I may mention my own opinion, I really believe he would have been a better pleased if she had been as portionless as himself.—But time and tide wear through the roughest day; no wonder then, they were very happily through the happiest evening he had ever spent. The duke and the more distant visitors had taken their leave: 'the mirth and fun grew fast and furious' among the younger and better acquainted parties who were left; but greatly to the mortification of the young soldier, his partner was called away at the end of a dance, just when he had been anticipating a delightful tete-a-tete while the next was forming.—With his heart nearly bursting with admiration and regret, he wrapt her in her cloaks and shawls, and in silent dejection, with only a warm pressure of the hand, which he was enchanted to find returned, he handed her into Mrs. Carmichael's old-fashioned open car, though the night was dark and stormy—and after listening to the last sound of the wheels as they were lost among the snow, he slowly turned, and re-entered the ball-room. Their absence, to all appearance, had not been noticed by a single eye—a thing at which he, as a lover under such circumstances is bound to be, was greatly suprised. 'Blockheads!' he said, 'they would not see the darkness if the sun was extinguished at mid-day.'—And he fell into the train of reflection, which, from the expression of his countenance, did not seem to be of a very exhilarating nature. In about twenty minutes, however, after his return, he was aroused by the henchman, whom he had spoken of at dinner, who beckoned him from the hall.

'The bonny crater—the bonny crater!' he began—'an' sic a nicht to gang hame in!—the stars a' put out, the snaw beginnin' to drift and a spate in the Logas! Noo, if auld Andrew Strachan, the Laddy Carmichael's coachman, drooted auld beast, tries the ford—oh, the lassie, the bonny bit lassie'll be lost!—an' I'll never hae the heart to spend the crown piece she slippit into my hand just 'afore the dancin'.'

But what more the worthy henchman might have said must remain a mystery to all succeeding time; for, long before he had come to the episode of the crown, Charles had rushed helter-skelter into the open air, and dashed forward at the top of his speed to overtake the car in time to warn them from the ford. But the snow had already formed itself into enormous wreaths, which, besides impeding his progress, interfered greatly with his breathings of localities; and he perceived his exertions any more in despair they hope. He shouted, in the expectation of his voice being heard, but he heard no reply. He plunged down to see the tracks of the wheel, but the snow fell so fast, and drifted at the same time, that it was quite undistinguishable, even if the darkness had not been so deep. However, onward he pressed towards the ford, and shouted louder and louder as he approached it. The roaring of the stream, now swollen to a prodigious height, drowned his cries, and his eyes in vain searched for the object of his pursuit; far and near, up and down, he directed his gaze, and in a transport of joy at the hope which their presence presented, that they had gone round by the bridge, and were saved, he was turning away to return home, when he thought he heard, in a bend of the river, a little way down, a faint scream above the roaring of the torrent. Quick as lightning he rushed towards the spot, and hallooed as loud as he could. The shriek was distinctly repeated, and a great way out in the water, he saw some some substance of considerable size. He shouted again and a voice replied to him from the river. In an instant he had plunged into the stream, and, though it was rushing with the greatest impetuosity, it was luckily not so deep as to prevent his wading. And after considerable toil, for the water was above his breast, he succeeded in reaching the object he had descried from the bank. It was, indeed, Mrs. Carmichael's car, and to it he had the inexpressible delight of finding the two ladies, terrified, indeed, with their appalling situation, but luckily in full possession of their presence of mind.

In a few hurried words he desired them to trust entirely to him, and begging the elder lady to remain quiet in the car, he lifted the younger in his arms,—but in the most earnest language she implored him to save her companion first, as she had such confidence in herself that she was certain she could remain in the car till he had effected his return. Pressing her to his heart in admiration of such magnanimity, he laid her gently back, and lifting Mrs. Carmichael from her seat, he pushed desperately for the shore. The water even in this short time had perceptibly risen, and on reaching the bank, and depositing his burden in safety, he rushed once more through the torrent, fearful lest a moment's delay should make it impracticable to reach the car.—The light carriage was now rocking from the impetuous attacks of the stream, and at the moment when the fainting girl was lifted up, a rush of greater force taking it, now unbalanced by any weight, forced it on its side, and rolled it off into the great body of the river. It had been carried about fifty yards below the ford, without, however, being owe turned, and had luckily become entangled with the trunk of a tree; the horse, after severe struggles, had been drowned, and his inanimate weight had helped to delay the progress of the carriage. The coachman was nowhere to be found. Meanwhile the three, once more upon land, pursued their path back to Strath Logas. Long and toilsome was the road, but cheered to the young soldier by the happy consciousness he had saved 'his heart's idol' from death. Tired and non ly worn out with the harrassing nature of their journey and of their feelings, they at length reached the hospitable mansion they had so lately quitted. The music was still sounding, the lights still burning brightly,—but when old Simon Kirton saw the party enter his hall, no words can do justice to the horror of his expression. The ladies were consigned to the attention of his wife. He himself took especial care of the hero of the story; and after having heard the whole adventure, when the soldier refreshed, and in a suit of the laird's apparel, was entering the dancing-room, he slapt him on the shoulder and said, 'Deil a doubt o't noo. If ye're no laird of the bonny English acres, and guideman o' the bonny English ledily, I're nae skeel in spaem'; that's a'.

The adventure quickly spread, and people were sent off in all directions with lights, to discover, if possible, the body of the unfortunate Andrew Strachan. After searching for a long time, our friend, the henchman, thought he heard a voice close beside him on the bank. He held down his lantern, and sure enough, there he saw the object of their pursuit lying with his head at the very edge of the water, and his body on the land! The water from time to time, burst over his face, and it was only on those occasions that an almost articulate grunt showed that the comatose disciple of John Barleycorn was yet alive. The henchman summoned his companions, and on attentively listening to the groans, as they considered them, of the dying man, they distinctly heard him, as he attempted to spit out the water which broke in tiny waves over his mouth, exclaiming, 'Faugh faugh! I doot ye're changin' the liquor—a wee drap mair whiskey, and a sma' spoonful o' sugar.' The nodding charioteer had been ejected from his seat on the first impetus of the 'spate,' and been safely floated to land, without perceiving any remarkable change of situation. It is needless to say he was considerably surprised to discover where he was, on being roused by the henchman's party. 'It is my belief,' said Jock Stewart, the piper, as they helped him on his way, 'the drunckeu body thocht he was tipplin' a' the time in the butler's ha.' It wad be a gude deed to let the daidlin baxrell follow his hat and wig; and I'm thinkin' by this time they'll be deen about Fort George.'

'Ahem! so here I am between two tailors,' said a deadly at a public table, where a couple of young tailors were seated, who had just begun business. 'Very true,' said one of them: 'we are but new beginners, and can only afford to keep one goose between us!'

AN EXCUSE.—"Good blood will show itself," as the old lady said when she contemplated the redness of her nose.

Why is a four-quart jug like a lady's side-saddle? Because it holds a gall-on.

BUTTER AND CHEESE.

As the season for butter and cheese making is near at hand, we take the opportunity to call the attention of the farming community to the importance of that entering more largely into the production of these articles. The evils attending the continuous growth of wheat and other grain, have been frequently adverted to. In consequence of doing this, much of the best farming lands have greatly deteriorated in richness, and a decline in the annual yield has resulted. The best remedy for this state of matters is a change in farming; in other words for farmers to enter into dairy-farming, and discontinue turning all their energies to wheat farming as many of them are done in the past.

Of late years Great Britain has bought considerable quantities of our butter. During the last twelve years we exported butter to the value of $11,714,264. This sum appears large, but is nothing like the quantity which this country ought to be able to export. Of the amount stated, Great Britain took a large share. During the last four and a half years of the time mentioned, the shipments to Britain and the United States were respectively as follows:—

Sold to Great Britain	$3,816,263
Sold to United States.....	1,130,307

Britain took more by $1,685,661

If our farmers entered more largely into butter making, and made it good, no fears need be entertained with regard to securing a market therefor. Great Britain and the Maritime Provinces could buy all we would want to sell, and thus we would be able to render ourselves less dependent on American markets. Taking the collateral advantage arising from improvement in the lots in late consideration, butter making affords the farmers good returns.

We are glad to be able to say that Canada is now entering into the manufacture of cheese in good earnest. One would suppose that a greater anomaly than an agricultural country like Canada buying cheese, could hardly exist, and yet up till very recently we bought largely from our Yankee neighbours. During the twelve years ending in July, 1865, we purchased from them close on $1,000,000 worth. This was very absurd when we could make cheese just as good and just as cheap ourselves. However, we are glad to know that a remedy is being rapidly applied, and that cheese factories are going up all over the country—the farmers of Ontario and Quebec vieing with each other in this respect. Some of the establishments started a few years ago have paid well, and in localities where there is plenty of fodder for cattle the business can be entered into with every certainty of success, if properly conducted. Several factories recently put up, are only waiting for spring to commence operations, whilst others are about to be erected in various localities.

The success of cheese factories in New York removes any doubts as to their paying those who enter into the business here. That state is nearly full of factories, and they are very generally successful. The general opinion there is, that cheese making pays better than wheat growing, and even than butter making. Our own cheese makers give the same report, and wherever enterprising men start such establishments, the farming community should afford them every encouragement. Any farmer who has good pasture land may rest assured that, if judiciously managed, dairy farming will afford handsome profits.

Canada should not only have to purchase any cheese abroad, but be a large exporter of that article, which is always in good demand in the markets of the world. Our exports of butter ought also to be increased. To effect this, an improved mode of making butter is greatly needed in some sections. It does not rank so high in quality as our cheese does, and does not consequently command that price which it ought. One of the main causes of this is, that the maker of butter is regarded as a secondary consideration by the great bulk of farmers. When so much attention is bestowed upon it as on raising grain, there will be no cause to complain of quality and we may expect our reports of it to augment rapidly.—Trade Review.

The Fate of Dr. Livingstone.

The Times of India of the 15th of March states that the intelligence received from Zanzibar now leaves no doubt of the death of Dr Livingstone. The statement of an Arab, named Moosa, one of the heroic traveller's most trusty followers, who, with a few others of the expedition, returned to the East African Coast in December, confirm the news that their leader was murdered. It would appear that Dr. Livingstone had crossed Lake Nyassa about the middle of September last, and had advanced a few stages beyond its western shores, when he encountered a horde of savages of the Mafite tribe. He was marching, as usual, ahead of his party, having nine or ten attendants, principally boys from Nassick immediately behind him. The savages ran amok to have at once upon them without any provocation, and with very little warning. Dr. Livingstone's men fired and before the smoke of their muskets had cleared away their leader had fallen beneath the smoke of a battle-axe, and his men speedily shared the same fate. Moosa, who witnessed the encounter and the death of his master from behind a neighbouring tree, immediately retreated, and, meeting the rest of the party, they fled into a deep forest, and eventually made their way back to Lake Nyassa, whence they returned to the coast with a caravan. When the news of Dr. Livingstone's and death reached Zanzibar, the Englishand other European consuls lowered their flags, an example which was by all the ships in the harbour, as well as by the Sultan. It may worth while to remark that Dr Livingstone himself had a strong presentiment that he would never return from the expenditure which has terminated thus disastrously; and this presentiment he frequently expressed to the officers of Her Majesty's ship Penguin, who were the last Europeans he saw before starting for the interior.

THE DIFFICULTY BETWEEN ENGLAND AND SPAIN.—The origin of the difficulty was the seizure by the Spanish Admiral, in August of last year, of British vessel, the "Tornado," which had cleared at Malesia for South America. The pretext under which the seizure was made was that the vessel was carrying munitions of war to the South American Republics, which Spain at that time was endeavoring to vanquish. After the captain and crew of fifty men had been kept in prison for several months, the Spanish authorities released the prisoners, with the exception of the captain and five seamen, who were detained to give evidence respecting the alleged illegal character of the "Tornado's" cargo. The English government very natural protested against the seizure of the vessel, and demanded the release and liberation of the captain and men. Spain hesitated to comply with these demands, and finally concluded to send the case before a prize court for decision. The disposal of the matter was not satisfactory to England, and so a British fleet has been sent to Cadiz to demand satisfaction for what is regarded as a gross insult to the rights of British citizens and seamen. The latest cable despatch in regard to the matter states that Spain is disposed to make no concessions, but after having been beaten by some of the small South American republics, she will hardly think of risking a contest with the power of England. —Am. Paper.

A LOVE STORY.—When Maximilian Bazaine, the city of Mexico with the French army, his nephew, Lieutenant Adolphe Bazaine, was about to be married to a beautiful Mexican senorita. In the hurry of their departure however, it was not found convenient to celebrate the nuptials. It was therefore arranged that the young lady should follow her lover to Orizaba. Meanwhile the Liberals closed in upon the retiring French troops, and occupied the whole country, stopping the mails and travel. This was a sad state of things, but nothing is impossible to a true lover. Armed with a passport which stated the object of his retrograde journey, the young lieutenant started out along for the city of Mexico, passed through the Liberal army and numerous bands of bandiitti, which chivalrously opened right and left to let him pass, and bore off his bride safely to France.

THE NEW MILITARY LAW OF FRANCE.—The contingent annually voted is 100,000 men. The active service is five years; in the reserve, three years. But owing to many practical deductions not necessary to specify, eight successive contingents would give in round numbers about 700,000 men. From these might be taken 150,000, representing garrisons in Algeria and elsewhere, and various home corps, which would leave as an effective field force, "which will, if necessary," as Gen. Trochu says, "pass the frontier," an army of 550,000 men. That is to say, France can throw into the field five armies of more than one hundred thousand men each.

War has broken out among the savages at New Calabar, on the west coast of Africa; the victorious tribe eating the prisoners they have taken.

The destitution of the people of South Carolina is very great, and many cases of starvation have occurred.

A FALSE THEORY.

A certain class of political would-be patriots are making frantic efforts to lecture the electors of this country into the erroneous and dangerous—and ideal—idea of the continuation of the present conglomeration of opposites, called the coalition. They ask the electors to continue a monstrosity for the mere sake, it must be, of glutting themselves on the crumbs that may fall in their way. There can be no union of principles in the present coalition, nor was it ever intended that there should be. The coalition was for the express purpose of getting confederation, for, as the two parties were, business was at a dead lock. The no party trick-sters now would wish to make another worse than "double shuffle" affair of the coalition.—Driven to the last extremity, their only hope of gain is to raise the cry of no party, and thus by putting Reformers off their guard, gain by cunning what they could not otherwise obtain. The whole cry is got up merely to deceive, so as, if possible, to draw away some from the Reform ranks to support a corruptionist. The past history of the two parties shows that they are as wide apart in their views, ends and aims, as the poles.—The Tory party having no distinct principles but love of office and unjust gain, while Reformers have been contending for their rights and the rights of the whole people. All along the Tories have opposed the popular demands until they became so strong that they could not longer be denied without danger, and then they reluctantly granted what was reasonably sought for. Lately the only politics they have had is John A. McDonald and opposition to George Brown. The Tory press teems with abuse of George Brown, as the great bug-bear in their way to supreme control, and try to forget or keep in the back ground that all governments are conducted on principles, that on these principles party issues are formed, and that all Geo. Brown or the Reformers of Upper Canada ask, is to have the government of the Dominion of Canada conducted on principles that will accord with the wishes of the people of Canada. This no party cry is a plain acknowledgement that the Conservatives are not prepared to undertake the government of Canada alone. It is an acknowledgement that their acts in the past and the expressed wish of the people of Upper Canada have been at contrary to each other, that without the aid of Reformers they cannot hope to retain the sweets of office very long, and hence the death struggle to keep the no party issue before the country. Coalition has long since been a nauseous drag in the political regime of Canada; and the sooner we get rid of it, the sooner will we return to a healthy state. We are told that we will have "enough to do in working out the destiny of the country" without debating over and constantly recurring to the quarrels of the past. But who caused the quarrels of the past? Was it not the very no party men of the present who stooped to every trick and shuffle to retain office, and who are just as ready now as in the days of the "double shuffle" to do anything that will retain office and emolument. They will violate promises as they have done in the present coalition; they will ally themselves with any party that will support them, and they will buy that support at the price of principle and with the public money recklessly squandered to gain votes for self aggrandizement; and they have the hardihood to ask Reformers to unite with them to continue this. Will the honest, hard-working yeomen and mechanics of our County allow such men to retain office, that they may have a few years longer in which to suck out the life's blood of our country? Will those men of our country who have long manfully contended for the rights of the people, now join with those who would unscrupulously wrest from them every thing for which they have contended until obtained.

Why did reformers seek confederation? was it not to get free from the trammels of a party who sold themselves body and soul to Lower Canada, to the detriment of Upper Canada? Was it not that Upper Canada might be freed from misrule, and be allowed to manage her own affairs in peace? This is what reformers sought, and now that the opportunity offers itself, a class of cunning, designing politicians asks reformers to forego the right and place them in power; place the men in power who have abused and are ready to trample on everything that may stand in their way to retention of that power. To the honest yeoman of the County we say: Whom are you asked to support? Whom do the no party men place before you for your support at the coming election. These they carefully withhold until they get you pledged to union, and then you will find them at work to bring out their most extreme party men.

Reformers, in seeking to be fully represented in the Legislatures of the Confederation, do not by any means say that they are going to bring up the old party lines. Representation by population has been obtained; they will not have that to bring up.—The management of our own affairs is secured in the new constitution, that will not need to be again discussed, it is settled; and all the other questions of the past that have been settled, for which ref rence had to contend, will not require to be again made an distinctly party issues. But the mode of carrying on the business of the country not yet settled, and what we ask now is, will the provinces to be governed on progressive and reform principles or according to the lazy scheme of corruption and venality that has prevailed during the regimen and of J. A. and Cartier? But the "no party" press would stamp all as traitors who express a desire to see the new order of things get a fair trial on straightforward principles. They would stamp reformers as enemies of the country, because they now lift a warning voice to prevent the resurrence of the same that has resulted in much heart-burnings and grevious delays in the Legislation of the country. But we trust that the honest farmers and mechanics of this County will not prove recreant to their principles, but choose men, good and true men in whom they can confide, and men who will be just as willing as the no party men to give our new constitution a fair trial, men just as loyal but with less noise than the no party men.

PUNISH CRIME.

There are some things in the presentments of the Grand Jury at the late assizes that deserve a few remarks. The jail, of course, is, as usual, neat and orderly and the prisoners few. This, in fact, is the case generally in this County; the people are a law abiding people, and crime does not reach that pitch that it does in some of the frontier counties where approach to the United States is easier and chance of escape greater, and where a greater number of strugglers from the cities and large towns pass through.—But even with us a few find their way into the jail, for longer or shorter terms as the case may be, and the general complaint is, that they have to be supported, while they have nothing to do in return. In fact, going to jail for 20 or 30 days is now no punishment, but, on the contrary, a privilege. Parties covered with filth and dirt are put into our jail very often to get cleaned. They roll in the mud and filth of the lanes and alleys in drunkenness and debaucheries till they come in contact with the constable and are brought before the mayor, when they are fined in small sums and in default of payment go to jail for 20 days. The first thing to be done on their arrival is to scrape and clean them, get them cleared of dirt and very often of loathsome disease, and by the time the 20 days are up, they are let out to return to their haunts and villainies. It is no punishment to go to jail, in fact it is a privilege to get committed, if only to get a watch; and the remarks of the grand jury that they should be compelled to do something in the way of punishment, deserve immediate attention on the part of our Legislatures.—Those who are put in for crime should be compelled to work, if as Judge Wilson said, it should be only turning a grinding stone or breaking stones, if the cost of the labour should be even more than it would by other means. At present we are offering a bonus for crime, instead of endeavoring to prevent or punish it, and we trust that our County Council will take the suggestion of the Grand Jury, and have something done in the way of devising means of punishment for those who are compelled to take up their lodging in the County boarding house.

A TYPO GONE.

It becomes our painful duty to record the decease of one of our brethren, Mr. HENRY R. NORTON, Jr., (son of Mr. Norton, late Jailor here,) at the early age of 33 years.—Mr. Norton was first apprenticed to the printing business in Cobourg, and afterwards moved to Hamilton when the Provincialist was taken there by its proprietor. He afterwards worked in several of the offices of the leading papers of the United States and Canada, and was a member of the Syracuse Typographical Union. He lately returned to his home in a delicate state of health, but even since that has done some little in this office and also in the Review office. His earthly remains were accompanied to their last resting place on Monday last, by a number of his brethren in the profession and by a large concourse of friends and acquaintances. Genial, good natured and social, he was a favorite among his associates and respected by his employers. May his ashes rest in peace.

Literary Club.

In consequence of the last Reunion being held on the first Thursday in April, the annual meeting was postponed until the subsequent Thursday evening, when the following gentlemen were elected officers for the current year, viz:—

James Hall, Esq., President.
W. H. Scott, Esq., 1st Vice do.
John Burnham, Esq., 2nd Vice do.
D. J. Eastwood, Esq., 3rd Vice do.
Mr. James A. Hall, Treasurer.
Mr. J. O'Donnell, Secretary.
Mr. Walter Beall, Asst. do. and Collector.
Mr. William Cameron, Librarian.
DIRECTORS.—Messrs. D. Haggart, J. Z. Rogers, H. T. Strickland, Cornell, Dunner and Mason.

The following subject will be discussed this evening, viz:—"Would it be expedient to alter the jury law so as to make the verdict of three-fourths binding," and will be taken part in by the following gentlemen: Affirmitive—Messrs. Eastwood, Ewing, J. A. Hall and Cornell. Negative—Messrs. J. Burnham, W. H. Scott, Beall and Knapp.

The Review is excited to an extraordinary degree over a report that it furnished its readers of a meeting of Reformers held here about two weeks since, and glories over the so literary correct report that he is almost lost in ecstacies. The Globe and our humble selves, however, did not come up to the standard of the Review, although he was allowed to rest himself standing during the whole proceedings. It is truly amusing to read so much egotism. Not long since we were treated to a lengthened essay on egotism and vanity, and we then thought that the Review would not be guilty of that for which he wantonly abused his neighbours; but he does not see himself as others see him. Perhaps we may venture, humbly venture, to assert that the synopsis of proceedings furnished by us was more literally correct than that of the Review with all its boasting, although we were not present, while the Editor of the Review was present. We do not pretend to have given a full report, and we know from good authority that the egotistic gentleman did not give a full one; and we are further informed, that his report is not even in the order of delivery at all; and yet he tells us that his report merited commendation. He also lectures George Brown for not giving a full report. Why did he not do it, since he was present; or why does he not tell the truth and say that a full report of the meeting could be one of the question, and that space could not be given to it, and and also that even he put in those parts that suited his own ends? His fulsome praise of self is amusing indeed.

THE ASSIZES.

Miller vs. Hall, or really Ball.—The verdict for the plaintiff we merely announced in our last issue. This was an action brought by Mitchell Miller against Sheriff Hall to recover the amount of an execution that had been placed in his hands for collection. Mr. Hall who disputed by Mr. Miller to seize a pair of timbers then in the Little Lake; This Mr. Hall did; but a pretended owner claimed the timber, and, under this claim, sold or took the timber, but indemnified the Sheriff for permitting them, by placing money in the bank for that purpose, and hence, now, instead of Hall were the bona fide defendants. The verdict was given for $680.00.

The Queen vs. J. A. Burtch.—This was an action against the defendant for cutting timber in Dummer, on a lot belonging to J. D. Armour, with intent to move away. Action, now, for cutting timber with intent to move away may be made criminal or civil; and the fine, if criminal, is $100 or six months in jail, or both, at the discretion of the court. The defence was that Mr. Buck's lumbering business being conducted by his father, he was to a great degree, if not entirely, ignorant of the cutting of the timber on Armour's lot, the west half of 17 in the 8th concession of Dummer, and that they believed that the east half of the lot was in their limits, and merely accidentally passed their own lines. It was shown, however, at the trial that the east half of said lot belonged to Mr. Leilyard, Toronto, and that by returning timber as cut on it, it saved crown dues. It was also shewn that Mr. Buck had made several offers to Mr. Armour for the timber as soon as he found his men had been cutting on the lot, none of which was accepted; but Mr. Armour choose rather to bring a criminal action against Buck. The verdict was against the defendant for cutting with intent to move away. On Friday the verdict was given in and the Judge passed sentence. He remarked that being convicted, it remained for him to pass the sentence of the court. He would not send him to jail, as he might, for he would be sorry to stamp him with an act that might injure him materially. He advised him to be guided by higher rules than mere gain; to do to his neighbor as he would wish have done to him, and to respect the rights of his neighbor just as he would his own. He also remarked that he appeared to be brought into his present position through the acts of his father, who professed to be guided by higher rules than most men profess, remarking at the same time that professions and actions sometimes materially differed. Inasmuch as he was an enterprising young man, with more than a common share of intelligence, he hoped that his intelligence would be turned to proper account, and advised that if a legitimate business will not pay to give it up and give his attention to something else, as nothing but an honestly obtained gain tended to make men happy, but on the contrary rendered them miserable. He then imposed a fine of $100, none of which went to the prosecutor. H. Cameron and J. H. Cameron for pft.; Galt and Patterson for deft.—Mr. Weller being Mr. Buck's legal adviser and also crown attorney left the case wholly with his learned friends.

But how does Mr. Buck's case differ from hundreds of cases that have occurred heretofore in this county? Other lumberers as well as Mr. Buck have gone unto lots that were not their own, and took the timber off the lots too, and took it away and sold it, and pocketed the money, and yet they were not considered criminals by either judge or jury, or the people; yet to us there does not appear to be any difference. Private parties lose their timber every year, and it is to be feared that the government is not paid all the dues that should be paid, and yet the men who do this are not stamped according to this. The fact is, heretofore it has been lightly thought of; the only care being to get the timber, and too often this was the work of jobbers who could not be made pay. But it becomes criminal now, and public opinion may view it in future in a different light from the past. To us, however, Mr. Buck appears no worse than others who have done just what he did, but who have escaped prosecution.

FRIDAY.

Hayes vs. Soucie.—This was another timber case. It appeared that Hayes and Soucie had been bargaining for the timber, and that Soucie's men went on to cut down the timber. Hayes forbade them, but still they cut the timber and took it away (at least 9 pieces) and put it on the ice. Here a dispute arose between the parties about the number of pieces, Hayes claiming 11 pieces and Soucie accounting for only 9 pieces, but Hayes agreed to settle if Soucie would allow for the 11 pieces, and both being obstinate, the result was a Queen's Bench case, the cost of which will far exceed the cost of the whole timber in dispute. Verdict for plt., and $1 per tree, and $13 damages.

Griffith vs. Hall.—This was a case for false imprisonment and arose in this way: Griffith lived in a house belonging to Sheriff Hall for about 15 months and kept a saloon. He did not pay the rent, and the Sheriff took out a writ on the plea of Griffith's being about to leave the Country, and put him in bail two days, when he was let out on bail. An action followed in the County Court, and the Sheriff failed to obtain a verdict for $100 or over, the least sum for which a person can be arrested and confined in jail. The verdict of the County Court was only for $56. Griffith then enters an action against the Sheriff for imprisonment without just cause. Weller and Patterson for plt.; Dennistoun and Galt for deft. The warrant which had been issued to seize the goods of Griffith was proved to be for $125 or upwards by Jas. McWilliams. John Leake gave evidence that Griffith had told him that he was paying $120 a year of rent. Francis Erskine gave evidence that Griffith was engaged with him for a job on the railroad, and John Bird that he had rented a house from him, Bird, and had paid him a quarter's rent in advance at the time he was put in jail.—Several other witnesses were called, but the evidence were not much to the point. The Jury retired for the night, but were directed as soon as they would agree, to commit their verdict to writing and deliver it to the constable, when they might be relieved.

SATURDAY.

This morning the jury on the Griffith and Hall case gave in their verdict for defts. In the course of the trial, Patterson, for plff., submitted that inasmuch as a former jury had decided that Griffith owed the Sheriff only $56, that that sum must be taken as the amount due. The Judge over-ruled this, but gave leave to move for a new trial.

The last case was Municipality of Burleigh, Anstruther and Chandos vs. Mooney or A. H. Campbell & Co.—This was also an action for cutting trees on the allowance for road in the municipality. The defts. allowed a verdict, the damages to be determined by Mr. De Nissons as sole arbitrator, so that this case did not come before the court at all.

The business of the court was got through in good time and from the decided stand that Judge Wilson took on some points, there having doubtful points or cases of participation, did not care to have them come before him. We are persuaded that if we had a few more such men in his position, there would be fewer cases in our courts, as few would be willing to have his scathing remarks levelled at them.

HAD HE POWER TO DO IT?—The death of the wife of Duncan McGee who was coming to count, but died on the way, not a word or two. The man who went to serve the summons on Mrs. Paul Patterson as a witness, instead of doing so, blotted or smoked out the words "Mrs. Paul Patterson" and substituted for it Mrs. McGee, and served Mrs. McGee. What right had he to do so? His act in this case is the cause of the death of the woman, and yet he is not brought to account for it. It a constable takes upon him to put out one name and substitute another for it without any authority but his own, and can thus bring any person he may choose 40 or 50 miles to court, to what may such abuses tend? One thing is certain, Mrs. McGee (on her ignorance of law) is imposed on and induced to leave her home on a long journey for which she was totally unprepared and unable to perform, and she died on the way, and this, in our opinion, was brought about by the act of an incapable petty constable or one serving in that capacity.

Flax Growing.

We would call the attention of our readers to Mr. Calcutt's advertisement in another column. Mr. C. has done much to encourage the growth of flax round here, and from the array of names and the profits of those who have tried it, others in the trial would have nothing to regret. It is sure to pay all who give it a fair trial, and on the plan Mr. Calcutt proposes, there can be no hindrance. He provides the seed and waits for a return until the farmer brings him the new straw. We certainly think we are giving a wise advice when we say, give the flax crop a fair trial.

A murder case in Montreal occupied the court Wednesday and Thursday, and was not finished. The prisoner is accused, and likely to be found guilty, of killing his father-in-law and then burning his body in a lime kiln, out of which bones, buttons and other things recognized as belonging to the murdered man were taken. The buttons were identified by his wife, who is a squaw.

On the opening of the Court on Tuesday morning the jury man who was taken sick on Saturday, failed to come into the box. Mr. Trenholm declared that he (the jury-man) was now so seriously indisposed that it would be three weeks before he could possibly be able to sit further upon the present trial. In consequence of this the Court ordered the jury to be discharged. A fresh jury were then sworn, and the trial was begun anew.—Witness.

LESLIE'S LADY'S MAGAZINE for May is received and contains, as usual, some excellent fashion plates, which the ladies only know how to appreciate. The reading matter is of the usual style, and will no doubt find many readers.

Some of the citizens of Ottawa have formed themselves into a Baker's Association, owing to the high price of bread at the present bakeries. This new association guarantees bread at $1 80 to $1.90 per dozen, while at the old establishments it is now $2.30 per dozen. The shares in the association are $5 each. Companies of this sort have been organized in other places and are said to have paid well, besides making the price of bread less also.

The Belleville Intelligencer says, that attempts were made during last week to rob one or two shops in that town. Burglars have also attempted to rob the safe in the office of Messrs. Robertson & Stewart. The house of Mr. Hambly, a saloon keeper, was also entered, but little was obtained by the burglars. Two of the mounted police were suspected, and one of them named Thomas Johnson has confessed his guilt.

The Montreal Banks have been victimized to the amount of about $30,000 by a counterfeiter, who passed spurious sovereigns and half-sovereigns. The party is arrested, and is named McDonald. His counterfeiting apparatus was discovered also, and large quantities of gold coins. It is believed that about $30,000 have been passed on the different Banks in Montreal.

FRANCE AND PRUSSIA.—These two powers are watching each other with a somewhat jealous eye. From all appearances there may be an out-break between them before many days. Napoleon may march an army into the disputed territory and induce a collision between his and Prussian forces which are in the vicinity, and if he does, Europe will once more be in commotion.

ASHBURNHAM.

The Council of the Village of Ashburnham met on Monday evening.

All the members present.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed

A By-law was passed empowering the Reeve to make a deed of the site of the drill shed to the government.

The collector returned the Roll for 1866, and was allowed statements by order of Council, $13.96, and there was $47.12 where nothing could be found to destrain.

The Court of Revision was appointed to be held on Monday, the 13th May.

On motion of Mr. Bennett, an order was given to the collector for the amount of his salary for 1866, $50. Also to the Treasurer for his salary, $40. Ten dollars were granted to the Protestant Home, to aid in maintaining any person that may be therein from the Village.

On motion of Mr. Sutherland, seconded by Mr. Calcutt, the sum of $20 was granted to the Peterboro Fire Company, as a token of appreciation of their services in aiding to extinguish any fires that have occurred in the Village.

The Council intend passing a By-law at next meeting to provide for the impounding of hogs that may be found running at large in the Village, and to fix the remuneration for doing the same, and to provide for the collection of fines imposed on persons for allowing their hogs to run at large.

Mr. Thomas Armstrong was appointed pound-keeper for the current year.

The Council adjourned till the first Monday in May, at 7 o'clock, p. m.

GOLD.—The news during the week from the gold mines has not been of a very exciting character, spring operations not having yet commenced to any extent. Since last, Dr. Rathburn, of Toronto, has purchased on behalf of himself, Jas. Spence, Esq., of Toronto, and other gentlemen, 25 acres of land from Mr. Moore, one of the Rochester Mine. They also own other lands in Wilbur and Elmsley. Their private report, we believe, favoring a favorable result, and yet the last. The gentlemen wish their lands are private reader them valuable, gold having already been found on the Moore lot.

The Hon. Billa Flint showed us a good sample of gold, taken from a lot owned by Mr. Robert Nelson, in the 2nd concession of Elzevir.

The excitement is beginning to extend further south, and the people of Hungerford begin to believe they are favored as well as the more northerly portion of the County. Mr. Henry Fenn assures us he has experienced "indications" on his lot No. 4, in the 4th concession of Hungerford, and exhibited good specimens of quartz in proof.

The King-ton Daily News records the following mean Yankee trick:—A widow living on Division street in that city, who keeps cows and makes a living by selling milk, had a good price offered her a few days since, for one of the animals by a Yankee peddler. The cow was sold and the price was paid in "shinplasters" supposed to contain silver, but which were not opened. On the following day the woman put one of the packages in her pocket and came down town to purchase some articles from a person to whom she was indebted, saying at the same time, "you had better count the money." On the package being opened it was found to contain exactly $5 in fifty cent pieces, the remainder of the space being made up of coppers, so leaving not as to give them the ready discovery. The woman hurried home and examined the remaining cartridges, but found them correct. She was not in time however to recover the five dollars out of which she had been swindled. This little piece of Yankee trickery should put people on their guard in their dealings with strangers from the land of wooden nut megs and basswood hams.

The energetic protest of Count Bismarck against the military preparations being made by the French has had no visible effect, except, perhaps, to redouble the vigor shown by France. The cable despatches may at an early day inform us that France has completed the sum of its offence to Prussia by marching a strong corps of observation on the Luxemburg frontier.—Such a movement by France would be tantamount to a declaration of hostilities, and as Prussia has already a strong force in the Duchy, it is not improbable that a collision would immediately take place. Napoleon will, we have no doubt, pursue a cautious policy, but Bismarck is evidently in no humor to brook anything in the shape of a menace from Napoleon, and hence it is, that the danger of hostilities are imminent.

The Minerve states that the delegates of the Provinces recently in London, are to form the future Privy Council of the Confederation, and they have already come to an understanding among themselves upon many points of organization and patronage. It was this council, our contemporary says, which offered a ministerial portfolio to Lieutenant-Governor Mr. Cartier, which shows an amiable disposition to make things agreeable to each other.—Witness.

A document is being extensively signed by the members of both Houses of the British Parliament to obtain, if possible, the creation of the Red River Settlement into a Crown colony, with a Governor and Council. It has a population of 12,000 persons, who are now dependent upon the tender mercies of the Hudson Bay Company.

The Ottawa Citizen says that incendiary fires are of such frequent occurrence in that city, that fear of fire, like a night mare, rests on the city. Several fires have occurred lately, during which the inmates had barely time to escape alive, and in one case on Friday morning last, a human being was consumed.

An attempt was made to break the jail at Sandwich about a week since. Two of the prisoners knocked down the jailor and turnkey, and, but for an individual who heard cries for help and said he would shoot the prisoners if they did not desist, they might have got away.

PRINCE MIMSOTATOC.—The heir of the Temporal Throne of Japan is now at Paris at the great exhibition. He is fifteen years of age and is attended by a suite of 30 persons. He is going to remain five years in France to complete his studies and learn the French language.

Lieut. Col. Sir Henry Havelock, son of the distinguished East Indian General, has been appointed Assistant Quartermaster General in Canada, succeeding Colonel Wolseley, whose term of service has expired. —Exchange.

The "Great Eastern carried home only 191 passengers on her first trip, and it is estimated that the deficiency on this first voyage will be from $80,000 to $100,000.

The strike in the Lehigh coal region has terminated, the men acceding to the reduction of wages. In some of the Schuylkill collieries the miners are again at work.

The people of Halifax are making arrangements for holding an exhibition of the industrial products, manufactures, and articles of commerce of Nova Scotia.

BATEMAN'S WAFERS.—The great public remedy have now been in use over twenty years, hence it cannot be said that they are on trial. They have been thoroughly tried, and pronounced (on the authority of those whose lives and health they have preserved) to be a pure, harmless, and eminently salutary preparation, and if taken in season will invariably cure colds, coughs, sore throat, and all Bronchial affection. One fair trial will convince the most skeptical. Sold by all medicine dealers, at 25cts. per box.

OUTRAGE ON THE TRACK.—A recent attempt was made in Cincinnati to rob the General of his jewels, of which he has a large and costly collection, the burglars broke into the dressing room as stated to where he was performing, and discovered everything they could lay their hands on, and among the trifles stolen was a lot of the "Canadian Pain Destroyer," with which the General had supplied himself in the case of coughs, colds, pains in the stomach, diarrhœa and cholera. Sold by all Medicine Dealers at 25 cts per bottle.

FLAX GROWING.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.

If any Farmer wishes to try an acre or five of Flax, I will furnish them with seed, and wait for the price of it until the delivery of the Flax. As I have established a flax-raising Mill amongst you, I think it is the duty of every Farmer to try an acre, if not more, of Flax, for a few years, so as to give it a fair trial. That it is the best spring crop I will leave them to prove themselves, and will give you the names of a few Farmers who grew it last year to their entire satisfaction:—

R. Brown, Esq., Douro, 2½ acres, 7 tons 600 lbs.....$102 70
R. Reid, Esq., Dverо, 2 acres, 5½ tons, 22 50
C. Crowley, Esq., Douro, 1 acre, 3 tons 1120 lbs..... 49 00
J. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2½ acres, 7½ tons..... 105 00
A. Moore, Esq., Smith, 2 acres, 7½ tons, 110 50
A. Watt, Esq., Smith, 1 of an acre, 3 tons 764 lbs..... 43 32
T. Telly, Esq., Smith, 1 acre, 3 tons.... 36 00
Mess. Walton, Esq., Smith, 3 acres, 6 tons 800 lbs..... 81 00
A. Bradbury, Esq., Smith, 1 bushel, 2 tons 320 lbs..... 29 20
J. Hogan, Esq., Douro, 1 bushel, 3 tons 200 lbs..... 40 20
O. McKeon, Esq., Otonabee, 2 bushels, 4 tons 1020 lbs..... 62 52

These are a great many more I could give you the names of, but as these gentlemen are the most prominently known I refer to them only. In every other place in Canada where there has been a Scutching Mill established, the Farmers have come forward and willingly bound themselves to raise from 300 to 500 tons for five years. If the crop will not pay, why do farmers in other places bind themselves to grow it? There was as high as one thousand tons grown in and about Streetsville last year. Let every farmer try an acre or two, until he sees his land how suitable it will be for growing it. I have given you references from all the townships around here; you see they have all done equally well. Another great advantage to some of the Farmers would be the early market they could make, for it is only necessary after pulling the flax to allow it to dry sufficiently before selling it, when they can realize money to assist them in harvesting their other crops.

A New Discovery better than the MADOC GOLD.

Notice for a Cold—Relief in five Minutes

WHY do you suffer with a bad Cold when one bottle of Morris's Electric Invigorating Fluid will cure the worst cold in three days. It is far superior to any pain-killer or Liniment or Ready-relief. Try it once and you will not keep your house without it, for after all other remedies have failed it has cured hundreds of rheumatism, frost bites, chilblains, burns, scalds, bruises, sprains, pains in the bowels, fresh cuts, lame back, headache and all pains internal and external. Sold everywhere at 25 cents per bottle. Retail and wholesale only by E. MORRIS, Peterborough, C. W. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money refunded. Every one should have a bottle.

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed without assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

CANCERS CURED!

By a new, but certain, speedy, and nearly painless process, and

WITHOUT THE USE OF THE KNIFE.

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will cost less and is more speedily cured than when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by de ay. What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small wart or sore on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. If required, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. No money required in advance, and none until the cure is complete.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

And for the speedy cure of the following complaints, which are daily performing, before the eyes of the public, cures as wonderful as any recorded in the annals of medicine. Such cures point unerringly to the fact that this Sarsaparilla has virtues unknown to any other remedy. Invalids should not trifle with sores, pimples, blotches, boils, tumors, tetter, salt rheum, ringworm, scurvy, erysipelas, itch, scaly or rough skin, and internal corruptions, but without unnecessary delay get this remedy, and cast out the evils that are preying upon their vitals. Scrofula, the most malignant and deadly of all the diseases that afflict humanity, has baffled the skill of physicians, and stuck to me in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I tried your Sarsaparilla. One bottle cured me in two weeks and restored my general health so much that I am far better than before I was attacked. I think it a wonderful medicine. J. FERAN.

Jules V. Gotchell, of St. Louis, writes: "I have been afflicted for years with an affection of the Liver, which destroyed my health. I tried every thing, and every thing failed to relieve me; and I have been a broken-down man for some years from no other cause than derangement of the Liver. My beloved pastor, the Rev. Mr. Happ, advised me to try your Sarsaparilla, because he said he knew you, and any thing you made was worth trying. By the blessing of God it has cured me, and has so purified my blood as to make a new man of me. I feel young again. The best that can be said of you is not half good enough."

Schirras, Cancer Tumors, Enlargement, Ulceration, Caries and Exfoliation of the Bones.

A great variety of cases have been reported to us where cures of these formidable complaints have resulted from the use of this remedy, but our space here will not admit them. Some of them may be found in our American Almanac, which the agents below named are pleased to furnish gratis to all who call for them.

Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Melancholy, Neuralgia

Many remarkable cures of these affections both have been made by the alterative power of this medicine. It stimulates the vital functions into vigorous action, and thus overcomes disorders which would be supposed beyond its reach. Such a remedy has long been required by the necessities of the people, and we are confident that this will do for them all that medicine can do.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the Relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced Stages of the Disease.

This is a remedy so universally known to surpass any other for the cure of throat and lung complaints that it is useless here to publish the evidence of its virtues. Its unrivalled excellence for coughs and colds, and its truly wonderful cures of pulmonary disease, have made it known throughout the civilized nations of the earth. Few are the communities, or even families, among them who have not some personal experience of its effects—some living trophy in their midst of its victory over the subtle and dangerous disorders of the throat and lungs. As all know the dreadful fatality of these disorders, and as they know, too, the effects of this remedy, we need say no more than to assure them that it has now all the virtues that it did have when making the cure which have won so strongly upon the confidence of mankind.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

CONSUMPTION

BY THE

GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY

IN CANADA.

MESSRS. Y. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I Wilson Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say,—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coughed nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Esq. Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve my cough." He said, "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a table spoonful at once which I felt through my whole system; at night I took a table spoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I am hearty and strong. I took only three bottles. I can now take it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was afflicted with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

Poetry

THE PASSAGE OF THE RED SEA.

When Moses' rod,
By the power of God,
Tore from its depths th' affrighted wave,
Did your courage sink
As ye reached the brink
Of the sand that covered the seaman's grave?

What wonders met
Your eyes, all wet
With tears the coral branches weep?
Or rapt in thought,
Did ye remember
But the crystal walls of the stricken deep?

Yet turn an eye
To the rampart high
Of your straight and deep untrodden lane,
For flowers are there
Of a kind so rare,
That ye never shall see their like again.

There are lofty trees
That the wooing breeze
Of heaven has never kissed before,
Whose every nest
Is a home of rest
For beings your eyes shall meet no more.

O hurl a dart
To the beating heart
Of the serpent gliding swift away,
Ere worth a world
To watch, unfurled,
Those shining folds in the light of day.

O grasp, O grasp
With a miser's clasp,
The nameless things that round you lie;
Bring up, bring up
Th' enamelled cup
Of coral of deepest scarlet dye!

But vain for speech
To strive to reach
The hearts of men so drowned in awe;
Enough for them
To touch the hem
Of the ocean's skirts as his feet withdraw.

When his rocky bed
Shall again be spread
To mortal view, a stranger sight
Shall fill our eyes
Than the changing dyes
Of the creeping thing or the coral bright.

When there shall be
No covering sea,
This ground shall shake from coast to coast,
And a rising hand
Shall heave the sand,
And follow the tread of a mightier host.

Each hand a blade
Shall grasp o'erlaid
With leaves and flowers of the ocean's giving,
Through the calm and strife
Of a world's long life—
Like death in the clasp of the fondly living.

And ah! when we
Shall cross the sea,
Our promised land of rest to find,
There is a path
From Pharaoh's wrath
For us who leave our bonds behind.

The Son of God,
With outstretched rod,
Again commands the waves to sever,
And every sin,
As it followeth in,
Is lost in that tideless deep for ever.

Miscellaneous.

THE SNOWING-UP OF STRATH LUGAS.

Concluded.

The weather was becoming so stormy, and the snow so deep, that it was impossible for any one to leave the house that night. The hospitable laird immediately set about making accomodation for so large a party, and by a little management he contrived to render every body comfortable. The fiddlers were lodged in the barn, the ladies settled by the half-dozen in a room, and a supply of cloaks was collected for the gentlemen in the hall. Where people are willing to be pleased, it is astonishing how easy they find it. Laughter long and loud resounded through all the apartments, and morn began to stand up on the misty mountain-tops, ere sleep and silence took possession of the mansion.—Next day the storm still continued. The prospect, as far as the eye could reach, was a dreary waste of snow; and it was soon perceived, by those who were skilful in such matters, that the whole party were fairly snowed up, and how long their imprisonment might last no one could tell.—It was amazing with what equanimity the inteligence was listened to; one or two young ladies, who had been particularly pleased with their partners, went so far as to say it was delightful.

The elders of the party bore it with great good humour, on being assured from the state of the larder there was no danger of a famine; and, above all, the laird himself, who had some private schemes of his own to serve, was elevated into the seventh heaven by the embargo laid on his guests.

'If this bides three days there'll be a dizzen couple before Leddy-day. It's no possible for a lad and a lass to be snawit up thegether three days without melting—but we'll see the night how we're to be managed. Ha—onybody seen Mrs. Carmichael and Miss Mowbray this morning?'

But before this question could be answered the ladies entered the room. They were both pale from their last night's adventure; but while the elder lady was shaking hands with her friends, and receiving their congratulations, the eyes of her young companion wandered searchingly round the apartment till they fell on Charles Melville, immediately a flush came over her cheeks, which before was deadly pale, and she darted forward and held out her hand.—He rushed and caught it, and even in presence of all that company, could scarcely resist the inclination to put it to his lips.

'Thanks! thanks!' was all she said, and even in saying these short words her voice trembled, and a tear came to her eye.—But when she saw that all looks were fixed on her, she blushed more deeply than ever, and retired to the side of Mrs. Carmichael. This scene passed by no means unobserved by the laird.

'Stupid whalp!' he said, 'what for did he no lean her, an' it were just to gi her cheeks an excuse for greetin' see reg'?—Od, if I had saved her frae drownin, I wadna hae been sae nice,—that's to say, my dear,' he added to his wife, who was standing near, 'if I hadna a wife o' my ain.'

The storm had lasted for five days. How the plans of the laird, with regard to the matrimonial comforth of his guests prospered, I have no intention of detailing. I believe, however, he was right in his predictions, and the minister was presented with eight several sets of teethings within three months. Many a spinster at this moment looks back with regret to her absence from the snow-party of Strath Lugas, and dates all her misfortunes from that unhappy circumstance. On the fourth morning of the imprisonment the laird was presented with a letter from Charles Melville. In it he informed him that he dared not be absent longer in case of his regiment being ordered abroad, and that he had taken the chance and had set off on his homeward way in spite of the snow. It ended with thanks for all his kindness, and an affectionate farewell. When this was announced to the party, they expressed great regret at his absence; it seemed to surprise them all. Mrs. Carmichael was full of wonder on the occasion; but Miss Mowbray seemed totally unmoved at his departure. She was duller in spirits than before, and refused to dance; but in other respects the witch was as uproarious, and the dancing as joyous as ever—and in a day the snow was sufficiently cleared away—the party by different conveyances broke up—and the laird was left alone, after a week of constant enjoyment.

Four years after the events I have related, a young man presented himself for the first time in the pump-room at Bath. The gossips of that busy city formed many conjectures as to who and what he could be—some thought him a foreigner, some a man of consequence incog.; but all agreed that he was a soldier and an invalid. He seemed to be about six-and-twenty, and was evidently a perfect stranger. After he had stayed in the room and listened for a short time to the music, he went out into the street, and just as he made his exit by one door, the sexton of the old building who congregate under the orchestra were called into activity by the entrance through the other of a young lady leaning on the arm of an old one. Even so simple an incident as this, is sufficient in a place like Bath to give rise to various rumors and conjectures. She was tall, fair and very beautiful, but she also seemed in bad health, and to be perfectly unknown. Such an event had not occurred at the pump-room for ages before. Even the master of the ceremonies was at fault. As near as he could guess, to the best of his conjecture, he believed he had never seen either the gentleman or the lady.'

Idle surmises of all kinds were going their rounds in this manner, the gentleman pursued his walk up Milsom Street. His pace was slow and his strength did not seem equal even to so gentle an exertion. He leant for support upon his walking-stick, and heard, mingled with many coughs, a voice which he well knew, saying 'Charlie! Charlie Melville, I say! put, ye loul's backie—ugh, ugh!—are a damned conveyance for a Highland gentleman. Ah, Charlie, lad,' said our old acquaintance, the laird, who had now got up to where his friend was standing, 'sad times for baith o' us.—Here am I scant up here wi' a cough, and shake a kurk, ugh, ugh. An' the gout in baith my feet—to be hurled about in a chair that gangs upon wheels—ugh, ugh, by a lazy English vagabond that winna understand a word I say till him. An' you! and here the old man looked up in the young soldier's face—Oh, Charlie, Charlie is this what the wars hae brocht ye to? —ugh, ugh. Yer verra mither wadna ken ye—but come awa, come awa to my lodgings in Pulteney Street, and tell us a' about what ye've been doin'—ugh, ugh—my fit, my fit! na' awa ye scrow-do-weel; turn about an' be hanged till ye—do ye no ken the road to Pulteney Street yet? Come awa, Charlie man, dinna hurry.' And thus mingling his commands to his charioman with complaints of the gout and conversation to his friend, the laird led the way to his lodgings.

Charlie's story was soon told. He had shared in all the dangers and triumphs of the last three years of the war. He had been severely wounded at Waterloo, and had come to Bath with a debilitated frame and a major's commission. But though he spoke of past transactions as gaily as he could, the quick eyes of the laird perceived that there was some 'secret sorrow which weighed down his spirits. 'An' did ye meet with nae love adventure in your travels? for ye maunna tell me a bit wound in the shoulder would make ye sae downhearted as ye are. Is there nae Spanish or Flemish lassie that gies ye a sair heart? Tell it a' to me, an' if I can be of ony use in bringin' it about, ye may depend I'll do all in my power to help ye.'

'No,' replied Charlie, smiling at the continued match-making propensities of his friend; 'I shall scarcely require your services on that score. I never saw French woman or Spaniard that cost me a single sigh.' And here, as if by the force of the word itself, the young man sighed.

'Weel, it maun be some English or Scotch lassie then; for it's easy to be seen that somebody costs ye a sigh. I aince thought ye were in a fair way o' winnin' you bonny creature ye saved frae the spate o' the Lugas—but ye gaed awa' in such a hurry the pleat hadna time to tak' root.'

'She was too rich for the poor penniless subaltern to look to,' replied the young man, a deep glow seeming over his face.

'Havers! havers! She was far given a' her heart ye micht for a feat o' dry ground. An' so ye cam her, ye had the best right to wear her. And I'm muckle mistake if the lassie didna think nae harsh.'

'Miss Mowbray must have overrated my services; but at all events I had no right to take advantage of that fortunate accident to better my fortunes by presuming on her feelings of gratitude to the preserver.'

'What for no? what for no?' cried the laird, 'you should have married her on the spot. There were aught couples sprang from the same meeting—ye should have made the match, and then ye wadna hae had a ball put through your shoother, nor ever moved frae the braw bonnes o' Surrey. Od, I wish it had been me that took her out o' the water; that is, if I had been as young as you, and Providence had afflicted me with the loss o' Mrs Kirton.'

'If I had been on a level with her as to fortune——'

'Weel, but noo your brither's dead, ye're heir o' the auld house, an' ye're a major—wha's to forbid the bans noo?'

I have never heard of Miss Mowbray from that hour to this; in all probabilities she is married to some lucky fellow——'

'She wasna married when I saw Mrs Carmichael four months since, she was in what ladies call delicate health though; she has aye been melancholy since the loss o' the water business. Mrs. Carmichael thought ye were a great fool for running awa.'

'Mrs. Carmichael is very kind.'

'Deed is she,' replied the laird, 'as kind-hearted a woman as ever lived. She's may be a thocht owre auld, or I didna doubt she wad be very happy to marry ye herself.'

'I hope her gratitude would not carry her to such an alarming length,' said Charles laughing. 'It would make the young men rather tender of saving ladies' lives.'

'If I knew whar she was just noo, I would soon put everything to rights. It's no owre late yet, though ye maun get fatter before the marriage—ye wad be nae like a skeleton than a bridegroom. But save us! what's the matter wi' ye? are ye no' weel?—headache—gout—what is't, man?—confound my legs, I canna stir.—Sit doons and rest ye.'

But Charles, with his eyes intently fixed on some object in the street, gazed as if some horrible apparition had met his sight. Alternately flushed and pale, he continued as if entranced and then deeply sighing, he sank senseless on the floor.

'Rory, Rory!' screamed the laird—'ugh, ugh! oh! that I could get at the bell!—Cheer up, Charlie Fire! fire!—ugh, ugh, the lad will be dead before a soul comes near him!—Rory, Rory!'—And luckily the ancient henchman, Rory M'Taggart, made his appearance in time to save his master from choking through mingled fear and surprise. Charles was soon recovered, and, when left again alone with the laird, he said, 'As I hope to live, I saw her from this very window just as we were speaking of her. Even her face I saw! oh, changed and pale! But her walk—no two can have such a graceful carriage.'

'Seen who?' said the laird. 'Mrs. Carmichael? for it was her we were speakin' o'—aye, she's nae changed; and her walk is weel like it; only I thocht she was a wee stiffer frae the rheumatism last year. But whar is she?'

'It was Miss Mowbray I saw. She went into the house opposite.'

'What! the house wi' the brass knocker, green door—the veranda with the flowerpots, and twa dead geraniums?'

'Yes.'

'Then, just ring the bell, and tell that English creatur to pu' me in the wee whirligig across the street—'

'I spoke to, my dear laird! recollect your gout—'

'Deil hae the gout and the cough too!'

And away, in spite of all objections and remonstrances, went the laird to pay his visit. Now, if anyone should doubt as to the success of his negotiations, I—the writer of this story—Charles Melville, late major of the —th regiment, will be happy to convince him of it, if he will drop in on me any day at Mowbray-hall, by my own evidence, and also that of my happy and till beautiful Madeline, though she is the mother of three rosy children, who are at this moment making such an intolerable noise, that I cannot understand a sentence I am writing. (I may just mention, that the laird attended the wedding and that his cough entirely left him. He does not suffer an attack of the gout more than once a year. He has adopted my second boy, and every autumn we spend three months with him at Strath Lugas. Oh! that all the chambers were as innocent and disinterested as jolly old Simon Kirton!

The Meerschaum Pipe.

The Fat Contributor who recently made a lamenting raid through Michigan contributes the following on Meerschaum:—

Meerschaum pipes are all made from the foam of the sea. There is no question about it, but, then, there is a great difference in foam. It isn't always a good day for the sea to foam when the pipe-makers go down to the beach to make the pipes, and buyers foam about it, but it can't be helped. It seems singular that anybody should want foam at the mouth, but there are numbers who do, it seems; paying heavily for the adjunct of, madness, and getting madder as they doubt the genuineness of the foam.

There is very little made on meerschaum pipes. It is expensive going to the seaside to get the foam, and it takes a great deal of it to make a pipe. One hundred and twenty-six gallons make a pipe—so if you know how much foam one gallon will make, you can estimate the amount you will require for your meerschaum.

The wooden stems to the meerschaum pipes are not made from the waste foam so many suppose, neither are the cases found floating around on the foamy waste, already spun. The lining can to be put in afterward.

The cost of meerschaum pipes range anywhere from what you can buy one for to any sum you are a mind to pay. As a general rule, the more you pay for one the more money you have squandered, and the least possible sum that you can get one for the better you are satisfied afterward. We have had a great many of them, but the one we were the most contented with, all things considered, was the one that was given us. It wasn't very good foam either, but we never uttered a complaint. We wouldn't look a soft pipe in the mouth, and it was in the mouth the most of the time.

When the meerschaum pipe remains white it is not surrounded with a hundredth part of the respect that it commands when it is colored, which isn't very different from the estim in certain philanthropists put upon objects of human charity, when appealed to their behalf. It is a long and arduous process, coloring a meerschaum and it requires a heap of perseverance to accomplish it. The perseverance of some people runs only in that direction. We have known men who were discouraged at the slightest obstacle in ordinary affairs exhibit the greatest persistency in the.

We once knew a man to struggle for years to color a particularly obstinate meerschaum pipe. He smoked incessantly. He tried all the different kinds of tobacco, put a "bottom" in it, boiled it in tobacco juice but all to no avail. It wouldn't color. He grew morose and sour, shut himself up by himself and ate and smoked and smoked, and ate and smoked, muttering savagely from between his clenched teeth—"Color! I say, D—n ye, I'll color ye!" He gave up all business, and devoted himself wholly to smoking, determined, as he said, to color that pipe or die in the attempt. One day he fainted to make his appearance at breakfast. His room was opened and there he sat in his chair, dead, the fatal meerschaum clenched tightly between his teeth. The meerschaum was as white as when it first emerged, Venus-like, from the foam of the sea, but the man was turned a rich, dark brown. The meerschaum had colored him!

WOMEN.

One would imagine in Paris that women had only just been created, so incessantly the Parisian mind busies itself with their description and analysis and classification. Balzac writes chapters and Michelet books about them, whose influence crosses the Channel and unhappily inspires Charles Reade; Labouyaie lectures about their history, and the reporters at the opening day of the Chamber of Deputies find no topic so important as the description of their dresses. Following the general fashion, a Parisian journal propounded, as an intellectual exercise for its subscribers, the invention of a suitable definition for "the sex," and received an enormous quantity of answers. I select some of them:—

"A woman is a necessity, which Providence has converted into an enjoyment."

"Definition geometrical—Woman is a polygon, for she has many sides, good and bad."

"It is a being who has not the soul in the body, but the body in the soul."

"A woman is a being capable of experiencing sensations, but sentiments never."

"At distance, a rose without a thorn; approached, a thorn without a rose."

"Woman fill up the intervals in conversation and in life like the down placed in glass boxes; we reckon the down nothing, yet everything would break to piece with out it."

"The woman of the world is she women who knows how to be distinguished with a toilet of two louis, and simple with a thousand crowns."

"The women of the world is she who is enough so never to be obliged to announce to what circles she moves."

"It is she who feels at home wherever she finds herself."

The Virtue of Intemperance.

Magistrates with Mules' ears, hearken to the words of Henry Brougham, delivered at the meeting of the Social Science Congress:—"One sees with astonishment and indignation, in cases before Magistrates in the country, intoxication urged in extenuation of offences, wherein it is a gross aggravation. No Magistrate ought to suffer one such word to be uttered before him on the part of the accused.—Any Magistrate is bound to stop the party or his advocate the instant he begins on this, and to tell him that if intoxicated he must suffer a punishment more severe, and the Magistrate is further bound to take it in enjoining the circumstances of the case. It is untenable that a most wholesome effect could be produced by the general impression being made that drunkenness, though by law it may not be liable to punishment, except by small pecuniary penalty, yet makes offences to which it has given rise more severely punishable."—Bravo, Henry Brougham! These words of you a shout be inscribed in every country justice room and common session chamber. First impose a fine for drunkenness, and then an aggravated penalty for the offence which has been aggravated by the drunkenness which led to it. Temperance is a virtue; but in the eyes of purblind Magistrates there is a virtue in intemperance, and they foolishly regard it as extenuating crime. If drunkenness be viewed as an extenuating circumstance, there is a direct encouragement for criminals to drink. A man who wants to thrash his wife may first get tipsy at a pothouse, and then beat her to a jelly and feel sure of a light punishment because of the excuse that he was influenced by drink. Thus, from the sword of justice he is shielded by the beer-pot. But Lord Brougham is surely right, drunkenness should be treated as aggravating crime. Men never ought to run the risk of getting tipsy, if they lose all self-control and act either like maniacs or criminals when drunk. Drunkenness is an offence, and legally indictable; and if one offence is held to extenuate another, we may hear, perhaps of murder being pleaded in excuse of forgery or theft.—Punch.

HOW TO EDUCATE.—Education is not the putting a sharp weapon into a man's hand, but training him to employ for good purposes whatever weapon may come to his way. Let the schoolmaster, when he is abroad, step into the messengers, and borrow thence the leading principles of his art. We know better how to educate a lion than how to educate a man. Education is to train a child out of bad habits into good: and reading or writing are useful or hurtful just as they aid, or hinder, the accomplishment of this end.—Rev. W. Arnot.

Collard says his estate lies in a ring fence—and points to his girl's left hand.

The European War Cloud.

The cable despatches, (says the Boston Journal) in regard to the difficulties between France and Prussia indicate that a peaceful settlement will scarcely be possible. Both parties are reported to be quietly and vigorously preparing for a contest with arms, and if the war comes, as now seems likely, it will be entered into with a spirit by the people of both nations. The Prussian soldiers are proud of their nation, and doubly proud of the distinction they gained in the memorable campaign with Austria, and they will bring to any contest on which they may embark the confidence of the advantages of the best of weapons, and the prestige of brilliant success. The Frenchmen, too, are proud of France, and fiercely jealous for her national honor, and they will be animated in their efforts to conquer their rivals by the memory of all the brilliant campaigns which have been conducted in the past by men who fought for France and Napoleon, for national honor and personal glory.

The possession of Luxemburg is a small matter for France and Prussia to quarrel about, and the real question to be decided by a war between these powers is not to which nation Luxemburg is to belong, but to which nation shall belong the leadership of Europe. France cannot bear to have the position awarded to Prussia, and Prussia is of the opinion that her brilliant success in vanquishing Austria entitles her to the decisive vote in all matters of European politics. A war between these two nations, headed by Napoleon and Bismarck will be an interesting spectacle for the world. Both these leaders are rare men, possessing wonderful diplomatic skill and strategic power, and a contest between them, backed by the mighty resources of their respective nations, will be a contest indeed. The resources of modern scientific invention will be made use of to the fullest possible extent in preparing the engines of war, and it is appalling to think of the loss of life that will result from such a war as France and Prussia will fight if they fight at all.—The great Exposition will be thrown completely into the back ground by such a war, and all the interests of peace will be ruthlessly sacrificed to the god of war.

The struggle may yet be avoided, for Napoleon will not be precipitated into a war if he can possibly avoid it, until the Exposition—one of the daring projects of his life—shall be fully over. But he will not gracefully bear crowding, not even by Prussia and during the Exposition, and Bismarck will find, if he undertakes a campaign against France, that the contest will be very different from the one he waged with Austria. Whoever shall finally gain the victory will have fully earned it, for it will only be the result of the most persistent fighting.

The London Times of the 9th says it is a fact that "throughout the whole of the Crimean conflict Consols were never so low as in the few preceding weeks, and the same experience was repeated in a still more remarkable degree in connection with the war between France and Italy and Austria." It adds:

"People now see that they have relied solely on the idea that the Great Exhibition would compel a temporary observance of peace, and have not duly estimated the rapid march of events which has forced the Emperor Napoleon to action. The meagre formalities that attended the inauguration of the Exhibition, and a number of kindred indications are recalled at the present moment as facts that might have served for premonitions, and little surprise would be occasioned should it be proposed to postpone the anticipated gathering till next year. All persons seem confident that if a blow is to be struck it will be struck without delay, and that, consequently, the suspense will not be prolonged beyond the present month. The chief strength of France for immediate superiority lies apparently in her iron-clad fleet for the blockade of every German port, and hence, as Germany makes about one-tenth of the total exports of British produce and manufactures, the excitement and anxiety are intense in all commercial circles."

France appears to be in a decidedly unquiet condition. The Paris correspondent of the London Times writes:

"I scarcely remember any period, since the President's election in 1848, though many important events have occurred since then, when more uneasiness, disquiet and overrating discouragement prevailed among all classes of society than at this moment, and all this aggravated by the persistent silence of the Government on the questions which agitate the public mind. There is a sense of disappointment, and something more, even among those who were accustomed to place unbounded confidence in the ability of their rulers."

The same correspondent subsequently says: "The truth is, that people believe France to be drifting into war with Prussia."

In the French Legislative body, on the 8th, the Marquis de Moustier, French Minister for Foreign Affairs, thus explained the Luxemburg question:

"The Government, guided by the interests of France, which require the preservation of peace, has brought to the consideration of this question thoughts only of conciliation and peace. Nor was it the French Government that raised the discussion of the question. The unsettled situation of Luxembourg and Limburg gave rise to diplomatic communications between France and Holland, but these communications had no official character when the Dutch Cabinet consulted Prussia, and when the latter replied by appealing to the treaty of 1839. The French Government had always considered this question from three points of view—namely, as connected with the free consent of Holland, the loyal examination of the treaties by the Great Powers,—and the consultation of the wishes of the inhabitants by means of universal suffrage. The French Government is disposed to examine the question in concert with the Great Powers, and believes, therefore, that peace cannot be disturbed."

The latest news assures us that France and Prussia are not to have war. An amicable settlement is arranged and a conference is to be held in London this month to settle the matter.

The Chicago Tribune says: It is to be hoped that the mileage system will be changed before the Human possessions of North America become a part of the United States. The Mileage drawn by a Delegate in Congress from Washington Territory is about $11,000 for each session. The Delegates from the Territory of New Archangel would be entitled to $30,000, which, added to his salary, would make his compensation equal to that of the President of the United States. This would make politics lively among the Esquimaux.

La France, of Paris, April 14 says it knows from private sources that the differences between England and Spain was in a fair way of settlement.

The Princess Christian of Schleswig-Holstein (Princess Helena of England) was confined of a Prince in England on the 14th instant.

There are he actually count 44,218 exhibitors at the Paris Exposition, of which one quarter are French, 3,000 Russ, Bab, and less than 1,000 Americans.

THURSDAY, MAY 2, 1867.

THE FIRE.

We take this first opportunity to return our thanks to the firemen and citizens who aided in endeavoring to save our property on Sunday morning, for they deserve our thanks none the less, even though the property is destroyed, every effort was made to save it.

We also take this opportunity of informing our customers that the daily papers and periodicals will still be supplied by us, and will be found in the same block, one door east of the old stand. We hope to be able to re-open in a short time. Our printing establishment is not at all interfered with; all our printing business will go on as usual, and we will be thankful to the public for a continuance of their patronage in this line. Orders for books or periodicals will still be promptly attended to.

FIRE.

On Sabbath morning between four and five o'clock, fire was discovered in the basement of the store occupied by Graham & Stratton as a Bookstore. The individual who discovered it gave the alarm, but, not knowing where the fire bell was, did not ring it until some one put his head through a window in a different store and told him where to go so as to ring the bell. In a very short time the fire company were on the ground, and well and truly did they labor to confine the raging element, and if possible save the property. At five o'clock the Book Store was a complete blaze, no one could enter it, the owners made several attempts to get in but could not remain in. The firemen still continued to pour water on the building, but in spite of them the flames got into the second and even into the top storeys, as if bent on demolishing the whole block. The firemen, however, labored energetically and at length succeeded in subduing the flames, but not until the whole of Graham & Stratton's stock of books and stationery was destroyed, and the building well gutted. Mr. Pentland's Dentistry Rooms were also consumed and almost all in them. The Good Templar's Hall in the upper flat was much damaged; some of the benches were burned through the centre where they stood, the chairs also and other things. Sidney Smith's Law Office was in some danger for a while, but received no hurt more than the breaking of a few lights of glass. Mr. Clark's, Jeweler and Watchmaker, establishment was also injured by water and by removing the things, but the fire did not get into it. Lawder & Co's Dry Goods Store was supposed for a time to be in danger and the goods were all removed to the opposite side of the street, but the fire did not enter that part of the building, being confined by the energy and skill of the fire company to the part of the building in which it originated. The loss is heavy for the time the fire was in operation.

Graham & Stratton's loss is over $6,500. Mr. D. Pentland lost nearly all his instruments, carpets, fixings and some pianos and some melodeons, probably about $1,000.—Messrs. Lawder & Co., damages to the amount of $300 to $400; and the building which is owned by W. A. Scott, Esq., was damaged to the amount of $1,200 to $1,500 at the least, in our opinion.

Since writing the above, Messrs. Rowe, Kincaid and J. Robertson have estimated the cost of repairing the building, and they fix the damages to it at $1,050 to $1,000.

Graham & Stratton are the heaviest losers, their stock being an entire loss, worth about $4,500, insured for $2,000 in the Lancashire. W. A. Scott's loss in the building is fully covered in the Royal. Lawder & Co. are also fully covered in the Commercial, and Mr. Clarke, Jeweler is fully covered in the same company. The total loss will not be short of $6 500. The whole was no doubt the work of an incendiary.

On the same night the windows of the Commercial Bank were broken with stones, some of the stones that were thrown through them weighing from 6 to 7 pounds, and the windows of the Dentistry rooms of J. O'Donnell, Esq., in Ormond & Gilmour's block, were broken with stones. The fact is, it appears that Saturday night was one of complete rowdyism and drunkenness. From one to four o'clock parties were heard in different parts of the business part of the town passing to and fro, and most undoubtedly scoundrels who were about at those hours could not be about good. All decent people get to rest early on Saturday night, and we must infer that men who are up to daylight without business should be looked after as suspicious. But it is not us and thing that there are parties amongst us who would be guilty of such outrageous villiany, for he would who dreams property would take our lives if an opportunity offered with the hopes of escape, and how does the incendiary know but that he will burn up some one. In the same block there were several persons safe enough, and had the wind been unfavorable or the engine gone wrong, no one can even imagine what the consequences might have been; as it was the block was in danger of complete destruction. Fortunately, however, it was saved, but the cruel wretch who lit the torch little cared.

The Council, at its sitting on Monday, directed the Mayor to offer a reward of $25 for the apprehension and conviction of the party or parties who broke the windows, but they could not make up their minds if the occasion of the fire. This, to us, appears strange, indeed; can the bribing of a few dollars be compared than doing the town? Who knows where the next fire may take place? Found perhaps they will take up to the reality when close to their own doors. An investigation should be held, and every effort made to drag the culprit to judgment and punishment if he can be found out. But even should an inquest fail to find the guilty party out, it would have the effect of deterring others from engaging in an act that the Town Council shows a determination to ferret out. We happen to be the sufferers now; who will be the next time, the wisest among us cannot tell; but a thorough investigation would act as a wholesome check.

Reform Convention.

Owing to the incessant falling of rain yesterday and the consequent impassable state of the roads, the number of Delegates that met at Ashburnham was very small, and they concluded to adjourn the meeting. Jas. Miller, Esq., was called to the chair, and Jas. Stratton, of the Examiner, requested to act as Secretary.

The meeting being thus organized, the following resolutions were put and carried.

"Moved by Mr. Lindgate, seconded by Mr. James Anderson,—That in consequence of to-day and yesterday being exceedingly wet and disagreeable weather, thereby preventing many delegates from being present, owing to the almost impassable state of our roads; therefore, be it resolved, that this Convention of Reform Delegates do adjourn until Tuesday, the 4th day of June, prox.—the day on which our County June Fair will be held—and then to meet in the Council Hall in Ashburnham, at the hour of one o'clock, p. m., for the purpose of nominating Reform candidates for our House of Commons and the Legislature of Ontario, for the Eastern Division of the County of Peterboro."

Council Hall,
Ashburnham, 1st May, 1867.

"Moved by Mr. Anderson, seconded by Mr. Miller.—That public notice of this adjourned meeting be given in the Peterboro Examiner until the day of such meeting.—Carried."

The Fire Company.

The greatest praise is due to the Fire Company for the exertion at the late fire, on Sunday morning. Every man seemed to vie with his fellow in trying to do most, and it is satisfactory to know that their efforts were successful as far as saving the building with very little damage, considering the whole matter. Our goods it was impossible to save, as the fire was too far advanced when discovered. The following resolution of the Town Council has been handed to us for publication, which we most willingly insert, for assuredly the thanks of the Council and of the citizens, and especially of interested parties are well merited, and Mr. Clanton, at the Council, paid a high eulogium to the skill and energy of the Fire Company on Sunday morning.

CLERK'S OFFICE,
Peterborough, 30th April, 1867.

DEAR SIR,—Below please find a copy of a resolution which was unanimously passed by the Town Council at its last meeting on the 29th inst.

I am, dear sir,
Your obedient servant,
(Signed) J. EDWARDS,
Town Clerk.

JOHN O'DONNELL, Esq.,
Captain,
No. 1 Fire Company, Peterborough.

"Moved by Mr. Clanton, seconded by Mr. Kennedy,—That the thanks of this Council are justly due and are hereby tendered to the Peterboro Fire Company for their great and successful exertions in extinguishing the fire in Mr. Scott's buildings on Sunday morning, thereby saving the entire Market Block and a large amount of valuable property from destruction.—Carried."

Postponed.

The Concert of the British American Order of Good Templars, which was to have taken place last Monday evening, has been unavoidably postponed. The public may expect a rich entertainment, as we are informed that the programme is an excellent one, and due notice will be given when the Concert will come off.

Meat! Meat!

In order to correct a false impression that has got abroad, we have been requested to state that George Webber is still in his old stall in the Market House, and there he is prepared to supply his customers with some of the best meat the County can produce.

Literary Club.

We have been requested to state that the Reunion of the Literary Club will be held this evening over the Royal Canadian Bank, in consequence of the destruction of the Temperance Hall by the late fire.

The Hamilton Times says that several pioneer prospectors, who have returned home from the Madoc Gold Regions, are agreed that the whole is a humbug; that there will soon be a collapse, and that the golden hopes held out will soon pass away.

Dr. Chambers, who recently shot his brother at Perth, has been acquitted. The jury did not even bring in a verdict of common assault. The Judge merely remarked that the Doctor had been too rash.

We see it intimated that a testimonial is to be presented to J. A. McDonald, on his return from Europe, as a recognition of his important services to the country. What next?

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Council met on Monday, 27th ult.

Present—His Worship the Mayor, and Messrs Clanton, Dickson, Leonard, Stevenson, Doherty and Dixon.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication from S. Boswell, Steward of the General Hospital, to the Treasurer was read, asking that the Council would be pleased to pay a bill incurred for one Grant who owed some $41; also asking for 90 cents for one Dobson in 1865.

The Treasurer informed the Council that he had replied to the foregoing, stating that no such person as Grant had been rent by the Town Council, and that he had forwarded the 90 cents owed for Dobson.

A communication was read from Messrs. Fitzgerald & Bolger, asking assistance from the Council toward lithographing their map of the Town and Ashburnham, adding that as the Council last year did not give a decided answer, they hoped the present Council would give a decided answer. The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

The Auditors report was submitted, and also referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Clanton, Chairman of the Finance Committee, reported, recommending the payment of the following accounts:—Mr. Myers, for repairing Fire Engine, $33.25 approved; accounts for Charities, $9.80; John Kilmurry, account, $2.50. The report was adopted.

On motion of Mr. Clanton, seconded by Mr. Kennedy,—That the Mayor was authorized to offer a reward of $25 for such information as will lead to the conviction of the person or persons who broke the windows of Messrs. Ormond & Gilmour or the Commercial Bank windows, on Sunday morning last.

Moved by Mr. Clanton, seconded by Mr. Kennedy,—That the thanks of this Council are justly due and are hereby tendered to the Peterborough Fire Company for their great and successful exertions in extinguishing the fire in Mr. Scott's block on Sunday morning, thereby saving the entire block and a large amount of valuable property from destruction.—Carried.

Mr. Clanton, in moving the resolutions, passed the highest encomiums on the efforts and skill of the Fire Company, and certainly they deserve it.

Moved by Mr. Stevenson, seconded by Mr. Doherty,—That the Boards of the Treasurer be referred to the Finance Committee for examination.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Stevenson, seconded by J. H. Dixon, the Clerk was instructed to ascertain by letter if any of the cities of Montreal, Toronto or Hamilton have on hand a first class Fire Engine and Hose which they would dispose of, and to find the lowest price, the maker's name and how long in use.—Carried.

Mr. Stevenson here referred to the late fire and the unsafe state of property, being at the mercy of men who would do anything, as the man who would set fire to a house would kill a man if opportunity offered. He also remarked that he thought an inquest should be held on the late fire, so as if possible to find out the guilty party.

Mr. Stevenson introduced a By-law to provide for the seizing and forfeiture of light bread. It was read a first time.

On motion of Mr. Clanton, a revolver was directed to be procured for the constable and also a duplicate key for the Lock-up.

Mr. Henthorn was refunded $8.00 which he had paid on the stock of a tenant who had removed without paying his taxes for 1866.

Mr. Clanton produced some old debentures that had been deposited in the Commercial Bank and had been handed to him, and he suggested that they should be destroyed.—They consisted of 10 for $2,000 each and 4 for $1,000 each. The matter was laid over until examined further.

Mr. Stevenson also introduced a By-law to extend the provisions of By-law No. 165 to Lots No. 3, North of Simcoe and to 3, South of Hunter street and West of George street.

The Council adjourned for two weeks.

Too Much Character.

On Thursday last the celebrated F. H. Knapp served us with a writ for damages to the amount of $2,000, for what we were unable to opine. We turned over in our mind for what, and yet could not tell. For six months we have not allowed his name or fame to appear in our columns, and if we have the good fortune to control these columns for sixty years it will not appear except, as now, in explanation of our position. As we have said, we wondered what our sin had been. How? When? Where did we cross his path? And yet we could not call to memory. Our suspense remained until outsiders informed us that it was a new case of defamation of character. Now we ask our readers to judge when we have defamed his character? By what word or deed have we sought to injure him? And we positively assert, in no way whatever have we done so, or sought to do so. We never thought worth our while to even comment on his former attempt to injure us. The present case arises in this way we are told: We published a few thoughts in our last issue in reference to the death of an unfortunate woman, Mrs. McGee, who died on the way to court, as a witness in the case of Edwin Harvey, a prisoner now in jail for the murder of Manson, in Galway. In our remarks we concluded, and justly too, in our opinion, that the journey in inclement weather was the cause of her death, and we censured the constable for putting her name on the subpœna in order to bring her, while another woman was allowed to remain at home; we also questioned the power of a constable to make the change. Of these things, Mr. McGee, the husband of the deceased is our informant.—He told us the whole matter, and in confirmation of his statements left the summons with us. We asked him who the constable was, but he remarked that he did not know his name nor anything about him save this, and that he served his wife with the paper. These things were told us with tears streaming and voice faltering in piteous lamentations for his seven motherless children. Of the cruelty of the case we have not yet changed our mind. The result of it is too well known to require any comment. To us it made no difference who did it. The constable, we think, had no power to do so; if he had, then he is not to blame; he was only discharging a duty. But if a constable has the power to do so, we think it is a great pity that such power should be committed to him. The court has the power to command the presence of any person, but the court is more likely to act properly than any individual who may be on one side of a case. To us it made no difference who did the act, whether F. H. Knapp, Sidney Smith, or any other man in town. By that act Mrs. McGee was brought from her home; she was unprepared for the journey; she had no means to hire a conveyance; the inclement weather and fatigue over-powered the woman, and she positively died within one mile of the town. Scarcely had Priest Kelly time to administer to her the last consolations of religion before she expired, and her seven motherless children are left to bewail their loss. If the court compelled her, it should have provided for her conveyance, as her position; if a lawyer had the power to compel her, he should also be compelled to enable her to come by paying her; and if the man who served her with the summons had power to do so, he should have had the means to enable her to attend without risk of losing her life. Now what is wrong here? We charge no man with a wilful act of wrong doing; we did not say that there was any intention of wrong. But the consequence of the act, right or wrong, is too well known, and neither judge, jury, lawyer, constable or any other man shall prevent us from censuring the act that was the cause of such results, by whomsoever committed. We emphatically deny any personal object, or any desire or expectation to defame the character of Knapp, (if he was the person who served the summons on Mrs. McGee,) or any other individual, and more especially so in this case, as Mr. McGee did not know the name of the man who served the papers upon his wife. Had we known who did it we should have given the name in full, even had it been F. H. Knapp's master. We are no respecter of persons, and we trust that the day is not yet come when the press shall be gagged at the nod or beck of a man who may chance to get law for nothing, unless when the costs can be made off one who is above sycophancy, and who detests corruption, cruelty, injustice or injury, even under the cloak of law or lawyers, and we only pity the lawyer who is so hard up for a case that he will issue a writ before the pretended cause of action is entirely printed, for the last copy of the paper was not finished when we were served. The fact is it is downright persecution on the part of a man who has had a great deal his own way and cannot brook opposition, a man who will not stop at anything to crush any one who is independent enough to think for himself, and for the manliness not to sell himself to a ruption, or to be silent when the weak are made to suffer.

The Peterborough Connection.

We have clipped the following from the Cobourg Sun, but under present circumstances might not inability to understand the meaning thereof. If the mills are about to be removed it is a token of abandonment of the land, and consequently there can be little fear that money will be added just now to either repair it or build a bridge, of course we do not know what is being done in our sister town but we do know that nothing is being done here:—

The removal of the rails from that portion of the Cobourg and Peterborough railway to the eastward of Rice Lake, which is now going on, was somewhat of a shock to many of the people of this town, who regarded it as an indication that we were in danger of losing forever a trade from which we had reaped great advantages in the past, and yet augurising great hopes for the future. It is, however, now generally conceded that the Marmora connection will probably be of far greater advantage to us than even the Peterborough trade, and in the acquisition of this our citizens have much cause to congratulate themselves, for our present position is a great contrast to the doubt, uncertainty, and utter ruin which started us in the face a few short months ago.

But though the re-establishment of railway connection with Peterborough is yet a matter of some uncertainty, yet it has not been entirely relinquished or lost sight of. True, the estimated expenditure for the repairs of the bridge and railway is very large, being not less than $200,000, yet our people do hope that even this amount may be raised before many years. One thing is certain. It is not more for the interests of Cobourg to undertake the work than it is for the people of Peterborough. They interested themselves in the Millbrook branch scheme, partly for the reason that they wanted—to use a homely phrase—two strings to their bow. They have now only one string, and that is being drawn quite as tight we believe, as ever the Cobourg string was, and it is quite as much their interest now to assist in repairing the railway to Cobourg, as it was formerly to construct the Millbrook branch.

But if it is the interest of Peterborough to secure this, it is manifestly to the interest of Keene, and the other villages and townships along the route, to do the same.

At all events, we protest against any grants from the people of Cobourg, in favour of the repair of the road, until those equally interested with ourselves evince a disposition to do something. We have another good railway scheme on hand, quite as beneficial, and we think a great deal more so, than the Peterborough connection, and without disparaging the latter, we have done without it for some time, and must not squander any large amount of our available resources, until at least, we receive assistance from others who have as much interest in it as ourselves.

Explosion of Four Tons of Powder on an English Railway Train.

The last mail from England brings us the details of the severe explosion of gunpowder which occurred on the London and North-western Railway, just before midnight on February 20th. It happened at Clifton, near Penrith; and, from the accounts, it appears that, as a freight train was passing Clifton, the axle of one of the cars broke. After proceeding a short distance, the car ran off the rails, and then general confusion ensued; other cars, including one which contained about four tons of powder, ran off, and the train was speedily brought to stand still.—The gunpowder car, along with another containing salt was slewed upon the other track, and thus the whole of the track was entirely blocked up. Not long after the accident happened, a freight train came up, and the confusion was so great that sufficient means were not taken to check it, and in a few minutes the engine came into collision with the gunpowder car. Either this concussion which ensued, or the sparks emitted from the engines, produced one of the most terrific disasters ever witnessed on a railway, for the moment after the engine struck the car, the powder it contained exploded with fearful force. The entire four tons of gunpowder blew up in one vast cloud of smoke and flame, the latter illuminating the entire district, and the explosion seemed to shake it fairly to its centre. The earth quivered as if in the throes of an earthquake, and the shock terrified people for miles around. Cars and goods of all sorts were whirled about in every direction, and a scene of destruction seldom, if ever, witnessed on a railway was presented. The driver and stoker of the engine which ran into the powder car were instantly killed. Goods contained in both cars were set on fire, as were also some of the cars, and they continued to burn for hours. The shock of the explosion was heard for sixteen or twenty miles, and the windows of the houses for three or four miles distant were shaken, and in some instances broken. About six hours and a half elapsed before the road was cleared.

GREAT FLOOD AND LOSS OF LIFE IN IRELAND.—The floods have done a great deal of damage in the neighborhood of the various streams which take their rise in the mountains of Wicklow. The quick thaw, together with the great rain, caused streams to become immense rivers in the course of a few hours, sweeping away everything that lay in their course. Near the village of Rathdrum, county Wicklow, a poor man with his wife and four children were found dead beneath the ruins of their cabin on Saturday morning. A great many sheep and cattle were destroyed, farmsteads flooded, corn and hay swept away, and in several cases the very soil of ploughed fields—some of which were sown—was swept away. The oldest inhabitant of the country does not recollect a greater flood.

FENIAN INFORMERS IN IRELAND.—The Government is well provided with evidence for the trials at the Special Commission.—Besides "General Massey" otherwise Patrick Condon, Simon Nevin, one of the thirty-five Fenians arrested in and near Ennis, has turned "stag" on his associates. Another informer accompanied the police when they made the Fenian arrests at Millstreet, in order to identify the parties implicated. Fresh illustrations of the proverbial treachery inseparable from secret societies. Michael McCarthy is the name of another worthy of the "Jimmy O'Brien" stamp, who has volunteered to give the Government every necessary information respecting the attack on the Ballyknockane police barrack by his Fenian associates, on the 6th of March.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.—We deeply regret to have to record the occurrence of a melancholy and fatal accident which occured in this town on the afternoon of Tuesday last. A blooming child of some three years of age, the son of James R. Barber, Esq., Railway Superintendent, was playing near the wharf in company with an elder brother. Having become separated, he wandered round alone in the dangerous place, and accidentally fell into the water. The floating body of the child was discovered by some boys who gave the alarm, but when the body was found life was extinct Drs Wade, Beatty and Moore arrived promptly and made repeated efforts to restore animation but without success. The deplorable accident excited the greatest commiseration and elicited the heartfelt sympathies of the whole community in behalf of the bereaved parents and family.—Sun.

MADOC GOLD.—Mr. John A. Polkinghorne called yesterday and showed us a specimen of washings from a deposit recently discovered by him in the vicinity of El Dorado, which is very rich in gold. There was about five dollars worth of gold and the result of only half an hour's labor. Messrs. Polkinghorne of Cobourg and Amsterdy of Ottawa have purchased a lot of land situated only 134 chains from the Richardson mine. They have given it to a company to work on shares, and a California miner has taken a contract to sink a shaft to the depth of 40 feet. He has already sunk to the depth of seven feet, and feels highly elated with the indications. Mr. Polkinghorne has several rich specimens which he will be glad to show to any parties who may call at the store of R Polkinghorne & Sbs, King Street.—Cobourg Sun.

EAST DURHAM.—The movement in behalf of a convention in East Durham appears to have been effectually squelched by the cold water thrown upon it by the reformers of Cavan. It now seems probable that John S. Smith, Esq., M. P. P., will be a candidate for the House of Commons and Mr. Arthur Williams for the Local House. Mr. Williams has for some years acted with the Reform party, but will doubtless receive considerable countenance from the Conservatives. It is possible there may be no opposition to these two gentlemen, as we hear that Mr. Barron is in no position to make a contest and Mr. Quinlan is too patriotic to let personal feelings make a division in the Reform vote. His day is coming, however.—Sun.

Ever since the Crimean war the Imperial Government has been carrying on a law-suit against certain Yankee swindlers, who undertook to manufacture a number of muskets but who, on receiving a large sum of money on account, immediately "re-pocketed," and retired from business as millionaires. The case has at length been decided, and, as might be expected, in favor of the swindlers. Col. Rowan, a distinguished officer, who has been for so long a time an exile from his home and friends, having been compelled to remain in New York to watch the case for the British Government, can now return to England, home and duty.—Spectator.

AUTHENTIC AT LAST.—A letter received from the Hon John A. Macdonald by the Nova Scotian, which sailed on the 4th inst., says that he would leave England by the Cunard Steamer Cuba on the 13th inst., which vessel should now be due at Halifax. As the honorable gentleman will be with us in a day or two, it behooves us not to lose any further time, but get up a Public Reception at once. Let Messrs. Ferguson, O'Reily and G. Brown lay hold of the matter and it be done.—Whig.

THE GREAT EASTERN.—The tonnage duty of the Great Eastern on entering the port of New York, amounted to $6,045.60, which with the addition of the harbor master's, health officer's and pilot's fees, and charges on stamps permits, &c., being altogether only the expenses on entering the port, will foot $7,000. She departed on Thursday for France, carrying one hundred and ninety one passengers, paying $100 each, which amounts to $19,100.

Consul Godey has received a letter from Gen. Corona with reference to operations in Rio Bock' place at Quereiare on the 16th ult. It states that the Liberals made a reconnoissance in force, which brought on an engagement that lasted eight hours, and resulted in driving the Imperialists from some of their positions. The Liberals engaged numbered 26,000, and the Imperialists 10,000.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—The report that the forces of Maximilian had succeeded in relieving from Queretare without being obliged to give battle, and the rumours that a portion of the Liberal army had been defeated, and that the Liberals were suffering from lack of supplies, are contradicted by advices received here direct from the scene of war in Mexico.

An Exchange says that the Hon. Mr. Justice Monk was received into the R. C. Church on Monday last. He made his public profession in the Church of the Gesee, the bishop presiding at the ceremony, and canon Falvre acting as god-father. The whole family of the judge has been re-baptised.

Dr. Guthrie, the eminent Scotch Divine, Editor of the Sunday Magazine, and founder of the Edinburgh ragged schools, was expected out by the 'Scotia' on a visit to the United States and Canada. At the very last moment he had to abandon his intention.

THREE RIVERS, April 22.—The lake ice moved last night, but is again stationery, the water still rising. The piers and wharves are nearly covered. The lower portion of the town is completely inundated. The poor people are moving into town.

NEW ORLEANS, April 12.—Advices from Matamoras to the 13th inst., report that the Liberals had captured Puebla, and Maximilian had offered to surrender, but his overtures were rejected, the Liberals refusing to grant the terms demanded.

A Toronto Telegram reports that Mr. Cumberland, of the Northern Railroad, will succeed Mr. Brydges as managing director of the Grand Trunk.

MONEY MAKES THE MARE GO.—This is an old and true saying, and it is equally true that the 'Canadian Pain Destroyer' will make all pains go from the body, and cure Bowel complaints, Tooth Ache, Head Ache, Sprains, Bruises, &c., sooner than anything else discovered. Price 25 cents a Bottle.

BRYAN'S WAFERS.—The great public remedy have now been in use over twenty years, hence it cannot be said that they are on trial They have been thoroughly tried, and pronounced (on the authority of those whose lives and health they have preserved) to be a pure, harmless, and eminently salutary preparation, and if taken in season will invariably cure colds, coughs, sore throat, and all Bronchial affection. One fair trial will convince the most skeptical. Sold by all medicine dealers, at 25cts. per box.

FLAX GROWING.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.

If any Farmer wishes to try an acre or two of Flax, I will furnish them with seed, and wait for the price of it until the delivery of the Flax. As I have established a Scutching Mill amongst you, I think it is the duty of every Farmer to try an acre, if not more, of Flax, for a few years, so as to give it a fair trial. That it is the best spring crop I will leave facts to prove themselves, and will give you the names of a few Farmers who grew it last year to their entire satisfaction:—

R. Brown, Esq., Douro, 2½ acres, 7 tons 600 lbs. $102 76
H. Reid, Esq., Douro, 2 acres, 5½ tons, 77 00
G. Crowley, Esq., Douro, 1 acre, 3 tons 1120 lbs. 45 91
J. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2½ acres, 7½ tons, ... 105 00
A. Scott, Esq., Smith, 7 acres, 5½ tons, 110 50
A. Hall, Esq., Smith, ¾ of an acre, 3 tons 754 lbs. 47 27
T. Tully, Esq., Smith, 1 acre, 3 tons... 36 00
Matt. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2 acres, 6 tons 500 lbs. 81 60
A. Rosebury, Esq., Smith, 1 bushel, 2 tons 530 lbs. 39 20
J. Hogan, Esq., Douro, 1 bushel, 3 tons 600 lbs. 46 40
G. McKeon, Esq., Otonabee, 2 bushels, 4 tons 1620 lbs. 62 58

There are a great many more I could give you the names of, but as these gentlemen are the most prominently known I refer to them only. In every other place in Canada where there has been a Scutching Mill established, the Farmers have come forward and willingly bought themselves to raise from 200 to 300 tons for five years. If the crop will not pay, why do farmers in other places bind themselves to grow it? There was as high as one thousand tons grown in and about Streetsville last year. Let every farmer try an acre or two, until he tests his land how suitable it will be for growing it. I have given you references from all the townships around here; you see they have all done equally well. Another great advantage to some of the Farmers would be the early market they could make, for it is only necessary after pulling the flax to allow it to dry sufficiently before selling it, when they can realize money to assist them in harvesting their other crops.

Yours truly,

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed without assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who resid in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

CANCERS CURED!

By a new, but certain, speedy, and nearly painless process, and

WITHOUT THE USE OF THE KNIFE.

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will cost less and be more speedily cured than when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small tumor or sore on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. If required, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. No money required in advance, and none until the cure is complete.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS.

Are you sick, feeble, and complaining? Are you out of order, with your system deranged, and your blood impure? Some one of the numerous ailments to which you are liable is ongoing now, and should be counteracted by a dose or two of the right remedy. That Ayer's Pills are the best cure for the disorders of the stomach and bowels which require a cathartic, is pretty well understood in North America. They stimulate the functions of the body into healthy action, thereby purifying the current in the veins, which nourishes the whole system. Thus the foul corruptions which make disease are carried out of the system, and health restored. Indeed, when we consider how nearly all the diseases to which we are subject originate in the impurities of the blood, and how many of them arise from a disordered stomach, we shall see the importance of keeping the former pure, and the great extent to which health depends upon the proper action of the digestive organs. Derange either of these, and the other will suffer. Few are the diseases that begin in any part of the body which do not affect the stomach before they are through with us. In the vast majority of cases, the health can be restored, and long preserved, by the occasional use of a cathartic medicine, to remove from the system the obstructions which make disease. A cold settles somewhere in the body, and obstructs its natural functions. Then, if not relieved, it poisons the whole mass of blood, and deposits the elements of disease in every part of the system. Nature makes an effort to throw off the disease, and we have fever, pain, or inflammation. Help Nature in her struggle, by the timely use of Ayer's Pills, and see how directly they restore the natural action of the system, and with it the buoyant feeling of health again. What is true and so apparent in this trivial and common complaint, is also true in many of the desperate and dangerous distempers. The same corrective effect expels them. Caused by similar obstructions and derangements of the natural functions of the body, they are equally, and many of them surely, cured by the same means. Nor—when have the virtues of these Pills will neglect to employ them when suffering from the disorders they cure.

Physicians, far and near, use them in cases of the most formidable character, and know from personal experience what they say when they recommend them to the sick. Many eminent members of the medical profession have voluntarily written us, that they have found Ayer's Pills the most reliable cathartic they could employ in their practice, and that they cure more and worse cases than all other purgatives in the materia medica. Many druggists, who have the best means of knowing, have told us that they sell more of Ayer's Pills than of all other cathartics in the market, and that they are the only pills which do not sometimes fail to give satisfaction. Public confidence in them is unbounded, and they have earned it by their wonderful cures. Almost every community has some of these cures to point to, and every man, woman, and child knows more or less about them. Hence we forbear to publish certificates of their virtues, and only ask a trial of the Pills when you need a cathartic medicine.

From the Proprietor of the Missouri Democrat, St. Louis, Feb. 4, 1866.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the purgative of all that is great in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of ulceration of the upon her hands and feet that had proved incurable for years. Her mother has been grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and in her hair. After our child was cured, she also tried your Pills, and they have cured her.

ADA MORRISON.

As a Family Physic.

From Dr. E. W. Cartwright, New Orleans.

Your Pills are the prince of purges. Their excellent qualities surpass any cathartic we possess. They are mild, but very certain and effectual in their action on the bowels, which makes them invaluable to us in the daily treatment of disease.

Headache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach.

From Dr. Ashe and Segal, Bellevue.

DEAR DR. AYER: I cannot answer you what complaints I have cured with your Pills better than to say all of us over treat with a purgative medicine. I place great dependence on effectual cathartic in my daily contact with disease, and believing as I do that your Pills afford us the best we have, I of course value them highly.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 1, 1865.

DR. J. C. AYER, Sir: I have been repeatedly cured of the worst headache any body can have by a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to arise from a foul stomach, which they cleanse at once.

Yours with great respect, ED. W. PEIRCE, Clerk of Steamer Clarion.

Bilious Disorders—Liver Complaints.

From Dr. Theodore Bell, of New York City.

Not only are your Pills admirably adapted to their purpose as an aperient, but I find their beneficial effects upon the Liver very marked indeed. They have in my practice proved more effectual for the cure of bilious complaints than any one remedy I can mention. I sincerely rejoice that we have at length a purgative which is worthy the confidence of the profession and the people.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C., 7th Feb., 1866.

SIR: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disease to which they did not readily yield to them. Irreparably yours, ALDERT B. SALE, M. D., Physician of the Marine Hospital.

Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Relax, Worms.

From Dr. J. S. Green, of Chicago.

Your Pills have had a long trial in my practice, and I hold them in esteem as one of the best aperients I have ever found. Their bilious effect upon the liver makes them an excellent remedy, when given in small doses for bilious dysentery and diarrhœa. This augmenting makes them very acceptable and convenient for the use of women and children.

Dyspepsia, Impurity of the Blood.

From Rev. J. V. Himes, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood, they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can conscientiously recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.

WARSAW, Wyoming Co., N. Y., Oct. 26, 1865.

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.

JOHN G. MACHAM, M. D.

Constipation, Costiveness, Suppression, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Dropsy, Paralysis, Fits, etc.

From Dr. J. P. Pringle, St. edward, Canada.

Too much cannot be said of your Pills for the cure of such ills. If others of our fraternity have found them as efficacious as I have, they should join me in proclaiming it for the benefit of the multitudes who suffer from that complaint, which, although bad enough in itself, is the promoter of others that are worse. I believe my Sovereign remedy is the liver, but your Pills effect that organ and cure the disease.

From Hon. E. Stuart, Physician and Midwife, Boston.

I find one or two large doses of your Pills taken at the proper time, are excellent preventives of the natural sorrows when wholly or partially suppressed, and also very effectual to cleanse the stomach and expel worms. They are so much the best physic we have that I recommend no other to my patients.

From the Rev. Dr. Hamilton, of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

PLEASANT HOME, Savannah Co., Jan. 6, 1866.

HONORED SIR: I should be ungrateful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best of physicians the disease grew worse and worse until by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr Mackenzie, I tried your Pills, their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them, I am now entirely well.

RENATE CHAMBERS, Baton Rouge, La., 8 Dec. 1866.

DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured, by your Pills, of Rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had afflicted me for years. VINCENT SLIDELL.

☞ Most of the Pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

Price, 25 cents per Box, or 5 Boxes for $1.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

BY THE

GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY

IN CANADA.

MESSRS. Y. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I Wilson Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say,—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption, and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking, just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coughed nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Esq. Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve my cough." He said "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once which I felt through my whole system: at night I took a tablespoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I got hearty and strong. I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was affected with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

DARLEY'S Arabian Heave Remedy and Condition Medicine

IS positively superior to any or all other preparations for the cure of Heaves, Coughs, Colds and Broken Wind, and all diseases which affect the Wind of Horses; also, as a Condition Medicine, surpassing everything of the kind; it is easy to give, sure to cure, and safe in all cases and at all times, and does not prevent the horse from being worked while using it.

It also cures the breathing apparatus, by removing from the air-cells the coagulable lymph or that secretion which in Heaves clogs them, causing a difficulty in breathing, and by its action on the diseased part causing the mucous membrane to resume its natural dimensions, thus equalizing the 0 reulation of the blood, and restoring the distended vessels to their natural one; by its use the horse's appetite is improved, all derangements of the digestive organs corrected, restoring the skin, and giving to the coat a sleek at all shining appearance

Precept and Practice:—An Athenian Story.

BY LORD MACAULAY.

In Athens ere the sun of fame had set,
Midst pomp and show the gazing crowds were met,
Intent for ever upon something new,
The mimic wonder of the stage to view.

Where the wide-extended circus spreads
Its gathered seats its sea of living heads,
Ranged in close order, rising row on row,
The void arena claims the space below.

The seats were filled; but ere the show began
A stranger entered—'twas an aged man;
A while he sought a place with aspect mild;
The polished young Athenians sat and smiled,
Eyed his confusion with a side-long glance,
But kept their seats nor rose to his advance.

Oh, for a burning blush of deeper hue,
To mark the shame of that self-glorious crew;
How poor the produce of fair learning's tree,
That bears no fruits of sweet humility!
The growth of arts and sciences, how vain
In hearts that feel not for another's pain!

Not so the Spartan youth, whose simple school
Instilled the pith but salutary rule
Of kindness, and whose honest souls preferred
Truth to display,—performance to a word.

These Spartan youths had their appointed place
Apart from Attica's distinguished race,
And rose with one accord, intent to prove
To honor dues their duty and their love;
Nor did a Spartan youth his seat resume
Till the old man found due and fitting room.

Then came the sentence of reproof and praise
Stamped with the sternness of the ancient days.
For, standing full amid the assembled crowd,
The venerable stranger cried aloud:
"The Athenians learn their duty well, but lo
The Spartans practice what the Athenians know."

The words were good, and in a virtuous cause;
Thus justly earned a nation's glad applause;
But we have surer words of precept given
In God's own book, the words that came from heaven;

"Be kind, be courteous, be all honor shown."
"Seek other's welfare rather than thine own."

AN INSTRUCTIVE LESSON.

The Phrenological Journal, in an article on indirect lying and unfairness in business, thus illustrated the danger of being too sharp in a trade:—

Go out into the country, for example, to purchase a superior cow, and call on one of the honest sons of the soil, and it would not be very difficult to find a man who would show himself as cunning and selfish as any trader or manufacturer. Let us illustrate such an interview by a colloquy between a citizen and a farmer; and we beg of the reader to watch the workings of secretiveness to gratify acquisitiveness.

Citizen.—'I am in pursuit of a fine cow; and understanding at the hotel that you kept a large stock of very excellent ones, I have called to look at them, and to see if I could make a purchase to please me. I am not very particular as to price, so I but obtain one of the best.'

Farmer.—'Well, yes, I have a large stock, and they have the reputation of being excellent. They have cost me much care and pains in their selection; but I can't say that I wish to sell any of them. When a man has a good article which he wants to use, it is not well to dispose of it.'

C.—'True; but I would like to look at them.'

F.—'O, certainly; I will show them with pleasure; but, understand, I don't promise to sell one at any price.'

They go to the farm yard, and a little son of the farmer follows to see and hear, and in doing so takes his first lesson in the tricks of trade; for be it remembered that every act of the parent stamps its impress on the young mind, which becomes ineffaceable.

C.—(Scanning a lean, common looking animal, which, by the way, was one of the best milkers in the flock, and low to fleshen her own milk qualities; yet it was in early winter, when those qualities would not be apparent.) 'What is that cow worth?'

F.—'I suppose about twenty-five dollars.'

On an elevated place stands a large, fleshy, noble looking cow, the poorest milker of the whole, and fat because her food went to flesh rather than to milk; she catches the admiring eye of the inexperienced citizen, and he eagerly enquires, 'What will you sell that one for?'

F.—'Oh, don't say anything to me about that cow; she is a very peculiar one; and more than that she belongs to my wife. I told you I did not care to sell any, and this one I should hardly expect to sell at all; besides I should not like to have my wife offended by selling a favorite of hers. John (turning to his boy, who is surprised to see his father hesitate a moment about selling this miserable, vicious, unruly beast, whose small mess of milk is as thin as that sold by Messrs. Croton, Pump & Co., in New York.) John, mother will be in our hair if we sell "old Pail!"

That name strikes the buyer's ear just as it was intended to do, and he presses the farmer for a price.

F.—'I will not say I will sell her at any price, unless my wife will consent. I don't believe in family quarrels.'

The boy John is surprised at his father's reluctance to sell, and entertains not the slightest doubt but that his mother will joyously consent to the sale. The stranger is determined to have a price, and, finally, the obliging farmer says: 'Now mind, I don't agree to sell at any price without my wife's consent, and I will set such a price as will, doubtless, cool your ardor without the necessity of calling my wife. Forty dollars is the price.'

C.—'Suppose we consult the good lady, and see what she will say. If she will consent I will take the animal.'

F.—'I know what she will say, and if you insist upon it, we will refer it to her.'

They proceeded to the house, the farmer letting the lead to get the first word; and the boy following, anxious to have his mother assent to the sale and urge the bargain.

F.—'Well, mother, this gentleman is very anxious to buy old "Full Pail," and I told him—'

'Yes,' interrupted the wife in apparent anger, 'and you told him he might have her, I warrant; it is just like you, to sell the best cow we have. Well, do as you like. We might as well give up trying to make butter and cheese altogether.'

With a red face and angry air, she leaves the room, slamming the door after her. 'There,' said the farmer, 'I knew just how it would be.'

John, the honest boy, was astonished. He had heard that cow made the subject of censure for years by all the family; and now, when a double price is offered for her, his father holds back and his mother gets angry. He don't understand it. No, indeed, poor boy, you don't understand it, but you are in a fair way of doing so.—Wait a little, and you will be wise, and know more of the world.

The stranger takes the bait, and counts out the forty dollars, and the farmer apparently draws back from it, saying, 'I don't think I ought to take the money. You had better not take the cow.' (All true, though not intended to be so regarded.)

He takes the money, and the stranger departs with his purchase. The mother returns, smiling like a summer's morning. The father chuckling over his money, says, with an arch wink to his wife, 'I think when he has had that cow half as long as we have, he will be glad to take less than half what he paid for her.'

This unfolds to the boys unsophisticated mind the hypocrisy of the whole transaction, and he shrinks back from his parents as scheming liars. To him it looks like robbery to take twenty-five dollars more or the cow than she was worth; and like lying, thus to deceive the stranger by such back handed means.

He has been whipped for lying, and taught that he must be honest; and he can see no difference between talking a lie and acting it.

Under the influence of filial love he begins to reason, and he is unwilling to condemn his parents to the degredation of liars and robbers.

He reviews the guarded modes of expression by the father and mother. His father did not say it was the best cow in the flock, and told the man he 'had better not take the animal,' that he 'would not sell her unless his mother would consent to it' it was not exactly lying, after all. Besides, his father stood high in society; he was called Colonel and Esquire; had been a representative; was a trustee of the religious society, and a member of the school committee; and everybody looked up to him as a man of honor. His mother, too, was intimate in the family of the minister, and had the best company in town. Therefore they were good people, and their example worthy of imitation. Full of this pleasing unction to his outraged conscience, and possessing withal through he editary transmission a similar tendency to shrewdness and money-loving as that of his parents, he began to meditate a method of profiting by his first lesson of keen business management: 'Why can't I sell that soft, worthless, new knife I bought of the rascally peddler the other day, in the same manner that father sold the cow? Let me see; I have the plan, and I will have the money, and I won't tell a lie either. I can steer clear of that.'

He carefully whets his knife, and then, with a veil of honest looks, proceeds to school. At recess he very carefully draws forth his knife and a stick, and begins whittle. It cuts finely. The boys flock around, eager to see it, and to learn what he paid for it. 'I got it cheap—only twenty-five cents. See it cut.'

'I will give you twenty-five cents,' says one.

'I guess you will,' says John. 'after I have run the risk of getting a bad one, and proved it. See it cut.'

'I'll give you thirty.'

'I'll give you forty,' says another; and here's the money.' Forty being a golden number in the ear of John, he quietly pockets the money just as the school bell rings, and they all go into their books. John rejoices in the success of his experiment, and Charley to anticipate the pleasure his excellent cutting knife will afford him.

As soon as the school is dismissed—while Charley is hunting for a good, hard trick to show the other boys how gloriously it will cut—John makes all haste for home, to announce his success and to show his money. Almost out of breath, he entered the house, exclaiming, 'Father I have sold that pewter laced knife, which I bought of the peddler for twenty-five cents, for forty cents.'

'Ah! have you? But how did you manage? You didn't tell a lie, did you John my? You must never tell a lie you know.'

'Oh, no, sir; I sharpened it very nicely; took a split stick in my pocket, and kept whittling; said nothing, and let them bid.'

'But who bought? and have you got your money?'

'Charles Sumner, who always has money, bought it; and here are the forty cents.'

'That's right; you should never lie, and always get your pay down to prevent after trouble. I say mother Johnney is pretty smart! We must make a merchant of him; eh, what think you?'

'Well, he has done well with the knife, surely, and I always thought he would be somebody, and get rich; besides, Charley is better able to pay a higher price for a poor knife than I boy. Bring the money to me, my son and I will save it for you.'

This was lesson number two; and the boy from his propitious beginning kept practicing, until he was old enough to enter a store as a clerk.

His father kept him short of change for his new situation, and desiring to appear well with his new associates, he began by borrowing small sums from the money drawer designing to pay it out of the first remittance. But the economical father, designing to keep him short to teach him economy, neglected the pecuniary remittance until the boy had secretly borrowed the full amount of what he had received from his father; and he could not pay it back, and finally after some struggles with his defaced conscientiousness, and urged by his necessities, decided not to pay at all.

He went on this way, borrowing and never paying, until he had robbed his master of a large amount, and ended his life a villain.

This parents pocketed a few extra dollars for a cow, by means of a circuitous falsehood; their son moulded the education, and that education shaped his future.

Who will say, 'Go thou and do likewise?'

The Negro Vote—Mr. Nasby in imitation of Wade Hampton.—Trees to conciliate the Africans—The result of the venture.

POST OFFIS, CONFEDERIT X ROADS,
(which is in the State uv Kentucky.)
March 28, 1867.

I hev made many sudden and rather stror'nary changes in politix—some so very sudden that the movement perdoost conjection uv conschence. I rekellect wunst uv advokatin free trade and high protective tariff, all within twelve hours (I made a speech in a agricultooral destrik on Noo York in the afternoon at 10 a. m., and in a manufacturin town in Pennsylvany in the evenin, our platform bein so construkted that both sides cood find a indorsement in it) and hev performed many other feats uv moral gymnastiks; but this last change I hev bin called upon to make is probably the suddenest.

Last week Tooslay, Deekin Pogram, Captain McPelter, and I was engaged in rootin the Corners uv niggers. We had endoored 'em ez long ez we thot possible, and determined on standin it no longer. Selectin three which we wuz satisfied hed too much spellin book into 'em to be enslaved agin, we wuz preparin notises to be served on 'em, ordrin 'em to leave in twenty-four hours, when I reseeved in the northern mail a letter marked 'Free—Alex. W. Bandell, P. M. G.' I knowed it wuz official—to wunst—that blessid signatoor on my commishun, and I've contemplatid it too often to be mistaken in it. It's contents wuz brief, and run thus:

"To all Postmasters in the southern States: The niggers hev votes—conshushen is our best bolt. See to it."

This breef cood not hard to be understood order wuz sealed with the official seal uv the Post-Offis Department, stumpt into puffy mattel uv wax, to-wit: a lost uv bread, under a roll uv butter, with ten hands a grabbin at it. I comprehended the situation at wuns, and set about dom my dooty with both Roman and Spartan firmness.

'Deekin," sez I, trarin up the notises, "these niggers we hev in understood. They are not a inferior race—they are not descendants uv Ham an I Hager—it wasn't Paul's idea in sendin back Onesimus to condemn him to servitood—we have misunderstood the situation, and must make amends. The nigger is devoid uv mind, and is frendly a man and a brother!"

"What?" sed the Deekin, tippin back in amazement.

"Jest wat I say," sez I, "read that," and I flung him the letter.

The upshot uv the conference wich followe I wunz the callin uv a meeting the next nite, at wich all the Ethiopians uv the Corners wuz invited and urged to be present.

The trouble wuz to git the niggers to attend the meetin. The fust one I spoke to fell in my face, and ast me how long it wuz sence I hed helpt bang a couple uv niggers by, say ur fustun off a celebra-tion. Pollock, the Illinois store-keeper got hold uv it, and told Joe Bigler, and Joe swore that if the niggers hedn't enny more sense than we give 'em ere it for by sposin we could bamboozle 'em so cheep, he should go back to the old beleef, to wit: that they wuz only a superior race uv monkeys after all; and by nite every nigger in the vicinity wuz posted thoroughly, and out uv all us we could only git four who would promise to attend, and them the Deekin hed to pay $2 apiece; to give it eclaw I promised one ur em $5 (to be paid at the close uv the meetin) to sit on the stand with me, which, bein a very poor man, and herin a sick wife in a shanty near by, who wuz sufferin for medicine (which he coodent git without money,) he accepted.

At this pint an idee struck me. I remembered Philadelfy, and determined to hev a scene rivalin the Cuban and Orr bizness. "Another thing, Cuff, understand that it's a part uv the bargain that when in my speech I turn to yoo and stomp, yoo must rise and embrace me."

"What?" sez he.

"Fall into my arms, lovin like—you understand—just as tho we wuz long lost brothers?"

"Secu-re me!" sed he. "I'se a mity low nigger, and wants to buy de old woman some quinine, and wood do most anything foah dat, but, golly, dat's too much!"

"Not a cent," sez I sternly, assoomin my most piercinest gaze, "unless this is included!"

"Well," returned he sulkily, "ef I must I speck I must, but golly—"

The nite arrove and the meetin house wuz full. We thot best at holdin it in the chapel uv the College, but give up the idea ez impracticable, ez, owin to the dilly tor nee uv our Northern friends in forwardin sich subscriptions ez they hev raised, we hevent got no further with the bizness than layin the corner-stun. In the front was the four niggers, all in clean shirts, and on the stand wuz me nigger'd and engaged. Over the platform wuz the following mottoes:

"In Yoonion there is strength—For President in 1868, Fernando Wood. For Vice-President, Frederick Dogla."

"In the nigger, strength—In the Caucasian, beauty,—in the mulatter, who is made the noblest uv the human species, both."

In addishun to these we dug up all the old mottoes wich Jefferson writ about yoonivursal liberty and such, wich hednt bin quoted in Kentucky for twenty years, posted up; in brief, had Wendell Phillip's blessid spirit bin a hoverin over that meetin house, it wood hev smiled approvingly.

Peterborough Examiner, Thursday, May 9, 1867.

I spoke to em exkeetly on the poore-versel brotherhood uv mankind, holdin that whatever else could be sed, Adam wuz the father uv all mankind, and that the only difference between a white man and a nigger wuz, the nigger wuz sunburnt. The nigger, I remarkt, wuz undoubtedly, originelly white, but bein, sence his arrival in this country, addicted to agricultooral pursoots, he hed become tanned to a degree wich, tho it marred his physikle beauty, did not interfere with his sterlin goodness uv heart. There hed bin differences between the races—at times there hed bin unpleasantness wich no one regretted more than I. The whites uv the orders hed not a hue but ez considert ez I cood hev wished They hev fought several ur em, and hung many more, and in times past hed held em in slavery and such, but that should not be thot uv at this happy time. It wuz constooshunel to do these things then, and Kentucky wuz eminently a law-abidin State. "Here," sez I, "on this platform, with the flag uv our common country over me, I declare eternal friendship to the colored man, and to seel the declaration I thus embrace—"

The obstinate nigger didnt stir a step.

"Come up and fling your arms around me, yoo black cuss," sed I, in a stage whisper, "C'mon!"

"No yoo don't nuss!" sed the nigger, in a loud voice, wich was audible all over the church, and h'aidin out tu hand. "I can't trust yoo a bressid minit. Gib me the $5 fust. Yoo wuz die child foah dollars now fo' sawin wood fo' yoah post offis, an I ef we's a goine to h b our ties de fus yoone I shel put mine to will be gittin dat money. Pay up fus, and den 'braces afterwar'd. I can't do such a disagreeable ting without de cash in advance."

This rather destroyed the effect. The niggers in front b-st out in a torturing laff, and Pollock and Bigler rolled in convulsions uv laffter, in which half uv our people joined. The audience stood petrified; in the distinct uv embracin, and that cussed nigger standin with his hand extended for the money with the Deekin and Bascom horror struck just behind, formed a tableo which wuz more strikin than pleasant.

The meetin wuz to-wunst adjourned, for it was evident to the dullest comprehension that nothin more coodent be done that nite. Ez yoonsual I failed for want uv capital.—Had I bin present uv the poltry sum uv five dollars how different would hev bin the result! Perchance we may thro that deficiency, Jane Kentucky. It must never occur agin—my salery must be raised. I can't make brik without straw.

Joe Bigler met me next morning and remarkt that he regretted the occurrence, ez he suddenly desired to see the two races a pullin together. "The fault, Perfesser," sed he, "wuz in not managin properly.—The next time yoo want a spectable nigger to sit on the platform with you and the Deekin, or kiss or embrace yoo—git him drunk. He'll do it then, probably—I know he will. Ef he's drunk enough, he'll hurrah for Johnson, and in no possible to get em down to the pint uv votin with yoo. Whew! how whiskey drags a man down. Sees wat it a brought yoo to!" and the inebriin wretch rolled off lafin boisterously. "Git em drunk, Perfesser," he yelled ez long ez he cood see me.

We don't intend to give it up. Bigler's advice wuz given in jest, but, nevertheless, I shel act upon it. Whiskey is wat brings white men to us, and ef a white man can be thus capchured, why not a nigger? The Afrikin hezn't got ez far to fall to git down to our level, and 'till take less to bring him. Bascom ordered five barrels to-day, wich I spose the Administrashen will pay for. We have yet the Noo York Custom House, and more uv the perkisits must be yoosed for politikle purposes.

A YEAR'S WORK OF DRAM SELLING.—Carefully compiled statistics show that sixty-thousand lives are annually destroyed by intemperance in the United States.

One hundred thousand men and women are yearly sent to prison in consequence of strong drink

Twenty thousand children are yearly sent to the poor-house for the same reason.

Three hundred murders are another of the yearly fruits of intemperance.

Four hundred suicides follow these fearful catalogues of miseries.

Two hundred thousand orphans are bequeathed each year to private and public charity.

Two hundred million dollars are yearly expended to produce this shocking amount of crime and misery and as much more is lost from the same cause.—Young Reaper.

THE DEVIL AMONG THE TAILORS.—Some time ago, a French teacher resident in Oxford, by the name of Duncan, called at Mr. Wickham, a mercer, who lived opposite University College for a waistcoat piece, but could not recollect the name of the material he wished for. He said that he thought it was de English for de diable. Mr. Wickham mentioned the several names of his infernal highness, such as Old Nick, Beelzebub, &c. 'No, no it was not dat,' was the reply. At length Mr. W. thought of Satan. 'O dat is vat I want,' said Duncan. 'I wants a sitten vescent.'

THE DEFENCE QUESTION.

Following Earl Russell in the late debate in the House of Lords on the question of Canadian defence, H. R. H., the Duke of Cambridge said:—"As the defence of Canada has been much referred to in the course of this discussion, I wish to say a few words. I cannot but rejoice that this measure for a confederation has been brought forward, and that it has been accompanied by a project for a railway which is a military point of view, cannot fail to be of great importance. The retention of Canada without such a railway presents much difficulty. We have seen, in some years the inconvenience which results to the best that during a considerable period of the year we are deprived of any great communication with the upper provinces, as your lordships know, it is only for a portion of the year that the great St. Lawrence can be navigated, and in the winter months the upper provinces are to a great extent, for military purposes, cut off from communication with the mother country. This railway, if completed, will form a connecting link at all periods of the year between the mother country and the North American provinces. On that ground alone I believe it is of imperial interest that this railway should be completed, and if the measure now before your lordships produce the result, I think it would be of signal benefit. (Hear.) My noble friend (Lord Lyveden) has dwelt strongly upon the difficulty of defending the Canadian frontier. But, though that operation may be one of considerable difficulty, it ought not to be treated as impossible. Indeed, I see no reason why, however arduous the task may seem, it may not be accomplished, because in war some of the greatest operations, which appeared to be almost impossible, yet by talent, perseverance, energy and courage have been carried out with entire success. As far as the Imperial Government are concerned, they have already shown their desire to do their part. The defences of Quebec have already been taken in hand, and I do trust that Quebec will soon become a powerful and important fortress. Montreal also requires defence, and I trust that the delay which has taken place in providing for its defence has only been caused by the feeling that the question of confederation ought first to be considered and dealt with. I do hope that, seeing the assent of the mother country to support the object of the confederation, the colonists will now think that the time has come to put their shoulder to the wheel, and do all that in them lies for the protection of their extended frontier. The matter is one which depends in a great measure upon themselves, and I hope that the good feeling shown on our part will encourage them to do that which, as I know, they were certainly at one time disposed to do—to look after the defence of their own territory.—I am entirely of opinion that if the loyalty and devotion which have been hitherto displayed by the colonists should continue to increase, after the confederation is established, as it has increased up to this time Canada will before long, in men and material, be able to defend itself. I mean, of course, that she will do this as far as her power and means go, and not that she will be able to dispense with imperial aid. As to the entire removal of the imperial troops, that is out of the question. My noble friend (Earl Russell) has pointed out that most of our colonies are so situated that they have no frontier to defend. Canada, on the contrary, has a most extended frontier, and it would be an absurdity to leave such a colony wholly denuded of imperial troops, though of course the number of these troops ought to be as much reduced as can safely be done. All that is wanted is an all compact force as a nucleus round which the colonists may rally. It must give the greatest satisfaction to every Englishman to see how anxious the colonists are to maintain their connection with the mother country. Considering the changes which have taken place of late, and the manner in which they have been pressed to separate from this country, I think it redounds greatly to their credit that their loyalty and devotion to the mother country have remained unshaken, or rather, have increased in recent years. I do hope, also, that the noble colonies have so nobly shown in Canada, and the gallantry with which the Militia and Volunteers have come forward on every occasion when their services were needed, will be appreciated here, and that we shall hold out the hand of friendship to the new confederation, which, I believe, will be a great advantage to the colonists, and, I hope, will also add to the security of the empire. I repeat that we must not be led away by the notion that the colony is indefensible. I believe, on the contrary, there will be means to defend it, and I shall rejoice not only at the consideration which this bill is to ratify, but also at the military chain of defence which the bill will complete, and which is so essential to the maintenance of our empire on this large, valuable and important possession." (Cheers.)

French Ideas of a Quadruple Combination Against Prussia.

[Paris (April 18) Correspondence of the London Times.]

With reference to that part of my yesterday's letter which spoke of propositions reported to be on foot for an alliance, offensive and defensive, between France and England, I have to mention another version suggested yesterday, and which seems to be less improbable than the other. It is to the effect that overtures for a quadruple alliance between Holland, Belgium, France and England are going on. The idea is said to have been started not long since by the King of Holland, justly alarmed at the menacing attitude of Prussia, and to be received favorably by France. Commissioners from Holland and Belgium came to Paris, where they were very well received. They then proceeded to London, where, I hear they now are, for the purpose of sounding the English Cabinet on the proposed alliance.

I recollect clearly repeat that I mentioned this fact with the same hesitation as yesterday, though, if correct, it would in some measure account for the less hostile tone of Berlin.—A person of high rank (Prussian) now in Paris, who had an interview with the King on Wednesday last, says that nothing could be more pacific than the language of his Majesty, who expressed himself disposed to do every thing consistent with his honor and that of Prussia to preserve peace. Prussia, the King observed, had too much to do to consolidate her present situation, without getting into a fresh war not commanded by imperious necessity.

THE WONDERS OF THE MICROSCOPE.—We understand it is through the agency of this marvellous viewing instrument that Dr. Ayer has at length succeeded in finding the exciting cause and determining the character of its effects in this section have abundant evidence in the FEVER AND AGUE which it alone produces when absorbed through the lungs into the blood. It has long been held to be a vapor or something in the vapor of water from decayed and decaying vegetation. Under a great magnifying power, the Doctor has found this vapor to contain distinct organisms living bodies, corresponding precisely with those found in the blood of Ague subjects. They are 13,000 times less than visible to the naked eye, but have distinct character and form. He thinks they are reproductive in decaying matter in the blood, and hence their long continued life or the remote effects of them in the system. He maintains that they resemble in character the other fermentative poisons, or such as the virus of rabies or of a dead body, &c., all of which are known to reproduce themselves with great rapidity like yeast in moistened flour, so that the slightest quantity impregnates the whole mass. Yeast through a powerful magnifier is seen to be a forest of vegetables which grows, blossoms, and goes to seed in a short time. Bloom is not so distinct a vegetable, but has more the appearance of animal life, although its motions cannot be perfectly distinguished. What the Doctor claims to have settled is that it is an organic substance and he has name found and embodied in his "Ague Cure" which will destroy it.—[Leader, St. Louis, Mo.

POLITICS IN 1867.

If we were to draw conclusions from the editorials that appear in the Conservative press of '67, in reference to the political questions that agitate the new Dominion of Canada, we would be forced to infer that "Cabinet," "No Party," "Mr. Brown," were nightmares hovering round them during their nocturnal slumbers. In fact it would appear that asleep or awake "Coalition," "No Party," "Mr. Brown," seem to haunt them as hobgoblins and bugbears do children. Whenever they depart from these three words, they flounder in gross misstatements or misrepresentations. We need not wonder that Coalition is a favorite word, as common they receive their daily bread; by the no party cry they hope to continue their unjust gains; and Mr. Brown is the fiction in the path. It is melancholy to imagine that men should be so selfish, so regardless of the country's weal and so indifferent to the certain results of the course they pursue, viz: extravagance and misgovernment. The Coalition we are long since sick of. It has been a curse to the country, especially to Upper Canada. To maintain it, almost all sorts of corruption has been practised; monopolies have been granted; our Crown Lands left unsettled, and continual yearly deficits in the budget allowed; to carry elections bribery has been resorted to and men have been bought and sold to gratify the Tory love of power and gain.

As an example: In conversation lately with a gentleman from Northumberland, he informed us that two or three of the electors held in the West Riding of that county had been so conducted that the riding was to a great extent corrupted and rendered morally unfit to exercise the right of franchise.—Under the same corrupt regime in this Electoral Division, we have been informed that thousands of dollars were spent to corrupt the electors; and the same informant, and a Tory too, added that hundreds were bought and sold at the time for eight, ten and twelve dollars each; and this is the sort of thing they wish to continue. The knaves and fools seem to be the ruling incentive to action.

In vain do they cry "Mr. Brown's inconsistency." What have Reformers to do with his inconsistency? which, by the way, we are not prepared to admit. Reformers ask to have the laws of the country commenced and carried on on principles of rectitude, and justice to all; they wish to have the management of their own local affairs; they wish to get rid of mal-administration, extravagance and class legislation; and we are far mistaken if the honest yeomen of Upper Canada do not say at the coming election, we will have these things. The clap-trap of personal abuse of Mr. Brown should not lead any away from the ranks. Let every Reformer be found at his post and the day will be ours.

ENCOMPASSING SEA AND LAND.

The Tory press is encompassing sea and land to make proselytes to their new "No Party cry." They jump at every straw to save themselves from loss of power and patronage. Truth too has forsaken them in their earnest efforts to prolong the reign of corruption and maladministration. It is astonishing how expert they are at their nefarious work; but then they have long accustomed themselves to that sort of thing. In their prosperity they cast off all fear, and hesitate not a moment to swallow a camel.

Last week we were treated to a sweet morsel in reference to the Ashburnham meeting: a miserable failure, of course.—But then who said so? We really can but pity the man who is so lost to facts and truth as so to concert and misrepresent the whole affair. The whole article in last week's Review savours somewhat of corruption, let us hope not of the heart but merely attributable to the school in which the training was received.

The facts are plainly these: the day appointed for the Convention was an even down-pour of rain from before day-light until 4 o'clock p. m. of the day. No man but the most insane would leave his home on such a day to go a distance for any cause save on business of life or death necessity. Even the delegates for Ashburnham did not go down to the Hall although the distance was but a few yards, well knowing that no one could attend on such a day. Now where was the miserable failure? Not in reform or Reformers, but in the weather. And as well might the Editor of the Review charge Providence with a failure in the weather, as charge a "failure" against Reformers on that day.

A few friends seeing however, that there was no provision made for calling a meeting on a more propitious day, met together at a late hour and passed a resolution to have a meeting on the 4th of June, next.

Now must not the Tories be hard up for subject when they resort to such means to bolster up a cry of "miserable failure." What a pity that the "No Party" cry should require more than the truth to help it along. This, however, is only in keeping with the action of the Tory press of all Canada. Let us be satisfied for a little: it is the death pang of the party, and we hope our fair Dominion will never again suffer from such misgovernment as that party has inflicted upon the Province of Canada.

INSURANCE COMPANIES.

Under the above head it appears to be our duty to make a few remarks. There is one thing more common than to hear of delays and trouble in the settlement of claims for loss by fire, and sometimes this is not to be wondered at. Of late Upper Canada has become notorious for fires, and very often there does appear a necessity for delay, in order to leave time for ferreting out any little clue that may lead to the discovery of the cause of the fire. In the case of the late fire here, there did not appear the least desire on the part of the companies concerned or their agents, to cause any undue delay. The unfortunate fire took place in Sunday morning. On Monday, Mr. Cox, agent for several of the companies, telegraphed to each, of the occurrence. In the case of the Commercial Union, Mr. Cox was instructed, one hour afterward, to settle the claims, which he did with all promptness; and, accordingly, on Tuesday, Messrs. Lawder & Co. and Mr. Clarke were enabled to commence business again. This was certainly satisfactory to the insured at least. In our case, with the Lancashire Insurance Company, there was equal promptness. On Monday, Mr. Cox telegraphed, and on that evening sent particulars; when he was instructed to have a statement of loss forwarded. On Saturday following, the statement was sent by the hands of Mr. Oliver, Fire Inspector of the Royal, but it could not be received by the company until Monday, on which day Mr. Cox received a telegram that it was satisfactory, and to draw on demand for the amount. This was also very prompt attention to business on the part of both agent and company; and, on Tuesday, we received our claim in full. Rarely have losses been so quickly adjusted—all in about a week. Mr. Scott's claims for damages to the building is not yet settled; but it is not the fault of the company. The agent would have willingly settled the matter, and the company also; and they, in order to its adjustment, directed that carpenters do estimate the value of the damages. But their valuation did not satisfy Mr. Scott. He thought it would require about $2,000 to refit the whole, but the carpenters estimated the whole at $1,050 to $1,090. They then agreed to put on other three men, and they put the damage down at $1,200. The trouble is not, therefore, with the company, but the difficulty of difference of opinion about the cost of the damages. So far, all the companies showed an immediate willingness to adjust all damages, at once, to the amount of insurance.

There is a little scruple in the minds of a number of persons concerning insuring to what is called the full amount. Few companies will insure to the full amount; they wish to have a little at the owner's risk, and this is not unreasonable; but a severe lesson has taught us the wisdom of being insured, and that for more than a small part. Every one whose property is at the mercy of unmitigated scoundrels, should insure to the full amount if possible; and there can be nothing wrong in doing so. The false fear of being accused of putting the coal to the goods should not deter a wise man from using every lawful precaution of protecting himself against loss by fire, when it is in his power; and it is better to pay a few dollars extra yearly, than to run the risk of losing all or nearly all in hour; and from the very satisfactory manner in which Mr. Cox managed our business, and the prompt manner in which our insurance has been adjusted, we think that the Lancashire Insurance Company is a safe Company to do business with.

English journals generally refuse to regard Mr. Gladstone's letter as a virtual resignation of the leadership of the Liberal party.

A monster Reform demonstration took place at Birmingham on the 22nd ult. From 50,000 to 100,000 people participated. John Bright made a speech and denounced the Government Reform Bill as a measure tending rather to restrain than to extend the franchise, and said the Liberal party was now helpless to improve a radically bad bill. He condemned the conduct of the liberal members who had been driven by, and voted with, the government and called upon the Liberal party to rally round Gladstone, whom he warmly eulogized. A resolution denouncing the government was carried.

The following day a similar demonstration was held in Leeds.

The Globe of the 6th says:—We beg to call the attention of the profession and others interested to the change made in the time for holding the Chancery sittings at Peterborough and Lindsay. The Court will sit at Peterborough on the 23rd, and at Lindsay on the 30th instant, instead of the days form erly mentioned for the sittings.

Belleville has now a daily paper. We have received a number of it and it bears a very respectable appearance, giving the latest news, despatches and items of importance. It is issued from the Intelligencer office. We trust that the proprietor will meet that support that the enterprise deserves.

Wet weather has been almost the order of the day for the past week. So much rain must necessarily keep farmers back in their spring work. Things, however, look better for a day or two past.

The Delegates have returned from England.

REUNION.

The fifth Reunion of the Peterboro Literary Club, and the last of the series, took place on Thursday evening last, and was in every respect a great success. Notwithstanding the counter attraction of the Negro Minstrels, the Hall was filled with a large and appreciative audience, who, to judge from the frequent and hearty applause, had no reason to regret their choice of amusement.

The musical part of the entertainment was even better than at the previous reunion, the performers having evidently taken great pains to get up their parts in the glees and choruses, which were excellently rendered. The splendid chorus "The March of the Men of Harlech" quite taking the house by storm and being enthusiastically encored.

The Misses Parnell sang with much taste the duet "Let music and song," which was well received. Miss Mira Parnell, who possesses an exceedingly rich contralto voice, sang "The haunted stream" and received a hearty encore. The beautiful duett, "The child's first grief," was sung with much feeling by Mrs. J. A. Hall and Miss Rush, and deservedly encored; while Miss Rogers added to the evening's amusement by singing "Five o'clock in the morning" and as an encore, "Won't you tell me why, Robin?" The exquisite little song, "Silver Chimes," was well sung by Mrs. J. A. Hall who also took the leading part on the glees and choruses.

We must not omit to mention the beautiful piano duett by Mrs. Roche and Mr. Heathfield, from the opera of Concrentola, which was heartily applauded.

The literary part of the entertainment was not, we thought, as good as at the last reunion, though perhaps the superior excellence of the music detracted from the effect of the readings. Mr. Haggart, however, in his "Irish Letter" was happy, as usual, and brought down the house. Mr. O'Donnell's "Iron Chest" scene was well received.

At the close of the performance a vote of thanks was unanimously passed to the ladies and gentlemen who so kindly assisted the Club in their efforts to amuse, and to Mr Heathfield, to whose exertions much of the excellence of the performance was owing.

Protection Fire Company.

A meeting of Protection Fire Company, No. 1, was held in the Firemen's Hall, on Tuesday evening, 7th May, 1867, being regular monthly meeting. Capt. J. O'Donnell in the chair. After the regular business had been transacted, the following resolutions were adopted.

Moved by A. Comstock, seconded by T. D. M. Croley,—That Capt. J. O'Donnell, Capt. Gibbs, of the Hose, and the Secretary be a committee to make arrangements with the Volunteer and Playings' committees for the celebration of the Queen's Birthday, and also to provide a Band for the occasion.—Carried.

Moved by A. Comstock, seconded by Lieut. J. Robertson.—That this company turn out twice on the 24th, in the forenoon, and also in the evening in a torch-light procession.—Carried.

Moved by A. Comstock, seconded by J. Irwin,—That the following members be a committee to make arrangements for the annual dinner on the 24th; J. Roche, C. Henderson, J. Gibb, J. Bruce, J. Robertson, G. Robinson and Geo. Mitchell.—Carried.

Moved by T. D. M. Croley, seconded by A. Comstock,—That the thanks of this company are due, and hereby tendered to Mr. Wm. Waddell for a donation of ten dollars, given by him for services at the fire in Scott's Block, on Sunday morning, April 28th, 1867.—Carried.

Moved by J. Gibbs, seconded by P. Hamilton,—That this company tender their sincere thanks to the Municipality of Ashburnham for the sum of twenty dollars, voted by them to this company for their services at fires in the Village of Ashburnham.—Carried.

SCHOOL BOARD.

The Board of School Trustees met in the Board Room on Tuesday evening last.

Members present.—W. Clinton, James Steven on, J. W. Gilmour, C. Cameron, W. Lundy, Alex. Graham, D. W. Dumble, and W. Coulter.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

Several communications were read. The monthly report showing the attendance of scholars at school, was also read.

A report from the Visiting Committee recommending blinds to be put on the windows in Mr. Kyle's Room, was read and adopted.

A resolution was passed stating that no scholar should be expelled from school by any Teacher, until a meeting of teachers had taken place to take into consideration the charge against the scholar.

The Property Committee was authorized to have trees planted on the south side of the School Grounds.

The Board then adjourned.

ASHBURNHAM.

The Board of School Trustees met on Tuesday last. Present—Messrs. McDonald, Dunlop, Bennett, Sargent and Ingram.

The Secretary informed the Board that several applications of Teachers had been received.

The Chairman remarked that the object of the meeting was to take into consideration the propriety of engaging Mr. John Wood as Teacher. Mr. Wood he remarked, had applied to him and wished to receive such assurances as would enable him to give his present Trustees reasonable notice.

On motion of Mr. Bennett, seconded by Mr. Ingram,—Mr. Wood's application was received, and the Secretary instructed to inform him accordingly.

On motion of Mr. Dunlop, seconded by Mr. Bennett,—The Secretary was instructed to communicate with Mr. Wood's present Trustees. The Board adjourned.

Literary Club.

The following subject will be discussed this evening: "Was the character of Oliver Cromwell worthy of admiration?" The sides will be taken by the following gentlemen: Affirmative—Messrs. J. A. Hall, Mason and Eastwood. Negative—Messrs. Ewing, Cornell and Scott.

Sale of Furniture.

We invite the attention of our readers to the sale of Furniture on the 15th inst., at Mrs. Blackstock's residence, Water St., just east of the Market. The articles are numerous and costly. They can be seen on the day previous to the sale from 10 to 11 a. m.

Cavan Spring Show.

The following horses took prizes at the above show this year:

DRAUGHT HORSES.—James Sloan's "Magnumbonum," first prize; E. F. Sutton's "Stranger," second; G. Seaney's "Young Lion," third. Seven entries.

CARRIAGE HORSES.—J. Scott's "Favorite," first prize; John Barnett's "Sir Charles," second; John Craig's "Young Perfection Messenger," third. Four entries.

BLOOD HORSES.—E. Arkland's "Kennett," first prize. Two entries.

Military.

The Peterborough Battalion is at last gazetted, and is number 57. E. Poole, Esq., is to be Lieut.-Colonel, and Captain Kennedy and Leigh, Majors.

Bankrupt Sale.

The attentions of those who require books, stationery, &c., are invited to the sale of the bankrupt stock of J. S. Peter.—See advertisement in another column.

ERRATUM.—In our report of the minutes of the last Council meeting we led our readers to infer that the $8 refunded to Mr. Henthorn was the taxes on the stock of a tenant. This, it appears, is not so. It was for the time the store was vacant, during which time Mr. H. paid taxes on the rental instead of on the value by assessment as would be the case when the store is not rented.

FRANK LESLIE'S BOY'S AND GIRL'S WEEKLY.—This is the title of a very neat little periodical that comes to us weekly. It is neatly illustrated; contains amusing and instructive reading, wit and humour. It is well worth perusal. It can be had at Graham & Stratton's.

The Coburg and Marmora Railway and Mining Company are offering $1.25 per day for labourers to work at the ore beds, and on the Marmora Branch Railway.

North Monaghan Court of Revision.

MONAGHAN, April 27th, 1867.

The members of the Council met at 9 o'clock, a. m., as a Court of Revision on the Assessment Roll. The Reeve in the chair.

APPEALS.

From James Edwards, Esq., and Mr. W. Wood, for over assessment on real property, or out of proportion to others. From W. J. McCullogh for being over assessed with a dog.

Mr. Edwards not appearing, no change was made; Mr. Wood was reduced $50; and, as Mr. McCullogh proved that he had no dog since last Fall, he was reduced accordingly.

Messrs. Wm. McClain and A. Goodfellow having made purchases of portions of land in the Municipality since the Assessor went round, applied to have their names placed on the Roll for said property, which was granted.

When reading over the Assessment Roll, it was noticed that 15 cattle, 28 sheep, 8 hogs and 7 horses were assessed to Mr. Fowler, and still no personal property was charged against him. The Assessor was interrogated on the matter, and in reply said, "That Mr. Fowler distinctly and emphatically stated that his debts were more than the value of his personal property, which was the reason why no entry was made." The court was not unanimous in receiving the statement, but as an investigation would cause the expense of an additional meeting, the subject was allowed to drop.

On the motion of Mr. Polson, the Roll was finally passed and the Clerk directed to attach the proper certificate thereto.

After half an hour's recess for dinner the Council met at 3 o'clock for the discharge of the usual township business. All the members present. The Reeve in the chair.

Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Col. Haultain, M. P. P., as a ratepayer of the Township, calling the attention of the Reeve and Council to the sad condition of Nancy Bell, caused by the late accident, stating what he had done for her himself, which was dictated by the common claims of humanity; urged upon the Council to adopt such measures as would secure to an unfortunate fellow-creature all the support and attention that we could wish for ourselves, were we placed in similar circumstances; and hoped that none would be found offering opposition to the course that is alone consistent with our duty as men and christians.

From the Rev. J. M. Poger, informing the Council that it was not his intention to apply for compensation for his sheep which were destroyed by dogs—the claim having been sent in without his knowledge.

From Thos. W. Poole, Esq., M. D., soliciting the Council to purchase a number of copies of "The Early Settlement of the County and Town of Peterborough.

From Mr. Dobbin, that the Council would allow him and Thos. Birney to perform their statute labor on their old beat as formerly.

PETITIONS.

From John Whitfield, showing that although living a number of years on Lot No. 8 in the 9th concession, he had yet no road without trespassing upon his neighbors, and most respectfully called upon the Council to grant, at least, the same as last year to aid in opening up the concession and quarter line. Granted $8.00.

From Chas. Spilsbury and seven others, for more statute labor to be expended on the quarter line between lots six and seven in the 11th concession.

SHEEP KILLED BY DOGS.

Matthew Walton, $14 50; Uriah Payne, $6.35.

BY-LAWS,

Appointing Path Masters and defining Road Beats, Fence Viewers and Pound Keepers, defining the sum to be paid for statute labor, prohibiting compensation for sheep killed or injured whilst running at large in opposition to the By-laws of the Municipality, and appointing Mr. George Campbell Inspector of Taverns in place of Mr. Sproul, who refused to act, received their several readings and were finally passed.

Mr Laing informed the Council that Widow Bell had consented to take charge of Nancy Bell, and had already provided a room for that purpose. The terms were considered very moderate, with which the Council complied.

The Reeve informed the Council that Mr. Dennistoun has the Deed ready for the all wances of road in Mr. Wallis's property on the south end of lot No. 10 in the 13th concession of Monaghan.

On the motion of Mr. Laing the Council authorized the Reeve to draw the sum of $133 from the Township Treasurer, being the amount required for that purpose.

On the motion of Mr. Robson, the Clerk was requested to write to the President of the Monaghan Gravel Road Company, directing his attention to the state in which the Road is at present, with the hope that some repairs may be made thereon.

The Clerk was directed to request the Collector to furnish two sureties—freeholders—to the amount of $3,000, and lay the same before the Council at its next meeting for approval.

An order on the Treasurer for $34 00 was given in favor of John B. Campbell, for services as Assessor for present year.

The Council adjourned to the first Monday in August, at ten o'clock, a. m.—Carried.

A RAID.—Great excitement has been caused by a report that a party of 120 men had made a raid on the Richardson mines, &c., &c. The mounted police were hurried to the scene, &c., &c. It appears that certain parties had resolved to inspect the mine with the view of determining as to the truthfulness of certain reports re-specting its richness, &c. Application was made to the person in charge, and it was refused. After some altercation it was agreed that two gentlemen, Messrs. McGregor and McQuarrie, should inspect the mine. These gentlemen after going into the mine, and washing a quantity of the earth, reported that they had obtained from a crevice, by means of a shovel, about a wine glass full of earth, which contained from 50 to 75 cents worth of gold. Then, from a bucket, containing some quartz which had been previously taken out of the shaft, they washed some three pints about $12 or $14 worth of gold. Mr. Hardin almost pointed out some rock, observing there is a "color here," and Mr. McGregor noticing a seam in the rock which looked promising, the piece was broken, and a part of it, about an inch and a half long, to a quarter of an inch thick, was found to have gold entirely through it. The examination of the mine lasted half an hour, and on the reappearance of the selected inspectors, Mr. McQuarrie mounted a stump, and reported that the "Richardson mine was the richest he had ever seen. Three cheers were then given for Captain Cameron, three for Mr. Hardin, and three for the Queen, after which the assemblage quietly separated.—Ex.

GOLD FROM THE RICHARDSON MINE.—In confirmation of the report that a large quantity of gold-dust had been taken from the Richardson mine, and removed from the county, we may state that ye terday a telegram was received by James Glass, Esq., from Brighton, stating that four barrels of gold-dust and quartz, from Madoc, were shipped yesterday morning by the Corinthian, for Rochester. The telegram stated that Mr. Anstee had it in charge, and that he had driven all night, in order to reach Brighton in time for the steamer. It is all together likely we shall have something interesting about the disposition of this valuable shipment before forty-eight hours.—Intelligence.

A LONG MARCH.—The Royal Artillery which arrived in Canada at the time of the "Trent affair," are about to leave this city. The whole of G. Battery (Col. Hoste's) are to be concentrated at Point Levi by the 10th of next month, ready to march for St. Johns, New Brunswick, a distance of over 500 miles, through a dreary wooded country.—It will be recollected that the same battery traversed the same line of country in sleighs, but for a march this is the longest one that has ever been attempted here in time of peace. The remainder of the artillery leave in June for the Lower Provinces.—Daily Telegraph.

The Daily Telegraph says:—"We understand that Mr. T. H. Ball, in compliance with a numerously signed requisition, has consented to stand for the constituency as a candidate for the Legislature of Ontario.—Mr. Ball comes forward in the Reform interest; he is a barrister of standing in the city and a graduate, and member of the Senate, of the University. We think the electors of the West Riding would find in him, an able energetic representative."

SHIPMENT OF CATTLE.—Belville Intelligence says that large number of milch cows are now being purchased in this vicinity for the American dairies. Three day the steamer Rochester took from this port about 100, and another drove was shipped per Bay of Quinte on Friday morning. Purchasers say they pay from $25 to $30 each.

The Globe says that the Post Office Department have dismissed two employees named Wilson and Bernard, who attended the Post Office on the G. T. R., between Montreal and Toronto, because of the loss of money letters. No trace of the letters can be found and no satisfactory account of them.

TRADE WITH NEWFOUNDLAND.—The St. John (Newfoundland) Telegraph says:—"Trade is opening between Canada and Newfoundland. Canada flour up to this date has been unknown in the Island Colony, the market being supplied exclusively from the States. This summer will witness a revolution. The Hon. Ambrose Shea, an influential St. John's merchant, the leader of the Government, visited Montreal a few weeks ago, and purchased 8,000 barrels, making a saving of several thousand dollars by the operation. The quantity will be forwarded in the opening of navigation in the river and Gulf of St. Lawrence. The probability is that no more flour will be bought in the States, especially with a line of steamers running between Canadian and Newfoundland ports. This deliberation is being supplied."

The New Brunswick papers publish the following as the list of Senators for that Province:—Hons. John Ferguson, Peter Mitchell, Francis Rice, David Wark, E. B. Chandler, A. E. Botsford, W. H. Odell, William Todd, R. D. Wilmot or C. Connell, John Robertson, R. L. Hazen, W. H. Steeves. The St. John's Globe says that among these there are three North Shore men, two Westmoreland men, whose interests in a great measure would be with the North Shore, one Albert County man, two only from St. John, three residing on the River St. John and one in Charlotte County. The Telegraph says the list is not altogether correct.

JEFFERSON DAVIS.—At last there seems to be a prospect that the late President of the Southern Confederacy will be released from the suspense in which he has been kept. A writ of Habeas Corpus has been issued from the district Court of Virginia, and it is said that the General commanding at Fortress Monroe has been ordered by the Government to obey the writ. There is reason to suppose that the Government will be glad to have him thus taken off its hands, and given over to the courts. His counsel are very anxious to secure his release on bail, though it is doubtful whether they will effect it. Judge Underwood, before whom he will be brought, is believed to hold that treason is not a bailable offence. If Davis is once surrendered to the United States marshal, the military control over him will be at an end, and the courts will then have to decide his fate. It is feared that the trial will be deferred, even if he comes within the jurisdiction of the courts, but the delay in that case cannot be very great. Augustus Schell and Horace Greeley will be tendered as bail in the sum of $100,000, in case bail will be accepted at all.—Globe.

HARD ON THE PRESIDENT.—The N. Y. Sunday Mercury has the following:—"Our Washington correspondent informs us that the President is about to pay a visit to Raleigh, N. C., and that on the way he will probably address the people. We sincerely trust he will do nothing of the kind. Let him pay baseball, or euchre, or dance a polka on the tight rope, or say his prayers, by way of variety; but let him not make speeches. Let his aspirations take any shape but that. Raleigh is a terrible place for bad whiskey, which kills further than a needle-gun, and if under its influence, the President should begin speechifying, as he did last year, he would give Radicalism a new lease of its life. We hope, therefore, he will eschew eloquence and Bourbon plain and go in for silence and light potations."

A Washington dispatch says that it is asserted on the very highest authority that the Government has offered to release Jeff Davis on parole, but he has positively declined to accept his freedom unless the same is given unconditionally.

Prince Kung, the actual ruler of China, refused to allow the English there to build a railroad. His reasons in opposition were that the prejudices of the people were very strong; the country of Confucius differed from the wild, semi-barbarous, and primitive regions of Europe, whose inhabitants were comparatively of recent origin, whereas the Flowery Kingdom was under elaborate culture, and the occupations of the inhabitants were peculiar.

The following is an extract from the speech of the Hon. Mr. Tupper, in the Parliament of Nova Scotia:—"The honorable gentleman has taunted me with having made use of the Queen's name, and he and his friends had stated in a state paper which they sent to the Colonial office that his measure had been carried by abuse of our Sovereign's name. The reference was clearly within the constitution and such as is made within the Parliament of England. From the lips of our Royal Sovereign I have heard the warmest approval of union. The province I represented had the great honor and distinction of my receiving Her Majesty's command to wait upon her at Buckingham palace, and upon that occasion Her Majesty congratulated me upon the success which had attended our efforts; and when I expressed the gratification with which her loyal subjects would learn the deep interest she had evinced in this measure, she replied: 'All take the deepest interest in it, for I believe it will make them great and prosperous.' (Cheers.)"

THE FENIAN INFORMERS FROM AMERICA.—In the list of witnesses to be produced against the Fenian prisoners in Ireland are Patrick Condon, otherwise called Godfrey Massey, formerly a colonel in the Confederate army; John Joseph Corydon, formerly a lieutenant in the United States army; and John Devany, formerly a clerk in a mercantile establishment in New York.

Dr. Cumming has published in London another prophetic book, called The Last War, in which he says that the Jews are to be converted as a nation, and the Papacy is to be extinguished, between the autumnal equinox of 1867 and the same period of 1868.

Representations in favour of peace had been communicated almost simultaneously from England, Russia and Austria to the Prussian Government.

On Easter Sunday the Pope bestowed his usual benediction on the city and the world, from the Vatican, in the presence of a great concourse.

The Times says: Mr. Gladstone cannot resign. He owes it to the Liberal party to remain its leader.

The Bourse Gazette of St. Petersburg says there is an alliance between Russia, Prussia and Italy.

Berlin advices deny that Prussia made any warlike preparations whatever.

IS IT OR IS IT NOT TO BE.—We say it is, and must be considered the most wonderful Medicine ever discovered for the radical cure of all rheumatic complaints, coughs, colds, sprains, bruises, &c. We speak of the "Canadian Pain Destroyer;" it not only removes all pain instantly, but effects permanent cures. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

BRYAN'S WAFERS.—The great public remedy have now been in use over twenty years, hence it cannot be said that they are on trial. They have been thoroughly tried, and pronounced (on the authority of those whose lives and health they have preserved) to be a pure, harmless, and eminently salutary preparation, and if taken in season will invariably cure colds, coughs, sore throat, and all Bronchial affection. One fair trial will convince the most skeptical. Sold by all medicine dealers, at 25cts. per box.

The Great English Remedy.

SIR JAMES CLARKE'S

CELEBRATED FEMALE PILLS,

Prepared from a Prescription of Sir James Clarke, M. D., Physician Extraordinary to the Queen.

This well-known Medicine is no imposition, but a sure and safe remedy, for Female Difficulties and Obstruction from any cause whatever; and although a powerful remedy, it contains nothing hurtful to the constitution. To married ladies it is peculiarly suited. It will in a short time bring on the monthly period with regularity.

In all cases of nervous and spinal affections, pain in the back and limbs, heaviness, fatigue on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, heaviness of spirits, hysterics, sick headache, whites, and all the painful diseases occasioned by a disordered system, these Pills will effect a cure when all other means have failed.

☞ These Pills have never been known to fail, where the directions on the second page of the Pamphlet are well observed.

For full particulars, get a pamphlet, free, of the Agent.

N. B. $1 and six postage stamps enclosed to any authorised Agent will ensure a bottle, containing Pills, by return mail.

Northrop & Lyman, general Agents for Canada.

TO OWNERS OF HORSES.

It is a well attested fact, confirmed by the experience of thousands, that "Darley's Arabian Heave Remedy and Condition Medicine" for horses is superior to anything of the kind now or ever known. We know that it has been used in many cases where the horse has been considered almost worthless, with the most satisfactory result, the horse having been restored to perfect soundness or so much benefitted that the complaint could scarcely be observed. Many such horses have afterwards been sold for from $50 to $100 more than they would have previously brought, and were well worth the difference; let all interested consider this.

Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package.

Northrop & Lyman, Newcastle, C.W., proprietors for the Canadas. Sold by all Medicine Dealers. 16

FLAX GROWING.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.

If any Farmer wishes to try an acre or two of Flax, I will furnish them with seed, and wait for the price of it until the delivery of the Flax. As I have established a Scutching Mill amongst you, I think it is the duty of every Farmer to try an acre, if not more, of Flax, for a few years, so as to give it a fair trial. That it is the best spring crop I will leave facts to prove themselves, and will give you the names of a few Farmers who grew it last year to their entire satisfaction:—

R. Brown, Esq., Douro, 2½ acres, 1 tons 680 lbs	$102	70
H. Reid, Esq., Douro, 2 acres, 5½ tons,	77	00
G. Geagley, Esq., Douro, 1 acre, 3 tons 1130 lbs	49	91
J. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2½ Acres, 7½ tons	105	00
A. Scott, Esq., Smith, 2 acres, 5½ tons, 110	50
A. Hall, Esq., Smith, ¾ of an acre, 3 tons 754 lbs	47	27
T. Tully, Esq., Smith, 1 acre, 2 tons	36	00
Matt. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2 acres, 6 tons 540 lbs	81	00
A. Rosebury, Esq., Smith, 1 bushel, 2 tons 530 lbs	29	50
J. Hogan, Esq., Douro, 1 bushel, 3 tons 600 lbs	46	40
G. McKeon, Esq., Otonabee, 2 bushels, 4 tons 1620 lbs	62	53

There are a great many more I could give you the names of, but as these gentlemen are the most prominently known I refer to them only. In every other place in Canada where there has been a Scutching Mill established, the Farmers have come forward and willingly bound themselves to raise from 400 to 500 tons for five years. If the crop will not pay, why do farmers in other places bind themselves to grow it? There was as high as one thousand tons grown in and about Streetsville last year. Let every farmer try an acre or two, until he tests his land how suitable it will be for growing it. I have given you references from all the townships around here; you see they have all done equally well. Another great advantage to some of the Farmers would be the early market they could make, for it is only necessary after pulling the flax to allow it to dry sufficiently before selling it, when they can realise money to assist them in harvesting their other crops.

For further particulars see circulars.

BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY IN CANADA.

The following testimony from a well known and highly respected Merchant of Prescott, is corroborative of the general approval given to Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY:

PRESCOTT, C. W., Dec. 8th, 1859.

Messrs. S. W. Fowle & Co., Boston.

Gentlemen:—

Being solicited by your Travelling Agent, for an expression of opinion of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, I with pleasure assert that it is, in my belief, the best remedy before the public for coughs and pulmonary complaints.

Having tested the article with myself and family, in case of severe coughs and colds, for years, with uniform and unexceptionable success, I unhesitatingly recommend it with full confidence in its merits.

Yours truly,
ALFRED HOCKER.

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed with out assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

And for the speedy cure of the following complaints: Scrofula and Scrofulous Affections, such as Tumors, Ulcers, Sores, Eruptions, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Blains, and all Skin Diseases.

OAKLAND, Ind., 6th June, 1866.

J. C. AYER & Co. Gents: I feel it my duty to acknowledge what your Sarsaparilla has done for me. Having inherited a Scrofulous infection, I have suffered from it in various ways for years. Sometimes it burst out in Ulcers on my hands and arms; sometimes it formed inward and distressed me at the stomach. Two years ago it broke out on my head and covered my scalp and ears with one sore. Shock was patented and loathsome beyond description. I tried many medicines and several physicians, but without much relief from any thing. In fact, the matter grew worse. At length I was recommended to read in the Gospel Messenger that you had prepared an alterative (Sarsaparilla), for I knew from your reputation that any thing you made must be good. I sent to Cincinnati and got it, and used it till it cured me. I took it, as you advise, in small doses of a teaspoonful over a month, and used almost three bottles. New and healthy skin soon began to form under the scab, which after a while fell off. My skin is now clear, and I know by my feelings that the disease has gone from my system. You can well believe that I feel what I am saying when I tell you, that I hold you to be one of the agents of the age, and remain ever gratefully, Yours,

ALFRED B. TALLEY.

St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Dropsy.

Dr. Robert M. Preble writes from Salem, N. Y., 12th Sept., 1866, that he has cured an inveterate case of Dropsy, which threatened to terminate fatally, by the persevering use of our Sarsaparilla, and also a dangerous Malignant Erysipelas by large doses of the same; says he has cured the common Ringworm by it constantly.

Bronchocele, Goitre or Swelled Neck.

Reuben Sloan of Prospect, Texas, writes: "Three bottles of your Sarsaparilla cured me from a Goitre—a hideous swelling on the neck, which I had suffered from over two years."

Leucorrhœa or Whites, Ovarian Tumor, Uterine Ulceration, Female Diseases.

Dr. J. B. S. Channing, of New York City, writes: "I most cheerfully comply with the request of your agent in saying I have found your Sarsaparilla a most excellent alterative in the numerous complaints for which we employ such a remedy, but especially in Female Diseases of the Scrofulous diathesis. I have cured many intractable cases of Leucorrhœa by it, and some where the complaint was caused by ulceration of the uterus. The ulceration itself was soon cured. Nothing within my knowledge equals it for these female derangements."

Edward B. Marrow, of Newbury, Ala., writes: "A dangerous ulcerous tumor on one of the females in my family, which had defied all the remedies we could employ, has at length been completely cured by your Extract of Sarsaparilla. Our physician thought nothing but extirpation could afford relief, but he advised the trial of your Sarsaparilla as the last resort before cutting, and it proved effectual. After taking your remedy eight weeks no symptom of the disease remains."

Syphilis and Mercurial Disease.

NEW ORLEANS, 20th August, 1866.

Dr. J. C. AYER: Sir, I cheerfully comply with the request of your agent, and resort to you some of the effects I have realized with your Sarsaparilla.

I have cured with it, in my practice, most of the complaints for which it is recommended, and have found its effects truly wonderful in the cure of Venereal and Mercurial Disease. One of my patients had Syphilitic ulcers in his throat, which were consuming his palate and the top of his mouth. Your Sarsaparilla, steadily taken, cured him in five weeks. Another was attacked by secondary symptoms in his nose, and the ulceration had eaten away a considerable part of it, so that I believe the disorder would soon reach his brain and kill him. But it yielded to my administration of your sarsaparilla; the ulcers healed, and he is well again, not of course without some disfiguration to his face. A woman who had been treated for the same disorder by mercury was suffering from this poison in her bones. They had become so sensitive to the weather that on a damp day she suffered excruciating pain in her joints and bones. She, too, was cured entirely by your Sarsaparilla in a few weeks. I know from its formula, which your agent gave me, that this Preparation from your laboratory must be a great remedy; consequently, these truly remarkable results with it have not surprised me.

Fraternally yours, G. V. LARIMER, M. D.

Rheumatism, Gout, Liver Complaint.

INDEPENDENCE, Preston Co., Va., 4th July, 1866.

Dr. J. C. AYER: Sir, I have been afflicted with a painful chronic Rheumatism for a long time, which baffled the skill of physicians, and stuck to me in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I tried your Sarsaparilla. One bottle cured me in two weeks, and restored my general health so much that I am far better than before I was attacked. I think it a wonderful medicine. J. FREAM.

Jules Y. Getchell of St. Louis, writes: "I have been afflicted for years with an affection of the Liver, which destroyed my health. I tried every thing, and every thing failed to relieve me; and I have been a broken-down man for some years from no other cause than derangement of the Liver. My beloved pastor, the Rev. Mr. Fogg, advised me to try your Sarsaparilla, because he said he knew you, and any thing you made was worth trying. By the blessing of God it has cured me, and has so purified my blood as to make a new man of me. I feel young again. The best that can be said of you is not half good enough."

Schirrus, Cancer Tumors, Enlargement, Ulceration, Caries and Exfoliation of the Bones.

A great variety of cases have been reported to us where cures of these formidable complaints have resulted from the use of this remedy, but our space here will not admit them. Some of them may be found in our American Almanac, which the agents below named are pleased to furnish gratis to all who call for them.

Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Melancholy, Neuralgia

Many remarkable cures of these affections have been made by the alterative power of this medicine. It stimulates the vital functions into vigorous action, and thus overcomes disorders which would be supposed beyond its reach. Such a remedy has long been required by the necessities of the people, and we are confident that this will do for them all that medicine can do.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the Relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced Stages of the Disease.

This is a remedy so universally known to surpass any other for the cure of throat and lung complaints that it is useless here to publish the evidences of its virtues. Its unrivalled excellence for coughs and colds and its truly wonderful cures of pulmonary disease, have made it known throughout the civilized nations of the earth. Few are the communities, or even families, among them who have not some personal experience of its effects—some living trophy in their midst of its victory over the subtle and dangerous disorders of the throat and lungs. As all know the dreadful fatality of these disorders, and as they know, too, the effects of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them that it has now all the virtues that it did have when making the cures which have won so strongly upon the confidence of mankind.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

CONSUMPTION

BY THE

GREAT SHOSHONESS REMEDY IN CANADA.

MESSRS. Y. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I Wilson Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say,—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coughed nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Esq., Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve my cough." He said "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you" I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once which I felt through my whole system; at night I took a tablespoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c, gradually left me, and I got hearty and strong I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was affected with the Liver Complaint she has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

DARLEY'S Arabian Heave Remedy and Condition Medicine

IS positively superior to any or all other preparations for the cure of Heaves, Coughs, Thick and Broken Wind, and all diseases which affect the Wind of Horses; also, as a Condition Medicine, surpassing everything of the kind; is easy to give, sure to cure, and safe in all cases and at all times, and does not prevent the horse from being worked while using it.

It clears away the breathing apparatus, by removing from the air-cells the coagulable lymph or that secretion which in Heaves clogs them, causing a difficulty in breathing, and by its action on the diseased part causing the mucous membrane to resume its natural dimensions, thus equalizing the circulation of the blood, and restoring the distended vessels to their natural size; by its use the horse's appetite is improved, all derangements of the digestive organs corrected, softening the skin, and giving to the coat a sleek and shining appearance.

UNKNOWN.

You have marked the lonely river,
On whose waveless bosom lay
Some deep mountain shadow ever,
Darkening o'er the ripples' play;
Did you deem it had no murmur
Of soft music though unheard?
Deep beneath the placid surface
That the waters never stirred?

You have marked the quiet forest,
Where the moonbeams slept by night,
And the elm and drooping willow
Sorrowed in the misty light;
Did you deem those depths so silent,
Held no fount of tender song—
That awoke to hallowed utterance
As the hushed hours swept along?

And the heart hath much of music,
Deep within its chambers lone,
Very pensionate and tender,
Never shaped to human tone;
Deem not that its depths are silent,
Though thou ne'er has stooped to hear;
Haply, even thence, some music
Floats to the All Hearing ear.

BENEVOLENCE AND GRATITUDE.

A TRUE STORY.

It was a raw, bleak night; the rain was falling fast, while the wind blew in violent gusts.

A Portsmouth night-coach stopped at the principle inn of the Town to change horses. The cold wearied travellers alighted for a few minutes to enjoy the comfort of the blazing fire, as well as to take refreshments

"Will you give a poor fellow a night's shelter in your hay-loft?" asked a weather beaten sailor, addressing one of the ostlers who was fastening the harness.

"No, not to such as you," answered the man; "you had better make the best of your way off, or you'll get more than you look for, if you prowl about here any longer."

"Perhaps young man," replied the tar, "you may one day be sent adrift upon the world, without a penny to keep your head above water; and as to beauty, I know better than to take what is not my own, if I have not a shoe to my foot."

"I would'nt trust you further than I could see you," said the ostler; "and if you don't be off I'll make you."

Poor Jack was turning away hungry and footsore, when he was tapped on the shoulder by a lad who acted as stable-boy.—"If you were to go down the road to the first little shop you come to," he said, "widow Smith would, I dare say, let you sleep in her woodhouse; she is a good old creature, and is always ready to help any one in distress."

"Thank you, thank you" said the sailor.

These few words caused a revulsion of feeling in the breast of the forlorn stranger; they told him that there still were hearts in which kindness flowed.

Jack Willis, on coming ashore, had been robbed of his little all, a thing of no uncommon occurrence, and he was now compelled to beg his way to London. He deeply felt the rebuffs he frequently met with. The prevalence of imposition frequently renders it hard for those who are really in need to get help for their truthfulness is often questioned.

Jack followed the directions given him; but he found the shop closed. He felt that it was an unreasonable hour; still the favorable account he had received of its owner encouraged him to tap gently at the door. His summons was answered by the worthy dame, who having listened compassionately to his tale of suffering bade him enter and share her frugal meal.

The tar entertained his benevolent hostess with a recital of some of the shipwrecks he had witnessed, and the narrow escapes he had himself. And she promptly directed his mind to the good Providence which had preserved him to the present hour, and the Saviour who had died to redeem him. The repast over, the widow placed some clean dry straw in one corner of a shed attached to her dwelling and, with a thankful heart, the wearied traveller stretched himself upon it, and slept as soundly as if on a bed of down.

Before continuing his journey in the morning, Jack looked in to thank the good woman for the shelter she had given him; he found, however, a warm meal awaiting him. Having partaken of it, and accepted a few cents to help him on his way, he departed with a hearty benediction from his hostess.

Ten years passed, and the little incident here recorded had long escaped the memory of all save one of the parties concerned. Ten years had wrought many changes in the town and most of its inhabitants; but they had glided gently over the head of widow Smith. The only alteration perceptible in her, was, that her hair had become more silvery, and her form was now slightly bent. She still continued her labours of love; and though her means were very limited, she was looked upon as the friend and neighbour of all who were sick, or in want.

One morning a large official-looking letter was put in Mrs. Smith's hand by the man. Its purport was to beg her attendance in London on the following day, when the writer said she would receive gratifying intelligence which it was wished to communicate to herself personly. Much consultation and gossiping ensued. One of her neighbours bought it a box to play the old lady a trick; another said it would be highly important for a woman of her years to take such a journey, especially to trust herself alone in such a wicked place as London; while the third was quite sure that the writer had some evil design. It did appear a formidable undertaking to one who had never strayed ten miles from her native place. The widow's credulity had often been imposed upon, yet she would believe anything but that any one would intentionally deceive or wrong her. She had great confidence, too, in the protecting providence of God, whom she served in humble dependence on grace in Christ, and therefore felt no fear in complying with the request in the letter. Wherefore, notwithstanding the ridicule of some, and the remonstrances of others, the good dame started by the first coach which passed through on the morrow, and reached London in time to meet the appointment.

The address given her was at an inn, and on arriving there she was immediately ushered in to a private apartment, where two respectable looking men were waiting to receive her. The widow's surprise was increased when one of them accosted her with the familiar phrase, "How do you do, mother? Don't you remember me, my worthy?" added he, in answer to her half-frightened inquiring glance. "I am Jack Willis, the sailor you housed and fed ten years ago, when he had neither money nor friends. I am now captain of a merchantman; and this gentleman," turning to his companion, "will, in my name, do the needful to settle an annuity of fifty dollars upon you, as a proof of my gratitude for your kindness, and especially for your good advice, which I hope, by God's mercy, led me to think of Christ, and trust in him for salvation."

The widow, unable to give utterance to the emotion of her swelling heart, burst into tears.

Widow Smith returned to her cottage home, thankful to God for his blessing on her humble efforts to benefit a fellow creature in body and soul, and for his bountiful care for her, and delighted that she now increased means of usefulness; and never after did she listen to a tale of suffering without thinking of poor Jack Willis —London Tract Magazine.

A SLIGHT MISTAKE.

A railroad car is, above all others, the place to witness "scenes."

Not long since, at a railroad station not one hundred miles from our own place, we were the innocent observers of a little occurrence that impressed us keenly.

As soon as the train had halted by the crowded platform, a young lady of really prepossessing appearance, who evidently is ranged to the "upper circles," sprang lightly and expectantly up the stairs and glided into the car. Having cast her eyes down the row of dozing passengers her countenance lighted up, a half-suppressed exclamation of joy escaped her girlish lips, and the next instant she was standing beside a seat at the fair end of the car, occupied by a gentleman and lady of very respectable and elegant appearance. The gentleman appeared considerably young and somewhat diffident; the apparel of his companion bespoke the bride.

No sooner had the young lady reached the pair than, throwing her white arms about the young man's neck, she imprinted a hasty kiss on his bearded lips and exclaimed:—

"Why, Fred! How do you do? And is this the dear little wife you wrote to me about?"

Right here we plainly discerned a blush mantling the young man's face, mingled with a look of unparalled surprise, and the countenance of his companion betokened a juvenile thunderstorm. But the feminine discoverer, not to be discouraged by any amount of coolness, continued:

"But why don't you get off the train? Don't you know you've got home?"

Young man hesitated—companion fidgeted. Affairs were evidently approaching a grand climateric. Passenger s tittered—reporters took out their note-books. At last the young lady frightened at the attention she had attracted and pained by the indifference of those she had come to greet, burst into tears, and, placing her head on the young man's shoulders, sobbed out:—

"Oh, Fred, what does all this mean?—Have you really forgotten me?"

Young man trembled with emotion—companion began removing her glove all the time looking meaningly at the veil covered head of the fair intruder. Reporters scribbled with commendable desperation—passengers ceased laughing and commenced to sympathize. Just here the terrified young man—almost smothered by the ringlets of the sobbing girl—mustering enough courage to stammer:

"Really, madam you are mistaken in the person. My name isn't Fred—and I live in Chicago."

The sensation produced by this announcement "can be imagined," as the novelists say. Young lady started like one possessed, incredulously scrutinized the features of her "late relative," and, after a word of explanation and apology, bounded girls to the platform, laughing heartily at her blunder and followed by an explosion from the cars within. Young man drew a long breath of relief; companion replaced her glasses and smothered the young thunderstorm; reporters stuck their pencils behind their ears; and we individually settled back in our seats just as the train started, inwardly wishing that we, too, had resembled "Fred."

WHO THEY WERE.—They tell a good story on the early appearance of Dr Bethune in a church then located on the outskirts of the city of Rochester. The edifice was placed in the centre of a large square or park, and it being summer time, the open doors made the green aisle-carpet appear like a continuation of the grassy lawn outside. At least, so the waiter appeared to a half dozen geese, who quickly walked into the church just as the preacher was closing a splendid passage of eloquence, and was quoting the lines—

"Who are these arrayed in white."

A green, half-grown country boy who supposed the question so eloquently propounded required an answer, at once replied in a bashful tone: "Them—them there's geese!" The wings of the young minister were thus abruptly clipped while he was alight, and the ones "arrayed in white," were the only dignified individuals in the audience.

A Singular Cure for Laziness.

A friend, whose name we are not now at liberty to give, but who is well and widely known as a business man of sterling worth, was last year erecting a large building. One day this gentleman noticed that one of the men was continually shirking, seeming only to care to pass away his time and draw his pay.

Calling his foreman who had the hiring as well as the overseeing of the men, our friend asked whether the lazy man had been engaged for the season or only for a short time:—

'For the season,' was the reply, 'but I can discharge him I suppose.'

'Oh, no,' said Mr. M——, 'but I want you to go down to the Village hotel and engage the best room you can find; let the man go there and occupy it; every month send his bill to me and I will pay it.'

The foreman informed the hired man of the instructions given, and he at once went to the owner—

'I understand you are not satisfied with my work,' said he.

'I find no fault with your work,' was the reply, 'but because you don't work.'

'I will leave if you insist on it,' said the man.

'Not at all—I don't turn you away, but I have given orders to have the best room in the hotel put at your service since you want to play the gentleman at my expense, and I promise you I will pay the bill promptly,—but I will not have your bad example among my men.'

The poor fellow, evidently dumbounded at such novel treatment, scarcely knew how to reply, but looked as though he would like to sink into the ground. Then, gathering some courage, he said—

'Are you willing to try me for another week?'

'Certainly,' said Mr. M——, 'I am always willing to help a man who wants to reform.'

The man returned to his work, cured of his laziness, and from that day forth as many industrious hand was to be found on the place.

A NOVEL CURRENCY.

—During the first year of the war, when change was scarce, and some large firms were issuing currency of their own, a farmer went to a store in a neighboring town and bought some goods, and gave the merchant a five dollar bill, of which he wanted seventy-five cents back. The merchant counted out the amount and handed it over to the farmer. He looked at it a moment and inquired: "What's this?"

"It's my currency," said the merchant.

"Well, 'tain't good for nothin' where I live," said the farmer.

"Very well," replied the merchant; keep it until you get a dollar's worth and bring it to my store and I will give a dollar for it.

The farmer pocketed the change and departed.

A few weeks after, he went into the same store and bought goods to the amount of one dollar, and after paying over the identical seventy-five cents, he took out a handful of pumpkin seeds and counted out twenty five of them, and passed them over to the merchant.

"Why," says the merchant, "what's this?"

"Wall," says the farmer, "this is my currency, and when you get a dollar's worth, bring it out to my place and I will give you a dollar for it."

THE SWEARER'S WAGES.—It is very sad to hear men swear. But sadder still to hear boys. There was once a man in a coach who swore very much. Some one of the men in the coach said, at last, "My good sir, you will much please the company, if you only swear in Hebrew!" The man felt at once that he was doing wrong, and ceased to swear altogether.

But I wish to tell you of another case. A young man was using very bad words. A kind, good man came up to him and said:

A.—What wages does Satan allow you for swearing, young man?

B.—What to you mean?

A.—I mean what I say. Do you have high or low wages?

B.—I don't get any wages.

A.—From the manner in which you pour out oaths, your wages must be very high

B—Well, they are not.

A.—So I see, and allow me to tell you, that you work cheap, cheaper than any person I ever heard of. I never knew any one having such miserable wages for so much work.

B—There is something in what you say, and I will—

A.—Yes—yes—there is something—cheap work, cheap work I tell you. Just look—you lay aside the character of a well-bred man and gentleman; you injure the feelings of your best friends, and in fact cause pain to all civil people who hear you swear; you dishonor the name of your Maker; and all for nothing. Young man, I tell you, you work cheap indeed.

COULDN'T SELL HIS CORN.—A Connecticut exchange tells the following story of a boy who was sent from Creton, Cranes, to New London, one day last summer, with a bag of green corn to sell. The boy was gone all day and returned with the bag unopened, which he dumped on the floor, saying, "There is your corn, go and sell it yourself, I can't." "Sold any?" "No." said the boy, "I've been all over London with it, and nobody said anything about green corn. Two or three fellows asked me what I'd got in my bag, and I told them 'twas none of their business." The boy reminds me of those a men who are to be found in every community who do not, or will not, recognize the benefits of advertising.

Alexander Dumas, the elder, returning from a day's resort at the country seat of a friend with an empty game bag, was asked, "Well, Dumas, what have you killed?"—"Time," was the quick reply.

Scene at the Capture of Lucknow.

The 53rd Regiment, encouraged by the gallant Lieutenant French, violently smashed through the iron bars of a window, and, with loud screams of victory, died to the tumult, the confusion, and the slaughter.—House calls for help came from this side; loud and frequent orders to go and harvest from the other; scenes, in the most awful words, mingled with imploring voices. A few ran wild through the combatants, to end their misery by death.

Hundreds were deliberately bayoneted, and pitched writhing in the agonies of death, into a reservoir. The appalling sounds of cutting, hacking and stabbing were heard all round the garden, with the dreadful screams of the combatants—

'Cawnpore, boys! Remember our women and children! Mercy! No mercy for you! Miserable creatures! a day of retribution.'

The mass of dark means wedged here, there, backwards and forwards, trampling down the plants that sent forth their fragrance to nostrils choked with blood; many ran in and out of the rooms, pursued by fair fearless and merciless foe.

The scene was animated to the utmost degree, when the effect was increased by a conflagration, from which the mutineers struggled on to our weapons, and were then thrown back upon the raging flames!—Some sought concealment on the roofs and in the towers, where they were ruthlessly followed and shrieked dying to the yard below.

The strife was obstinately maintained at one tower. Officers and men courageously threw themselves against the door to burst it, and were killed; and another and another fell in fruitless efforts to enter. Artillery were brought in, and the awful uproar was made more horrid by its booming, and by the crashing walls, as the balls passed through the room of the desperate defenders.

At last the tumult ceased, and the victors walked triumphantly through the blood of the prostrate foe to count their bodies.—Two thousand of the enemy covered the ground, lapped one on the other—they were either dead or dying. At one spot the corpses above were moved up and down by the suffocating respirations of the living below!

Nor was this fearful spectacle—which seen as it might well be thought, there was no room for aught but horrors—entirely unmitigated by the humorous element. One must not calculate too much, it seems, even in the moment of victory, upon the grateful enthusiasm of a Commander in Chief.

Sir Colin Campbell, mounted on his gray horse, was outside the Secunda Bagh surrounded by his staff, when a Highland officer excited, tattered and blood stained, passed through the gate, and approached the group with a red banner.

'I have killed the last four of the enemy with my own hands, and here, sir, are their colors!' exclaimed the bleeding and agitated Highlander.

'D—the colors, sir! Where is your Regiment? Go back to your Regiment, sir! I thank you, Col. Ewart, for your zeal and gallantry; but go back to the Regiment!'

A STRANGE DUEL.

A laughable incident is mentioned by a correspondent from Havanah. He gives the account as follows:

"An amusing duel took place yesterday about five miles from the city. It originated in a remark made by a man to his friend on seeing a lady coming out of church. The lady was unknown to the person making the remark, but happened to be the other's wife. A slap in the face was the consequence, and a challenge came soon after.

The wife got wind of the affair, and took steps to prevent the dreadful catastrophe. Her first thought was to notify the police, but that might have given her husband the reputation of a coward; and she took a better method by going to the house of the other party, where she met his wife, and a plan was soon concocted, between the feminines.

This morning both husbands got up early—wives ditto. Husbands took carriages; and their wives—one armed with five young children, and the other with three—took the other vehicles in waiting.

When the two duelists arrived at the spot they were somewhat astonished on seeing the other two carriages drive up with their respective passengers, who coolly informed the men that they also had come to fight, so as to make a family quarrel, each at the same time producing an empty purse and a package of baby linen as their arms and munitions of war. The little ones had pop guns and fire-crackers, and so a scene indulged in a cry.

It is useless to add that the blood-thirsty Benedicks made peace on the spot, and returned to Havana, in company with their seconds, to celebrate the affair over a grand dinner.

It is ungenerous to criticise our fashionable young ladies for walking on tip-toe as they do now-a-days. They can't help it. The waterfalls on the top of their heads draw up the back hair so tightly that they can't put their heels down squarely without great pain.

An Irish witness in a court of justice, being asked what kind of "ear-marks" the hog in question had, replied, "He had no particular ear-marks except a very short tail."

Self-denial leads to the most exalted pleasures, and the conquest of evil habits is the most glorious triumph.

Strive to make everybody happy, and you will at least make one so—yourself.

Proud characters love those to whom they do a service.

The multitude of affections enlarges the heart.

Tenderness is the repose of passion.

Never cut what you can untie.

The Peterborough Examiner

THURSDAY, MAY 16, 1867.

To our friends who have not remembered us as they ought, we respectively submit that, owing to our late disaster by fire, we require their kind co-operation. Some of them have almost forgotten that newspaper men require money to pay hands, get stock and keep the affair in motion. We trust that they will no longer forget us, but kindly remit arrears in a week or so, if not we will be under the necessity of calling upon them.

QUERY.—What are the Reformers of the West Riding doing? At the meeting held in the Town Hall some time ago, a committee was appointed, but we have not yet heard from them; what are they doing? This committee should have a meeting and arrange to carry out the scheme proposed in the resolution by which they were appointed. The Town is certainly a central place for a meeting, and the sooner it is held and action taken the better. We regret that there was not a convener of the committee named; but we hope that some leading member will take the lead again in order that something may be done. Delays are dangerous.

THE DRILL SHED.

THE GOVERNMENT PLAN A COMPLETE FAILURE.

The County Drill Shed that is being erected here is sickly, in fact not able to keep its feet. The contractor is forced to put props to stay the roof from falling—no less than 25 to 30 of such props are needed. From the first, Mr. Hughes feared the plan would not be the thing; his fears are now verified. The tressel work formed for rafters is not sufficient to support the roof, and the iron bars that are used are not at all strong enough for the stress they have to sustain; some of them we noticed have given way already. Mr. Hughes thinks that if the building had not given way now, it would most assuredly have done so the first high winds that would chance to blow; indeed, this is the opinion of almost all who have seen the slender affair. The mayor, we understand, has written to headquarters to learn what is to be done; in the meantime, the contractor cannot proceed with the work. Let us hope that the building will be so constructed that our brave volunteers will not be in more dread of it than of the Fenians. We may add that several of the new drill sheds of the country have been found wanting, and more than one of them have fallen—at Dundas, for instance. So much for government engineers.

PEACE.

Contrary to general expectations we have received the news that a treaty of peace has been signed. Hence there is to be no war at present between France and Prussia. Most heartily do we wish for peace in our day.—The Trade Review remarks that the late European war is the cause of present high prices. This is the end of almost every war. The peaceful, too, suffer with the sons of strife very often.

The Queen's Birthday.

The lovers of tea will obtain the gratifications of their desires by coming to town on the Queen's Birthday. "The Terrible" are making grand preparations for that day. The Firemen also and Volunteers will do their part to make things attractive. We hope they will get a fair day to show off.

ASHBURNHAM.

The Court of Revision for the Village met on Monday, but there was nothing for them to do. Only one case of appeal was heard. This shows the satisfactory manner in which the assessors have done their duty this year. The Council of the Village will meet on the first Monday of June at 7.30. p. m.

Stoves and Tin-ware.

These Lannin has removed to the corner building, lately occupied by F. & L. Lemay, George Street, where he keeps all sorts of stoves, tin ware, &c. Intending purchasers would do well to give him a call. Remember the giant T.

THE JURY SYSTEM.

The following remarks from the London Free Press, in reference to the charge made by the Hon. J. S. Macdonald against the Grand Jurors at Cornwall, of being tampered with in reference to an indictment laid before them, are of interest in themselves, as well as in view of certain verdicts which have been rendered in this city:—

"To the public, the action of the Grand Jury was not such as the circumstances of the case demanded. Mr. Macdonald asserted that he was in a position to prove in Court the allegation that he had thought it to be his duty to make, and the only searching and satisfactory method would have been that the proof should have been demanded. As it is, the charge of guilt is disposed of by those implicated saying, "we are not guilty," and thereupon the matter passes away. If such a method was to be adopted in all cases, evil-doers would get the best of it continually. It is no doubt the case that a good deal of dissatisfaction exists in the public mind on the matter of juries. Bad verdicts, inconclusive verdicts, verdicts against law and fact, verdicts intended to shield a favorite or a partizan, are by no means unfrequent. Going to law under the jury system is quite as uncertain in its results as a dip in a "lucky bag," and verdicts given are more frequently the result of accident than of justice. In practice it is very much as follows;—Twelve persons are summoned to give a collective opinion upon certain questions of fact and evidence. These persons are selected promiscuously from the people, without any reference to their qualification to execute the trust reposed in them. Individually, no one might give twopence for their opinion on any matter; but the law invests them collectively with the faculty of disposing of a man's life, liberty, or goods. In ordinary affairs, one would not select a captain for a ship out of a promiscuous crowd, choose a surgeon from a mob of civilians, or entrust the lives of railway passengers to a man who had never stoked a boiler, and knew nothing of the action of a steam-engine. Special knowledge is required in such cases, but in no department of life is an educated judgement so necessary as in the sifting of evidence, unearthing of false testimony, the resistance of specious arguments and appeals to passion or prejudice, and the faculty of arriving at a correct estimate of the merits of a case. That juries do not possess such qualifications is notorious, and nine persons out of ten would prefer to leave their causes in the hands of a judge, or legal commission, than have them dealt with by people who, however estimable, have never been mentally trained to the task of arriving at just conclusions as to fact from circumstantial conflicting evidence and testimony."

What man in this county but can testify to the truthfulness of the above remarks. In several instances the verdicts of Jurors in our own courts have been the subject of gossip for weeks. Verdicts have been given that astonished the whole people who attended during the trial. Men go into the jury box, who mentally are entirely unfit for the responsibility of the position, and too often morally unfit to sit in judgement on any case no matter how trivial. The present jury system has become a mock and a scoff, and the decision of jurors in too many cases is not now considered as having any moral weight. Thinking men must now hear the evidence themselves before they attach any weight to the verdicts of many of our juries. Law, justice or evidence has too often very little effect, if any, in ensuring a verdict; and this even lawyers themselves feel, so much so, that we heard of an eminent lawyer who lately remarked, "That if there was anything of which God knew nothing, it was the verdict of a jury before given in." So grievous and palpable has the evil become, that men begin to wish for the abolishment of the system, and in nine cases out of ten, would consider it a boon to have their cases left in the hands of even an unjust judge, for then justice would sometimes be done; as it is, it is seldom, if ever, done.

The selection of Jurors is placed in the power of the Reeve, Clerk and Assessor of each Municipality; and it would be a blessing to the public who have to do with courts of law, in which trial by jury prevails, if these men would exercise discrimination and carefulness in placing men's names on the jurors' lists. If something is not done to rectify the abuses that prevail in the system, that which was once a blessing will ere long become a curse. Even now neither life, property nor character is respected; prejudice, bribery or incapacity very often causing the most unjust verdicts. The innocent fear the ignorant conclusions of a jury more than they do the evidence of their bitterest enemies.

The London Free Press says that "at a meeting of the Board of Trade, on Thursday, the Council recommended their successors in office to press the importance on the Confederate Government of considering, at the earliest possible moment, the condition of the currency, with a view of reducing it to a uniform character for the whole of Canada, and to obtain some stringent and effective means to remove American silver from circulation in the Confederation."—Probably all classes of our people money brokers excepted, who are supposed to be reaping a rich harvest from discount transactions, would consider themselves placed under great obligations, if the Confederate Government would undertake to abate what is in reality a "silver nuisance." A simple Act of Legislation fixing some rate of discount as which American silver should pass current, would probably be the means of driving the large bulk of it from the Provinces. The Act could be made of limited duration, that is, for instance, it could remain in force until American paper currency assumed a par value with gold. We presume there can be no doubt that the Provinces are surfeited with American silver, owing to the depreciated value of the paper currency. The silver has been imported into the country by brokers and others, and has come through ordinary business channels, partly for speculative purposes and partly as payment for farm produce, at par value with gold. It is probable that if an Act were passed of the nature we have alluded to, the silver would gradually find its way back to the United States. And the operation of the Act could be so limited—a comparatively remote day could be fixed when it should go into operation—that serious derangement would not be experienced in the money market. We know that the question of abating the nuisance is surrounded with difficulties, but still there must be some way of getting over such difficulties. At any rate, the matter is one which should seriously engage the attention of the first general government of the new Dominion.

BUY THE TRUTH AND SELL IT NOT.—This is a wise saying, worthy of consideration. Will the individual who entered the building after the late fire, after forcing a door and with the aid of a sperm candle, took a large Family Bible, without money and without price, be so kind as to remember the saying of the author of the New Testament, "Search the Scriptures, &c.," and after reading that passage, "Let him that stole steal no more," read, mark and inwardly digest it. If the conscience then smites the man, so that he be inclined to make reparation, the Bible will be thankfully received by the proper owner thereof. If the man prefers to keep it, we ask him to read it to his family every evening and morning.

The Anniversary Tea of the Wesleyan Methodist Church will come off this evening. Abundance of good things, both for physical and mental food, may be expected.

NORWOOD.

We had the pleasure of a visit, lately, to this neat, thriving, village. The journey thither was nothing to boast of; mud, mud, being the complete order of the day. On our way we noticed many of the fields half covered with pools of water, rendering the work of getting in the grain almost an impossibility. One thing, however, attracted our attention. In the neighborhood of almost every place where the roads were cut up, there was an abundance of stones—sometimes on the wayside and sometimes in the fields—easy of access, and that could be had for the drawing away, enough to fill the mud holes if they were three feet deep. If these stones were drawn in suitable seasons and left on the edge of the roads until about this season of the year and then placed on the bad places, they would require no breaking as they would soon be beat right of; but then they would form a bottom somewhere that would enable the traveller to get along; as it is, it is almost sailing; it is certainly "to the eyes" in mud. The traveller who sees such an abundance of the material necessary to make good roads, but finds that it is not used, only allowed to encumber the farmer's fields, taking up a large portion of, perhaps, the best soil, cannot feel sympathy for their short crops, and far less for them as they plunge through the everlasting mud. Mud all over, we at last arrived at the village and put our wearied nag up at Mr. Johnston's Hotel to rest, and to prepare for a return as soon as our business would permit. We met our esteemed friend, P. Pearce, Esq., who had also come there on the same errand as ourselves, and, in company with him, we paid a visit to the (we may say) new Grammar School Building. To keep pace with the necessities of this growing village, and the educational wants of the surrounding neighborhood, it was found necessary to enlarge the Grammar School accommodations and also that of the Common School. The united Boards, therefore found it necessary to expend about $1,500 in enlarging and improving the school building. The village, therefore, can now boast of as neat a little Grammar and Common School building as any village of like size in the country. The building is of brick, the main portion being two storeys high. The upper floor is used for the primary department of the common school, which is under the management of Mr. Riggs. The under floor is occupied by the senior department of the common school, and it is under the management of Mr. Bell, who has about 27 to 30 pupils in regular attendance. The grammar school department is under the able management of Mr. Wright, whose labours are fully and deservedly appreciated, as will be seen by the unanimity with which the Board agreed to increase his salary.—From the report given in another column it will be seen that the Grammar School has increased during the present year so as to fully warrant the increase granted by the Board. We had not the pleasure of seeing the school in operation, but hope to be able to do so ere long. There is a movement also to improve the grounds and outside appearances; hence, in a short time the villagers will be able to behold with pride, the place where their children are being prepared for the battle of life. Of the churches, we are not inclined to say much, lest we might be considered treading too heavily somewhere, for we saw one of the churches, the top stone to which has not been yet added.

Reform vs. Conservative.

The following we clip from an exchange and give it for the benefit of our readers. It is the voice of a Roman Catholic to his countrymen and deserves their perusal.—They may draw their deductions. The object of the lecturer is to show that the progress of freedom, of political, civil, and constitutional liberty, in the British Possessions of North America, is wholly due to the efforts and influence of the Reform party, and that the Tory or Conservative party, has uniformly endeavored to retard and obstruct that progress. Mr. Fahey thus delineates the distinctive features of the two great parties which have always divided the country, and striven for the mastery in the conduct of public affairs:

"The political history is replete with episodes of interest, the study of which may serve to throw light on the actualities of the present and the probabilities of the future. It is the history of two great political parties, which may, without any very lofty flight of fancy, be compared to two faces formed on either side of the head—the Country. Now, one of these faces has ever been, and ever will be looking eagerly forwards; the other has ever been and ever will be gazing reluctantly backwards. This is no unjust comparison: for the Reform party of Canada is progressive; the one sighs for things that are to be; the other mourns for things that have been; the one is drawn forward by the promises of the future, the other is held back by the precedents of the past. This I consider to be a just though not a comprehensive view of the respective characters of these two parties—the Conservative and the Reform."

Mr. Fahey then gives a graphic review of the history of the two parties for the last thirty years, presenting by no means a very flattering, but a very truthful picture of the doings of Toryism, while he does but justice to the patriotic efforts of the Reformers, both in the old country and the new: "I may as well mention," says the lecture, that Irishmen, as such, have received nothing in the old world or he new, from the Tories but deceit, oppression and abuse. Who aided the Irish Catholics in their efforts to obtain Emancipation?—Reformers. Who opened the doors of the Toronto University to Catholic students?—Reformers. Nor have the Irish Catholics been the only class who have been benefited by the Reformers. Who advocated the rights of the thirteen British Colonies in the British House of Commons?—Reformers. Who struck off the fetters of the thousands of poor blacks whose bodies were scourged and whose souls were degraded on the West India sugar plantations?—Reformers; and who are they that are now forcing a reluctant recognition of the rights of the masses from the old Tory rulers of Great Britain, are they not Reformers? Yes, in a large and in all countries Reformers have been generous in their theories, and honest in their practices. In every constitutional battle that has been fought on British soil in behalf of the rights of the many as opposed to the prerogatives of the few, Reformers have been leaders, standard-bearers, and victors; and though at times they may have differed from one another on points of minor importance; though at times they may have erred in regard to the means employed to accomplish their object, there is, nevertheless, one grand point upon which they have ever been united; one great object which they have never lost sight of; one fundamental principle which they have always maintained, i.e., the expediency and legitimacy of granting civil and religious liberty to all men, of all colors—no matter what country they came from, or what creed they profess."

The late heavy rains have so raised the water in the river St. Francis, L. C. that on Thursday last many of the dwellings in Sherbrooke were flooded. The Gazette says the water was two or three feet in the streets from the railway to the Aylmer bridge, and in crossing to the bridge in a boat, it was capsized and four men were tossed into the water. They could swim, however, and were thus saved, but somewhat wet of course. The same paper says the river is higher than it has been since 1857.

ACCIDENT TO THE GRECIAN.

The Grecian, one of the Inland Navigation Company's steamers, struck a rock on Friday last, while shooting the Lachine rapids; she afterwards filled so rapidly that the Captain found it necessary to ground her, which he did by running her on a sand bank. High water, a strong wind, and long upper works, on which the wind had considerable effect, are said to be the cause of the disaster. There were about 40 passengers on board at the time, among whom were our townsmen, John Burnham, J. C. Rogers, Esq'rs., George Burnham, M. D., and Mr. J. J. Hall and Mrs. Hall. The Messrs. Burnham and Hall were on their way to Europe at the time. The whole crew got off safe and well. We sincerely hope that this may be their only mishap and that the future journey may be more pleasant and less exciting than "a ground" on the Canadian waters.

A meeting of the passengers was held on board the steamer "Grecian" afterwards, for the purpose of giving expression to their views concerning the accident.

Captain Cryder, of Gananoque, was chosen chairman, and Mr Freeman Britton, of Gananoque, was appointed secretary.

The Chairman said, in calling the meeting, we do so for the purpose of each giving his own opinion in the matter. He had been steamboating for many years, and this was only the second accident that he had known, possibly, to happen in the Lachine Rapids. He thought the accident was owing to the high water, which obscured the channel marks, and which bore with increased force on the boat at a moment when she was making a short turn in a narrow and confined place. No blame could be attached to the officers, as they had all done their duty, and the passengers might rely on retaining their present comfortable position during the night; and as the purser had gone ashore with intelligence, he hoped all would be safely on shore by 8 o'clock next morning.

Major Mercer, late of the 39th Regiment, said, in rising to second the views of Capt. Cryder, I do so from my heart; for, after thanks to the Almighty for saving us from what appeared to be certain death, I cannot but express the admiration that I felt at the cool and able conduct of our worthy captain and his officers. One word is also due to the passengers; for I can truly say, as far as I could see, none of them lost their presence of mind but my little children.

Remarks of a similar nature were made by Messrs. Cormack, of Montreal; Burnham and Rogers, of Peterboro'; Colquhoun, Metcalf, and others,—and a motion was made to present Capt. Hamilton with some slight testimonial, but the meeting finally decided that the following address would be more appropriate and more acceptable:—

"We, the undersigned, passengers on board the steamer "Grecian," which this day, unfortunately, struck a rock in descending the Lachine Rapids and sunk, being of the opinion that the accident was the result of circumstances beyond control, and that no blame can be attached to the captain, pilot, or other officers, take this opportunity to express our cordial sympathy for Capt. Hamilton, and our admiration of the cool and seaman like manner in which he acted after the boat struck, and finally she was beaching in still water, and everything made safe and comfortable for the night. The address was read by the Secretary, and presented by the Chairman to Capt. Hamilton, who, in a few appropriate words, thanked the passengers for their expression of regard, and assured them that every had been, and was being done for their comfort and safety.

A subscription was then taken up for the deck hands, who had been working laboriously to save the freight and baggage, and the passengers disposed of themselves as best they might, and owing to the unwearied exertion of the Captain and others, every one was made comfortable.

The Steward, Mr. J. Moor was very attentive to the passengers, and so ordered his arrangements that all had a good tea and a comfortable place to sleep.

The baggage-master and waiters were also very active and cheerful in attending to the wants of all on board; and, as far as personal comfort was concerned, no one had occasion to regret the delay.

NORWOOD.

The Board of the Grammar and Common School met at Johnson's Hotel on Saturday last.

Present—Messrs. Grover, Pearce, Roxburgh, Dr. Ford, Johnston and Colwell.

Mr. Pearce urged the necessity of repairing the fences in and around the school grounds, and also the fixing of the grounds, and the wisdom of putting a side walk from the door of the school building to the main street.

On motion of Mr. Roxburgh, seconded by Mr. Pearce, the Chairman, Mr. Grover, Dr. Ford and Mr. Colwell were appointed a Committee to get these repairs made.

The Board also had in consideration the propriety of increasing the salary of Mr. Wright, the head master. It appeared from the remarks made that Mr. Wright had had several liberal offers made him to go to other places, but he generously declined them to remain in Norwood. The Board agreed that in view of his efficient, faithful and satisfactory services he deserved an increase of salary. All agreed that it should not be less than $750 per annum for the present year, and hence:—

It was moved by Mr. Pearce, seconded by Mr. Johnston,—That Mr. Wright's salary be $750 for the current year.—Carried.

This is an advance of $70 on the previous year.

Mr. Wright, during the meeting, gave a verbal report of the attendance of the Grammar School which showed on the Register 41 pupils; 33 of these passed the inspection of Dr. Young. Boys, 23: Girls, 18; and during the year 18 new pupils had entered the Grammar School, 12 coming from the country and 6 from the Common School department. The average of the Grammar School will be about 36.

In the Senior department of the Common School there are 27 under the care of Mr. Bell, and in the Primary department a very large number, the total number on the Roll being 150.

The school is considered in a very healthy and satisfactory state.

The Board of Public Instruction, Eastern Section of this County met at range place immediately after the adjournment of the meeting of Grammar and Union School Board.

Present—Messrs. Grover, Pearce, Roxburgh, J. Stratton, Local Superintendent, and Dr. Ford.

The object of the meeting was to appoint a Committee to draft questions for the approaching examination of teachers.

On motion of Mr. Roxburgh, seconded by Mr. Pearce, the Rev. Mr. Farrar, D. Ford and the Local Superintendent were appointed a Committee for that purpose.

On motion of Mr. Pearce, seconded by Dr. Ford, Mr. Stratton was directed to have the questions printed, and also blank forms of applications of candidates.

The Board were also unanimous that in view of the fact that females are being largely employed as teachers, the standard of qualification of female teachers should be the same as that of male teachers of second and third class certificates, respectively, so that they may be qualified to teach all the branches required in the majority of the Common Schools of the County where they may be employed.

The following address has been issued by the friends of Sabbath Schools, to which we invite the attention of our readers. The warmest invitation we believe is extended to Ministers, Sabbath School Teachers, and the friends of Sabbath Schools. The convention, it is hoped, will be instructive and entertaining, and let us hope that it will be begun and ended in such a way as will redound to the interest of the rising generation, and to the extension of the saving principles of the Gospel, as well as to the increase in Sabbath School interest and attendance:—

To Ministers, Sabbath School Superintendents, Teachers and the Friends of Sabbath Schools, in the County of Peterborough and adjacent Townships.

REVEREND AND DEAR SIRS:

At the Sabbath School Conventions held in Kingston, Hamilton and Montreal, it was strongly urged that County Conventions conducted upon the same principles as the Provincial Conventions would greatly promote the Sabbath School enterprize, by affording an opportunity to Teachers and others, who might not be able to attend the latter, to meet together and discuss the various matters of interest connected with their arduous duties in the Sabbath School.

At a meeting of the Sabbath School Superintendents of Peterboro', convened by Col. Haultain, County Secretary to the Sabbath School Association of Canada, it was resolved to hold such a Convention on Wednesday and Thursday, the 19th and 20th days of June, in the Canada Presbyterian Church, (Rev. Mr. Roger's) at 10 a. m., and we cordially and earnestly invite you to meet with us on the occasion.

After the organization of the Convention the following are some of the subjects that will be considered and discussed, and to which, if you purpose attending, we invite your careful attention:

1st. How best to induce Children to attend the Sabbath School who do not?

2nd. How to retain the elder Scholars?

3rd. Is it desirable that Sabbath Schools should have Libraries?

4th. If so, what kind of Books is suitable?

5th. Ought any other than truly converted persons be Sabbath School Teachers?

6th. How may Sabbath Schools be made most interesting to the Scholars?

While all Teachers, Superintendents and Ministers are earnestly invited to attend, and will be considered members of the Convention, it is expected that each School will especially select one or more Delegates to represent them.

Delegates intending to be present will please forward their names to Mr. DAVID HOGG, Peterboro' P. O., on or before the 24th of June, with the enclosed blank statistic sheet properly filled in, for their respective Schools.

Delegates upon arriving in town will please go direct to the Church, where the Local Committee will be in attendance to introduce them to friends, who will kindly receive and entertain them during their stay.

A public Session of the Convention will be held on the evening of the 19th, when short Addresses will be delivered by the Delegates present on the subject of Sabbath Schools.

We need not point out the benefit and value of such conventions to those who have attended them, but to those who never had the privilege, we would earnestly urge and invite them to be present, feeling satisfied that if we come together in the spirit of the Great Teacher, and watching unto prayer, God will make it a time of great refreshing to our souls, and, we trust, of increased benefit to those rising up amongst us.

We are, Reverend and Dear Sirs,
Yours faithfully,
F. W. HAULTAIN,
County Secretary.

SMITH COURT OF REVISION.

SMITH, 11th May, 1867.

The Court of Revision for the Township of Smith held its first sitting, for the current year, at the Town Hall Bridgenorth, on the 10th inst.

No complaint was presented against the assessment, consequently, after making some small alterations at the request of certain parties who have made different arrangements since the assessor made his assessment, it was moved by Mr Blewitt and seconded by Mr. Sanderson,—That the assessment roll be now passed by this court and certified by the Clerk: nevertheless, this court is of the opinion that the approximate value of the ratable property made by the assessors of the several municipalities in the County of Peterborough, at the time when the Assessment Act first came into force, and adopted by almost all subsequent assessors, does not approach near enough to the real or actual value thereof, and that such valuation is not only derogatory to the reputation of the County at large, but some assessors feel a delicacy in verifying upon oath the certificate attached to their Rolls, as provided for by Sec 50 of the Assessment Act of Upper Canada.

That this Court is well aware that any enhancement made by the present Assessors would be strenously opposed and objected to by the ratepayers, as it would be the means of increasing the number of days statute labor each has to perform; yet this court is of the opinion that this objection may be obviated by the Council passing a by-law under the provisions of Sec. 84 of the above cited Act to reduce the number of days of such labor.

That this court does therefore deem it expedient that the Assessors of this Municipality be, for the future, recommended to enhance the approximate value of the ratable property therein so as to approach near to the real or actual value of the same; and that the Council do pass a By-law to operate generally and ratably to reduce the number of days statute labor in proportion to such enhancement, and that the Reeves of this Township do, at the next sitting of the Council of the County, earnestly request the Reeves of the different Townships to direct the attention of the several Councils to this subject.

The members then went into Council.

A petition from Thomas Young and 27 others, praying the Council to open a road across Lot No. 6 in the 8th concession was presented and read.

The Reeve was directed to issue his order on the Treasurer for the sum of $21.25 in favor of Al xander Scott, being the amount of damages allowed to him by the Justices of the Peace for sheep killed by dogs.

Aaron Haan was appointed Overseer of highways in lieu of Charles McCall; T. G. Hazlitt in lieu of R. B. Palmer, and Thomas Hall in lieu of Adam Hall.

The Quarterly Report of the Inspector was read and adopted.

Doors of Public Buildings.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—Probably it is not generally known that an act was passed at the last session of our legislature, making it obligatory to have the doors of Churches, Theatres, Halls or other buildings used for holding public meetings, to open outside. The object of the act is to facilitate the egress of people in case of alarm from fire or other cause." All such buildings erected after the passing of the act, are to have doors hinged so as to open freely outwards, and all gates or outer fences if not so hinged shall be kept open by proper fastenings, during the time said buildings are publicly used.

The second clause enacts, "Congregations or others owning Churches, and individuals, corporations and companies owning Halls, Theatres or others buildings used for the purpose of holding public meetings, or places of public resort or amusement, shall, within twelve months from the passing of this Act, be required to have the doors of such Churches, Theatres, Halls or other buildings so hinged as to open freely outwards."

Section No. 3 enacts that persons violating the provisions of said Act shall be liable to be fined $50, and a further fine of $5 for every week that the changes are not made.

Section 4 empowers Municipal Corporations in Upper Canada to enact By-laws to regulate the size and number of doors of the enumerated buildings, also the street gates leading thereto, stairs and stair railing, as well as beams and joists and their supports.

Section No. 6 makes it the duty of the High Bailiff, Chief Constable or Chief of Police in cities and towns, to enforce the provisions of the Act, and neglecting to do so, subjects him to a fine of $50.

The Act referred to is 29-30 Vic. Cap. 22.

Yours truly,
E.

THE RETURN.

The delegates have returned from England. They arrived at Prescott on their way to Ottawa last Saturday, reaching Ottawa in the evening. At every station the gentlemen were met by crowds of admirers engaged in the great game of "hunt the slipper," otherwise office-seekers. Few others troubled their heads about either Mr. M'Donald or Mr. M'Dougall. The ministry have had a most splendid trip to England, the Confederation scheme has been passed into law, and now it is time the interests of the country were attended to.

On all hands, it is generally believed that Mr. M'Dougall has decided to stick to John A. M'Donald. This does not in the smallest surprise us; in fact it is the fulfillment of our prediction, made at the time the gentlemen were on the floor of the House of Parliament assuming the responsibility of paying a large sum of money in a questionable matter to the great Fenie chuseiller.—Let Mr. M'Dougall remember the fate of Sydney Smith. We will watch with some interest how the wire pullers of North Lanark will act. The Riding is unmistakably Reform. Will they return a renegade from their ranks? Mr. M'Dougall expects them to do so. In fact we had it in the lips of a Tory member and a Tory editor of a government daily, that Mr. M'Dougall would hereafter go with John A. M'Donald, and would take his constituents with him. At the time we emphatically denied that he would succeed in the treacherous act. Let the people of Lanark look to themselves.—Let them watch the wire pullers.—Brockville Recorder.

INCREASE OF INSANITY FROM INTEMPERANCE.—Dr. John E. Tyler, Superintendent of the McLean Insane Asylum, in his annual report, just issued from the press, makes the following painful statement:—"The excessive drinking of wines and ardent spirits has brought insanity upon many persons during the last year. The indulgence seems to be increasing very greatly, and its consequences are indeed alarming. More persons, and chiefly young men, either positively insane or who have been seriously damaged mentally and physically by this cause, have come under our professional observation, or have applied here for advice and relief during the last year, than we can remember before in the same length of time."

A Paris letter says "the Chinese ladies have arrived. We are to have Egyptians and Nubians—at least, so we are assured. The Chinese disembarked at Marseilles, and made their first experience of French life on a drive in a cab. One young celestial is eighteen, and her younger companion sixteen. They cost 6000 francs each. Neither of the young ladies speak French, as they are slaves On arriving at the Customs House the laws were read to them by which they became free on reaching French territory. They understood the purport of this formality, and immediately knelt and kissed their master's hand. They will be seen at their counter at the Exposition when the time for selling cups of tea and dispensing smiles arrive, but till then they are kept under lock and key in some mysterious chateau in the neighbourhood of Paris.

MAIL ROBBERY.—We learn that the mail carrier between Gull River and Bobcaygeon a few days since, abstracted a letter containing one hundred dollars from the bag, and when Mr. Dewe, Post Office Inspector, came to investigate the matter, he found that the clerk in the Post Office, Bobcaygeon, was a defaulter to some extent. We learn that Mr. Boyd will make good the amount lost by the office, and that the clerk is gone to the States. We have not learned the particulars.—Victoria Warder.

NEW YORK, 3rd.—Great numbers of refugees are arriving in this city from Ireland. They give very discouraging accounts of the state of the country, and say that the movement in Ireland is entirely given up. It is said that Col. Roberts has made a special call upon the Fenian Brotherhood for aid for the families of the Irish State prisoners.

Two boys sons of Mr. Abraham Clemmer, farmer, of the Township of waterloo, were poisoned in the woods near Breslau, by eating a root which they supposed was the wild garlic a few days ago. Both died within half an hour after eating the poisonous root.

The Ohio legislature has passed a law prohibiting the publication of advertisements of secret drugs and nostrums purporting to be for the exclusive use of women, and also the sale of the same.

A PUNCH OF KEYS.—The key of the palace, lock-key; the key of the stable, lock-key; the key of the convent, mon-key; the key of the kitchen, tur-key; the key of the cellar, whiskey; the key for curing colds, frost-bites, sprains bruises, burns, is the "Canadian Pain Destroyer," at 25 cts per bottle. Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

BRYAN'S WAFERS.—The great public remedy have now been in use over twenty years, hence it cannot be said that they are on trial. They have been thoroughly tried, and pronounced (on the authority of those whose lives and health they have preserved) to be a pure, harmless, and eminently salutary preparation, and if taken in season will invariably cure colds, coughs, sore throat, and all Bronchial affection. One fair trial will convince the most skeptical. Sold by all medicine dealers, at 25cts. per box.

THE HORSE.

"Of the great number of animals under the control of man, the horse is unquestionably the most serviceable;" but is it not strange that so many who own horses, and who are dependent on their labor for a living, should neglect to give them that care and attention which their own interest no less than the safety and comfort of the horse demands. The best medicine for horses is "Darley's Arabian Heave Remedy and Condition Medicine;" of this there can be no doubt—it is safe and easily given.

FLAX GROWING.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.

If any Farmer wishes to try an acre or two of Flax, I will furnish them with seed, and wait for the price of it until the delivery of the Flax. As I have established a Scutching Mill amongst you, I think it is the duty of every Farmer to try an acre, if not more, of Flax, for a few years, so as to give it a fair trial. That it is the best spring crop I will leave facts to prove themselves, and will give you the names of a few Farmers who grew it last year to their entire satisfaction:—

R. Brown, Esq., Douro, 2½ acres, 2 tons 680 lbs. $102 70
H. Reid, Esq., Douro, 2 acres, 5½ tons, 1130 lbs. 77 60
C. Crowley, Esq., Douro, 1 acre, 3 tons 1130 lbs. 49 01
J. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2½ acres, 7½ tons, ... 105 00
A. Scott, Esq., Smith, 2 acres, 5½ tons, 110 50
A. Hall, Esq., Smith, ¾ of an acre, 3 tons 754 lbs. 47 27
T. Tully, Esq., Smith, 1 acre, 3 tons 36 00
Matt. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2 acres, 6 tons 560 lbs. 81 60
A. Rosebury, Esq., Smith, 1 bushel, 2 tons 530 lbs. 29 50
J. Hogan, Esq., Douro, 1 bushel, 3 tons 660 lbs. 46 40
G. McKeon, Esq., Otonabee, 2 bushels, 4 tons 1020 lbs. 62 55

There are a great many more I could give you the names of, but as these gentlemen are the most prominently known I refer to them only. In every other place in Canada where there has been a Schutching Mill established, the Farmers have come forward and willingly bound themselves to raise from 200 to 300 tons for five years. If the crop will not pay, why do farmers in other places bind themselves to grow it? There was as high as one thousand tons grown in and about Streetsville last year. Let every farmer try an acre or two, until he tests his land how suitable it will be for growing it. I have given you references from all the townships around here; you see they have all done equally well. Another great advantage to some of the Farmers would be the early market they could make, for it is only necessary after pulling the flax to allow it to dry sufficiently before selling it, when they can realise money to assist them in harvesting their other crops.

For further particulars see circulars.

The following testimony from a well known and highly respected Merchant of Prescott, is corroborative of the general approval given to Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY:

PRESCOTT, C. W., Dec. 8th, 1859.

Messrs. S. W. Fowle & Co., Boston.

Gentlemen:—

Being solicited by your Travelling Agent, for an expression of opinion of Dr. Wister's Balsam of Wild Cherry. I with pleasure assert that it is, in my belief, the best remedy before the public for coughs and pulmonary complaints.

Having tested the article with myself and family, in case of severe coughs and colds, for years, with uniform and unexceptionable success, I unhesitatingly recommend it with full confidence in its merits.

A New Discovery better than the
MADOC GOLD.

Notice for a Cold—Relief in five Minutes

WHY do you suffer with a bad Cold when one bottle of Morris's Electric Invigorating Fluid will cure the worst cold in three days. It is far superior to any patent Elixir or Linement or Ready-relief. Try it once and you will not keep your house without it, for after all other remedies have failed it has cured hundreds of rheumatism, frost bites, chilblains, burns, scalds, bruises, sprains, pains in the bowels, fresh cuts, lame back, headache and all pains internal and external. Sold everywhere at 25 cents per bottle. Retail and wholesale only by R. MORRIS, Peterborough, C. W. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money refunded. Every one should have a bottle.

Peterboro', Jan. 20th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed without assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

CANCERS CURED!

By a new, but certain, speedy, and nearly painless process, and

WITHOUT THE USE OF THE KNIFE.

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will cost less and is more speedily cured the sooner of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small wart or sore on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. If squired, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. No money required in advance, and none until the cure is complete.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS.

Are you sick, feeble, and complaining? Are you out of order, with your system deranged, and your feelings unmentionable? These symptoms are often the product of worms. Some bile of indigestion is prompting them, and should be counteracted by a timely use of the right remedy. That remedy is Ayer's Pills, which cleanse out the disorganized mass—purify the blood, and let the health move on unobstructed in health. They stimulate the functions of the body into vigorous activity, purify the system from the contamination which make disease. A cold settling somewhere in the lungs, and obstructs its natural functions. Then, if not relieved, reset upon themselves and the surrounding organs, producing general oppression, suffering, and disease. While in this condition, oppressed by the derangement, take Ayer's Pills, and see how directly they relieve the natural action of the system, and with it the buoyant feeling of health again. What is true and so apparent in this trivial and common complaint, is also true in many of the dangerous and dangerous distempers. The same operative effect expels them. Cleansed by timely observance of the derangements of the natural functions of the body, they are rarely, and many of them never, cursed by the same means. None who heed the victims of these Pills will neglect to employ them when suffering from the disorders they cure.

Statements from leading physicians in some of the principal cities, and from other well known public persons.

From a Correspondent Merchant of St. Louis, Mo. 4, 1866.

DR. AYER: Your Pills are the paragon of all that is great in medicine. They have cured my little daughter of sore-eyes once upon her hands and feet that had proved incurable for years. Her mother has been long grievously afflicted with blotches and pimples on her skin and in her hair. After our child was cured, she also tried your Pills, and they have cured her.

ASA MORGRIDGE.

As a Family Physic.

From Dr. L. W. Cartwright, Ann Arbour.

Your Pills are the prince of purges. Their excellent qualities surpass any cathartic we possess. They are mild, but very certain and effectual in their action on the bowels, which makes them invaluable to us in the daily treatment of disease.

Headache, Sick Headache, Foul Stomach.

From Dr Isaac ed Boyd, Baltimore.

DEAR SIR, AYER: I cannot answer you what complaints I have cured with your Pills better than to say all that we ever tried such a purgative medicine. I place great dependence on an effectual cathartic in my daily contact with disease, and I believe as I do that your Pills afford us the best we have, I of course value them highly.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 1, 1865.

DR. J. C. AYER, Sir: I have been repeatedly cured of the worst headache any body can have by a dose or two of your Pills. It seems to arise from a foul stomach, which they cleanse at once.

Yours with great respect, ED. W. PEARLE,
Chief of Brewster Station.

Bilious Disorders—Liver Complaints.

From Dr. Theodore Bell, of New York City.

Not only are your Pills admirably adapted to their purpose as an aperient, but I find their beneficial effects upon the Liver very marked indeed. They have in my practice proved more effectual for the cure of bilious complaints than any one remedy I can mention. I accordingly rejoice that we have at length a purgative which is worthy the confidence of the profession and the people.

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
Washington, D. C., 7th Feb, 1866.

SIR: I have used your Pills in my general and hospital practice ever since you made them, and cannot hesitate to say they are the best cathartic we employ. Their regulating action on the liver is quick and decided, consequently they are an admirable remedy for derangements of that organ. Indeed, I have seldom found a case of bilious disease to continue that it did not readily yield to them. Fraternally yours, ALEX. B. BALL, M. D., Physician of the Marine Hospital.

Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Relax, Worms.

From Dr. J. G. Owen, of Georgia.

Your Pills have had a long trial in my practice, and I hold them in esteem as one of the best agents I have ever found. Their alterative effect upon the liver makes them an excellent remedy, when given in small doses for bilious dysentery and diarrhœa. Their sugar-coating makes them very acceptable and convenient for the use of women and children.

Dyspepsia, Impurity of the Blood.

From Rev. J. V. Himes, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit in distress. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood, they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. V. HIMES.

WARSAW, Wyoming Co., N. Y., Oct. 24, 1865.

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.

JOHN G. MEACHAM, M. D.

Constipation, Costiveness, Suppression, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Dropsy, Paralysis, Piles, etc.

From Dr. J. P. Vaughn, Montreal, Canada.

Too much cannot be said of your Pills for the cure of costiveness. Members of our fraternity have found them as efficacious as I have, they should join me in proclaiming it for the benefit of the multitudes who suffer from that complaint, which, although bad enough in itself, is the precursor of others that are worse. I believe no ferment originate in the liver, but your Pills affect that organ and cure the disease.

From Mrs. E. Stuart, Physician and Midwife, Boston.

I find one or two large doses of your Pills taken at the proper time, are excellent preventives of the natural nausea when wholly or partially suppressed, and also very effectual to cleanse the stomach and expel worms. They are so much the best physic we have that I recommend no other to my patients.

From the Rev. Dr. Hawkes, of the Methodist Epis. Church.

PULASKI HOUSE, Savannah, Ga., Jan. 6, 1866.

HONORED SIR: I should be ungrateful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report my case to you. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best of physicians the disease grew worse and worse, until by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore Dr Mackenzie, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them, I am now entirely well.

SENATE CHAMBER, Baton Rouge, La., 5 Dec. 1865.

DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured, by your Pills, of Rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had afflicted me for years. VINCENT SLIDELL.

☞ Most of the Pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

Price, 25 cents per Box, or 5 Boxes for $1.

BUT TRUE,

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

CONSUMPTION
BY THE
GREAT SHOSHONEES REMEDY
IN CANADA.

MESSRS. Y. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I Wilson Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say,—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died; I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coug ed nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Esq. Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve me cough." He said "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Barker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a tablespoonful at once which I felt through my whole system; at night I took a tablespoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I got hearty and strong. I took only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was affected with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

DARLEY'S
Arabian Heave Remedy and Condition Medicine

IS positively superior to any or all other preparations for the cure of Heaves, Coughs, Colds and Broken Wind, and all diseases which affect the Wind of Horses; also, as a Condition Medicine, surpassing everything of the kind; to keep to give, cure to cure, and safe in all cases and at all times, and does not prevent the horse from being worked while using it.

It clears the breathing apparatus, by removing from the air-cells the congealable lymph or that secretion which in Heaves clogs them, causing a difficulty in breathing, and by its action on the diseased part causing the mucous membrane to resume its natural circulation, thus equalizing the circulation of the blood, and restoring the diseased vessels to their natural size; by its use the horse's appetite is improved, all derangements of the digestive organs corrected, restoring the skin, and giving to the coat a sleek and shining appearance.

Poetry.

A Parish Clerk's Lament.

(From the Liverpool Courier.)

Our parson's took up with the Ritchelist views,
And he's all over changed from his 'at to his shoes;
His coat is so long, and his face is so grave,
And he calls his good crahstick his pastoral stave,
An' his voice has got hollow, and sad-like and mild,
And he'd think he was yielding to sin if he smiled;
They may say what they please, but whatever they says,
I don't like the looks of these Ritchelist ways.

Our parson he once was so hearty and stout,
And knew what the farmers and folk were about;
He'd talk with the men as they work'd in the field,
He knew every acre, and what it would yield;
He'd a famous loud voice, and a kind, merry face,
'Cept when he was scolding a child in disgrace.
Now he walks through the lanes in a sort of a maze,
And that's what has come of his Ritchelist ways.

And the old village church he've a done it up new,
And there's plenty of benches, but never a pew;
And pillards, and bolters, and things queer in spellin'
An' as for the vestry, that's quite past in tellin'.
There used to be two gowns I had in my cares—
A black gown for preaching, a white 'un for prayers;
But now there are twenty, wi' gold all ablaze—
And that's the expense of these Ritchelist ways.

There's flirrips and stoles that is always in wear,
And copes to put on for the Litany prayer;
An' green wi' white edgings for churchings, and listen,
He puts on a purple-and-white-gown to christen;
There's things that hang loose, and things that fit tight,
And he's mighty displeased if I don't bring 'em right;
Oh, it's almost enough a poor body to craze,
The ins and the outs of these Ritchelist ways.

Then there's bowing and scrapings, and turnings and flexions,
It's hard work to mind all the proper directions:
He'll first cheant a sentence, then turn round his stole,
Then west to the east wi' a sort of a roll;
Now he speaks low and loud, now he jabbers so fast,
As if it was something he wished to get past;
At the back of the building they can't hear a phrase,
For they don't speak distinct in these Ritchelist ways.

And the music, it's altered I cant tell you how,
But the old Psalms of David are never sung now;
They've got some new hymns, wi' some very queer words,
And they twitter and pipe like a parcel of birds.
They tell me it's grand, and I shouldn't complain;
But I long for the old Psalms of David again—
Aye for our goodly and Protestant lays,
Not these dreadful quick cheats o' the Ritchelist ways.

I've a-been a parish clerk for nigh thirty years,
But the parson and wardens is getting so queer,
And the work o' my office is getting so great—
What wi' brushin' the vestments and cleanin' the plate—
That I'd almost resolved to resign it, and go;
But my friends they say "don't," and my wife she says "no,"
So I bide in my place, and each Sunday prays,
There may soon be an end o' them Ritchelist ways.

(From the Toledo Blade.)

The Russian Purchase—How it was done—Mr. Nasby really the Originator of the Speculation.

WASHINGTON, April 14, 1867.

It's done! Seward did it—him and me! The Amerikin Eagle has cum anew to screem with redoubled energy. Ef the Nusinel bird was a angel, I should remark to it, 'Toon yoor harp anon,' but it aint, and, therefore, sich a rekest wood be ridiculous. This raposily has refrence to the Roosbun purchis.

The idea originotid in this massive intellekt. When I wuz here afore, the Blairs, all of em, wuz a crowdin the sainted Johnson for a nishun; Cowan wantid a nishun, and so did Doolittle, and that day pretty much all ov the delegates to the Cleveland and Philadelphy Conventshuns hed bin there wantin some kind ov a place; wel, they wuzn't perticler. One Gentleman whoos nose (wich trooly blossomed ex the lobster) betokened long service in the party, urged tha he hed bin a delegate to both Conventshuns. 'Thank Heaven!' sed Johnson. 'Wood that both them Conventshuns hed bin made up ov the same men. I wood then her bin bored for places only half ex much ex I am.'

I wuz a-helpin him out in my weak way. When the crowd seattin places become too great for human endoorance, I would say in a modrit tone, 'Let's go out and git sutlers;' and to wunst fully half wood exclaim, 'Thank you I don't bear if I do.' It wuz a great relief to Johnson, but wuz pizen on me. With the most ov em, the anguish, anxiety, and solissitood in the gittin ov offices and free drinks wuz about an ekal thing. The offices they wantid wuz merely the means to that partikler end, and so long ex they wuz gettin the latter without the trouble ov the former, they wuz content. A good countenshun and a copper-lined stomich carried me thro this tryin ordeal until I came across a Boston applicant who in consekrance ov the prohibitory law, had bin for some time on short rashuns, and wuz from sirt. Napoleon had then met his Waterloo, and I succeeded. The man's talent wuz wonderful.

Secretary Seward wuz in trouble about the Blair family pertikerly. He had did his level best for em. He had apinted em to Collektorships and fervin missions, but the crooel Senit, which had no respeck for us took delite in fastening ov em onto us by perpotooally rejecting our. Jest after a long seige by Montgomery and the old man, I injected the purshes ov the Roosbun Territory, to wich not only they coud be sent, but a thousand ov others wich we had on our hands, and the Secretary wuz so pleased at the idea that he wept like a child. Within rigger wonderful in one so old, he set about gittin testimonials ex to the valoo ov the territory, to influooence the Senit in ratifyin the treaty he was agoin to make. And he wrote to a naval officer about it, who answered more promptly than ever knowed a naval officer to do, ex follow:

'It's trooly a splendid country. The trade in the skins ov white bears kin be, ef properly developed, made enormoous.—There is seals there, and walruses so tame that they come up ov their own accord to be ketched.

P. S.—In case the purchis shood be made, a navel stashon will be necessary. May I hope that my long services on the Florida Coast would prove sufficient recommendashon for the command ov the depot? May I?

I bev the honor to be,' &c.

A distinguished Periesser wrote:

'The climate is about the style ov that they hev in Washington. The Gulf Stream sweeps up the coast, causin a decided twist in the isothermal line, wich has too effect ov making it rather sultry than otherwise. Anywheres for six hundred miles back ov the coast, strawberries grow in the open air. I recommend strongly the purchis.

H. S.—In case the purchis is made, a exploria expedishun will be necessary.—May I hope that my scientifick attainments are sufficiently well known to you to recommend me as a proper person to head the expedishun? May I?

I bev the honor to be,' et settry.

The President wasn't favorably inclined. He was full ov the old fogy idea that it wuz rather chilly there than otherwise. He hedn't faith in the isothermal line, and was skeptickl about the Gulf Stream. It wuz bisexperience that the further North you got the addler it was. For instance he remarkt, that while the people was warm toward him in Virginny and Maryland, last fall, they become very cold ex he got North. What the isothermal line and the gulf stream then?

Randall, who will hev his joke, remarkt that the isothermal line twisted. As notist that the people made it ex hot for em ex he wantid it ex far north as Cleveland, to wich Sekretary Welles replied that it only confirmed him in the opinion that, for plain vessels ov war, iron wuz preferable to pine plank ony time.

Seward removed the President's objections to wunst. He read his letters wich set forth the beauties and advantages ov the country twixt over. Here wuz whales, and walruses, and seals, and white bears, and pine-apples, and wheat, and sea lions, and fields ov ice the year round, in a climit ex mild and equable ex the meridian ov Washington. The isothermal line wuz more accommodatin than that in any other part ov the world. It cork-screwed through the territory so ex to grow fine peaches for exportation to the States, and ice to the Sandwich Islands, side by side. He drawd a picter ov the white bear a rushing over the line and disputin himself in fields ov green peas. Imagine, he remarkted, the delikesy ov Polar bear meat fattened on strawberries—think ov the condishun the sea lions must be in with leave their watery lairs to feed on turnips wich grew above the 60th parallel—think ov—

'It won't do,' sed the President.

'Think so,' retortid the Secretary, with a quicknis ov intellek, remarkable, 'think ov gittin rid ov the Blairs forever?'

'Will the Ablishen Senit ratify the treaty?' askt Johnson, eagerly.

'I converst with many on the subjik, and they sed of we cood promise that the Blairs wood accept posishons there, they wood do it cheerfly. For sich a purpose, sed one ov em to em, $7,000,000 is a mere bagatelle.'

'I'll do it,' sed Johnson. 'I agree with the Senators for once. Rather than hev it fail, I'd pay it out ov Mrs. Cobb's share in our joint spekelations. Freedom from the Blair family! Good heving! Kin one man be so blest! Is their sich in store for me?

The Purchis wuz divided up into six territories (for the number ov delegates to our conventshuns wuz large and they all hed to be provided for), which was named, respectively, Johnson, Seward, Cowan, Doolittle, Randall, and Welles. For the one in the extreme North, the furthest off, Frank Blair was appointed governor; for the next, Montgomery, and the next, the old man, and the other three wuz held in reserve for the pure but unfortunate patriots wich might be hereafter rejected for the Austrian mishun. A list was prokoored ov the delegates to our various conventshuns and them as had been martyred by the Senit; their names wuz put into the wheel ex at gift enterprises, and the Judgeships, Marshalships, Clerkships, et settry, was drawd by lot. This idee wuz injected by Postmaster-General Randall, ex bein the easiest way ov doin it. He stated that the appointments from his department had ollus ben made in the manner, ex it saved time in examinin petitions, certifikats ov fitness and such. In this way, about ex near ex I kin estimate, two per cent. ov those chosen possessed at our hands hev bin provided for.

The idee is capable ov unlimited extension. The Administration feelin the relief it has got em, are already negotiatin for the British Province. The territory bin, by makin 'ov em a little smaller, be divided up into, say, forty, which, by makin a few more offices for each, and bein liberal with exploring exploring expeditions and sich, will be sufficient to give places to all who really have claims upon us and who are pushing us.

The President breathes easier, and the Secretary is placed ex a summer mornin.—He hez cut the Gordian knot; he has relieved himself ov the boa constrictor wich was crushin him in its folds. Happiness pervades the White House.

The Working Children of the East of London.

One of the series of tea-meetings, held for the purpose of gathering together the little match-box makers, and other working children of Bethnal Green and the neighborhood, took place recently at Bedford Hall, Spitalfield, a well-known centre of evangelistic labors.

Three hundred little upturned faces greet us as we enter the room. They are flushed with excitement and the unusual stimulus of a hearty meal, but when we look closely at them the cheeks of many appear thin and even haggard, and the eyes very dim. The poor mothers have evidently sent them out as tidy as they could, but the scanty and worn garments tell a tale of extreme poverty. Let us talk with some of them for tea is nearly over.

Against the wall sits a diminutive old woman of eight years, quiet and and sedate, and a much smaller child is nestling in her bosom, whose sad and pensive face still bears its infantile bloom.

'There's a match-box maker,' says one of the kind ladies who are serving the tea.

'That little one?'

'Yes: ask her.'

So we question the elder of the two, who replies with the utmost promptitude and precision.

'How old is that child?'

'Three years and a half.'

'Does she work at match-box making?'

'Yes, sir.'

'How many hours a day does she work?'

'About five hours, sir?'

'Always?'

'When mother's got twopence she sends her two school.'

'And how long does this other child work?' (A pale little girl of five and a half years.)

'She begins before dinner and works till seven at night.'

'Every day?'

'Yes.'

'How long do you work?'

'From ten in the morning till nine at night.'

'Always?'

'Yes, sir.'

'And how much do you earn?'

'Mother and me three can earn one shilling and threepence a day between us.'

'How much do you generally earn a week?'

'Sometimes 5s. or 4s. 6d.'

'Is that all you have to live on.'

'Mother is allowed 1s. and a shilling's-worth of grocery.

'What do you pay for rent?'

'Two shillings.'

'And you live on the rest?'

'Yes.'

We learn elsewhere that these poor children have a father, but—he is a drunkard.

A burst of singing interrupts us,—

There is a happy land
Far, far away.

That happy land must indeed seem far away from the little children who toil the livelong day to earn a bit of bread; and yet perhaps many of the singers may soon be there.

The hymn over, we make our way to another part of the room, where sits a tiny lad, evidently deformed, and very thin.—There is so little of him that it is difficult to believe that he too works hard for his living, yet such is the fact; he is another match-box maker. A boy who lives with him answers our inquiries. The poor child fell down and broke his back when he was three years old; he is now six. 'How long does he work?' 'From nine till four, or later, every day. He gets tired and goes to sleep,' the boy says; 'he can't work longer.' What a life! Pain and toil ever from babyhood. How sad, how bitter! And yet we seem to hear the words, 'I say unto you that in heaven their angels do always behold the face of my father, who is in heaven.'

Though often here we're weary,
There is a sweet rest above.

Another hymn, and then a friend stands up and talks to the children about the Saviour who loves them, and will take them by-and-by to his own glorious rest.

Again a hymn is sung, and in the midst of it a young girl, perhaps ten or twelve years old, is carried fainting into an adjoining room. As her senses gradually return, she cries out.

'Oh! mother! Mother is starving; oh! mother, mother!

The ladies who stand round her fancy that she is delirious, but when completely restored she tells them that her mother is in a dying state for want of food. A messenger is immediately sent with her, and in a short time returns to tells us that the story was true. The poor mother was found in a sinking condition, and appeared to be in the last stage of consumption; a restorative had been given her and she had somewhat revived. Next day she would be visited again. Such incidents are far from uncommon in the experience of East-end workers.

Meanwhile a friend has adjusted a dissolving-view apparatus, and proceeds to show his pictures, which include a series illustrating the Saviour's life and death. And then, after singing and prayer, the little ones receive each a large piece of cake, and are dismissed to their poor houses.

Every bird pleases us with its lay—especially the lark.

BACHELORS IN DANGER.

A Dr. Stark, of London, has just made known to the public a most important fact, one of vital interest to young men. After patient and conclusive research, the practitioner in question has ascertained that between the ages of twenty years and twenty-five the death rate of bachelors is double that of married men. In other words, out of every hundred bachelors with this, fifty might have avoided such a fate had they but married in time.

Those who escape the deadly perils which beset their earlier years, still find the same fatal proportion against them in the after life. The statistical information produced by Dr. Stark shows beyond a question that between twenty-five and thirty years of age the death rate with bachelors is 13·7 per thousand, whereas during the same period it is only 8·6 among married men. Continuing the comparison, the English doctor proves that between thirty and thirty-five married men leave this pleasant mundane sphere at the rate of nine per thousand, while 14·7 is the figure for the less fortunate bachelors.—Advancing in age the huge difference in favor of the benedicts is lessened of course, but up to the last stages in life the bachelors have the worst of it, as according to the tables of Dr. Stark, the married men go off at the rate of 38·8 per one thousand, and bachelors at 43·3 per one thousand.

Are not these statements startling arguments in favor of wedded bliss, and should not the philanthropic obtain as speedily as possible copies of Dr. Stark's book, and scatter them about the club rooms and other place of rendezvous for the misguided young men who are not aware that in remaining single they are committing partial suicide? Should not the ladies disseminate this useful book of Dr. Stark's.

DAVID'S CHILDREN.

The children of David were far from being examples, or patterns worthy of imitation. One, you are aware, was murdered in cold blood by another, for a deed not to be named. Another son attempted to usurp the throne, and the good king and eminent warrior walked bare-footed and bare-headed, as he fled from his own child; and, though the compassionate feelings of the father prompted him to say, "spare the young man Absalom;" yet Joab, the Napoleon of that day, knew better than to do so; and hence thrust a dart through his body, as he hung by his hair in the tree.

Another son, also, attempted to wrest the sceptre from his feeble hand just before he was to be gathered to his father.

Now, respecting the management of the latter son, there is a little verse thrown in by the sacred historian, which raises the veil, and may show us the whole management of David with his children; as Simon said of the Greeks, from one case we may learn all. Of this second usurper among the sons of David, Adonijah, it is said, "his father had never displeased him at any time by saying, My son, why hast thou done so?"

David did not believe in corporal punishment. So far from it, that he went even in his tenderness beyond good old Eli, whose home was destroyed, though he did reprove his sons,—destroyed because he did not restrain them. But David had never even reproved Adonijah, and we may reasonably infer that he had treated all his other children in the same way. Solomon had seen enough of his own father's family, to lead him to say, "foolishness is bound up in the heart of a child; but the rod of correction will drive it far from him."

CURSING.

The following curse is given in an Irish paper as having been pronounced by the priest on two children of some Roman Catholics who attended the Kiltrilig school, Lahrah, Clare, where the Scriptures were read:—

"I pray God to pour down all vengeance on those who sent their children to Kiltrilig school last week, particularly two.—May the devil be their guide on the right hand and on the left, lying and rising, and, in bed and out of bed, sitting and standing, within and without. May all misfortunes attend their families and their labors; and any person or persons sending their children to this school henceforth, may they be struck blind and deaf, so as never to see any of their children again; and may the children go to the school go wild (mad). May they never leave the world until they become such examples as that the marrow may come through their shinbones. May they be pained both standing and sitting, and may they never leave this world until they be in such a state that the dogs could not bear coming near their carcasses when dead. I pray to God that every child who goes to this school, that for every day he spends in it, his life may be curtailed a twelvemonth, and that he may never enjoy the year of maturity; and that those people who send their children to this school, that their crops and their goods may be taken by the devil; and may all these misfortunes attend any person taking their posterity of God [should be of Antichrist] I pray the Almighty to hear this prayer, and I now strictly command this congregation to kneel down and pray to God to grant my prayer."

In reading these curses we are inclined to ask whether or not Ireland knows that this is the nineteenth century! Or was it ever pronounced!

Archimedes being asked to go and hear a person who imitated the nightingale to perfection, answered "I have heard the nightingale herself."

Why is a lawyer the most ill-used man in our social system? Because, though he may drive his own carriage, he must draw the conveyances of other people.

"I tell you," said a warm friend of a newly elected M. P., to an old, sober publican, "your party may say what they please, but cannot deny that Mr. B—— is a sound man." "That's just what we're afraid on," replied the old publican; "it's our opinion that he's all sound."

The Richardson Mine.

The Belleville chronicle says.—The Plaintiff's Solicitors in the suit of Carr et al. vs. Richardson et al, on Wednesday last moved the Court in Toronto to extend the injunction they had obtained at Kingston. During the argument, Mr. Blake, the Counsel for the Defendants, proposed to consent to the motion, on condition that the Belleville compay would pay into Court the purchase money agreed to be paid to the Boston gentlemen, (ex & Johnson, to Richardson and Powell' viz, $35 000. Mr. Dickson, on behalf of the plaintiffs, at once consented to this proposition, and the order for the injunction was allowed to go. It was provided in the same order that the cause should be tried at Cobourg on the 7th of June next, and also that the money should be paid within seven days from date. It was, as we believe, opposed by the Defendants that the Belleville company would not come to time, and to use a vulgar expression, they had the latter "in a tight place." If this was the expectation it was doomed never to be realized, for on Monday within five days after, the money was paid into court in pursuance of the order. This proves that the Belleville company have both the capital and determination to fight their cause to the end. Those who are acquainted with some of the leading gentlemen engaged would never form a contrary opinion.

This should also prove, even to the satisfaction of the Hamilton Times, that the people here have confidence in the mine, and that it is not the bogus concern which some disappointed speculators have endeavored to make appear; for business men do not, generally, invest so large a sum in an enterprise, unless they have full confidence in the genuineness of its character.

The case, unless otherwise settled, will therefore be tried at Cobourg, when the rights of claimants will be determined.—Until then, the public must have patience and in the mean time they may be rewarded by fresh discoveries of equal importance.

Archbishop Manning has addressed a pastoral letter to the faithful of the diocese of Westminster, upon the Fenian conspiracy and its attempts in Ireland and elsewhere. The past, he says, is past, and cannot be recalled. Spain was once many peoples and dynasties; so was France; so were England, Scotland, and Ireland. These three are now one indivisible realm. The world moves onward, and ever tends to further unity. Hence there arise new powers that must be obeyed, inasmuch as they are the means of order and peace, and ordinances of heaven. Taking the lowest ground, the archbishop compares the British empire to the restless empire of Rome, to which the apostles taught obedience.

FALL GRAIN.—From nearly all parts of the country, the Napanee Express states we have very favourable accounts of fall grain. It has come out fresh and green from its winter covering, and gives promise of plenty and to spare.

The Vermont Methodist Conference at its late session, resolved hereafter to admit no one to its membership who uses tobacco in any form.

The Whig says:—We are authorized by the Hon. John A. Macdonald, (who leaves town today to attend the Cabinet Council at Montreal) to say that it is not his intention to offer for the Seat for Kingston in the House of Assembly for the Province of Ontario. And this he does for two reasons:—

Firstly, because it has not been decided in Council, whether a Cabinet Minter for the Dominion of Canada should occupy a seat in the Local Legislature of any Province.—And should it be so decided, he flatters himself, and that correctly, that he can at any convenient opportunity, obtain a Seat in it in some other constituency.

Secondly, because, having represented Kingston in the Parliament of Canada for upwards of twenty years, and having engrossed during that long period all its parliamentary honors, he does not choose to stand now in the way of any laudable ambition on the part of other Kingstonians, who may desire to advance themselves, or be advanced by the good will and good wishes of others.

BERLIN, May 21.—A horrible plot has just been discovered in Hanover, having for its chief purpose the assassination of King William and Count Von Bismarck. Several notable personages in this city are involved in the plot. Numerous arrests, both here and in Hanover, have been made of persons believed to be implicated, and it is thought that by these timely precautions the scheme has been frustrated.

FENELON.—Two Frenchmen, in the employment of Messrs. Strickland Brothers, were drowned in Burnt river on the 13th inst. They were taking supplies to a raft, and their boat being too heavily loaded sunk in the stream. One other person who was with them in the boat swam to shore. Their bodies have since been found.

VASCILLATING POLICY.

Some time ago, we believe in April last, those agents who conduct the works on our colonization roads were directed to make arrangements to go on with the repairs of those roads, also with their extension to some extent. They accordingly set to work and some of them at least have been at considerable expense and trouble. They have also made arrangements with others to board the men, and expense has been incurred in that way also. But just as they were about to commence operations, they receive fresh orders and now nothing is to be done. The roads are to be left as they are—impassable, leaving communication with many of the new settlements altogether impossible. One reason we hear given for this vascillating policy is, it is not necessary to spend all the money voted for that purpose just now. But surely it is necessary when the roads are in such a state that the settlers can neither get out nor in. What the cause of delay or of deferring the work is, few of us can tell, unless it be that to make good roads to the back country would not be for the interest of some one interested. There are $80,000, or thereabouts, set apart for colonization roads in Upper Canada, and not expended yet, and with $80,000 at command, on the 18th of May instant the Crown Land Agents of the back part of this County receive orders to stop work; and this at a time when, we are informed by the mail carriers, it is impossible to travel the Burleigh and other roads of the back country. There is one road, however, if report be true, that is allowed to be gone on with—the Nipissing road—but a gentleman from Kingston has the charge of that road. What a glorious thing it is to be on a road that the agent or overseer is a personal friend from Kingston, the settlers there will get roads but other localities may suffer. We have been informed that there is plenty of land fit for settlement on both the Burleigh and Bobcaygeon roads, but the management of the crown lands and the mismanagement of the roads deter intending settlers from going in. The thousands of acres of the back country are left a waste; and, at the same time, some of our young men and emigrants are forced to the far west to look for a home. How long will this be allowed to go on? How long will our wild lands be managed by men who know as little about the state of the country as if they had never been in Canada? for all the information they receive is from parties who have an interest in the lands remaining as they are.

A change in the management of our wild lands is imperatively called for, and we trust that under confederation, when our local affairs will fall into our own hands, that something will be done to rectify the abuses that have prevailed for many years heretofore.

If our wild lands were placed under the control of the County Council and managed by that body, then the voice of the people would be heard and something would be done towards their speedy settlement. The lands are not of as good quality as the old townships; the difficulties of settlers are also very great, and any arrangement that tends to alleviate the evils that present settlers labor under, that will induce a larger colonization of the wild lands, by inducing our young men to go back instead of going west would be hailed as a boon, and we trust that our County and Township Councils will take the matter into their consideration, and prepare to memorialize the new government on the matter. If we had direct control and gave away the wild lands to actual settlers at cost of survey, and expense of making roads, we would soon find the back country in a different state from what it is now.

The Ministers who have returned from England have all had grand receptions in some way. Mr. Galt was entertained at a grand banquet by his constituents. Mr. McDonald and Mr. McGee received flattering addresses. Why should we find fault with their constituents for so honoring them.—We only wish that they have been worthy of all the honor that's heaped upon them.

THE QUEEN'S BIRTH-DAY.

Notwithstanding the unfavorable state of the weather, a large and respectable assemblage of the citizens and many hundreds of people from the surrounding country found their way, at a very early hour, into town to keep the festal day of our beloved Queen Victoria. Old and young, rich and poor, beautiful, and some of whom this could not be truly said, all classes and conditions of men, women and children, availed themselves of the holiday to visit the town and see the sights. At an early hour, too, the inhabitants had been at work as the loud reports testified, and the waving banners floating from every house top, and pole in the town and outer village attested.

At an early hour, as previously arranged, the loyal Volunteers made their appearance under the command of Lieut.-Col. Poole, assisted by Majors Kennedys and Leigh.—They first mustered at the Market Square, and marching up the street proceeded to the Cricket Ground, Ashburnham, where they went through various evolutions of marching, counter-marching, forming squares, receiving cavalry, and bayonet charge, the last of which manœuvres was most exciting, and attracted the attention in the greatest degree of the thousand spectators. During these feats of the Volunteers, a pedestrian who had imbibed a little more "fire water" than the brain could manage without destroying the mental equilibrium, appeared on the stage, and to the no small amusement of the crowd, appeared determined to take the place of cavalry and charge the volunteers, steel-clad as they were; but Joe, although courageous enough to face the powder, kept away from the steel. The "millingtary" having finished their parade, returned to the Market Square, where they tired a feu de joie, after which they dispersed to make way for the "Physique," who were destined to eclipse the volunteers in variety of appearance and strangeness of manners. Their dress, manners, characters and evolutions, were all causes for laughter to the many, and enjoyment to not a few. The commanders of the army of "Terribles" and numerous retinue, contributed as much to the amusement of the day, as did all the other attractions together, and although the mud prevented the foot soldiery of the 'Terribles' from making their appearance, the waggon and cavalry were not far behind the number of last year. The grotesque figures, and the unsightly shapes, that mustered among them, had each its appropriate place and end; and without intending offence to any one, intended to "take off" some of those individuals and deeds that are called "public men and public acts," to which the public claim to have a right to do as they please. The prominent objects of attraction were the "Fenian Exterminator," the "Fire Committee of the Town Council examining a new invention for a fire engine," "The Scammon Coundrels," "The Music," and at the last the "Orator, his spouse and numerous progeny." The grand army traversed all the principal streets of the town, passed over into Ashburnham, and returning, the great "Oh-ration" was delivered on the Market Square. This, however, was only heard by the few who crowded around the car, but perhaps this was so intended; but whatever may have been the intention, it would have added to the pleasure of not a few to hear it, be it sense or nonsense. Immediately after the delivery thereof, the army betook themselves to the bottom of "ye raging Otonalee" whence they came, and the crowds to other amusements for a while.

THE FIREMEN.

The members of Protection Fire Company next made their appearance, and in their new uniform, made a respectable appearance indeed. Owing, however, to the great idleness—mud—they did not carry out all their concerted plans, and this was not to be wondered at, as it was next to impossible to take the streets on foot. With torch-lights they next made their appearance, when they in turn passed along several of the main streets and to Ashburnham, then to the Court House, where they made a grand display of fire-works of various sorts.

One thing tended very much to mar the harmony of the whole day was the incessant confusion and annoyance of fire crackers by the small fry. This abominable nuisance should be put a stop to on such days. It may have been amusement to the small fry to see women and children avoid their puny fire-engines, but it would be no fun to the lady who may have chanced to get her clothes burned or her "duck" of a bonnet spoiled.

The next order of the day, but we might now say the evening, was the Firemen's Supper, which was got up in Cronn's best style. The spread was in the Firemen's Hall, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with banners, transparencies, pictures, red, white and blue festoons, and numerous other trappings. The chair was occupied by Capt. J. O'Donnell, and on his right were the Mayor, A. C. Dunlop, Esq., Reeve of Ashburnham, and Lieut.-Col. Poole. On his left, D. Sutherland, Esq., and Dr. Kincaid. The Vice-chairs were occupied by J. Kincaid, and J. Robertson, Esqrs. The Cobourg Brass Band occupied the south end of the Hall. About 70 Firemen and guests sat down to the repast. The Bill of Fare speaks for itself and for the catering abilities of Mr. Cronn:

After ample justice had been done to the good things, and tumblers had been filled, not all of "strong drink," the Chairman, Capt. O'Donnell, gave the first toast, remarking that it was customary on such occasions as the present celebration for the Firemen to celebrate the event by a Dinner, many such they had had, and he hoped many more they would have, as it was their intention to do so while they existed as a Company. It was the first time for him to preside on the occasion, and he expressed a regret that some one more capable than not in his place, but his best efforts he hoped would be satisfactory, yes, he knew they would be. The first toast he would now propose, perhaps a British subject it called his heart much pleasure to do so—the Queen of Great Britain, she was honored by all who had ever heard of her, as her efforts in the cause of morality, peace and mercy, had travelled farther than she would ever do.—He therefore with the greatest pleasure proposed her health, and he knew it would be received with all honor and enthusiasm. "The Queen—God bless her," was then given and right enthusiastically received.

"The Prince and Princess of Wales and all the Royal Family," was next given, and warmly received. Then followed music by the Band, and song "Red, White and Blue" by Mr. Yorke.

Captain O'Donnell here read a letter of apology for not being present, from James Edwards, Esq.

Then came "The Administrator of the Government." Song—"For he is a jolly good fellow."

"The Army, Navy and Volunteers" then followed, coupled with which was the name of Lieut.-Col. E. Poole.

In proposing the toast, the Chairman remarked that at last the Battalion was gazetted, but now it was No. 57 instead of, as it should be, 27; but it was now done, and honor at last had been paid to Lieut.-Col. Poole.

This toast was also received with all honor. The band then gave something like the "British Grenadiers," and Sergeant Johnson sung "The Brave Volunteers."

Lieut.-Col. Poole responded, remarking that he hoped they did not expect a speech from him, but he could not refrain from thanking them for the honor conferred on him by coupling his name with the army of Great Britain and the volunteers of Canada. He considered it a great honor to be a volunteer, and he trusted, yea, he knew, that as in the past, so in the future, the volunteers would be ready to do their duty. For the navy he would say nothing, as he well knew there was a gentleman present who would respond on their behalf; and therefore he (Col. Poole) would return them sincere thanks for the toast in behalf of the Army, the Volunteers, and himself. And he well knew that if, under the Dominion, they should be called on to protect their homes and institutions, ready they would be; but he trusted that they would long be allowed to live in peace.

Captain Sutherland was then loudly called on to respond for the Navy, and rising, remarked that he thought that was "played out." He was wondering while Col. Poole was speaking who would be called on to speak on behalf of the Navy. But he thought he could lay more claim to the navy than did an American who once was in a similar situation to himself, but could only remember that long ago his father had held some shares in a canal boat. (Laughter.) But he (Capt. S.) could do more than that; he could claim to be of the deep, a child of those isles of which Byron sung:

"And who is he? the blue-eyed northern child
Of lies more known to man but scarce less wild,
The fair-haired offspring of the hebrides,
Where roars the Pentland with its whirling seas;
Rocked in the cradle by the northern wind,
The roar of waves to hear, and in mind
His young eyes opening as on the ocean's foam,
Had from that moment made the deep his home."

Men of those northern isles might not be entirely amphibious, but they were inclined to take the water. Col. Poole had said that the army and volunteers would do their duty, but he could say that so would the navy when required. Britain still ruled the waves, not only in ships on the sea but in making ships; for this she did, for one half the world. Her ships too would still rule the waves, and her flag, as ever, brave the battle and the breeze. (Applause.)

The Vice-chair then gave the "Mayor and Corporation of the Town of Peterboro."

Song by Mr. Henderson, "Lannigan's Ball;" in good Irish style.

The Mayor in a very happy style returned thanks. This he knew was a standing toast of the Firemen, generally finding a place at their banquet. He had spent several very pleasant evenings with the Firemen, but this was one of the best, and hoped that they would go on improving. He thanked them most heartily for the cordial manner in which the toast had been received.

Councillor Doherty, also on behalf of the Council, returned thanks. He wondered that there were not more of the Councillors present, those who had something at stake. For his part he had very little at stake, but he well knew that if he had the Firemen would do all they could for him, if it was in danger. Lately they had shown their indomitable pluck when the Market Block was in danger, and but for them the whole Block would have been consumed.

The next toast, "Our Guests," was responded to by A. C. Dunlop, Esq., who expressed himself highly gratified with the sumptuous manner in which the guests had been entertained, and also for the kind remembrance of them in their toasts, and although the first time he had been present them, hoped it would not be the last.

Then followed a song by Mr. Johnson,—"Paddy, och, tell it again."

Mr. L. Glover, Mr. Clouson, of the Bank of Toronto, Mr. R. Reid, of Bobcaygeon, and Dr. Kincaid, also responded in fitting terms.

"The Municipality of Ashburnham" was next given, and was responded to by the Reeve and Councillor Sutherland.

"The new Dominion of Canada," to which Captain Sutherland made a few appropriate remarks, hoping that as in the past so in the future, under the British flag they citizens of the Dominion would be able to enjoy civil and religious liberty and prosperity.

A. C. Dunlop, Esq., also responded to this toast, but as he was not a politician, was not courting political honors and had not made the subject a matter of much thought, hoped that it would be enough for him to say that he hoped to enjoy ourselves as well under the new regime as under the old.

"The Medical Profession" next came, and Dr. Poole being loudly called for, said that it was a great pleasure to him to be present on the occasion. The firemen were indeed a fine body of men, and their efforts to save the property of the Town deserved the greatest praise; but as short speeches were the order he would not break the order. He, however, sincerely thanked them on behalf of the profession.

Dr. Kincaid was sorry there was no one present more capable to respond than himself. The medical profession in Canada compared favorably with that of any other country, and he was glad to be able to say that young men of ability could rise with the strength of the best Dominion.

"The Press" next followed and was responded to by members of the press present.

"The Ladies," last though not least, was given and thanks returned by Mr. Clouson, who remarked that we could be polite generators without them, for his own part he got along pretty well; Peterboro was a fair place for ladies, although he had seen better and worse.

Mr. Dunlop then gave "Our Hosts" to which Captain O'Donnell responded most freely and eloquently. The band then tried to play "God Save the Queen" when all broke up in good spirits, reminded that one of the Firemen's happiest nights had been spent.

The whole day here was without anything of undue excitement, and left nothing for the police court next morning. We can truly wish many natal days of Victoria may her subjects have to celebrate; she is England's best Queen.

Chancery Sittings.

The hearing of causes in this Court began on Thursday, 23rd inst.

The first matter disposed of was Re Fife, which was an application by petition to have H. Fife declared a lunatic and for the appointment of a committee to manage his affairs. Several witnesses testified as to the alleged lunatic's state of mind, habits, property, &c.; the man himself was also interrogated by the court, the issues leaving no doubt of the truth of the petition, and the Chancellor made an order as prayed for.

Mr. Fairbairn for petitioner.

The next case was that of Grant vs. Broad. This was a suit brought to restrain an action at law in which Broad had recovered a verdict and for the rectification of a lease. The hearing of this case occupied the rest of Thursday, the arguments in which were only concluded at at about 10 o'clock, p. m. Decree in favor of plaintiffs with costs.

Blake, Q. C., and Fairbairn for plaintiffs. Crooks, Q. C., and Weller for defendants.

Dickson vs. Burnham, which was a litigation respecting water rights, went off on preliminary objections, so that the merits of the case are for the present uninvestigated.

Blake, Q. C., and Dennistoun for plf. Crooks, Q. C., and Weller for deft.

Redman vs. Tully and Brownscombe vs. Tully was next disposed of. The questions in these cases arose upon a lease made by deft. Tully to one Redman and wife, in which Redman contended should be promoted to priority over certain mortgages held by Brownscombe, one in his own right and the other for one Metherall. the bill filed by Redman was also to obtain in demnification out of the interest of Tully in the property for the payment of all the mortgages, A Decree was made consolidating the suits, and in favor of Brownscombe as to his mortgages, with relief order in favor of Redman as against W. Tully.

Blake, Q. C., and Fairbairn for Redman Crooks, Q. C., and Burnham for Brownscombe and Metherall. Edmison, solicitor.

Stinson vs. Fitzgerald and Rogerson vs. Fitzgerald were the last cases. Decree for plaintiffs. The question of costs as to the second suit, which it was contended was unnecessary and vexatious, being reserved.

Crooks, Q. C., for plaintiffs. Edmison, solicitor. Blake, Q. C., and Weller for deft.

MEXICO.

Very important news has been received from Mexico. Maximilian has been captured and ordered by Juarez to be shot. For some time the affairs of Mexico have not been very settled Maximilian does not appear to be the man for the position, or there must be but very few who are willing to follow his fortunes. Napoleon did not deal with him as his position required. There is little doubts but that Napoleon promised him more aid than he has really given, and the opposition to his sway has been stronger and more determined than he expected; at any rate he is reported a prisoner and also to be shot, the latter of which we cannot think will ever be carried into effect. Such an act would almost surely arouse the ire of the French Emperor and bring down vengeance on the head of the Mexicans. Let us hope, however, that moderation will prevail and that the unhapp country will soon be restored to peace and contentment.

Our thanks are due to D. Sutherland, Esq., for some flyles of Brazilian papers. In one of these we find it stated that slavery is not abolished in that Empire, as has been stated by many of our contemporaries. The Brazilian Times says:—

"The government did not say that, the war at an end it would immediately take measures to extinguish slavery. The document emanating from the secretariat for foreign affairs fully forbids such an expression. What the government did say was, that the emancipation of the slaves in Brazil is a question of manner and opportunity."

And from the following remarks in the same paper it does not appear that the Brasilians have even a remote idea of emancipating the slaves:—

"As to the manner, however, other and very weighty circumstances could not but be kept in consideration by the Government. Agriculture is our chief industry and now rests on slave labor.

To suppress slavery suddenly, having a view solely to religious, moral and philosophic sentiments, would be to sacrifie private property and the good of the State; as indefinitely postponing the solution of the problem of free labor in the Empire would likewise be to compromise public and private fortunes.

The solution of the problem of free labor in Brazil must be realized by conciliating, as far as possible, the right of property, generated by the laws of the State, with the dictates of Christianity and philosophy, sacrificing neither the first to these last, nor these to the first.

In no grave a matter none other could be the thought of the Government."

EMIGRATION TO BRAZIL.—The Anglo-Brazilian Times says:—It is evident from all the sources of information at our command that Brazil is looked to generally throughout the Southern States as a haven in which to seek refuge from the storms and difficulties of the political situation and the labor question. The immigration which was calculated at first in hundreds will be thousands, perhaps tens of thousands, particularly if direct steam communication with some Southern port facilitate the exodus. There is plenty of room and opportunity in Brazil for all that come in the shape of bonafide agricultural emigrants, but bounty-jumpers and similar parasites upon the body corporate of government and society have already discovered that their vocation presents here few elements of success. But for the real emigrants most of the difficulties of a foreign land have been removed by the care of government, and the experience acquired by the pioneers of American immigration lies open to them for their guidance and encouragement.

LONDON, May 21.—Earl Derby says officially that the American question will be amicably adjusted. The proposition made sometime since to arbitrate the whole case has been refused.

Livery Stable.

The Auction Sale of Horses and Carriages which was to have taken place on Tuesday next, has been postponed until further notice. Mr. Rowland will still continue the business in the old stand, where horses and carriages can be had at all times.

Pork.

We invite attention to the advertisement of Mr. D. Sutherland, in another column. He has a large quantity of the best Ohio Mess Pork, which he will sell very low for cash.

Statutes of Upper Canada Wanted.

Any one having a copy or two of the Consolidated Statutes of Upper Canada, will find a purchaser by applying at the "Examiner" office.

We understand that the Peterboro' Literary Club intend to give, on Thursday, the 6th June, in the Victoria Hall, a reunion for the benefit of the Protestant Home. The programme will be good. The cause is excellent. Let there be a full house.

The Montreal Witness says that on the Queen's Birthday a few square feet of Buntin was hoisted, as a treolor, instead of the British flag, and that this has excited comment and enquiry in the city.

For the Peterborough Examiner.

OUR POSITION.

SIR,—The interests of the community are like those of individuals: prosperity is only attained by careful and judicious management.—Carelessness, public extravagance, and want of foresight, and quick and decided effort to make use of opportunity cannot but result in decline of trade. It behooves us at times to examine into our affairs and see what our state is—for what reason it is not as it should be, and how it may be made better.

The trade of Peterborough is of a mixed kind. It has the ordinary business of a county Town in addition to the lumbering business; the latter of which is perhaps the cause of its rapid growth and most active commercial prosperity. Peterborough draws the trade and produce of most all the county of Peterboro', and of parts of Durham and Victoria.

On the north the county is without a boundary; but back of the Township of Ennismore the country is new and only partially settled, and the settlers of the new townships have nearly all moved north during the last five years—since the Government opened up roads and made free grants. The nature of the country is such that it never can be much of an agricultural country; nevertheless, there is much good land, immense forests of pine, minerals of various kinds, together with marble of superior quality. That portion of the country which is unfit for cultivation is well suited for grazing, and the experience of the settlers enables us to say that cattle are easier kept there than in the front townships: The country being rocky and hilly, the grass is out in spring and affords nourishment to the cattle several weeks before there is good grazing at the front. Then again, the winters are free from those terrible perishing winds that come over the western peninsula from Lakes Huron and Superior, and which to man and beast is so trying. The immense quantity of land that cannot be cultivated will always supply grazing for cattle.

The settlers now in the rear of Peterborough are doing well. They are content and happy. The seasons of drought some years ago were trying, but they were then not so able to meet the contingencies of a farmer's life as now.—From Bobcaygeon to Minden Village, a distance of thirty miles, is one continuous settlement, and back of Minden for a distance of twenty miles, settlers are to be found. The back country is rapidly developing. The settlers are for the most part youngersons of Canadians or unfortunate men who in a new settlement aim to make homes for themselves. They accomplish as much in five years as the old country settlers would in ten. The trade with these back townships is growing to be of much importance; most of it finds its way to Lindsay owing to the want of direct communication with Peterborough.

Even Ennismore, which is in the County of Peterboro and comparatively close to the town, trades largely with Lindsay, because isolated from her own county town by three quarters of a mile of water. If Mud Lake was bridged, not only would the settlers of that fine township be much benefitted, but the town would receive what she is by right entitled to—the whole trade of the township. Indeed one cannot help thinking that this county has done but little in the way of road building. Most execrable roads naturally drive people to the nearest shopping place and thus the town suffers.—Besides the ordinary trade to be had from these new townships there is the trade in timber and lumber, which on the back waters is growing to such immense dimensions. This trade also is forced out of its direct and natural route to Lindsay. East of Bobcaygeon twenty million feet of lumber are annually cut; this instead of coming by easy and natural navigation to Mud Lake and via Peterboro to the front is forced through the locks at Bobcaygeon and by a tortuous route up a narrow stream to Lindsay. Four or five miles of railway is all that is wanted to bring this trade and all its concomitants to Peterboro. Almost all lumbering supplies go from Lindsay. Five steamers plying from many points on the back lakes with lumber to that town, naturally create a channel of trade, and, as a consequence, Lindsay gets all the business of the townships adjoining these waters. Any one looking at the map will at once perceive that these lakes form a highway which will speedily induce emigration, capital and enterprise into territory which to the lumberman, farmer or manufacturer offers such splendid inducements. The late discovery of immense beds of pure marble in Little Bull Lake will no doubt inure to the benefit of Lindsay unless some effort is made to divert a trade which scarcely seeks a more natural outlet. The supineness of our people is extraordinary. Nature has done much for Peterboro, she has done little or nothing for herself. In private commercial business she is behind no town in Canada, but her public works are nil. Not that we advocate lavish and heedless expenditure, but surely it is no credit to the town that, with the finest water power in the world she permits the neighboring villages to outstrip her in manufacturing. For the want of three miles of rail or tram way, she year after year suffers the nuisance and expense of horse labour to draw 25 million feet of lumber through her streets. With water communication to hundreds of miles of stone line of land, fertile in natural productions of every kind, brought within five miles of the railway terminus, supinely suffers a rival town to rob her of the trade of these waters—itself sufficient to build up a town.

Every man with eagerness strives to build up his own fortune; but with microscopic view he confines his efforts to a field which cannot possibly yield more than a small return, while trade and material sufficient with little effort to force him on to fortune lies untouched within easy reach; to stretch out the hand is to obtain it. How long is Peterboro to count her hundred empty houses? How long will she permit the fruit, ripe and ready to drop into her mouth, to be enjoyed by others.

PROGRESS.

PRESENTATION.

The Ashburnham Volunteers took the opportunity of the 24th to present their former Captain, Major R. D. Rogers, with a beautiful quaich. No one better deserves to be honored by the Volunteers than does Mr. Rogers, and we know personally that no man is more highly esteemed by the men whom he formerly commanded. The following is the ADDRESS.

"We the non-commissioned officers and Privates of the Ashburnham Volunteer Company, desire to give expression to the feelings of respect and attachment which we entertain for you, which you have so justly earned by your upright and honourable conduct towards us, and your valuable services to your country, by your acceptance of the accompanying sword and belt as a slight token of the esteem in which your efforts in our behalf and in behalf of the Volunteer cause are held. While we regret that you felt it your duty to resign the command of the company, we know well that that step was dictated by no unworthy motive, and from no desire to shirk the responsibilities attached to your position, we have perceived with pleasure that you continue to feel the same interest in our welfare that you ever did, and whould your country at any time again require your services we feel confident that you are as ready to answer to the call of duty as you have shown yourself to be heretofore, at the same time we desire to express our gratitude to Mrs. Rogers and your family, for the kind interest they have always shewn in our welfare. Hoping that a Benign Providence may shower down his blessings on you and your family."

REPLY.

To the non-commissioned Officers and Privates of the Ashburnham Volunteer Company:

GENTLEMEN,—I beg to return you my sincere and heartfelt thanks for the valuable present you have made me, and which I shall keep and value as the token of your friendship and good will towards me. I had contemplated resigning my commission as Captain of the Ashburnham Volunteers for some time before I did so; feeling that having served in the militia for over forty years, and in all capacities from Private to Major, and having borne a part in all the events occurring during that time, and feeling that I was not so capable for active service as I had been, I had a reasonable excuse for retiring; but at the time I did so, I felt great regret in giving up the command of a Company of which I felt justly proud, and who had proved that they were always ready, at any sacrifice, to rally for the defence of our country, and the support of our laws. I also return you thanks on behalf of myself and family, for your expressions of friendship and good will, and assure you that we all feel the same interest in the prosperity and welfare of the Company that we ever did, and that we shall always feel pleased in doing anything in our power to assist the Ashburnham Volunteers in maintaining the character for loyalty, efficiency and good feeling which have always distinguished the Company.

News by Atlantic Cable.

The question whether the death sentences of the Fenian convicts shall be carried out or not, engrosses public attention. The press of England and Ireland, generally, urge that the sentences be commuted to imprisonment for life.

A despatch from Dublin states that the jury has brought in a verdict of guilty against the prisoner O'Brien, but coupled with a recommendation to mercy.

It is said that the American minister, Mr. Adams, will interpose his good offices to save the prisoner McClure from the scaffold.

The government of the United States has offered to sell to the Czar Alexander the famous iron-clad Monitor, the Miantonomah a frigate and two new iron-clad war cruisers. The proposition has been favorably received by the Emperor and his cabinet and is likely to be accepted.

DUBLIN, May 25.—If the Fenian leader Col. Burke and Col. McClure, who pleaded guilty and thus avoided their treason should be hanged pursuant to law, the authorities expect sudden and sharp reprisals on the part of the members of the Fenian organization here. The government is anxiously yet actively preparing the dwelling of the Right Hon. Judge Fitzgerald with those of his associates on the bench at the trial, as well as the houses inhabited by the Right Hon. Attorney-General and the other counsel who prosecuted for the Crown which are even now guarded day and night by a force of armed policemen, who appear in citizens' dress. Col. Burke was sentenced to be hanged on the 29th of May. Mr. Doran's death sentence has been communted; should Burke be executed it is likely that Col. McClure will share the same fate, as he pleaded guilty and now lies condemned to undergo the highest penalty of the law."

LONDON, May 27.—It is authoritively announced that the Government has communted all the capital sentences of the Fenians to imprisonment for life.

The Danish government addressed a circular note to its representatives at the Courts of European Powers, denying the report that the Prussian Cabinet had entered into negotiations with the Cabinet of Copenhagen, with the view of bring about the retrocession of Schleswig to Denmark.

TURIN, May 27.—M. Kossuth has written a letter on the state of the political affairs in Hungary. He condems the course which M. Deak, leader of the popular party has seen fit to adopt in the Hungarian Diet, and his dealings with Austria, and blames him for swerving from the true path which a Hungarian patriot should follow.

In the House of Lords to-night, the Bill continuing the suspension of the writ of habeas corpus in Ireland was passed.

The clauses of the Reform Bill providing for more liberal extension of franchise, and been adopted by the House of Commons.

CORK, May 28.—O'Brien was yesterday declared guilty of high treason, and was today sentenced by the Judge to suffer the extreme penalty of the law. It is supposed the sentence will be commuted to imprisonment for life.

TWO QUESTIONS EASILY ANSWERED.—Why should men wear beards? Because they are a great protection to the throat and lungs, and add much to their personal appearance.

Why should we use "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers?" Because when used for coughs, colds, tickling in the throat, Hoarseness, &c., they act like a charm. Minister and lawyers use them, physicians recommend them, and singers and public speakers say they are the very best medicine in existence for the cure of such complaints. Sold by all medicine dealers, at 25cts. per box.

A WORLD IN TROUBLE.—The world is in trouble, nations are convulsed; thrones are trembling; governments are agitated; people are excited, and the whole social organization of civilization appears to be sensitively influenced by something premonitory of a great change; now for nervousness there is nothing like the "Canadian Pain Destroyer," which also cures rheumatism, neuralgia, the dolourous, cramps and pains in the stomach, &c. Price 25 cents per Bottle, Sold by all Medicine Dealers.

HOLLOWAY'S WORM LOZENGES

ARE A CERTAIN AND SAFE REMEDY for worms in children and adults. As it is a well-known and melancholy fact the one great cause of death among children is from Worms alone, it cannot be too deeply impressed upon the minds of parents the necessity of closely watching their children. By so doing, and understanding the symptoms and true cause of the disease, thousands of children might be saved from early graves. The following are a few of the very numerous symptoms and diseases which are caused by Worms:—Deranged appetite, emaciated extremities, offensive breath, frequent picking at the nose, grinding of the teeth during sleep, hardness of the belly, with frequent slimy stools, and sometimes convulsive fits; pain in the head and stomach, unquiet sleep, faintings, trembling coughs, indigestion, low spirits, frightful dreams, and a gradual wasting away of flesh. Holloway's Worm Lozenges are palatable and self-administered to the child—drive out the worms thoroughly without pain and completely cleanse the stomach—thereby doing away with the necessity of administering Castor Oil or other unpleasant cathartics. Each box contain the facsimile. C. W., who are the sole proprietors. Sold by J. Higginbotham and D. Stott, Bowmanville, and Medicine Dealers everywhere.—N. B.—Ask for Holloway's Worm Lozenges, and take no other. 22

THE HORSE.

"Of the great number of animals under the control of man, the horse is unquestionably the most serviceable;" but is it not strange that so many who own horses and who are dependent on their labor for a living, should neglect to give them that care and attention which their own interest no less than the safety and comfort of the horse demands. The best medicine for horses is "Darley's Arabian Heave Remedy and Condition Medicine;" of this there can be no doubt—it is safe and easily given.

Over a Million Dollars Saved!

Gentleman:—"I had a negro man worth $1,200 who took cold from a bad burn in the leg, and was useless for over a year. I had used everything I could hear of without benefit, until I tried the Mexican Mustang Liniment.—It soon effected a permanent cure."

J. L. DOWNING.

Montgomery, Ala., June 17, 1859.

"I take pleasure in recommending the Mexican Mustang Liniment as a valuable and indispensible article for Sprains, Sores, Scratches or Galls on Horses. Our men all say it acts like magic."

J. W. HEWITT,
Foreman for America, Wells, Fargo's and Harnden's Express.

"The Sprain of my daughters ankle, occasioned while skating last winter, was entirely cured in one week, after she commenced using your celebrated Mustang Liniment.

ED. SEELY."

Gloucester, Mass., Aug 1, 1865.

It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man and beast, than any article ever discovered. Families, livery-men and planters should always have it on hand. Q ick and sure it certainly is. All genuine is wrapped in steel-plate engravings, bearing the signature of G. W. Westbrook Chemist, and the private U. S. stamp of Demas Barnes & Co. over the top.

An effort has been made to counterfeit it with a cheap stone plate label. Look closely!

"• • • I had lost all appetite—was so weak and enervated I could hardly walk, and had a perfect dread of society. • • • The Plantation Bitters have set me all right.

Mrs. O. M. DEVOE, manager of the Union Home School for Soldiers' Children, says she "has given it to the weak and invalid children under her charge, with the most happy and gratifying results." We have received over a hundred reams of such certificates, but no advertisement is so effective as what people themselves say of a good article. Our fortune and our reputation is at stake. The original quality and high character of these goods will be sustained under every and all circumstances. They have already obtained a sale in every town, village, parish and hamlet among civilized nations. Base imitators try to come as near our name and style as they can, and because a good article cannot be sold as low as a poor one, they find some excuse for part from parties who do not care what they sell. FLAX GROWING.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.

If any Farmer wishes to try an acre or two of Flax, I will furnish them with seed, and wait for the price of it until the delivery of the Flax. As I have established a Scutching Mill amongst you, I think it is the duty of every Farmer to try an acre, if not more, of Flax, for a few years, so as to give it a fair trial. That it is the best spring crop I will leave facts to prove themselves, and will give you the names of a few Farmers who grew it last year to their entire satisfaction:—

R. Brown, Esq., Deore, 2½ acres, 7 tons 630 lbs.		$102 76
H. Reid, Esq., Deoro, 2 acres, 5½ tons, 1130 lbs.		77 09
C. Crowley, Esq., Deoro, 1 acre, 3 tons 1130 lbs.		49 91
J. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2½ acres, 7½ tons,		105 00
A. Scott, Esq., Smith, 2 acres, 7½ tons,		110 50
A. Hall, Esq., Smith, ¾ of an acre, 3 tons 754 lbs.		47 27
T. Tully, Esq., Smith, 1 acre, 3 tons...		36 00
Matt. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2 acres, 6 tons 540 lbs.		81 60
A. Rosebury, Esq., Smith, 1 bushel, 2 tons 520 lbs.		29 50
J. Hogan, Esq., Deoro, 1 bushel, 2 tons 600 lbs.		46 20
G. McKeon, Esq., Otonabee, 2 bushels, 4 tons 1020 lbs.		62 53

There are a great many more I could give you the names of, but as these gentlemen are the most prominently known I refer to them only. In every other place in Canada where there has been a Schutching Mill established, the Farmers have come forward and willingly bound themselves to raise from 200 to 500 tons for five years. If the crop will not pay, why do farmers in other places bind themselves to grow it? There was as high as one thousand tons grown in and about Streetsville last year. Let every farmer try an acre or two, until he sees his land how suitable it will be for growing it. I have given you references from all the townships around here; you see they have all done equally well. Another great advantage to some of the Farmers would be the ready market they could make, for it is only necessary after pulling the flax to allow it to dry sufficiently before selling it, when they can realize money to assist them in harvesting their other crops.

Are you sick, feeble, and complaining? Are you out of order, and your system deranged? Do you require a cathartic medicine to cleanse the stomach, liver, and bowels, purify the blood, and restore energy to the whole system? If you do, the Ayer's Pills are the remedy you need. For many years they have been in constant demand, and have performed many remarkable cures of the various complaints that afflict the human family. They stimulate the digestive organs into healthy action, and thus cause the foul humors to be carried out of the body. In this way a large number of formidable diseases are prevented and cured. Keep this cathartic in your houses. When you feel the first symptoms of headache, indigestion, biliousness, or pain in any part of the body, take a dose of these Pills, and it will set all right. Many times by timely use of these Pills you can save yourself from a severe spell of sickness. Everybody knows when he needs a cathartic, and everybody knows how it acts. Ayer's Pills are not a new and untried medicine, but have been in use for many years. During all this time they have maintained the highest rank among all the remedies known to man. They have won their great reputation by their intrinsic value, and their wonderful cures are the public knowledge in every community. Their sugar coating makes them very pleasant to take, and renders them safe to administer at any age. They contain no calomel or other dangerous drug, and may be taken with perfect safety by any one. As they operate through the blood, they purify that fluid, and thus expel the seeds of disease which may be lurking there. Hence their power to cure scrofula, erysipelas, salt rheum, ulcers, and other eruptions, which are only the effects of impurity of the blood. Cleanse the blood, and these troubles disappear. Many of the worst diseases which afflict mankind originate in the stomach and bowels, and all are cured by the same remedy—a dose of Ayer's Pills to move the bowels and stimulate the digestive organs. Nothing can be more simple than this mode of treatment, and nothing more certain in its results. Ayer's Pills are sugar coated, so that the most delicate can take them pleasantly, and they are the best medicine in the world for children. Being purely vegetable, they are perfectly safe to take at any time, and in any quantity, without injury. They operate on the internal organs of digestion, assimilation, circulation, secretion, excretion, and absorption, to restore them to healthy action. They are sold by druggists everywhere, and by all dealers in medicine. A valuable pamphlet, containing the certificates of many remarkable cures, and full directions for the guidance of patients in all parts of the country, may be had gratis of your neighbors. Ask for Ayer's Pills and take no other. Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass., Practical and Analytical Chemists.

ALSO,

PREPARATIONS FOR THE HAIR.

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR

Restores Gray Hair to its original color, with the freshness and beauty of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness generally cured by its use. Nothing will restore the hair where the roots are entirely destroyed or the glands atrophied, but all the scalp is not yet shining, this preparation will in every case restore the vitality of the roots, and cause a new growth of hair. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from becoming gray, or falling off, and consequently will save the expense of wigs. As a dressing for the hair, it is unequalled. It will keep the head cool and clean, and prevent dandruff. Ladies who desire long tresses, and gentlemen who wish to avoid baldness, should use the Hair Vigor. Those who have used it for the hair, and those who have used it for the whiskers, will find it equally valuable for both purposes. Being entirely free from all gummy or pasty matter, it is the best dressing in the world for the hair, and contains no material injurious to the most delicate fabric. Those who have used other preparations for the hair will find this the most desirable article they ever tried. Those who have not used any will be surprised at the effects produced by a few applications. Prepared by DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass., Practical and Analytical Chemists.

WHY do you suffer with a bad Cold when one bottle of Morris's Electric Invigorating Fluid will cure the worst cold in three days. It is far superior to any pain-killer or Liniment or Ready-relief. Try it once and you will not keep your house without it, for after all other remedies have failed it has cured hundreds of rheumatism, frost-bites, chilblains, burns, scalds, bruises, sprains, pains in the bowels, fresh cuts, lame back, headache and all pains into and and external. Sold everywhere at 25 cents per bottle. Retail and wholesale only by E. MORRIS, Peterborough, C. W. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money refunded. Every one should have a bottle.

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed without assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will cost less and is more speedily cured than when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small wart or sore on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. If required, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Relax, Worms.

From Rev. J. C. Gunn, of Chicago.

Your Pills have had a long trial in my practice, and I hold them in esteem as one of the best specifics I have ever found. Their alterative effect upon the liver makes them an excellent remedy, when given in small doses for bilious dysentery and diarrhœa. Their mild operating makes them very acceptable and convenient for the use of women and children.

Dyspepsia, Impurity of the Blood.

From Rev. J. F. Hines, Pastor of Advent Church, Boston.

DR. AYER: I have used your Pills with extraordinary success in my family and among those I am called to visit as clergyman. To regulate the organs of digestion and purify the blood, they are the very best remedy I have ever known, and I can confidently recommend them to my friends. Yours, J. F. HINES.

WARSAW, Wyoming Co., N. Y., Oct. 24, 1865.

DEAR SIR: I am using your Cathartic Pills in my practice, and find them an excellent purgative to cleanse the system and purify the fountains of the blood.

JOHN G. MEACHAM, M. D.

Constipation, Costiveness, Suppression, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Dropsy, Paralysis, Piles, etc.

From Dr. J. P. Pingree, Hardwick, Canada.

Too much cannot be said of your Pills for the cure of costiveness. If others of our fraternity have found them as efficacious as I have, they should join me in proclaiming it for the benefit of the multitudes who suffer from that complaint, which, although bad enough in itself, is the progenitor of others that are worse. I believe no disease originates in the liver, but your Pills affect that organ and cure the disease.

From Hon. R. Stuart, Physician and Midwife, Boston.

I had one or two large doses of your Pills, taken at the proper time, are excellent promotives of the natural secretion when wholly or partially suppressed, and also very effectual to cleanse the stomach and canal worms. They are so much the best physic we have that I recommend no other to my patients.

From the Rev. Dr. Hawkes, of the Methodist Epis. Church.

PUTNEY HOUSE, Savannah, Ga., Jan. 6, 1866.

HONORED SIR: I should be ungrateful for the relief your skill has brought me if I did not report: my case is gone. A cold settled in my limbs and brought on excruciating neuralgic pains, which ended in chronic rheumatism. Notwithstanding I had the best of physicians, the disease grew worse and worse, until by the advice of your excellent agent in Baltimore, Dr. Mackenzie, I tried your Pills. Their effects were slow, but sure. By persevering in the use of them, I am now entirely well.

SENATE CHAMBER, Baton Rouge, La., 5 Dec. 1865.

DR. AYER: I have been entirely cured, by your Pills, of Rheumatic Gout—a painful disease that had afflicted me for years. VINCENT BOWELL.

☞ Most of the Pills in market contain Mercury, which, although a valuable remedy in skilful hands, is dangerous in a public pill, from the dreadful consequences that frequently follow its incautious use. These contain no mercury or mineral substance whatever.

Poetry.

THE SUNSHINE.

Oh! fair is the sunshine
On mountain and lea,
On cornfield and meadow,
On river and tree.
It makes all creation
Rejoice in its smile,
And the husbandman see
The reward of his toil!
But if always 'twere shining,
And day always bright,
Without the repose
And the darkness of night,
It would prove but a curse,
It would madden the brain—
Turn rapture to sorrow,
And pleasure to pain.

But there is a sunshine
That never destroyes,
And does not debilitate
Him who enjoys;
No darkness is needed
To deaden its sheen,
No night is required
From its lustre to screen
Oh, happy! thrice happy!
That sunshine who gain;
It may beam through their life,
And awaken no pain;
For its soft gentle beams
Only pleasure impart—
'Tis the light of pure love
In the depths of the heart.

And there is a sunshine
More beautiful still,
Whose beams with splendor
The universe fill;
On the mind and the soul
Its bright lustre is shed,
Giving sight to the blind,
And new life to the dead.
Through unceasing duration
It at sunshine shall last,
Blessing the future,
Recalling the past.
To impart it the earth
As a creature he trod;
'Tis the light of his glory.
The manifest God.

THE LADIES' PEACE.

The beams of the setting sun stole beneath the heavy velvet curtains that partially shaded the barred and grated windows of the apartments occupied by Francis I., of France, during his long and weary imprisonment in the gloomy fortress of the Alcazar at Madrid, and tinged with deceitful brightness the sunken temples of this illustrious captive, as a state of unusual sadness was discernible on his embroidered couch.

Francis had passed away many months since his disastrous overthrow at Pavia, in that restless fever of hope deferred, which maketh the heart sick. One day excited by the deceitful professions of his imperial rival, Charles V., and another, plunged into utter despondency, by the vexatious delays and disappointments to which he was doomed, till the mental travail which he endured, produced bodily illness of an alarming character.

It was at this critical period that his accomplished and amiable sister, the celebrated Marguerite of Valois, the widowed Duchess Alencon, with a degree of generous self-devotion which, even in these days of chivalrous romance, was regarded by the princes of Europe with admiration and surprise, demanded and obtained from the Emperor Charles permission to visit her royal brother in prison.

An indefinite hint of the possibility of such an event as her arrival had been conveyed to Francis; but the more eagerly the presence of this beloved sister was desired by him, the more was he disposed to regard the idea of her coming as an impracticable chimera, which was held out to arouse or allure his drooping spirits by his faithful attendants.

On the present evening he was roused from his feverish languor to a state of intense excitement, by hearing his inexorable jailor, Don Ferdinand Alarcon, summoned by the sentinel who had been parleying with a lady, at the door of the ante-room.

'How now!' cried Don Ferdinand, stepping to the portal.

'It is a lady and her page, who are desirous of an interview with the King of France,' was the reply.

'My duty to the emperor will not permit me to accede to their request,' said Alarcon.

'We bring an order from the emperor,' said the page, presenting a paper to Alarcon.

'This order,' observed Alarcon, after he had carefully perused the pass, 'empowers me to admit the Duchess of Alencon and her attendant into the presence of my illustrious prisoner; but I must first be convinced of the identity of the persons specified. Will you condescend to let me see you without your veil madam?' continued he addressing the lady.

She removed the enveloping screen for a moment, with a look which caused Alarcon to recede three paces backward in surprise, as she significantly observed, 'The emperor's order is not then sufficient warrant for my admission?'

'Pardon me, madam, but you can scarcely expect one, who has the honor to be so well acquainted with your voice and features to mistake you for the sister of the King of France.'

'Have you then the audacity to dispute the written words of your imperial master?' inquired she.

'If there be any little underplot among the ladies,' muttered Alarcon, 'I trust the reckoning will be settled by the parties concerned.'

'I will exonerate you from all blame,' replied the lady, 'except that of disputing the pass of which I am the bearer.'

'Then, madam, I am to announce you, I suppose, as her grace the Duchess of Alencon,' said the alien official, flinging open the jealously guarded door of the inner room.

The sick monarch started from his couch at the sound of that dearly loved name, and extending his arms with passionate emotion, as Alarcon ushered the lady into his chamber, exclaimed.

'I am not then wholly abandoned of heaven. God only knows how I have panted to embrace you, my sweet sister.—What! not a single word, or look, or kiss, to bestow on thy unfortunate brother, Marguerite?'

'I fear I am the cause of disappointment to your majesty,' said the lady, seating herself beside the couch; 'I am not the lady of Alencon, but I come to cheer her with the tidings of her approach. Your royal sister greeteth you lovingly by me, and will be with you the present evening, God and the emperor willing.'

'Blessings on the sweet voice that whispers such joyful news in the sick ear of a woeful captive,' said Francis; 'but I must be permitted to look on the face of my gentle visitor,' pursued he, removing the mantilla in which the lady's face and figure had hitherto been enveloped. The features on which he gazed were unknown, and yet appeared familiar to the royal scrutineer; they were noble, beautiful, and expressive both of dignity and goodness. Her age, which is a difficult point to ascertain in a fine woman, did not appear to exceed two-and-twenty; but the self-possession and easy grace of her manner might have belonged to a more advanced period of life.

'Your name, fair lady?' said the king.

'I am called Mademoiselle de Heilley,' replied the lady, looking down, while a suffusing blush mantled her delicate cheek.

'You are then my subject, my charming friend,' rejoined the king, with great animation, taking her hand.

'Is it your custom, sire, to make so free with the ladies of your court?' asked the lady with a smile.

'I am always proud to offer my homage to beauty,' replied Francis, gallantly raising the hand which he held to his lips.

'Are you quite sure,' pursued he, looking into the lady's eyes, 'that my sister did not make you the bearer of some tender token of her love to me?'

'This ruby heart,' replied the lady, taking the richly-wrought gold chain to which the gem was suspended from her neck.

'I shall wear it for the sake of her from whose lovely hands I received the precious pledge,' exclaimed Francis, bending one knee before his fair visitor. 'Come, invest me with the order of which I perceive you are the grand mistress.'

'What order does your majesty mean?'

'That of St. Cupid,' returned the king.

'Your majesty has, I fear, been long a practised votary of that mischief-loving little traitor,' said the lady, throwing the chain around his neck.

'Blessings on the sweet voice that whispers such joyful news in the sick ear of a woeful captive,' said Francis; 'but I must be permitted to look on the face of my gentle visitor,' pursued he, removing the mantilla in which the lady's face and figure had hitherto been enveloped. 'That of St. Cupid,' returned the king.

'Your majesty has, I fear, been long a practised votary of that mischief-loving little traitor,' said the lady, throwing the chain around the king, kissing the glittering links of the chain.

'For how long?' asked the lady,

'For ever!'

'Or till you see a fairer face than mine?'

'It is impossible.'

'You are a perilous wooer, sire, and for my own peace, I have resolved never to see you again till you are the husband of the Queen Dowager of Portugal.'

'I will marry her to-morrow, then.'

'Donna Eleanora will have cause to be flattered when she understands the reason of your haste; but are you ready to perform the condition on which your marriage with that lady depends?'

'My fair friend, we will not waste the sweet moments by discussing so painful a subject.'

'Donna Eleanora has said that she would be prouder of being your wife, if you were only a landless knight, than of sharing any other crown in Christendom.'

'And who empowered you to make this communication to me, sweet-heart?' inquired Francis, taking Mademoiselle de Heilley by both hands, and bending a searching scrutiny upon her face. 'Oh! my sister, the Duchess of Alengeon, was it? Mighty fine! I guessed as much when you began to talk of the Austrian; but I am not to be tricked by female diplomatistes; I am of full age and understanding to judge for myself, and, therefore, when you next favor me with a visit, my fair plenipotentiary, I hope it will be to make love to me on your own account, in which case I will endeavor to make you a more grateful return than I at present feel disposed to do.'

'It is said that your Majesty's heart is in the possession of the beautiful Françoise de Foix, your own subject.'

'I have had leisure to repent me of the guilt and folly of my conduct in that instance, during my weary hours of sorrowful captivity and sickness,' returned Francis; 'and this broken heart has centred all its affections upon France, and my fair young sons, and that dear sister, who will, perhaps, only arrive to close these eyes in their last repose.' He bowed his face upon the pillow as he spoke, and sobbed with deep and passionate emotion, unrestrained by the presence of a stranger. It was, however, no stranger's voice, but accents that had been sweetly associated with all the best and purest pleasures of his life, from childhood upwards, that now, with tenderest words of comfort, interrupted this pause of agony, while dear familiar arms enfolded his wasted form in the fond embrace of a sister's holy love.

Francis uttered an exclamation of surprise, for the mysterious avant courier of his royal sister had disappeared, and Marguerite of Valois herself was hanging over his sick couch, and mingling her tears with his. He tried to welcome her, but could only falter out—

'Marguerite, mine own true-hearted sister!'

'Rouse yourself, my princely eagle!' she replied. 'Your imperial jailer is at hand, and I would not for the honor of Valois that the proud Spaniard should see the victor plumes that soared so triumphantly at Marignan could droop in hopeless despondency under any reverse of fortune.'

'It is the body, not the mind, that hath succumbed,' said Francis, pressing his sister's hand to his throbbing temples.

'Let the etherial and immortal principle then, wrestle with the earthly load that cumbereth and oppresseth its energies,' returned the sister. 'Charles of Spain, alarmed by the account of your indisposition, comes this morning to visit you, and his foot is even now on the threshold.'

'I will defy the cold-blooded foe to his teeth,' exclaimed Francis, starting from his couch.

'Not so, my brother; fight him with his own weapons, diplomatic coolness and reserve.'

It was not in the nature of Francis to follow this prudent counsel, and when his imperial rival, attended by his chancellor, Gattinara, and his own physician, whom he had brought to visit his illustrious captive, entered, he reproachfully addressed him in these words:—

'Your Majesty has then come at last to see your unfortunate prisoner die!'

'Not so, my brother and my friend,' replied Charles, advancing to the foot of the couch; 'but to speak of hope and speedy restoration to health and to liberty. I have also brought an old friend and faithful vassal peer to visit you, who will be only too happy to renew his homage.'

'If your Majesty means my traitor constable, Bourbon, I will not consent to be insulted with his presence. I trust there is none other subject or vassal peer of mine over whom your Majesty possesses the slightest influence,' exclaimed Francis, passionately.

A smile of intelligence was exchanged between the emperor and the Duchess of Alencon at these words. 'Be calm, my brother,' whispered she, laying her hand on his arm; 'no insult is intended.'

At the same moment, on a signal from the emperor, Pepin, the Dauphin's foster-brother, advanced from the ante-room, leading by the collar his royal master's favorite dog, Clovis. Instead of bounding joyfully to greet his captive lord, the sagacious animal, with that mysterious tact which is instinctive to the race, paused, and looking wistfully to the monarch's face, uttered a low piteous note of recognition and sympathy.

'No traitor, in sooth, but the most faithful and devoted of friends art thou, my poor Clovis!' cried Francis; 'but how came he at Madrid?'

'My sister, Donna Eleanora, understanding your majesty was suffering from indisposition, despatched an especial messenger to your royal sister, the Duchess of Alencon, requesting her to make your favorite dog and his little attendant the companions of her journey, and I petitioned my fair and illustrious guest to permit me to have the pleasure of presenting Clovis to your majesty.'

'You had a fairer companion on your journey, than these, my sister,' whispered Francis, as the emperor and his attendants withdrew.

'Whom does my royal brother mean?'

'Your charming attendant, Mademoiselle de Heilley. When shall I see her again?'

The countenance of Marguerite of Valois assumed an expression of uneasiness at these words. 'If I had been aware that any previous acquaintance had existed between yourself and Mademoiselle de Heilly I would have selected some other attendant,' said she.

'My good sister,' replied Francis, 'I never saw your fair suivante till this evening, when you obligingly sent her to announce your kind visit.'

'My brother you are dreaming,' said the Duchess; 'Mademoiselle de Heilley has never quitted me for a moment, till I left her in the ante-room just now.'

'You did not then make her the bearer of this jewel,' demanded Francis producing the ruby heart and chain.

'Certainly not. But it is plain that some fairy lady has been your visitor, since the heart and chain are rather of too substantial a nature to be the creations of a feverish delusion. I will, however, summon my lady in waiting, that you may be convinced that you were mistaken with regard to its being Mademoiselle de Heilley.'

When Mademoiselle de Heilley entered, Francis was consulted to acknowledge that she was not the lady who had used her name. He was evidently chagrined at the discovery, complained of fatigue, and permitted the ladies to withdraw.

When the Duchess of Alencon came to visit her royal brother the next day, she was pale and sad, and her countenance bore the traces of mortification.

'The object of my journey to Madrid has been frustrated,' said she. 'Donna Eleanora, your promised bride, has left Madrid, and undertaken a pilgrimage to Guadaloupe, as an excuse to avoid seeing me, or it may be that she has taken umbrage at something you have said of her to your mysterious visitor, who was doubtless some practised syren whom that wily dissembler, Charles of Spain, sent hither to be with you, calculating on the great defect in your moral character.'

'I will stake the fairest province in France that she with whom I discoursed last night was not less climate than beautiful,' exclaimed Francis, 'though with regard to my own conduct, I believe I was foolish enough to make love to her.'

'Oh! doubtless you acted with your usual want of discretion; but upbraidings are unavailing. It is enough that you have mortally offended your affianced bride, and frustrated all my plans for your deliverance.'

'Have you tried all your influence with Bourbon, Marguerite?' asked Francis, eagerly.

'A deadly paleness chased the lively bloom from the cheek and lips of the royal widow, as she replied mournfully:

'Even to the degradation have I stooped for the sake of my king and brother.'

'And—the traitor?'

'Is willing to renounce his treasons, to sue for pardon on his bended knee, to his captive liege lord, and to place his sword, his fortunes, his life, his honour even, at my disposal; but, Francis, he is powerless.—Like yourself, he has been the dupe of Charles of Spain, and has not the means of repairing the mischief he has wrought.'

'Not if I reward him with my pardon, and your hand, Marguerite?'

'The terms on which you would purchase his good offices have been made known to him,' replied she, mournfully; 'had they been offered previously to the battle of Pavia, you had seen now on the throne of France, master of the Milanese.'

'Impossible! you are not then a widow, Marguerite, and from the moment that our mother plighted your reluctant hand to Alencon, Bourbon became my deadliest foe.'

'Such, indeed, has been the result of my mother's cruel policy, and your unkind acquiescence in the sacrifice of one who deserved better things at your hands, Francis of Valois. But I spare reproaches; you are reaping the bitter harvest of your own sowing.'

'But my sweet Marguerite, you are now released from your weary bondage to the poltroon Alencon, and are free to wed with the object of your earliest affections, Bourbon.'

'No, Francis; Bourbon cannot now repair the wounds he has inflicted on his country. He has exposed to me, in the bitterness of his vain repentance, the impossibility of his rendering you any assistance. He is neither trusted nor respected by his new allies the foes of France.—Would that he had died in the blood-stained field of Pavia, when his rebellious sword severed the last link which bound him to the heart of Marguerite of Valois!'

'You have, then, told him this?'

'No; he told me that then he read my feelings,—that he was unworthy of me, and being unable to repair his crimes, he dared not sue for reconciliation. We have parted to meet no more on this side of the grave, and all I now live for is my country. I still hope to be the means of restoring to France her king, if he will be true to himself.'

(To be continued.)

CONSCIENTIOUS.

A revolutionary soldier was running for Congress, and his opponent was a young man who had "never been to the wars," and it was the custom of the old Revolutionary to tell of the hardships he had endured. Said he:—

'Fellow citizens, I have fought and bled for my country. I helped to whip the British and the Indians. I have slept on the field of battle with no other covering than the canopy of heaven. I have walked over the frozen ground till every footstep was marked with blood—"

Just at this time one of the sovereigns who had become greatly interested in his tale of sufferings, walked up in front of the speaker, wiped the tears from his eyes with his coat tail, and interrupted him with:—

"Yes, sir." "Did you had fot the Britwhile serving your country, without any liver?"

"I did."

"Did you say your feet kivered the gr und you walked over with blood?"

"Yes," replied the speaker exultingly.

"Well, then," said the tearful sovereign as he gave a sigh of emotion, "I guess I'd vote for t'other fellow, for I'll be blamed if ye ain't done enough for your country."

A LITTLE ROUND TURF.—"Here, Phil, run out this line and make it fast with a round turn to the post of that warehouse in there abreast of us." This was the order from the commander of one of the transports down there at City Point, to a strapping Emerald-Islander, in the blue shirt, broad collar and tarpaulin of the naval persuasion. "Ay, ay, sar-r!" And away went Phil with the end of the end of the warp, and three minutes later he was blazing away at one of the posts with an old axe he'd found lying round loose. "Hallee, there, mate! What in thunder ye doing?" yelled a warehouse clerk. "Going to cut the house down?" "Avast, there, Phil! What the mischief are you up to?" roared the transport captain. "Sure, and its only just bavin' the careens aff I am," Phil shouted back, still lathering away at the big post. "How the divil would I be after takin' a round turrun on a square shtick?"

At the Tyrone assizes, Ireland, an action for libel was brought against the Northern Whig newspaper. The libel grew out of and election for the historic city of Derry. Judge Keogh, a Roman Catholic, presided, and in charging the jury, he used the following language:—"Mr. M'Causland, in his address, has referred to the city of Derry as one famous for historic deeds in days gone by. I, said the judge, agree with Mr. M'Causland that the deeds done in Derry did materially conduce to secure civil and religious liberty to this land; and I have a high appreciation of the monarch in whose reign these events occurred, and whom Edmund Burke admirably described as 'our glorious deliverer and an enemy of persecution'—and those who think he was other than this know not a thing of his character. In his reign was fully secured the liberty of the subject, tried by jury, and from him we derive the inviolable right of liberty of the press. We are parting with many things now-a-days—whether for better or worse I will not say; but the time may come when we shall have no other safe guard than that which is centered in a free press."

MARRIAGE OF MONKS.—A large number of monks and priests in Italy have taken advantage of the new privileges conferred upon them by the new law for civil marriages, and have rushed into wedlock with unexpected alacrity.—Even the nuns have caught the infection, and the matrimonial mania threatens to complete the abolition of the convents begun by the civil law. Human nature appears to be a good deal stronger than the most rigid of monastic vows.

The cheerful live longest in life, and, after it, in our regards. Cheerfulness is the offshoot of goodness. It is a sanitary principle as well to the body as the mind, and is to both the cause and effect of health.

Leisure is a very pleasant garment, but it is a very bad one for constant wear.

THE REFORM CONVENTION.

Several of the delegates from different Townships in the East Riding met at Ashburnham, on the 4th inst, and after some deliberation, selected two candidates, one for the Commons of Canada and one for the Legislature of Ontario.

The choice for the Commons fell on Donald Sutherland, Esq., and for the Legislature of Ontario on Thomas George Choate, Esq. The candidates were present at the time and consented in some degree. Mr. Sutherland agreed to the nomination should he not be called away to England, which he feared he would by the first of next month. Of him, however, we may rest almost assured; as yet there is no opponent in the field, nor is it certain that there will be any. The electors of the East desire a local man, and they have good and true men of both parties, and it is pretty unanimously held that it is better a thousand times to have one of our County whom we know, than one whom we don't want, because we know his company. We do not desire a member of the present government, especially from the Crown Lands department, [illegible] and we trust to be able to remove all who aided in that mismanagement. In fact the people are ready to support a local man when an honest man, although as regards party, not all they could desire.—Mr. Sutherland, the nominee of the Convention, is a very strong man; he will receive the almost entire vote of Otonabee, Ashburnham and Dummer, and will receive a large support in Douro, Asphodel, Harvey and the back township, so that in the event of a contest, he is certain of a successful issue.

Mr. Choate, for the Ontario Parliament, is also a strong man. He will be strong in Dummer, Douro, Otonabee and Ashburnham, and will divide Asphodel with any one who may oppose him; the back townships, too, will give him a strong vote; hence, if the canvass is properly conducted, the result is safe. Both the candidates are Reformers in every sense of the term. It is true they may not be ready to follow the leadership of any one man, but one thing is certain, if returned, Reform members will find them at their post at the proper times. Another thing is, that Reformers do not choose them to oppose for opposition's sake, nor are they sent to destroy the new constitution, as the no party men would have it. They will be sent by the Reformers to give the new constitution a fair trial, to use every possible means to establish equality, justice and prosperity under the New Dominion, and to endeavor to give such a death blow to corruption and injustice at first that the country may not read of such misgovernment in the future as they have in the past. The nominees of the Reform Convention are not to be sent to oppose every measure that may come from their opponents. They will go prepared to support every good and wise measure, originate with what party it may. Nor will they go with instructions to get all for Ontario, at the expense of the other provinces, but to seek justice for every province, every people and every creed, as no government can ever remain unless established on principles of justice and equality in every respect. Thus, therefore, while it is true that they will go to obtain, if possible, justice for our own province, they will be ready to extend equal privileges to Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia and every other province that may yet unite with them.

The Hon. Geo. Brown has been on a tour west, and at St. Thomas was presented with an address. Mr. Brown also addressed the crowds that were gathered to meet him, nearly 2,000 persons are said to have been present. He spoke four hours, and was vehemently applauded during the delivery.

Rumor has it that Maximilian and his of three above the grade of Lieut. were shot on the 19th ult.; but we are unwilling to accredit it. Civilization would recoil at the idea, and Mexico would be called to an account for such a brutal act.

THE FENIANS.—There have been rumors of another intended raid of the cutthroats, but it is also said on good authority that the American Government is ready to act in concert with ours to put a stop to them as soon as commenced.

BIBLE CONFERENCE.—The Conference of the Bible Christian denomination of Canada is being held this week at Coburg, commencing this morning.

OUR RAILWAY.

About two years ago the subject of railway extension and monopoly received a little of our attention. At that time the then manager of the Millbrook branch and Port Hope road went unwisely raised the tariff, and this not raised a considerable storm and opposition to the Port Hope road. We then remarked that the action of the managers was very unwise, and they were forced to remodel the tariff.

The present managers have now done the same thing as their predecessors, and it is to be feared that it will be found as foolish as ever to do so. Already there is a feeling in the town on the matter, and as a communication in to-day's issue shows, there is likely to be agitation, and how it will end we are not prepared to state; but we are not prepared to put a stop to it, for however the decently expressed views of a correspondent may differ from our own, we must allow him the privilege of being heard on a subject of public interest especially. The extension to Mud Lake is a local affair, and concerns our local interest more than that of any individual, certainly we should do much to insure the northern trade to Peterboro, instead of to our rival, and we trust that the town will see the necessity of taking such action as will secure that object. If the Port Hope company or lessee of the road will build it, all right, if not, let it be built any way. The trade is now lost to us, and it is our interest to recover it if possible, and so company can blame us. As to the Cobourg road we know nothing about it or the intentions of the company, nor do we care for that company in particular. Our great interest is in the branch and its extension so long as it serves our ends, but when it ceases to serve us we are selfish enough to be ready to advocate whatever will be most for the advantage of Peterborough. To us it is of no importance which road does our work, only let it be done and at low rates. In an article in the Trade Review, we find that there is the intention of extending a Railway from Toronto to Balsam Lake. It is very evident, however, that Peterboro' or Lindsay is the more natural outlet of these waters; and we trust that something will be done to insure that which nature intended we should have, namely, the trade of all the back country, as far west as Fenelon Falls. If we had a road to Mud Lake, we might rest assured that our desires would be realized. About $50,000 would build this road, and then establish moderate freight rates, no other road could compete with it. The distance to the front would be lessened thereby and this Town would become the centre of the whole lumber trade of Victoria and Peterborough, and also of all the business of the back country. It is our wisdom to insure this.

Bible Christian Anniversary Services.

Anniversary Services in connection with the Bible Christian Church, will be held on Sunday the 16th and Monday the 17th inst.

Three sermons will be preached on Sunday by ministers from a distance.

On Monday there will be an anniversary tea meeting, good speeches and good music.

On Tuesday evening there will be a temperance meeting in the church, and several addresses by eminent speakers will be delivered on the occasion [illegible]

A Fish Market.

We congratulate the citizens of Peterborough, and the county generally, on the prospect of having a Fish Market established here. It is intended to have the Market constantly supplied with Fish of all kinds, dried, smoked and pickled, and of the very best quality; also, in the winter season, to have codfish, halibut, haddock, herring, &c., &c., on hand, brought directly in a frozen state from the Bay of Fundy. This will be a new feature in our favour, and already shows one of the advantages of Confederation of the Provinces. We understand that Messrs. J. & S. GRIFFIN, of Grand Manan, N. B., and Eastport, Me., are the enterprising originators of this new branch of trade.

A Locomotive in the East.

During a stay of two days at Norwood our ears were greeted daily with the sound of the railway whistle of the Marmora branch railway. The work we were told was progressing rapidly; and swelling hundreds of tons of the ore would be on its way to Cobourg and the United States. They are also about building a line of telegraph, and our enterprising citizens of Norwood are about to try to induce them to extend the line to their neat little village, by offering a bonus of some sort. The railway runs within five miles of the village.

Assurance against Fire.

In another column will be found an advertisement of the Agricultural Assurance Association of London, C.W. The company is said to be in a very prosperous state, having 28,500 policies issued. We have much pleasure also in stating that Mr. S. Cornell, lately of Ashburnham, has been appointed agent for this company at Peterboro. He is long and favorably known in this vicinity, and from his integrity and ability we think the company has made an excellent appointment. We believe we can safely recommend him to the public, feeling satisfied that their business will be safe in his hands.

Presentation.

The Physog Club presented their President and Vice-President, each, a beautiful album, one valued at $15.00, the other $7.00, on Friday evening last. Of course we are not at liberty to use names, but it is enough for the public to know that the Terribles did not forget their commanders. We regret that our not hearing of it until too late, prevents us publishing the addresses and replies.

Personal.

We are particularly requested to state that Dr. R. King will be at his office, Bloomfield, on Thursday the 6th instant. Being unavoidably detained at Hamilton on urgent business, he was unable to be there on Tuesday the 4th instant, according to promise.

Fire.

We regret to learn that the dwelling of Mr. Geo. Stewart, of Otonabee, River Road, was consumed by fire last week. Mrs. Stewart had just gone out on some business to the field, and when she returned it was all in flames. Some little things were saved, but a considerable quantity of clothing and other things were consumed. No insurance.

MEETING AT WARSAW.

In pursuance of a public notice issued by the Reeve of the Township of Dummer, there was a public meeting of those of the rate-payers of that township on Saturday last.

There were about thirty persons present.

On motion of G. Choat, Esq., seconded by A. R. Kidd, Esq., Mr. Robt. Morrison was called to the chair, and Mr. A. Cooke was requested to act as secretary.

The Chairman explained the object of the meeting, namely, to select proper men to represent the East Riding in the approaching parliament. He regretted that there were not more present, but he supposed that the busy time and the late backward weather prevented a number coming, and he supposed some did not come because they did not receive notice; but notice had been given to a large number. In reference to the subject of the meeting it had been said, What right had Dummer to call a meeting to select candidates? But he would ask, had there not been meetings in Westwood, Keene, and Ashburnham? and why not have a meeting at Warsaw? and it was their duty now to make a selection, if possible.

A. R. Kidd asked in what respect was this nomination to be made.

The Chairman—A nomination of candidates for the Local Legislature and Commons of Canada.

T. G. Choate remarked that as P. Pearce, Esq., was present and was also about to be a candidate, he thought Mr. Pearce should address the meeting.

The Chairman thought that it was usual first to nominate the man and then hear his address.

Mr. Farrier thought that Mr. Pearse should first address the meeting, and then let a committee be appointed to discuss the merits of the proposed political aspirants, and that committee might make a selection.

Mr. Choat had come merely as an elector, but thought that Mr. Pearse should address the meeting that they might hear his political platform, and then might come the nomination.

Mr. Pearse thought that the people should express their views and state what they required, then, if those accorded with the views of the candidate, and he was prepared to carry them out, he might be put in nomination.

Mr. Drain believed it was necessary to have a meeting, if for nothing else than for information. There had been talk about party; cling to party, &c. And he had been a strong party man, nor was he sorry for it. He could not regret a party vote he had ever given, (hear, hear,) but he could not detect the party line now. He was for a man, a local man if possible, and an honest man, and if an honest man could be obtained in the riding he would support him; if there was not an honest man in the riding he would support an honest man from without; but he was chiefly in favor of a local man. It might be said that this meeting was not the right place to nominate a candidate; but why should not the Otonabee delegates come here instead of going to Ashburnham. Mr. Miller, of Otonabee, had been making offers to Mr. Choate, and promised a strong support, urging Mr. C. to accept nomination, but Mr. Choat had declined [illegible] and as far east as possible. A stranger he did not want. In fact, he was in favor of a local man.

Mr. Drain moved, seconded by Mr. Kidd, that Mr. Pearse address the meeting.

Mr. Pearse complied, saying it afforded him much pleasure to do so, and was glad that it was not the first time he had done so as a public man. He would remark, however that he did not aspire to the higher position. He wished, if brought out, to go for the legislature of Ontario. For thirty-three years he had been among them, and for a long period of that time he had been in public life as a municipal officer, he therefore did not appear as a stranger, as he had served them in various positions, never being out of the Council since the introduction of the present municipal system. He might say that he had not been an ardent politician, but he had been an ardent friend. He never was prepared to go the length party would sometimes go, but he always stuck to the man to whom he promised. Were he really before them as a candidate he might be required to state his views, and as the opportunity offered he would do so in some degree. In the first place, then, he aspired to the local legislature only. He wished to be a representative of the people, and when he thought he was not the people's candidate he would withdraw. He had always been on the side of progression, always voted for progress, and however he might have erred, his intentions and desires were progressive. He thought enough had not been done for this county. It always received a small share in proportion to the amount of revenue it produced from its woods and forests, and he was in favor of using all the revenue in the county. He hoped the old logvism of the past would cease after the first of July, and whoever was chosen would use his influence for the benefit of the county. He well knew the difficulties of the settlers and all their troubles, and if chosen he would advocate the expending of a large share of money in the building of roads for their advantage, and the expenditure of a large share of the wild domain to the building and improvement of good roads through our county. He was sorry to say that the interest of the settler and that of the lumberer clashed very much, indeed the county suffered also, for at present not an acre of land could be purchased from the crown at any price. Now it was well known that our back country was capable of sustaining thousands of a population if they could purchase the lands, and there was land capable of cultivation. As it now is, and has been, the settlers did not enjoy all the rights and privileges they ought to possess, for the complaint now is, that until the lands are fully paid for the lumberer can enter and take off the best of his timber without leave or pay. Under the present license system too thousands of millions of feet of our timber was being lost. The lumberer obtained limits, but he did not know when it would be sold, and in consequence he took the best as soon as possible. The rest was left lying there, and the first fires swept it away in millions of feet. He was therefore in favor of doing something to prevent this by a proper classification of the lands, and would go for prohibiting settlers from lumbering districts, and also lumberers from districts capable of settlement, and such a system would save much of our valuable timber and add to the revenue at the end. He, Mr. P., was also in favor of a homestead exemption law. Here Mr. Pearse went on to state what he would be exempt, and he would not support any man who would not promise to introduce such a law. He was also in favor of building gravel roads for main lines, one to Norwood and Peterborough continued to Marmora, to induce the trade of the mineral region westwards, and from this two branches, one to Keene and Hastings, and one to Warsaw; just wherever the ratepayer would locate them, and he felt sure that if our revenue and the filthy $1500 they send yearly for all the roads in the county were used to build those roads, we would not be as we are every now able to get to market, unless with less than half a load. He knew of course that rate-payers did not like high taxes, but he knew also that it would be better at the end to have one mile of road well made than to spend $1500 yearly and have no roads. Now, as to the party to whom you may entrust these things, their antecedents should be the measure, the criterion, by which you will judge them, and he (Mr. P.) could appeal to the public in that respect; and he thought they should not pledge themselves to support even a local man unless he would advocate these things, and a proper return of those revenues that our county yields. He was also in favor of placing the crown lands under the control of the County Council; at present you may write, write, write,, but to no purpose, for all was shut up as gold lands. He was therefore in favor of changing those for the Land of those lands, and putting in new blood, as it were. Get a new system, and he felt if properly managed ours was a prosperous future. He then remarked if these views were in accordance with theirs, and they thought it well to put him in nomination, he would, if returned, advocate them to the utmost of his abilities; but unless brought out by the people he did not wish to be out.

Mr. A. R. Kidd thought Mr. Pearce did not go far enough. He did not tell us whether he was a J. A. McDonald man or a Reformer. For his own part he was not astraddle of the fence—he was a Reformer, and Dummer had long been reform, and he hoped that this meeting would appoint delegates to the Reform Convention.

Mr. Rose referred to the road question, was in favor of the Douro road. He was in favor of Mr. Pearce as a local man, but would not promise unequivocal support if the convention in Ashburnham would give a local man, and a better man.

Mr. Kidd did not understand Mr. Rose. Why go to convention if he bound himself to support Mr. Pearce here?

Mr. Rose remarked that at convention he would support Mr. Pearse if possible, but if a better was found he would support him.

Mr. Kidd was for a local man, but would not promise support to any man now. If Mr. Pearse got nominated by convention he would support him.

Here there were some explanations about Mr. Pearse's past history as a public man. Had supported Dr. Gilchrist, Langton, Conger, and Perry; but he did not ask support unless he was worthy to receive it.

There were some remarks about conventions with closed doors, but nothing to the point in dispute.

After considerable cross-firing and nothing definite likely to come out of it, it was suggested to appoint delegates to convention. The Chairman urged the selection of a man, for although a Reformer, and that he well knew since before he was born—laughter—he was now in favor of a local man.

At length it was moved by Mr. Choate, seconded by Mr. Kidd, that this meeting pledges itself to support a local man, i. e., one from the East Riding, and none other—Carried.

It was also moved by Mr. Rose, that Messrs. Choate, Kidd and Drain be delegates to the Convention at Ashburnham, and that they strive to appoint a man east of the river, and if so, this meeting pledges themselves to support the man agreed upon—Carried.

The meeting then broke up very quietly.

THE ASHBURNHAM CONVENTION.

On Tuesday the Delegates met at the Town Hall in the Village of Ashburnham, to choose reform candidates in the approaching election.

There were delegates there from Otonabee, Douro, Dummer, and Ashburnham. Asphodel did not appoint delegates, but there were individuals present from Asphodel. The back townships could not be expected to send delegates so far at this hurried season of the year, and especially so when it is known that all the spring crops are not yet in the ground.

The meeting was organized by calling Mr. Jas. Anderson, of Otonabee, to the Chair, and Mr. Jas. Stratton to act as secretary.

Mr. Anderson explained the object of the meeting, namely, to choose good and honest men to represent the riding in the parliament of the new Dominion, and he hoped that some one had come prepared to take that step and nominate men. It was true that there were some who thought that there should be no party issue, no bickering or contention about party lines; still he felt assured that the convention was ready to support honest men. At the same time our eyes could not be shut to the fact that there were parties, had been and would be, and there would be something for the Reform party to do under the confederation. That for which they would have to contend might be different from that for which Reformers fought in the past, just as the demands of reform in England differed from the demand of Reformers in Canada. In England they sought for extension of franchise, in this country for reform in administration, equality and justice, and better management of public affairs. A good deal had been said about coalition, about its continuance, &c. It was well known when the coalition was formed that there was an agreement to have equal representation of parties, and an equal division of power, and that this was to remain until confederation should be completed; but it was just as well known that the Tories did not carry out their agreement; Reformers instead of obtaining a half were forced to accept a fourth part only. Now if the same system is to be pursued in the future, there was little doubt who would receive offices and power. Reformers did not wish the continuance of the reign of McDonald, Cartier & Co., for if they continued in power things would remain as they have been.

Mr. Jas. Miller, of Otonabee, then proposed, seconded by A. R. Kidd, Dummer, That D. Sutherland, Esq., be the Reform Candidate for the commons of Canada.

W. C. Nicholl, Esq., of Dunn, remarked that he was pleased with the nomination; it was a very good one. Mr. Sutherland was a steady returner, though not a violent partizan, for on one occasion he had supported Mr. Cameron, the [illegible] candidate. Mr. Sutherland, the well-known Scotch historian. The deceased was born at Kenley, Dec 29, 1792. After studying at the University of Edinburgh, he was, in 1814, admitted to the Scotch bar. In 1822, he was appointed Deputy Advocate, and in 1834 Sheriff of Lanarkshire, one of the most responsible judicial situation in Scotland. Alison was an ardent adherent of the Tory party, and a strident opponent of the Reform movement; and he, by Sinlatory to a Barometer. The reputation of Alison as a writer rests chiefly on his large work, entitled "History of Europe from 1789 to the restoration of the Bourbons in 1815" (London, 1833-58, 20 vols.; 9th ed., 1853). This work, though strongly colored by the political views of the author, obtained a large circulation on account of the fulness and the accuracy of its information of the interesting period of which it treats, and it was translated into nearly all the languages of Europe, and into Arabic. It was followed by a "History of Europe from the Fall of Napoleon to the Accession of Louis Napoleon" (London 1852). Alison also wrote a life of the Duke of Marlborough, several works on Scotch laws, and in defence of a protective system and against free trade.

OUR RAILWAY.—We are pleased to say that the work in connection with the Cobourg and Marmora Railway is rapidly approaching completion. Already the rails on five miles of the track have been laid, leaving only three or four miles to be completed; and of this portion, the greater part is graded. A locomotive has been placed upon the finished portion; and a second one will be taken thither next week. It is fully anticipated that before the end of June the conveyance of iron to our wharves will have been commenced. Three members of the C. P. & V. R. & M. Company, Messrs. Hall, Schoenberger, and Butts, have lately, in company with the Managing Director, spent some days at the mines, and are well satisfied with the quality of the ore already dug out, and the prospect of an exceedingly large yield.—Cobourg World.

BRYAN'S WAFERS.—The great public remedy have now been in use over twenty years, hence it cannot be said that they are on trial. They have been thoroughly tried, and pronounced (on the authority of those whose lives and health they have preserved) to be a pure, harmless, and eminently salutary preparation, and if taken in season will invariably cure colds, coughs, sore throat, and all Bronchial affection. One fair trial will convince the most skeptical. Sold by all medicine dealers, at 25cts. per box.

SIR,—To be blind to passing events is at times not only criminal but disastrous. As a citizen, I cannot but be aware of what is passing in our midst, and to perceive the cause is to be apprehensive as to the results. The danger which last year we sought to avert seems impending over us. Railway monopoly is working its legitimate results. Instead of keeping the Cobourg Railway open as an inducement for the re-building of the Cobourg Road it was allowed to fall into the hands of those who will not work it. For first, an act was got which rendered the Stock valueless to the holders, and then it was bought at low figures. The moment this end was attained the work on the connection was stopped and the tariff raised. Any one of judgment might from the beginning have known that it was not intended to continue the line to Mud Lake. Already the same waters are tapped at Lindsay. The trade of the Lakes, equal to that of Peterborough was all safe. Why should it be shared with anyone? The interests of the manufacturers are not considered for a moment. In thus acting the Manager of the Port Hope Road did what perhaps any one would do; but whether the interests of an immense trade is to depend on the Shylock proclivities of one Company is a question which we are called upon to determine.

Our largest manufacturers—Campbell & Co. —have already bought the land at Rice Lake on which they are now preparing to build their mill; other millers are preparing to follow. Our Railway policy is driving the manufacturers to go for ever and we sink down to the matter and ego business of an ordinary country town. The grass will grow in our streets, half our shops will be empty, and the landlords of the other half will mourn under reduced incomes.

When formerly the Cobourg Road was not in a satisfactory state, the town gave $120,000 to build the Millbrook branch. It was a good investment. What would we be without it?—We are better able to-day to pay the increased taxes than before it. And if by any means we can now increase our population, business and wealth let us by all means do so; since, to meet increased liabilities we could have more than proportionately increased means. We must no longer hesitate. The trade of Mud Lake must be secured. It would amply repay us. There is no reason why Lindsay should rob us of the trade of the back country and drain the business from our doors. Only supineness and indifference has permitted it so long; longer to suffer it is to court our own destruction. When the mills are gone, and our trade turned into new channels then it will be too late to make amends. We must secure that trade, now four times as great as the trade of Peterborough was when the Cobourg road was built, or else we must give a bonus to induce the re-construction of the Cobourg Road, and they will soon force their way to compete for the twenty millions of lumber cut on the northern waters.

Something must be done and that at once. Some inducement must be held out to keep the mills here. If one goes they all go; for if the reason is sound for one, it is sound for all. Of this there is no question. The lumber may be driven to Rice Lake in the log cheaper than by rail. The difference of freight from the mills is $1.30 per thousand. Thus Campbell & Co. on ten millions would in one year save $13,000. or nearly enough to build their mill.—Nothing but cheap freight from Peterboro' will keep them here.

Let us compute how much money is spent here by the lumber business: Say it costs $8 per thousand feet—we know it sells for $12—$8 per thousand on 30 millions is $240,000. of course the cost of the lumber is mostly spent with us. Can we afford to loose any of this? I leave the matter to the citizens for careful consideration; just reminding them that with an empty town and half our present business, our taxes will be more grevious than they will be while we prosper under a liberal encouragement of commercial enterprise. Let those in whose hands we have placed our affairs see to it that the public interests are looked after, even if their own are less considered.

Yours truly,
PROGRESS.

NOVA SCOTIA.—The Halifax Citizen takes rather a gloomy view of the future of Nova Scotia after Confederation. It says:—

"So, from the first of July, as for some time has been supposed, we cease to be Nova Scotians, and become Canadians. Five weeks more, Nova Scotia is to possess a government of her own; five weeks more she is to enjoy these institutions, under which she has grown and prospered for a hundred years; and these the experiment commences, which, the London Daily News admits, makes the future of all those Provinces 'dark and doubtful.' Five weeks more of freedom and of peace; and then, Confederation, slavery, discussions, and a future that no man cares too closely to inquire into."

A story is told of a lady in Holyoke, Mass., who obtained a divorce from one husband a on the morning of the 16th inst., married another in the afternoon of the same day, and in the evening presented her new husband with an heir. All parties are doing as well as could be expected. Great country.

Many French families have let their apartments to fashionable visitors and are making money by living in London.

HOLLOWAY'S WORM LOZENGES

ARE A CERTAIN AND SAFE REMEDY for worms in children and adults. As it is a well-known and undeniable fact that one great cause of death among children is from Worms alone, it cannot be too deeply impressed upon the minds of parents the necessity of closely watching their children. By so doing, and administering the symptoms and true cause of the disease, thousands of children might be saved from early graves. The following are a few of the very numerous symptoms and disorders which are caused by Worms:—Deranged appetite, associated extremities, offensive breath, restless picking at the nose, grinding of the teeth during sleep, hardness of the belly, with frequent pain, and sometimes convulsive fits; pain in the head and stomach, unquiet sleep, faintings, trembling coughs, indigestion, low spirits, fearful dreams, and a gradual wasting away of flesh. Holloway's Worm Lozenges are palatable and self-administered to the child—drive out the worms thoroughly without pain and completely cleanse the stomach—thereby doing away with the necessity of administering Castor Oil or other unpleasant medicine. Each box contains the facsimile, C. W., who are the sole proprietors. Sold by J. Higginbotham and D. Stott, Bowmanville, and Medicine Dealers everywhere.—N. B.—Ask for Holloway's Worm Lozenges, and take no other. 22

Over a Million Dollars Saved!

Gentleman:—"I had a negro man worth $1,200 who took cold from a bad hurt in the leg, and was useless for over a year. I had used everything I could hear of without benefit, until I tried the Mexican Mustang Liniment.—It soon effected a permanent cure."

J. L. DOWNING.

Montgomery, Ala., June 17, 1859.

"I take pleasure in recommending the Mexican Mustang Liniment as a valuable and indispensible article for Sprains, Sores, Scratches or Galls on Horses. Our men all say it acts like magic."

J. W. HEWITT,
Foreman for America, Wells, Fargo's and Harnden's Express.

"The Sprain of my daughters ankle, occasioned while skating last winter, was entirely cured in one week, after she commenced using your celebrated Mustang Liniment.

ED. REELY."

Gloucester, Mass., Aug. 1, 1865.

It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man and beast, than any article ever discovered. Families, livery-men and planters should always have it on hand. Quick and sure it certainly is. All genuine is wrapped in steel-plate engravings, bearing the signature of G. W. Westbrook Chemist, and the private U. S. stamp of Demas Barnes & Co. over the top.

An effort has been made to counterfeit it with a cheap stone plate label. Look closely!

Saratoga Spring Water, sold by all Druggists.

"Yes' so?"—"Exactly?"—Solon Shingle said; they were there "every time." If he felt 'owly' in the morning, he took Plantation Bitters; if he felt weary at night, he took Plantation Bitters; if he lacked appetite, was weak, languid or mentally oppressed, he took Plantation Bitters; and they never failed to set him on his pins square and firm.

Few persons want any better authority; but as some may, just read the following:

"• • • I owe much to you, for I verily believe the Plantation Bitters have saved my life.

REV. W. H. WAGONER, Madrid, N. Y."

"• • • I have been a great sufferer from Dyspepsia, and had to abandon preaching. • • The Plantation Bitters have cured me

REV. C. A. HILLWOOD, New York City.

"• • • • I had lost all appetite—was so weak and enervated I could hardly walk, and had a perfect dread of society. • • • • The Plantation Bitters have set me all right.

JAMES HEMINWAY, St. Louis, Mo."

"• • • • The Plantation Bitters have cured me of a derangement of the Kidneys and Urinary Organs, that distressed me for years. They act like a charm.

C. C. MOORE, 254 Broadway, N. Y."

Mrs. O. M. DEVOE, manager of the Union Home School for Soldiers' Children, says she "has given it to the weak and invalid children under her charge, with the most happy and gratifying results." We have received over a hundred reams of such certificates, but no advertisement is so effective as what people themselves say of a good article. Our fortune and our reputation is at stake. The original quality and high character of these goods will be sustained under every and all circumstances. They have already obtained a sale in every town, village, parish and hamlet among civilized nations. Base imitators try to come as near our name and style as they can, and because a good article cannot be sold as low as a poor one, they find some support from parties who do not care what they sell. Be on your guard. See our private stamp over the cork.

FLAX GROWING.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.

If any Farmer wishes to try an acre or two of Flax, I will furnish them with seed, and wait for the price of it until the delivery of the Flax. As I have established a Scutching Mill amongst you, I think it is the duty of every Farmer to try an acre, if not more, of Flax, for a few years, so as to give it a fair trial That it is the best spring crop I will leave facts to prove themselves, and will give you the names of a few Farmers who grew it last year to their entire satisfaction:—

R. Brown, Esq., Deore, 2½ acres, 7 tons 600 lbs.	$102 76
H. Reid, Esq., Deore, 2 acres, 5½ tons,	77 00
C. Crowley, Esq., Deore, 1 acre, 3 tons 1190 lbs.	49 91
J. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2½ acres, 7½ tons,	105 00
A. Scott, Esq., Smith, 2 acres, 5½ tons,	110 00
A. Hall, Esq., Smith, ½ of an acre, 2 tons 754 lbs.	47 27
T. Tully, Esq., Smith, 1 acre, 3 tons	36 00
Matt. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2 acres, 6 tons 600 lbs.	81 00
A. Rosebery, Esq., Smith, 1 bushel, 2 tons 530 lbs.	29 50
J. Hughes, Esq., Deore, 1 bushel, 3 tons 600 lbs.	44 00
G. McKeon, Esq., Otonabee, 2 bushels, 4 tons 1620 lbs.	62 53

There are a great many more I could give you the names of, but as these gentlemen are the most prominently known I refer to them only. In every other place in Canada where there has been a Scutching Mill established, the Farmers have come forward and willingly bound themselves to raise from 200 to 500 tons for five years. If the crop will not pay, why do farmers in other places bind themselves to grow it? There was as high as one thousand tons grown in and about Streetsville last year. Let every farmer try an acre or two, until he tests his land how suitable it will be for growing it. I have given you references from all the townships around here; you see they have all done equally well Another great advantage to some of the Farmers would be the early market they could make, for it is only necessary after pulling the flax to allow it to dry sufficiently before selling it, when they can realize money to assist them in harvesting their other crops.

BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY

IN CANADA.

The following testimony from a well known and highly respected Merchant of Prescott, is corroborative of the general approval given to Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY:

Prescott, C. W., Dec. 8th, 1859.

Messrs. S. W. Fowle & Co., Boston.

Gentlemen:—

Being solicited by your Travelling Agent, for an expression of opinion of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. I with pleasure assert that it is, in my belief, the best remedy before the public for coughs and pulmonary complaints.

Having tested the article with myself and family, in cases of severe coughs and colds, for years, with uniform and unexceptionable success, I unhesitatingly recommend it, with full confidence in its merits.

Yours truly,
ALFRED HOOKER.

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed witho t assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD.

And for the speedy cure of the following complaints:

Scrofula and all Scrofulous Affections, such as Tumors, Ulcers, Sores, Boils, Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Blains, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Black Spots, Moles, and all Skin Diseases.

Gurney, Ind., 6th June, 1866.

J. C. Ayer & Co. Gents: I had in my duty to acknowledge what your Sarsaparilla has done for me. I was troubled for years with a humor in my face. It would come and go, sometimes I have to stay in the house for months. The doctors gave me up, and said I could not live. I then got to using your Sarsaparilla. I have used about two and one-half bottles, which has entirely cured me, and I am now a well man. I feel like a new man. At length I was induced to try the Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I have used one bottle of it, and I feel as though I had been cured. I would say to all, if you want to be cured, use Ayer's Sarsaparilla and Cherry Pectoral. Don't be induced to use any other, in such cases of a humor, as I was, and I was about three months. Now and healthy skin soon began to form under the crust, which after a while fell off. My skin is now clear, and I have not the feelings that I had before I took your medicine. You can well believe that I feel grateful for what you have done for me, and I hold you to be one of the agents of the age, and remain ever gratefully,

ALFRED B. TALLEY.

St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Dropsy.

Dr. Robert M. Preble writes from Salem, N. Y., 25th April, 1866, that he has cured an incurable case of Dropsy, which threatened to terminate fatally, by the persevering use of our Sarsaparilla, and also a dangerous case of Erysipelas by large doses of the same, says he owes the common Republic to it eminently.

Bronchocele, Goitre or Swelled Neck.

Reuben Shaw of Prospect, Texas, writes:—"Three bottles of your Sarsaparilla cured my boy of a Goitre—a disease resulting on the neck, which I had suffered from over two years."

Leucorrhœa or Whites, Ovarian Tumors, Uterine Ulcerations, Female Debility.

Dr. J. B. S. Claudge, of New York City, writes:—"I most cheerfully comply with the request of your agent in saying I have found your Sarsaparilla a most excellent alterative in the numerous complaints for which we employ such a remedy, but especially in Female Diseases of the lymphatic temperament. I have cured many inveterate cases of Leucorrhœa by it, and some where the complaint was caused by ulceration of the uterus. The ulceration itself was soon cured. Nothing within my knowledge equals it for these female derangements."

Edward S. Morrow, of Newberry, Ala., writes: "A dangerous cancerous tumor on one of the females in my family, which had defied all the remedies we could employ, has at length been completely cured by your Extract of Sarsaparilla. Our physicians seem to nothing but extirpation could afford relief, but he advised the trial of your Sarsaparilla as the last resort before cutting, and it proved effectual. After taking your remedy eight weeks no symptoms of the disease remains."

Syphilis and Mercurial Disease.

NEW ORLEANS, 26th August, 1866.

DR. J. C. AYER: Sir, I cheerfully comply with the request of your agent, and report to you some of the effects I have realized with your Sarsaparilla.

I have cured with it, in my practice, most of the complaints for which it is recommended, and have found its effects truly wonderful in the cure of Venereal and Mercurial Disease. One of my patients had Syphilitic ulcers in his throat, which were consuming his palate and the top of his mouth. Your Sarsaparilla, steadily taken, cured him in five weeks. Another was attacked by one of my physicians in his nose, and the mercurial had eaten away a considerable part of it, so that I believe the disease would soon reach his brain and kill him. But it yielded to my administration of your Sarsaparilla; the ulcers healed, and he is well again, not of course without some disfiguration to his face. A woman who had been salivated for the same disease by mercury was suffering from this poison in her bones. They had become so sensitive to the weather that on a damp day she suffered excruciating pain in her joints and bones. She, too, was cured entirely by your Sarsaparilla in a few weeks. I know from its effects, which your agent gave me, that this Preparation from your laboratory must be a great remedy; correctly, these truly remarkable results with it have not surprised me.

Fraternally yours,

C. V. LARIMER, M. D.

Rheumatism, Gout, Liver Complaint, Impurities, Pustules On, Vo., 6th July, 1866.

Dr. J. C. AYER: Sir, I have been afflicted with a painful chronic Rheumatism for a long time, which baffled the skill of physicians, and stuck to me in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I tried your Sarsaparilla. One bottle cured me in five weeks, and restored my general health in such that I am far better than before I was attacked. I think it a wonderful medicine. J. PRIMROSE.

Jules T. Gerhell, of St. Louis, writes: "I have been afflicted for years with an affection of the Liver, which destroyed my health. I tried every thing, and every thing failed to relieve me; and I have been a broken-down man for some years from no other cause than derangement of the Liver. By honored pastor, the Rev. Mr. Kopp, advised me to try your Sarsaparilla, because he said he knew you, and any thing you made was worth trying. By the blessing of God it has cured me, and has so purified my blood as to make a new man of me. I feel young again. The best that can be said of you is not half good enough."

Scirrhus, Cancer Tumors, Enlargement, Ulcerations, Caries and Exfoliation of the Bones.

A great variety of cases have been reported to us where cures of these formidable complaints have resulted from the use of this remedy, but our space here will not admit of them. Some of them may be found in our American Almanac, which the agents below named are pleased to furnish gratis to all who call for them.

Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Melancholy, Neuralgia

Many remarkable cures of these affections have been made by the alterative power of this medicine. It rouses into the vital functions into vigorous action, and thus overcomes disorders which would be supposed beyond its reach. Such a remedy has long been required by the necessities of the people, and we are confident that this will do for them all that medicine can do.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

FOR THE RAPID CURE OF

Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the Relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced Stages of the Disease.

This is a remedy so universally known to surpass any other for the cure of throat and lung complaints, that it is useless here to publish the evidence of its virtues. Its unrivalled excellence for coughs and colds, and its truly wonderful cures of pulmonary disease, have made it known throughout the civilized nations of the earth. Few are the communities, or even families, among them all who have not some personal experience of its effects—some living trophy in their midst of its victory over the public and dangerous disorders of the throat and lungs. As all know the dreadful fatality of these disorders, and as they know, too, the effects of this remedy, we need not do more than to assure them that it has in all the virtues that it did have when making the cures which have won so strongly upon the confidence of mankind.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.

Sold in Peterboro by Ormond & Gilmour, A. W. Kempt, and Wm. Coulter. In Keene by A. Campbell, Campbell McNeil & Co., C. Britton, Lindsay, and all Medicine Dealers.

ANOTHER WONDERFUL CURE OF

CONSUMPTION

BY THE

GREAT SHOSHONESS REMEDY

IN CANADA.

MESSRS. Y. & C.—GENTLEMEN:—I Wilson Storms, of Brighton, C. W., make oath and say,—I feel anxious to let you know what the Great Shoshonees Remedy has effected for me. My wife was afflicted with consumption and died. I was also afflicted with the same disease, and after her death I continued sinking just as she had done. I had very severe night sweats; coughed nearly all night and every night; could not sleep unless a little towards morning. I raised over a quart of matter every 24 hours; had severe pain in the left lung, &c., &c., and was greatly debilitated. In fact I was going as fast as I could. I was taking medicine from a regular physician, but it did not even relieve my cough. I went to the village one day about a quarter of a mile, which took me to go and come about two hours.—While there I saw Rev. Wellington, and happened to say to him, "I wish you could give me something to relieve my cough." He said "There is the Great Indian Remedy just introduced; Dr. Parker has it for sale, and I believe it will cure you." I took his advice, and brought a bottle home with me; took a table spoonful at once, which I felt through my whole system. At night I took a table spoonful, and rested well all night, and continued to rest well every night. The Cough, Night Sweats, Raising of matter, Pain in the Lung, &c., gradually left me, and I got nearly into a strong condition after only three bottles. I am not taking it now, and I am as hearty and as well as ever I was in my life. My sister-in-law was with me for a while, who was affected with the Liver Complaint. She has taken the remedy, and is well. This certificate you may show to the world if you please.

WILLIAM STORMS,

DARE'S
Arabian Horse Liniment,
Kidderminster and Condition Powders.

I do positively guarantee to any of my patrons that the cure of Spavin, Curbs, Thick and Broken Wind, and all diseases which affect the Wind of Horses; also as a Condition Medicine, surpassing everything of the kind; is easy to give, sure to cure, and can be used in all cases and at all times, and does not put out the horse from being worked while using it.

It cleanses the breathing organs, by removing from the air-cells the congestion, through or that congestion which in Horses clogs them, causing a difficulty in breathing, and by its action on the diseased part causing the mucous membrane to resume its natural dimensions, thus equalizing the circulation of the blood, and restoring the discarded vessels to their natural size; by its use the horse's appetite is improved, all derangements of the digestive organs corrected, increasing the skin, and giving to the coat a sleek and shining appearance.

Poetry.

THE DYING MOTHER.

We were weeping round her pillow,
For we knew that she must die;
It was night within our bosoms—
It was night upon the sky!

There were seven of us children,
I the oldest one of all;
So I tried to whisper comfort,
But the blinding tears would fall.

On my knees my little brother,
Leaned his aching brow and wept,
And my sister's long black tresses
O'er my heaving bosom swept.

The shadow of an awful fear
Came o'er me as I trod.—
To lay the burden of our grief
Before the throne of God.

"Oh! be kind to one another,"
Was the mother's pleading prayer;
As her hand fell like a snow flake,
On the baby's golden hair.

Then a glory round her forehead,
Like the glory of a crown;
And in the silent sea of death
The star of life went down.

Her latest breath was borne away
Upon that loving prayer;
And the hand grew heavier—paler,
In the baby's golden hair.

Selections.

THE LADIES' PEACE.

(Concluded.)

The Duchess of Alencon then unfolded to her royal brother a project for his escape from prison, into which Francis eagerly entered.

The plan failed through the treachery of one of his attendants, who, having quarrelled with his colleague, La Rochepot, who was more fully trusted than himself, he out of revenge, denounced the plot to the Spanish authorities. Francis was, in consequence, subjected to a more rigorous confinement than before, and the Emperor Charles, understanding the share which the Duchess of Alencon had taken in arranging the matter, took measures for arresting her person as soon as the date of her safe conduct had expired; and Marguerite, while bending all the energies of her ardent character to the great object for which she had entered Spain, the deliverance of her royal brother, had been so insensible to the lapse of time, as to have arrived within two days of the limits of time perused.

She received a hasty warning of the Emperor's design from Bourbon, and having taken a hurried farewell of Francis, and received from his hands an instrument whereby he abdicated the throne of France in favor of his son the dauphin, she left Madrid privately, and travelled with such expedition, that before Charles had received certain intelligence of her flight, she was beyond the reach of his power.

After her departure Francis sunk once more into a listless state of melancholy.—His appetite failed; he refused to take air, exercise, or recreation; sleep forsook his pillow, and a dangerous relapse of fever brought on by agitation and anguish of mind, succeeded. Gattinara, the honest chancellor of the Emperor Charles, to whom the state of the royal captive was reported by the physicians, thought proper to announce it to his imperial majesty in the following blunt terms:—

'Will it please your majesty, that the last consolations of the church be administered to the King of France?'

'The last consolations of the church to Francis of Valois!' repeated the emperor in surprise; 'what next will he require?'

'Embalming and interment, if it be your imperial pleasure to grant him the favour of royal exequies,' replied Gattinara.—'The fact is, my lord, you have delayed the fulfilment of your promises so long, that in all probability Francis of Valois will get his release to-night from a higher power than yours, and you will be regarded by Europe in the light of his murderer.'

'Nay, then,' cried the emperor, 'he shall be espoused to our royal sister, Donna Eleanora, to-morrow.'

'It is the opinion of six physicians, that Francis of Valois will be wedded to another spouse before morning.'

'In that case no time is to be lost,' cried the emperor, 'or we shall not be able to claim any benefit from the treaty he has signed, not even a dowry for my sister.—Lannoy' pursued he, turning to the viceroy of Naples, with whom he was engaged in a game of chess; 'go to the Queen of Portugal, and tell her to repair, with her ladies to the Alcazar.'

'your majesty forgets that Donna Eleanora is still absent on the pilgrimage which you compelled her to undertake.'

'That is an unlucky circumstance, but not without remedy; the parties must be espoused by proxy.'

'Where shall we find a lady who can prepare herself for so important a ceremony on so short a notice?' asked Gattinara, coolly: 'Your majesty's imperial consort, and the ladies of her court, are at Toledo, consequently, you cannot select a noble maiden for the purpose of representing your illustrious sister, without great difficulty and loss of time, to say nothing of the pride and importance of the Spanish nobles in their family arrangements. And this is so extraordinary a business.'

'What is to be done, Lannoy?' said the emperor.

'Something, or nothing, it is plain,' replied the viceroy, with a sarcastic smile: 'And if I did not fear giving offence to her Majesty Donna Eleanora, I would ride off to Madrid, and receive the nuptial ring from King Francis in her name.'

'And as her proxy?' asked Gattinara, drily.

'Why not? a proxy only means a representative who expresses the consent of an absent person, which, as we all know Donna Eleanora has no objection to be silenced, I will venture to do with regard to her marriage with Francis of Valois.'

'Ride, then, with all the speed you may, Lannoy, that we may claim a dowry for my sister as his widow,' cried the emperor.

In an incredibly short period after this conversation, the feverish slumbers of the royal captive were interrupted by the entrance of a priest, who, approaching the bed, with his breviary in his hand, asked, 'if his majesty of France was disposed to enter into the holy state?'

'Not much, I confess,' replied Francis; 'however, God's will be done.—Are you about to administer to last sacrament, father?'

'There are others which, in your majesty's case, must precede that consoling ordinance, namely, matrimony and penance; and for the first of these I am come to prepare your majesty.'

'Matrimony!' cried Francis in a feeble voice; 'will you be pleased to produce the bride?'

'Don Ferdinand Alarcon,' said the priest, 'I charge you in the name of the emperor, to introduce the proxy of that illustrious lady, Donna Eleanora, the queen-dowager of Portugal, into this chamber, and to arrange everything for the immediate celebration of her majesty's nuptials with the King of France.'

'How now, Lannoy!' exclaimed Francis, as the viceroy booted and spurred, defiled with dust, and breathless with hard riding, entered the chamber; 'Is it from your hands that I am to have the honour of receiving my Spanish bride?'

'No: it is Alarcon who is to act as the deputy of our imperial lord on this occasion, and I am to have the honour of representing the illustrious bride,' replied Lannoy; 'your majesty will be graciously pleased to excuse my whiskers and spurs I hope.'

'C'est egal!' muttered the astonished bride-groom, with an expressive shrug.—The bearded representative of the bride gave an authoritive nod to the priest to commence the espousal rite, and Francis supported in his bed with pillows, allowed his trembling hand to be guided by his page, Pepin, to place the nuptial ring on the huge finger which Lannoy trust forth to receive the symbol of union between the imprisoned monarch of France, and the sister of his imperial master. At the conclusion of this farcical solemnity, Francis fell back on his pillow in a state of exhaustion, so nearly resembling death, that the proxy of his future queen rode back to Toledo, with fiery speed, to announce to Charles V. that the prediction of the physicians would assuredly be verified.

Contrary, however, to their opinions, the crisis of the fever terminated favourably, and Francis, lately, recovered from his perilous sickness. The Emperor Charles paid frequent visits during his convalescence, and the arrangements for his restoration to liberty were soon after completed. Hostages were, however, demanded by the emperor, for the fulfilment of the hard conditions of his release and the payment of his enormous ransom. These hostages were to be either the heirs of twelve of the noblest families in France, or his two sons, the dauphin, and his brother Prince Henri.

Tears rushed to the eyes of the royal victor of Marignan, when the bitter alternative was submitted to his consideration; but he replied without hesitation, 'Move own fair sons must be the victims, then; I cannot ask any of my peers to resign a father's fondest hopes to break my chains.' The young princes were accordingly conducted to the frontier town of Andaye by Marshal Dintre, and on the 18th of March, 1526, the memorable scene of the exchange of these royal children for their father, took place. Francis, guarded by Alarcon, and Lannoy, and fifty horsemen, appeared on one bank at the moment that Marshal Lantre with the dauphin and his brother, reached the other.

A barge had been moored in the mid-stream of the Bidassoa, which formed the bound of demarcation between the hostile realms of France and Spain. On the deck of this vessel, the long separated father and his sons met, and exchanged a hasty embrace, as a prelude to a yet longer parting.

'It is not meet that the foes of France should behold me in hour of weakness!' exclaimed Francis, dashing the rebel moisture from his eyes; and straining his children once more passionately to his throbbing breast, he tore himself from their caresses, leaped into the boat which had brought them to the barge, and springing to the shore, mounted his royal charger, which was in waiting for him there, waved his hand, and shouting, 'Once more a king!' rode off at head-long speed, not trusting himself to cast a backward glance towards the Bidassoa, where the boat, containing the precious pledges whom he had given for the fulfilment of the hard conditions of his release, was rapidly gliding towards the fated shores of Spain.

The first use which the enfranchised monarch made of his freedom, was to protest against the whole tenor of the treaty to which he had been induced to affix his signature, while labouring under an excess of feverish excitement; and regardless both of the matrimonial engagements into which he had entered with Donna Eleanora of Austria, and the perilous position in which his children were placed he allied himself with his former enemy, Henry VIII. of England, and took an early opportunity of declaring war against Charles. Three years of harassing campaigns, equally ruinous in their effects to the prosperity of France and Spain, succeeded; and during this period the sons of Francis were confided to the custody of Donna Eleanor the affianced bride of their father, and by her they were cherished with not less than maternal tenderness. She superintended their education with the same care which she bestowed on that of her young daughter, the infanta of Portugal, and fully succeeded in winning the affections of the youthful hostages, while she gently, but unwearidly, exerted the influence which her virtues and talents had acquired for her in her own family, in endeavouring to compose the differences between her imperial brother, and her affianced husband.

The destiny of Francis was, from the cradle to the tomb, peculiarly affected by the power of female influence. Left an orphan at the early age of three years, he was educated by his widowed mother, Louise of Savoy, whose ascendency over his affections was at times perniciously enough exercised after he came to the throne; but, on the other hand, the bright genius and energetic spirit of his high-minded and accomplished sister, Marguerite of Valois, which were ever exerted for his good, were productive of the happiest effects, both on his fortunes and on his character. It was from the clear head and brilliant imagination of the amiable princess that the felicitous idea first emanated, of referring the differences between those irreconcilable foes, Charles and Francis, to a female congress, composed of the emperor's aunt, that veteran stateswoman, the Lady Marguerite, regent of the Low Countries, Louise of Savoy, the mother of Francis, Eleanor of Austria, and herself. It was to the mildness, patience, and good feeling, exhibited by these royal diplomatistes extraordinary, that the exhausted realms of Austria, France, and Spain, were indebted for that happy termination of their hostilities, which is emphatically styled in history, 'THE LADIES' PEACE.'

It was on the 5th of August, 1529, nearly three years and a half from the day when Francis I. regained his liberty at the price of re-signing his sons into the hands of his his ungenerous rival, that a scene not less interesting than that which we have previously described, took place on the bosom of the watery boundar between France and Spain, where they Constable Montmorenci gave the sealed casse containing the money stipulated for the ransom of Francis and his sons. The illustrious party landed at Bordeaux, and Eleanora, still wearing the dress of a royal widow, entered, with a fluttering heart, the presence of her long wedded, but as yet unknown lord, leading, in either hand, the princely heir of France and his brother, who, but for gentle, but powerful mediation, would, in all probability have been doomed to life-long captivity in a Spanish fortress.

Francis rose from his chair of state, and advanced to pay his first compliments to his Spanish bride rather with the formal courtesy of a royal act of ceremony, than the alacrity of a lover.

'I bring your majesty a dowry more precious than both the Indies;' said Donna Eleanora, presenting his two sons to Francis; 'and all I ask of you in return for the three years of maternal care which I have bestowed upon them, is, that you should regard me, not as the sister of your foe, but as the happy instrument of restoring your children to your arms.'

'If that sweet voice do not deceive my ear, I have long regarded you with tenderer feelings still,' exclaiming Francis with sudden animation.

'Come, my fair sister, it is time to elucidate the mystery,' said the Duchess of Alencon, removing the veil which had hitherto enveloped the person of the royal bride, and revealing to the eager gaze of her king and brother, the well-remembered features of the lady who had visited him in the Alcazar; and Francis bending his knee before his blushing consort, exclaimed: 'My wife and my queen, behold how faithfully I have worn my chains!' He opened his embroidered pourpoint as he spoke, and pointed to the glittering links that she had thrown about his neck on the eventful evening when she availed herself of the Duchess of Alencon's pass to obtain an interview with the captive monarch, who had been a suitor to her brother for her hand.

The scheme had been devised between Donna Eleanor and Marguerite of Valois, but the circumstance having been betrayed by Alarcon to the emperor Charles, had exposed the fair Dowager of Portugal to a severe reproach, and to the sentence of a pilgrimage to Gaudaloupe, as a punishment for the bold step she had ventured, and also as prevention to any future meetings between her and her affianced lord. On the following day, the marriage of Francis and Eleanor was celebrated at Bourdeaux with great pomp, and was hailed by the war-worn people of France as the last auspicious seal of 'THE LADIES' PEACE.'

Synod of the Canada Presbyterian Church.

MARRIAGE WITH DECEASED WIFE'S SISTER.

(From the Globe.)

The Synod then took up the appeal of Mr. John Cunningham against a finding of the London Presbytery. The appellant, it appears, had been suspended by the Kirk Session from the privileges of the Church, on account of his having married his deceased wife's sister, that being contrary to the laws of the Church. Mr. Cunningham appealed to the Presbytery, but that body confirmed the decision, hence the present appeal. The Synod called upon the parties to appear at the bar, and first asked the appellant to state the grounds of his appeal.

Mr. CUNNINGHAM admitted that his act was contrary to the doctrine of the Confession of Faith, but, as he believed, not contrary to the teaching of the Bible. On that he took his stand. He did not blame the Session or the Presbytery for their decisions, for they had no option but to follow the teaching of the Confession; but as it was competent for the Synod to deal with the merits of the law itself, he had brought the case to the Synod. He said that whether he was right or wrong, he had acted conscientiously.

The appellant is a respectable looking man and addressed the Synod in a calm and respectful manner.

Rev. Mr. Kemp, on behalf of the Presbytery, said that in confirming the decision of the Session they had simply done their duty. They could not do otherwise without contravening the standards of the Church.

After some further discussion,

Rev. Mr. Ross asked if Mr. Cunningham had consulted any one as to the testimony of Scripture in the matter, and whether it was a minister of the Church that married him.

Mr. CUNNINGHAM answered in the affirmative to both questions.

After some other questions, the parties were removed from the bar.

Rev. Mr. McLAUGHLIN, of Ayr, thought that the Synod had no other conclusion to come to than to confirm the finding the Presbytery in the matter. He moved that the Synod dismiss the appeal and confirm the finding.

Rev. Mr. FERRIE seconded the motion.

Rev. Mr. GREEN had no doubt but that the motion would carry, but he rose to speak because the standards of the Church had been impugned, and it was well that there should be some discussion on the matter. As the appellant had been allowed to quote from the standards of the Church, and speak of them as not in accordance with Scripture, it was only right that few remarks should be made in reply. It might be taken as a principle, that what was wrong in one sex, as to the degrees of affinity within which it was lawful to marry, was wrong in the other. If it could be shown that it was wrong for a man to marry his aunt, it followed that it was wrong for a woman to marry her uncle, in the absence of any express statement to the contrary. This was the principle on which the confession proceeded. On the same principle, if it was wrong for a woman to marry her husband's brother, it was wrong for a man to marry his wife's sister. There could be no doubt that the Scriptures laid down that it was wrong for a woman to marry her husband's brother, except in one specified case, which only proved the rule. Certain passages of Scripture bore directly on the point—one or two of which he would mention. In the 18th chapter of Leviticus it was said, "Thou shalt not uncover the nakedness of thy brother's wife, for it is thy brother's nakedness." In the 20th chapter of the same book it was said, "If a man take his brother's wife it is an unclean thing." That could not mean merely while the brother was living, but when dead. And according to the principle that what was wrong in one sex in respect to marriage affinities was wrong in the other, it was wrong for a woman to marry her sister's husband.

Rev. Mr. Stevenson thought it was a dangerous ground to go on to judge entirely according to the Confession of Faith in this matter. The Session would be perfectly in order in doing that—being an inferior Court; but when it came before the Synod, he thought they should discuss not, merely what the Confession of Faith said but what the Scripture taught, since they had supreme power in the matter. They should be prepared, when such cases came before them, not only to say that such was in the Confession, but to reiterate their faith in that standard. They did wrong to themselves and to Mr. Cunningham, if they did not say not only that the principle he had violated was the principle they had been guided by, but that it was the principle they were prepared to be guided by now. If he were in the position of Mr. Cunningham, he would think that a grievous wrong was done him if any Church should say not that they condemned him on just grounds, but on grounds on which they were accustomed to proceed. They should say that they believed the Session had given its decision on Scriptural grounds, and was right in depriving the appellant of Church privileges. He moved that the decision of the Synod be postponed till the discussion was had on the overture from the Presbytery of Paris. (Hear, hear, and applause). The speaker went on to contend that because a man differed from them in opinion on some point of belief or practice that was not of itself necessarily good reason for placing them out of their communion. The point might be of such a nature as to make it necessary to do so it might not, but each case should be left for discussion upon its own merits.

Rev. Dr. Ferrie seconded the motion.

Rev. Mr. Burns differed with Mr. Stevenson. He was happy to hear Mr. Stevenson say that they had something more to do than to lay down hard and rugged expressions of law, but maintain and assert their principles. But he could not reconcile that with a proposal to suspend the decision of the Synod on the matter in question. Besides, what were they voted there to do! To legislate! No, but just to execute law and decide its meaning. If there had been any doubt as to the rule of the Church in the case in question, then there might be reason to suspend the decision of the Synod; but there had been no such doubt expressed. He was not going to object to discussions on matters so vital, providing that they acted on the principle laid down by the Church.—Dr. Burns went on to say that the rule of the Church forbidding a man to marry his wife's sister, was in accordance with the laws of God and man, and was one worthy of God and worthy of the moral support of man. A suspension of decision of the Synod was urged because the future decision on the overture of the Paris Presbytery might enable them to retain the members of the body who had violated the laws of God and of the Church. Once admit the principle which he had advocated and they would strip away everything which guarded marriage. It might be said that it was a very slight matter to make noise about; but he thought it very important, and was sorry to see great lenity of opinion in the Church respecting it, both among the laity and the ministry.—He submitted that the motion of Mr Stevenson was out of order.

Rev. Mr. Ross said that if they agreed with Mr. Stevenson's motion they would lay down a precedent for all future time when important cases came up in which a violation of the laws of the Church had taken place. What would be the result? Would they not then invite breaches of the law? No article of faith would be safe. Even the most vital principles of Christianity might be assailed.

Rev. Mr. Mitchell said that Rev. Mr Stevenson's principle was, when a case of this kind came up, to state Scripture grounds on which their decision was based. If that were acted upon, any member of the Church who chose to call into question any point of belief or practice could raise a discussion and, forsooth, they must go over the whole ground again for the satisfaction of the dissentient.

Rev. Mr. Fernie, the seconder of Mr. Stevenson's amendment, said that he was surprised to hear Dr Burns express the views that he had. When he seconded Mr. Stevenson's motion, he had understood that it proposed to suspend action till the overture from Paris came up and the whole question was discussed, and he certainly thought that Mr. Stevenson was not by any means out of order in asking the Synod to suspend its action till then. He did not advocate the suspension of action from any sympathy with Mr. Cunningham's views, but the action of the Synod would appear a most extraordinary one if it decided against the appellant when a matter was coming on which would bring on a discussion on the question of faith.

Rev. Mr. McTavish would exceedingly deplore the result if the motion of Mr. Stevenson was carried. He held that it was not competent for them to delay action till a positive law of the Church might possibly be revised. It would have, too, an air of vacillation and best nary to do so, and he would beg to remind the Synod that it could not make of itself any alteration in the confession of the Church. It had been decided at any such alteration must be sent down to the Presbyteries before taking effect. They were not acting as legislators but only in a judicial capacity.

Rev. Mr. Tolmie moved the previous question.

Mr. Stevenson's amendment being put, 49 hands were held up for it.

On the motion of McLaughlin being put, a much larger number of hands were held up.

The votes being called for, the main motion was sustained by a majority of 138 to 5.

The parties to the appeal were recalled to the bar, and the moderator announced to them the decision of the Synod, viz that the appeal be dismissed, and the decision of the Session sustained.

Rev. Mr. Palmer said that he had performed the ceremony of marriage between Mr. Cunningham and his bride, not knowing the relationship between the parties. Mr. Cunningham, he believed, had acted conscientiously in the matter, and was strongly attached to the Presbyterian Church. Were they going to send him away from them with an outpouring sin upon his back?

The Moderator said Mr. Palmer was out of order.

OTTAWA, June 6.—An Order-in-Council has been passed, appointing the 1st of July, the day upon which the Queen's Proclamation constituting the Dominion of Canada comes into operation, a national holiday and day of general rejoicing throughout the Royal Dominion. The entire Volunteer force of the four Provinces will assemble in their respective districts, and a Royal salute and feu de joie will be fired by them. Each member of the forces turned out will be entitled to a day's pay.

There will be a separate portfolio in the new Privy Council for the Minister of Militia, or Minister of War, or whatever his title may be. He will have charge of the entire Militia and Volunteer force of the Dominion, to be assisted by a Deputy Minister. The Adjutant-General and Deputy Adjutant General will, as at present, be under his control. His Department will be one of the largest under the new form of Government.

Rideau Hall, the residence of Viceroy Dorn Monck, is rapidly approaching completion and will be ready for his Excellency when he returns. An observatory is erected over the tower of the old building. The new conservatory is in excellent order, and the grounds and approaches show that immense labor has been expended. Over four thousand ornamental trees have been planted since last fall.

Arrangements have been made with the British Government to exchange thirty thousand of the arms now in Canada for thirty thousand of Snider's Enfield breech-loading rifles. The former will be called in and the breech-loaders served out to the volunteers throughout the Province, as soon as practicable after their arrival from England. The consignment is expected daily.

It is also stated that an Order-in-Council has been passed, directing the purchase of 500,000 rounds of ammunition for the breech-loading rifles for the use of our volunteers.

IRELAND.—There appears to be danger of another Irish famine, particularly in the western part of the island. A Catholic priest writes that "there is at present a distress of a most alarming nature, and which, if not met at once, and relieved, will place before our eyes some such heart-rending scenes of starvation as we witnessed in the former years of famine." The writer says he has seen numbers of people who have not tasted food for two days.

The Peterborough Examiner

THURSDAY, JUNE 13, 1861.

Politics are dull just now. The No party men have not yet brought out a No party man, nor are they likely to do so.

After Saturday there will be some action taken towards bringing out a Reform Candidate for the West Riding. One thing is certain that action is required, and we trust that the members of the committee will strain a point to come out. There should be a Reform Association in the County, and Saturday would be a very good day to consider the matter after other business is completed.

In the East Riding matters are about as they were. Mr. Choate has sent in his resignation, saying that he does not wish to be a candidate and giving his reasons for so doing. This will necessitate another meeting of Delegates, which should be attended to immediately. The County Council will sit next week, and the Reeves from the back country will be down, and it would be well to have a meeting while they are down.—Their advice and co-operation would be of value. The election may not be till August, but July and August are busy times to call meetings. It should be done at once.

GRAVEL ROADS.

The subject of comfort has to be lost sight of in almost every new country, to give way to the more imperative demands of necessity. The early settler has to be satisfied with many things that are grievous because unable to remove the burden or procure anything better. One of the great drawbacks of a new country is bad roads, but for a season this has to be borne, until necessities are obtained, then comes the desire for luxuries. There can be no doubts in the mind of any one who travels through this County in spring and fall in regard to the necessity for better roads—to the back country we cannot get during several months of the year, nor can they get out here,—shut out by the narrow waters of Mud Lake and Pigeon Creek, and we might also say impassable roads. The people of Douro are compelled to wade through mud to the horses' bellies every time they come to town. Dummer is as bad, and Otonabee no better. The large and wealthy Township of Asphodel is completely shut in for about three months in the year from the fact that our approaches are complete quagmires during that period. Norwood, War aw, Alnadale and Keene, are left without means of approaching their own county town, while a trifling expense would afford them the luxury of good roads at all seasons of the year. Douro has seen her position and is taking some steps to mend her ways; they are preparing to expend some sixteen thousand dollars on their roads; this if properly laid out should give them at least one good road through the whole Township.—Very little more would extend a good road through Dummer if the people act together. There is an imperative necessity for a gravel road to Norwood, Belmont and Marmora, and something should be done even this year towards that object. Already the Marmora railway is within five miles of Norwood; travellers now see directing their attention that way. Cobourg, and the reshipping of goods only, prevents the trade of the east part of the County going that way instead of coming by Peterborough as usual. Now, if Cobourg but puts forth her efforts and removes the obstacles in but a slight degree, she will snatch from us what we would enjoy if not supine; but let us once get a good gravel road to the east and we are secure. In fact the people require it for their own comfort, and we cannot see how the County Council can refuse it much longer. A leading road to Norwood, with a branch to Keene and a continuation to Hastings, is needed for the comfort of the people in those localities, something which they will not much longer delay themselves. The expense of course is an obstacle, but the expense will be more than counterbalanced by the increased value of property.

Land in Cavan and South Monaghan sells at $40 to $60 per acre if good and in the neighborhood of good roads. Land in Otonabee and Asphodel equally as good will not bring much over half that price, and the only assignable cause is, that the first mentioned townships have good roads, while the others have not. But independent of this, the people of this County can now afford themselves a little comfort; they have long enough toiled and suffered in clearing up their farms and improving. Surely they will now bestir themselves and obtain the luxury we may say, but in reality the necessity of good gravel roads.

FIRE.

Tuesday about one o'clock the stable in rear of the Globe Hotel (worse than that) was discovered on fire. The firemen promptly turned out, but the flames were determined to eat it up, and they wisely submitted. It was not worth much. The cinders, however, from it were carried far enough to set fire to Tenny's Livery Stables, but this was discovered and put out without damage. The cinders also fell around Mr. Stevenson's dwelling and stables, but were supposed to have done no harm. At ten o'clock, p. m., fire was discovered in Mr. Stevenson's sheds or stables, and before water could be obtained the whole stables and sheds of Mr. Stevenson and the sheds of Mr. Doherty's waggon shop were wrapt in flames. The engine was got to work as soon as possible but the fire was so great that all that was done had but little other effect than preventing the extensive spread of the flames. Mr. Doherty's dwelling appeared for a while in danger and Mr. Graham's also, but the timely removal of sheds and the application of water saved these. The sheds of the Baptist Church had also to be pulled away to prevent the fire going in that direction. Ryan's tannery too was in considerable danger, but the exertions of the Firemen and citizens succeeded in confining the flames to the sheds and stables in the block where it originated. Fortunately the night was calm; had there been a wind in any direction there would have been an immense loss of property. As it is, Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Doherty are the great losers. Mr. Stevenson's loss consists in the destruction of his sheds, stables and fire wood in a great degree. Insured for $400. Mr. Doherty's loss is principally lumber and one shed. Insured for $600. The cinder of this fire extended to Patterson's tannery, and actually burned a hole in the roof, but it was detected and a ladder being obtained was put out easily.

There never was greater evidence of the necessity of another fire engine. Had there been two engines, much that is now lost would have been saved. As it was, while one part was being saved much valuable property was lost in a different place, as it was impossible to be on both sides at the same time. As it is, it is fortunate that a greater loss did not accrue. As is usual at all those fires there were many lookers-on who did nothing, nor would they; it the by-law was enforced in two or three cases there would be fewer idlers or else fewer in the way.

RAILWAY EXTENSION.

In our last we referred to the agitation that was at work to bring about an extension of our railway system and increased communication with the North. This agitation has now taken a tangible shape in public meetings, and there is a strong desire towards extending to Mud Lake. There can be no doubt in regard to the wisdom of doing something to secure the trade of the back part of the county, as well as procure the transit of the manufactured lumber by way of Peterborough. Any labour carried on back of this town must procure supplies here provided that this be the base of operations, but if Lindsay become the base, then, of course, from Lindsay the supplies will be drawn.—Hence the wisdom of immediate action.—Transit by Peterborough is at other than by Lindsay; the tow work is with the current and general direction of the prevailing winds.—The advantages, therefore, are all on our side if we only had a road to Mud Lake.—The direction of the trade would also prove the direction of the supplies of all the back country, and hence the wisdom of action.—There are complaints of the tariff as the present road; this the directors should not ignore, for had it not been for these complaints there would have been no movement. If the cause of complaint remains it may eventuate in the reconstruction of the Cobourg road, for it drives the business men to seek relief in that way. This the Directors of the Branch to Millbrook should guard against.

The extension to Mud Lake is a different matter; it is needed, no matter what the tariff is, to secure the continuation of prosperity to Peterborough.

As to the means necessary to construct the road, Peterborough should do something to aid the work, the Lumbermen should act liberally, and the Townships on the line of road should do something. The Town should do her part, for it would secure her the back trade; the Lumber Merchant should come forward and do his part, for he would receive a shorter and cheaper route, shorter by 15 to 20 miles, and cheaper 50 to 70 cents per 1,000 feet; and the Farmer, too, is interested, he receives good prices and a ready sale for all he can produce. The Peterboro market is his best market, as is shown by farmers coming from South Monaghan and Cavan who used to deal all in Port Hope. And his property is rendered more valuable by being in the vicinity of a good market.—Something should soon be done, and the first meeting on Wednesday may devise or set on foot some scheme that will secure to the Town and County continued prosperity.

Grammar School.

There has been no meeting of the Grammar and Union School Board on Tuesday, reason—no quorum. There has been no quorum for some time, hence no meeting. Will the absenting ones remember that they are under obligation to be present. There is now important business to be brought before the Board but nothing can be done through the negligence of a few of its members.

We invite the attention of the Committee appointed at the late Reform meeting in Peterboro to the fact that there will be a meeting on Saturday, at 2 o'clock, p. m., over the Post Office.

Sunday School Anniversary.

The Anniversary Services of the Bible Christian Sunday School will be on Sunday and Monday next. See large bills. There will be a Temperance Meeting on Tuesday evening in the Bible Christian Church.

LIFE AND WORKS OF ROBERT BURNS.—In another column will be found the prospectus of a new book with the above title. It is intended to be completed in 17 parts. The first numbers have been received, and judging from the appearance of the number, it will be a very handsome and at the same time very valuable work. Few writers have so won the affections of their countrymen as this sweet Scotish Bard has done, and very few indeed have had the gift of enchanting by their song in the same degree.—Graham & Stratton have been appointed sole agents for this county and are ready to supply the work in monthly parts at the publisher's price—50 cents a number. Every Scot should at once avail himself of the opportunity of supplying himself with a copy of the work.

Synod of the Canada Presbyterian Church.

SUGGESTED QUESTION.—During the session of the Synod of the Canada Presbyterian Church now being held at Toronto, the despatch question, "may a man marry his deceased wife's sister," was brought up in the case of one Cunningham who had done so, and on account thereof had been suspended by the session; the decision was sustained by the Presbytery and appealed, and hence its discussion in the Synod. Mr. Cunningham admitted the act, and also that it was contrary to the teaching of the confession of faith; but he believed not contrary to the Scripture or teaching of the Bible, but said whether right or wrong he had acted conscientiously. We give a short report from the Globe of the discussion in the Synod. This subject is a disputed one, and one not likely to be easily settled in a perfectly satisfactory manner, as some will hold that there is some meaning in the words, "in her life time," right or wrong they may be. The Synod saw no other proper course but to confirm the doctrines taught in the confession of faith, and meet assuredly while they are the teachings of the church, her members should be obedient thereto.

ORGANS IN THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—This subject was also brought up at the Synod. Some time ago an organ was introduced into Knox Church, Montreal, which led to bringing the matter before the Presbytery. The Church refused to receive a committee appointed by the Presbytery.—This body gave a verdict against the organ, and the result was an appeal to the Synod. Several members of the church appeared to advocate the cause of the organ, a few members of the Montreal Presbytery appearing against it. The leading arguments in its favor were: that instrumental music was not forbidden in the Bible; that it helped the worship of God; that the people at large were in favor of it; that at all large gatherings of children it was allowed, and as influence good; that other denominations used instrumental music, and if Presbyterians did not the other denominations would obtain an ascendancy; that there should be more liberty in matters indifferent, and that a unanimous congregation should not be compelled to forego; that without it the young of our congregation were liable to be lost from this cause; it was a guiding power for the whole assembly; it gathered in the unconverted to hear, and they heard the truth at the same time, and hence was a means of attracting sinners to hear the word of God. Arguments against it were: it would cause heart-burnings in the churches; it had no authority in the New Testament; singing and making melody in your hearts was the statement of scriptures; there was no such thing in the early church; that the church had no discretionary powers to introduce ceremonies, to do so was superstition or sacrilege; that it was only to feed pride, not for worship; that hankering after instruments indicated a want of spirituality or experimental religion; that while it pleased the ear of some, it grieved the conscience of others.

The organ gained the day, or rather gained a year's trial as on motion of Mr. King, the overture to remove it was not received but sent down to sessions, Presbyteries to report thereon at next Synod. It will eventually gain the day completely, for pride will be gratified even at the expense of religion.

Young Men's Christian Association.

We would invite the attention of our young men to the propriety of forming an association for their own benefit and also for the benefit of others. In almost all the cities there are evidences of this sort, also from a report of one now before us they are the means of much good. Some of the smaller towns, too, have their "Young Men's Christian Association." It would certainly be a great boon to young men if such an undertaking could be successfully worked among us. It would afford a place where an hour could be spent in useful and religious readings, and where young men who will have a place of recreation could spend their leisure hours instead of in some saloon or tavern, or perhaps some place worse—some den of vice. Surely there are young men enough in Peterborough to get up an association here. The work is worth an effort, and if successful would prove a blessing to those already inclined to the ways of truth, as well as to those who might be induced to turn in from frequenting the paths of folly and dissipation.

The New Dominion.

The first of July is to be a holiday. On that day Canada will be the name of the united provinces, and Upper Canada or Canada West will be exchanged to Ontario. Lower Canada or Canada East for Quebec, and British America will assume the form of a nation. If the future is to be more progressive and happy than the past, there is then cause for rejoicing, but if the mismanagement of the past is to continue, our joy will be of short duration. Let us, however, raise no dismal tones or cheerless anticipations yet. It is time enough for trouble when it forces itself upon us. Much of our future weal or woe depends on our exertions; if our new ship be guided wisely, there need be no fear of shipwreck.

An Attempt to Shoot the Czar of Russia.

The Czar has been at the great national exhibition, and while riding with the Emperor of France, some one in the crowd fired at the royal carriage; first it was thought with intent on the life of Napoleon, but latest accounts say the life of the Czar was intended. The following is the telegram on the matter:

NEW YORK, June 8th.—The Herald's Paris special says:—The Moniteur in its official account of the attempted assassination says:—The ball struck the horse of one of the Imperial grooms who was riding at the door of the carriage. The people in the ground threatened the life of the assassin, and the police intervened. The man says his name is Beregonski, and that he is a native of Volhynia. The Gazette des Tribunaux says the ball passed between Napoleon and one of the sons of the Czar of Russia, wounding a lady who was standing opposite to see the cortege pass. The man, immediately on his arrest, said he came from Belgium for the purpose of killing the Czar, and had no accomplices. La Presse says:—Letters of congratulation to Napoleon have been extensively signed in the several towns, and it is believed will become general. The Americans will to-morrow present an address to the Czar. In the Corps Legislatif to-day the President made a speech complimenting the attempt at assassination, and expressing his sympathy with the august guests. His sentiments were loudly cheered. The assassin was examined to-day. He spoke with calmness, and gave his history. He is a cooper, an infrequent jerker. He was asked, how could you fire at a sovereign, the guest of France? He replied with tears:—True, I committed a great crime towards France. But you ran the risk of killing Napoleon. To this the prisoner answered, no; a Polish bullet could not go astray; it must go straight, when aimed at the Czar. I wished to relieve the world of the Czar, and the Czar of the remorse which must weight upon him.—The prisoner showed no sorrow for the crime, and expressed regret at his failure. A magnificent ball was given at the Russian embassy the same evening. The Czar, with his sons and the Emperor and Empress of France were present.

RAILWAY MEETING.

On Monday evening there was a large and influential meeting in Caisse's Hotel, to take into consideration the present state of Railway communication with this town.

Col. Hamilton was called to the chair and Robert Ramsay, Esq., to act as secretary.

We were not present at this early part of the meeting, not being aware of it until it was in progress, but learned that

J. Dumble, Esq., of Cobourg, by request, addressed the meeting at some length, merely as an individual, with no authority from Cobourg or the Cobourg Company. He showed that the cost of reconstructing the Cobourg road would be about $200,000, or about $250,000 to continue the road to Mud Lake, which appears to be the intention of the present agitation. He also remarked, that Cobourg was ready to do a share in the work and a good share, if the people of Peterboro came forward and aided, as they should.

D. W. Dumble, Esq., also addressed the meeting at some length on the wisdom of extending the road to Mud Lake, as thereby we would secure the trade of the back country. He remarked that about 36,000,000 feet of lumber were cut on the back waters that would find its way to the front by this road if it were constructed, and it was a matter of no small interest to the town. That if we did not do something, ere long, our town would go back instead of forward, and that the trade that should naturally find its way to Peterboro would go to Lindsay; that if they would allow the lumber merchants to remove their establishments from the town because of insufficient means of getting away their manufactured lumber, or allow them to suffer under present oppressive tariffs, so that they would be compelled to remove, as A. H. Campbell & Co. meditated, they would find their trade gone, their stores empty, their taxes a burden, and few to pay them. He also referred to the fact that the trade of Peterboro was dependent on the lumber trade in no small degree, that the cost of manufacture, at least, amounted to 4 or 500,000 dollars yearly, no small item in the trade of a town.

The following items were also given as the amount likely to pass over this new road, but how finds its way through Lindsay:

Manufactured at Buckhorn,	8,000,000
" Scott's Mills,	6,000,000
" Boyd's, Squaw R.	4,000,000
" " Bobcaygeon,	6,000,000
" Fenelon Falls,	8,000,000
" other Mills,	4,000,000
Total	36,000,000

Ashburnham was called on for an opinion and Councillor Sutherland answered, remarking that he wished to be silent as he might appear an interested party. But he thought that if the town could once afford $140,000 to get an opposition road when the trade was not over one-tenth of what it is now, surely they could now afford to do something to get another road. As to Ashburnham, he was sure she would do her share. It was certain something required to be done. The present railway accommodation was not sufficient, for no matter how willing the company might be to accommodate the traders, they had not rolling stock to do it satisfactorily, as one of our merchants, Mr. Clinton, had assured him (Mr. S.) that he had lost $5,000 in one year from their not being able to accommodate him with an extra train in proper time. He (Mr. S.) knew that something must be done, and he could assure them that Ashburnham would not be behind in doing her part.

Messrs. Dunlop and R. D. Rogers also said that Ashburnham was ready and would no doubt do her share when required. Mr. Rogers remarking that he was willing to do his part to the road.

Mr. M. Miller remarked that the action of the present Lessee compelled them to do something to protect themselves.

It was then moved by Mr. Miller, seconded by Mr. Campbell,—That in the opinion of this meeting the time has come when the interests of this town imperatively demand the reconstruction of the Cobourg and Peterborough Railway, and that the demands of our trade will justify the Town of Peterboro in advancing pecuniary aid to effect the same.

The chairman expressed desire to hear the view of any one present who might be opposed to the road.

Mr. Renthorn said he was opposed to taxing the people until the old liabilities were paid off. The old railroad had not realized all its promises promised; and, now, when the lessee had us in his power, he was doing what Mr. Fowler had done before him—raising the tariff. He referred to the old process of coming by the Otonabee and wondered why it could not be done now. It was all well for some men to vote to increase our taxes; those men were here to-day but where would they be next year, they would be no where, and he hoped they would hold up their other hand to keep down the taxes that the property owners had to pay. He had stores life, no one in them. (A voice—your tenants have gone to Lindsay.) Cobourg had built gravel roads, plank roads and rail roads, until the grass was growing up to their doors.

R. Hamilton remarked that Mr. Renthorn's stores were the only ones empty in the town, and wondered why his private speculation didn't pay.

The following resolutions were then put and carried:—

Moved by William Eastland, seconded by Robert Hamilton,—That it is desirable that speedy action be taken to bring the matter of aiding in the reconstruction of the Cobourg and Peterborough Railway before the people of this town for their consideration, and for that purpose that the Mayor of this town be requested to call a public meeting at an early day.

Moved by William Coulter, seconded by Mr. Menzies,—That increased Railway extension would inure to the benefit of all the adjoining Townships—giving more competition in the market, and cheaper shipment to the front, thus securing to the farmer larger prices for their produce; that as the Townships would thus receive the greatest benefit, they should assist in furthering the work by pecuniary advancement, and that it is desirable to ask the adjoining Municipalities and the Lumbermen to assist in bearing the cost of increased Railway facilities.

Moved by John Carnegie, seconded by Mr. Kempt,—That the following be a Committee to take the conduct of the proposed public meeting, and that they be requested to invite the manufacturers of the County and the officers of the adjoining corporations to attend it:—

W. A. Scott, H. Strickland, Melville Millar, James Campbell, A. W Kempt, W. Coulter, D. W. Dumble, Lieut.-Col. Haultain, G. Stetham, R. Hamilton, J. Carnegie, George Hilliard, George Cox, William Eastland, Chas. Campbell, J. T. Heathorn, and W. Hamilton.

In the meantime, H. T. Strickland directed attention to the fact, that the posts by Peterboro was nearer by 18 miles than by Lindsay; he also remarked that farmers were interested in the roads and thought they should do something to aid the project of work, and thought they should be called on to that effect.

The meeting then broke up. We may add that there appears to be a general sympathy with the movement and a strong desire to do something to retain the trade of the back part of the county. There were about 100 of the leading merchants and property holders present, and the greatest unanimity prevailed.

There will be a public meeting on Wednesday evening next on the subject, in the old Town Hall.

They also submitted this Report:

The Finance Committee to whom was referred the Auditor's Report for the past year, have pleasure in saying that they were much struck with the care bestowed in preparing the same, and with the lucid arrangements of the several accounts, which shows in a clear and comprehensive manner the position of the corporation and the Town Commissioners' affairs on the 31st December, 1860.

In the statement of the assets of the Town the Commissioners notice several accounts and balances due to the Town for fines, &c. which are apparently good, and which should have been collected. Your Committee therefore respectfully recommend that the Clerk be instructed to have the same put in shape without delay.

The Committee recommend that the Abstract of the Detailed Statement of the Receipts and Disbursement, for the year ending 31st December, 1860, be printed and distributed for the information of the Taxpayers.

That the Town Clerk, J. Edwards, Esq., do act as Police Magistrate in addition to his office of Town Clerk, and that his salary for such offices be at the rate of $ per annum, commencing on the first day of July, next.

Your Committee further recommend that the sum of $ be granted to the Mayor as compensation for his services in the Police Court.

Your Committee recommend that no moneys hereafter paid by the Town Treasurer until a warrant has been given by the Chairman of the Finance Committee for the same, and that all cheques or orders on the Treasurer shall state on what account or otherwise the same is payable.

Your Committee recommend lastly, that the duties of the Town Treasurer shall simply be to keep the Cash account, receive deposits, make payments, and render to the Council a monthly statement of his account, made up to the end of each month. That the Clerk shall keep the Non-residents account for Taxes in arrear, sell lands, and attend to correspondence connected with the Treasurer's Office in addition to his other duties as Town Clerk and Police Magistrate, and also render a monthly statement of the Cash and other matters appertaining to these offices to the Council.

Railway Monopoly.

To the Editor of the Peterborough Examiner.

SIR,—From the report of the large and influential meeting of citizens which was held on Monday evening, in regard to Railway matters, it is quite apparent that this DEAD set desire for a change of some kind, which will relieve us from the present unjust monopoly, and at the same time place up continued communication with the front.

The scheme for railway communication to Chemong Lake is certainly one which must eventually be carried out, if the inhabitants, particularly property owners, of Peterboro, are at all alive to their own interest; however, that subject will probably be fully discussed on the approaching general meeting called by the Mayor.

My immediate object in encroaching on your valuable space, is to give one of many illustrations, which can be brought forward to shew that the business men of Peterboro are imposed upon with an exorbitant and unjust tariff.

I have perceived this week 2 car loads of bar iron containing 10 tons each which were loaded at Montreal by the Grand Trunk Railway, and brought to Port Hope for a freight of $3 5 (ample sufficient, you will admit); but when our favorite railway takes hold of those same cars to draw them to Peterboro, one-tenth of the distance, and no loading or handling to perform, I have to "pay the piper" to the tune of $5, or $25 per car. Those same cars are again loaded here and taken to Port Hope with Grain or flour at a fraction over one half the rate laid on iron coming in; the justice, or propriety, of which I fail to comprehend.

Last fall, when I was similarly imposed upon, I went to Port Hope for the purpose of asking some abatement or redress from the Worthy Superintendent of the road; but sir, my pain by that operation was the loss of my passage to Port Hope and half a day's time thrown away. In this instance, Mr. Clinton, who is a director of the road, I must say, at once admitted that the charges were altogether out of all and kindly offered to intercede for me at Port Hope, but on his return informed me, that he was not successful.

Now, Mr. Editor, the next similar lot of freight which I receive, I shall have brought from Port Hope with teams over the common road, as, from a calculation which I have just made, I find I can save money by it, and teams could earn $4 00 per day, working at the railway tariff rates. Surely this state of things ought not to exist, and if there is any legitimate means of having a change brought about, by all means let us take advantage of it.

In conclusion, Mr. Editor, I would ask you if you can inform the public by what authority the railway company has introduced the new tariff now in existence, or whether the town has lost all controlling voice in the matter. I have been inquiring from parties who ought to know, and am informed that the company has neither right nor authority to advance on the old tariff. Can you enlighten us?

I am, Sir,
Yours respectfully,
MELVILLE MILLAR.

Peterboro, June 12, 1861.

The Kingston Daily News (Conservative) has the following:

"The Globe objects to the proposed demonstration by the Toronto City Council to the Hon John A Macdonald, and in language that is not very definite implies that the City Council of King ton paid honours to Mr. Macdonald which it denied to the other delegates to England in this the Globe is mistaken. The City Council here very properly refrained from an act which would be construed as a piece of party politics, for it was the proposed address to be given to Toronto is contained. A few members wished to vote an address and have the City Council wait upon Mr Macdonald in a body and they concurred privately with this end in view. The result of their counsels was such that the matter was never mooted in Council. The course was objected to by men of both sides in politics, and a majority was found to agree in the all important point, that it would be well to keep politics and political demonstrations from occupying the attention of the Council. Such a view will of course meet with the approval of the Globe; and we have no doubt, when better informed, it will at once withdraw an unfounded assertion cast upon the City Council of Kingston."

We quite understood that the address presented to Mr J ho A. Macdonald by the Mayor of Kingston was not authorized by the City Council; and we did not intend to imply that the demonstration at that city in honour of the Attorney-General was the work of the City Council. We were simply remarking the fact, that while the Tories are professing the no-party doctrine, they have managed, at Kingston, Montre l, Ottawa and Toronto, to offer the honour of public receptions and addresses only to the Tory section of the Cabinet. Macdonald, Mr McGee and Mr. Cartier have been honoured in this way, but "the Reform element" in the delegation of England has been systematically ignored by the Tory manufacturers of complimentary addresses. The Tories are begging most piteously for a coalition, and for the blotting out of party lines, but they will not forget party lines, even in so paltry a manner as that of presenting complimentary addresses to public men. If they cannot hide their party feelings any better than that before the elections, how will they treat Reformers after the voting is over, and the no-party dodge has served its purpose?—Globe.

JEFF. DAVIS.—It is said that the cause of Mr. Davis seeking so much seclusion is owing to the lack of a league having been formed for the purpose of giving him no rest or peace so long as he is on Federal soil; to hunt him to death. The league is called "the Andersonville League," and consists of soldiers who were imprisoned during the war.

Over a Million Dollars Saved!

Gentleman:—"I had a negro man worth $1,200 who took cold from a bad hurt in the leg, and was useless for over a year. I had used everything I could hear of without benefit, until I tried the Mexican Mustang Liniment—It soon effected a permanent cure."

It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man and beasts, than any article ever discovered. Families, livery-men and painters should always have it on hand. Quick and sure it certainly is. All genuine is wrapped in steel-plate engravings, bearing the signature of G. W. Westbrook Chemist, and the private U. S. stamp of Demas Barnes & Co over the top.

An effort has been made to counterfeit it with a cheap stone plate label. Look closely!

LIFE AND WORKS OF ROBERT BURNS,

BY THE

REV. P. HATELY WADDELL,

(Author of the well-known Eulogy on his Genius, and Chairman at the "Cottage" on the Centenary of his Birth).

This addition will be Illustrated with Two Portraits of the Poet; with Frontispiece composed of five Scenes selected from the Works or Land of Burns; and with Twenty-five Pictures from Original Drawings—the whole produced in finest Oil Colours, from Engravings by eminent artists, in the highest style of the art.

The prominent Literary characteristic of this edition will be an entirely New Life of the Poet, in the form of a Spiritual Biography, by the Rev. Editor; with much valuable additional matter relating to Burns—including some hitherto unpublished Fragments of the Poet himself, interesting original Reminiscences of his Life, original Notes critical and historical on his Poems, and an Essay on the Progress and Development of the Scottish Language up till his day.

In the department of Illustration, the distinctive feature of every Picture will be its Originality in Design, and its absolute fidelity to nature in every detail of Scenery. The actual spot referred to with all its surroundings, wherever locality constitutes a portion of the picture, will be scrupulously adhered to—so that readers at a distance, natives of Scotland, may recognise in these some transcript of the soil; and strangers may look with confidence on every Illustration as a reality. In the same department, the Publisher has the highest satisfaction in being able to announce that he is in a position to reproduce an authentic and most wonderful Likeness of Robert Burns—from the Original Minlets of unquestionably, which was painted the year before his death; and of which Burns affirms that it is "the most remarkable likeness of what I am at this moment, that I think ever was taken of any body"—together with a most interesting and beautiful Miniature of his eldest son, painted at the same time as a pendant to the Poet's likeness. These Portraits which have been lost to the world for seventy-one years, are now in possession of the Rev. P. Hately Waddell; and cannot fail, when presented to the world, to evince universal attention. No portrait of the Poet known can compare for a moment, in fidelity or force, with this miniature of Burns.

The work will be completed in Seventeen Monthly Parts, Demy 4 to 48 pages, price Half Dollar each. Printed from new type upon the finest printing paper.

The great care and beauty with which the above work is being got up will make it an ornament most suitable for the drawing-rooms alike of the peer and of the merchant; whilst the mode of publishing and the price charged will bring it fairly within the reach of every tradesman throughout the world.

Till then, and then I love thee!"

FLAX GROWING.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.

If any Farmer wishes to try an acre or two of Flax, I will furnish them with seed, and wait for the price of it until the delivery of the Flax. As I have established a Scutching Mill amongst you, I think it is the duty of every Farmer to try an acre, if not more, of Flax, for a few years, so as to give it a fair trial. That it is the best spring crop I will leave facts to prove themselves, and will give you the names of a few Farmers who grew it last year to their entire satisfaction:—

R. Brown, Esq., Douro, 2½ acres, 7 tons 680 lbs. $102 76
H. Reid, Esq., Douro, 2 acres, 3½ tons, 77 00
C. Crowley, Esq., Douro, 1 acre, 2 tons 1130 lbs. 40 91
J. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2¾ acres, 7½ tons, ... 105 00
A. Scott, Esq., Smith, 3 acres, 7½ tons, 110 80
A. Hill, Esq., Smith, ¾ of an acre, 2 tons 734 lbs. 47 27
T. Tully, Esq., Smith, 1 acre, 3 tons ... 36 00
Matt. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2 acres, 6 tons 640 lbs 81 60
A. Rosebury, Esq., Smith, 1 bushel, 2 tons 536 lbs. 29 56
J. Hogan, Esq., Douro, 1 bushel, 3 tons 600 lbs. 46 40
G. McKeon, Esq., Otonabee, 2 bushels, 4 tons 1630 lbs. 92 53

There are a great many more I could give you the names of, but as these gentlemen are the most prominently known I refer to them only. In every other place in Canada where there has been a Scutching Mill established, the Farmers have come forward and willingly bound themselves to raise from 300 to 500 tons for five years. If the crop will not pay, why do farmers in other places bind themselves to grow it? There was as high as one thousand tons grown in and about Streetsville last year. Let every farmer try an acre or two, until he tests his land how suitable it will be for growing it. I have given you references from all the townships around here; you see they have all done equally well. Another great advantage to some of the Farmers would be the early market they could make, for it is only necessary after pulling the flax to allow it to dry sufficiently before selling it, when they can realise money to assist them in harvesting their other crops.

The following testimony from a well known and highly respected Merchant of Prescott, is corroborative of the general approval given to Dr. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY:

Prescott, C. W., Dec. 8th, 1859.

Messrs. S. W. Fowle & Co., Boston.

Gentlemen:—

Being solicited by your Travelling Agent, for an expression of opinion of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, I with pleasure assert that it is, in my belief, the best remedy before the public for coughs and pulmonary complaints.

Having tested the article with myself and family, in case of severe coughs and colds, for years, with uniform and unexceptionable success, I unhesitatingly recommend it, with full confidence in its merits.

Yours truly,

Notice for a Cold—Relief in five Minutes

WHY do you suffer with a bad Cold when one bottle of Morrie's Electric Invigorating Fluid will cure the worst cold in three days. It is far superior to any pain-killer or Liniement or Ready-relief. Try it once and you will not keep your house without it, for after all other remedies have failed it has cured hundreds of rheumatism, frost bites, chilblains, burns, scalds, bruises, sprains, pains in the bowels, fresh cuts, lame back, headache and all pains internal and eternal. Sold everywhere at 25 cents per bottle. Retail and wholesale only by I. MORRIS, Peterborough, C. W. Guaranteed to give satisfaction or the money refunded. Every one should have a bottle.

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed without assistance from others, in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three different Doctors, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other medicines had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,

GREAT SHOSHONEE REMEDY

Of the Celebrated Indian Chief Lewis Josephus, of the Distinguished Tribe of Shoshonees, British Columbia, is now for sale in Canada.

THIS all-possessing Great Indian Remedy is wanted, and in broad and emphatic language, we can safely say may be relied upon to make a permanent cure of all diseases of the Throat, Lungs, Liver, Kidneys, Digestive Organs, &c., as well as Scrofula, the various Skin Diseases, Humors, and all diseases arising from impurity of the Blood, except the third stage of Consumption. In the Western Country where this Great Remedy has been in use for a short time, it has indeed effected some of the most Marvellous Cures, ever recorded in the annels of Historical Medicine. Such being the case, in addition to its former known and celebrity, we defy humanity to dispute the fact, that this, the Great Shoshonee Remedy, in connection with the Shoshonee Vegetable Restorative Pills, is the Remedy of Remedies of the 19th Century, and the greatest boon ever laid at the altar of suffering humanity.

CANCERS CURED!

By a new, but certain, speedy, and nearly painless process, and

WITHOUT THE USE OF THE KNIFE.

THE cure will be guaranteed, and, as a proof of this, no pay is required, until the cure is complete. The moment a cancer is discovered, it should be cured, as it will cost less and is more speedily cured than when of longer standing, and there is nothing to gain, and everything to lose by delay. What now seems a harmless lump in the breast, neck, eye-lid or elsewhere, or small wart or sore on the lip, may, in a few short months, become a hideous, disgusting, destroying mass of disease. If required, references can be given to parties who have been cured many years since, and who are now sound and healthy. All communications promptly answered. No money required in advance, and none until the cure is complete.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS.

Are you sick, costive, and constipated? Are you out of order, with your system deranged, and your feelings unpleasantly affected? Then a few doses are often the probable requisite. Almost three-fourths of the sickness in our country arises from disorders of the digestive organs, and should be covered by a timely use of the right remedy. Take Ayer's Pills, and cleanse out the disordered humors; purify the blood, and set the whole machinery of life in healthy motion. Then will follow the return of health, strength, and cheerfulness, for when the foundation is laid, the superstructure will rise of itself. While in these conditions, no one can expect to escape disease. Let the stomach become deranged, and the liver, bowels, and other organs, participate in the general derangement, and the whole system will be thrown into confusion, and the seeds of disease will be sown broadcast. Many of the diseases that afflict us originate in the stomach. Nearly all of them have their origin in some impurity of the blood, and all of them are greatly influenced by the condition of the digestive organs. Ayer's Pills act directly upon the stomach and bowels, and all other internal organs, purifying the blood, and stimulating the vital functions into healthy action. Hence their power over disease. Nearly every one needs a cathartic occasionally, to relieve the system of the foul accumulations which are the cause of so much sickness, and every one may take these Pills with perfect safety. Their sugar coating makes them easy to take, pleasant, and innocent, but they are powerful to expel disease. They operate upon the digestive apparatus, the blood, and the nervous system, through the same channels, and by the same means that all irritating substances do, and relieve the system of whatever oppresses it. Minute directions are given in the American Almanac, which is furnished gratis to all who call for it, for the following complaints, which these Pills speedily cure:

Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Jaundice, Foul Stomach, Headache, Sick Headache, Colic, Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Dropsy, Erysipelas, Piles, Worms, Ulcers, Scrofula, Scrofulous Humors, Erysipelas, Pimples, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Female Complaints, Kidney Complaints, Dropsical Swellings, Suppressed Menstruation, Irregularities, Retention of Urine, Incipient Consumption, Liver Complaint, Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Bilious Fever, Inflammation, Rheumatism, Gout, Neuralgia, Drowsiness, Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Mercurial Diseases, Mercurial Rheumatism, Syphilitic Complaints, Mercurial Affections, Syphilis, Blood Poisoning, Ulcers, Sore Throat, Mouth, Stomach, Liver, Kidneys, Bladder, Tumors, Female Weakness, Uterine Affections, Leucorrhœa, Whites, Irregularities, Suppressions, Barrenness, Sterility, Impotency

We shall be Forgotten.

BY TENNYSON

Unwatched the garden bough shall sway,
The tender blossom flutter down;
Unloved the beech will gather brown,
The maple burn itself away.

Unloved, the sunflower, shining fair,
Ay round with flames her disc of seed;
And many a rose-carnation feed
With summer spice the humming air.

Unloved, by many a sandy bar,
The brook shall babble down the plain;
At noon, or when the lesser wain
Is twisted round the polar star.

Uncared for, gird the windy grove,
And flood the haunts of fern and brake,
Or into silver arrows break,
The sailing moon in creek or cove.

Till from the garden and the wild
A fresh association blow;
And year by year the landscape grow
Familiar to the stranger child.

As year by year the labourer tills
His wonted glebe, or lops the glades;
And year by year our memory fades
From all the circle of the hills.

Selections.

GOSSIPING NEIGHBOURS; OR, A MONSTER UNVEILED.

'Poor thing! I do feel for her, though she is a person I never saw: yet her's seems a case of such oppression on the one hand, and such patient suffering on the other, that one cannot but—'

'Oh, I dare say you'll see her in the morning, for she often steals out then when the wretch, I suppose, is in bed.'

'But what could have induced a girl to tie herself to such a man?'

'Well, I don't know; the old story, I suppose—false appearances; for no girl in her senses could have married a man with his habits, if she had known them beforehand. There is sometimes a kind of infatuation about women, I allow, which seems to blind them to the real character of the men they are in love with; but in this case I don't think she could have known how he conducted himself, or she certainly would have no patience with him!'

This little dialogue took place in one of those neat, bright clean-windowed, gauze curtained houses, which form so many pretty districts within a walking distance of the mighty heart of the great metropolis, and between two ladies, the one the mistress of said nice looking cottage villa, and the other her guest, a country matron, who had just arrived on a visit to her town friends, and was object of the communications of both was the occupant of a larger and handsomer villa exactly opposite, but apparently the abode of great wretchedness.

The following morning Mrs Bray and her guest, Mrs. Clayton, were at the window of the parlor, which commanded a full view of the dwelling of the unhappy Mrs. Williams, when the door quietly opened, and was as quietly closed again by the lady herself.

'There she is, poor soul,' cried Mrs. Bray; 'only look how carefully and nervously she draws the gate after her. She seems always afraid that the slightest noise may awake the fellow, who is now, I dare say, sleeping off the effects of last night's dissipation.'

Mrs. Clayton, with all the genial warmth of a true womanly heart, looked over, and followed with her eyes, as far as the street allowed her, this quiet looking, broken spirited wife, investigating the whole figure, from the neatly trimmed straw hat, to the tips of the bright little boots, with a most intense and mysterious sympathy; then fixing her anxious interested gaze on the house opposite, she said,

'And how do they live? How do people under such circumstances pass the day? It is a thing I cannot comprehend; for were Clayton to act in such a way I am sure I couldn't endure it a week.'

'It does seem scarcely intelligible,' answered Mrs. Bray, 'but I'll tell you how they appear to do. She gets up and has her breakfast by herself—for without any wish to pry we can see straight through her house, from front to back. About this time she often comes out. I suppose to pay a visit or two in the neighbourhood, or perhaps to call on her tradespeople; and you will see her, by and by return, looking up, as she approaches, to the bedroom; and if the blind is drawn up she rushes in, thinking, I dare say, to her self 'how angry he will be if he comes down and finds that I am not there to give him his breakfast.' Sometimes he has his breakfast at twelve, at one, at two; and I have seen him sitting down to it when she was having a dinner!'

'And when does he have his dinner?'

'Oh! his dinner; I dare say that is a different sort of thing from hers,—poor woman! He dines, I suppose, at a club, or with his boon companions, or anywhere but at home.'

'And when does he come home generally?'

'At all hours. We hear him upon the little gate with his key at three, four, and five in the morning. Indeed our maid-man told Susan that he has seen him sneaking in, pale and haggard, worn out with his horrid vigils, at an hour when decent people are seated at breakfast.'

'I was her if she waits up for him?'

'Oh no, for we see the light of her solitary lamp in her room always as we are going to bed; and you may be sure my heart bleeds for her—poor thing! I don't know, indeed, that I was ever so interested about any stranger as I am about this young creature.'

'Dear dear! it is terrible!' sighed the sympathising Mrs. Clayton. 'But does any one visit them? Have they any friends do you think?'

'I don't think he can have any friends, the heartless fellow; but there are a great many people calling—stylish people, too—in carriages; and there is he, the wretch, often with half-adept look, smiling and bowing the ladies out, as if he were the most exemplary husband in the world.'

'Has she any children? I hope she has, as they would console her in his long absences.'

'No; even that comfort is denied her; she has no one to cheer her; her own thoughts must be her companions at such times.'

My dear Mary, you have made me quite melancholy; let us go out. You know I have much to see, and many people to call upon; so here we are losing the best part of the day in something not much removed from scandal.'

The ladies of course set out; saw all the 'loves of bonnets' in Regent street; all the 'sacrifices' that were being voluntarily offered up in Oxford street; bought a great many things 'less than half the original cost;' made calls; laughed and chattered away a pleasant evening day for the country lady, who, happily for herself, forgot in the bustle the drooping, crestfallen bird who was fretting itself away in its pretty cage in —— Road.

The next day, a friend of Mrs. Clayton's who had been ear when she left her card the day before, called, and after chatting for some time, turned to Mrs. Bray, and complimenting her on the situation of the house.

'I find you are a near neighbour of a dear friend of mine, Mrs. Williams.'

'Mrs. Williams!' exclaimed both her hearers, pale with excitement and curiosity; 'Mrs. Williams, Oh, how very singular that you should know her, poor miserable creature! Oh do tell us about—'

'Poor—miserable? what can you mean? You mistake. My Mrs. Williams is the happiest little woman in London!'

'Oh, it cannot be the same,' said Mrs Bray. 'I mean our opposite neighbour in Hawthorn villa; I thought it couldn't be—'

'Hawthorn villa! the very house. You surely cannot have seen her, or her husband, who—'

'Oh the dreadful wretched gambling fellow! interrupted Mrs. Bray; 'I wouldn't know such a man—'

'He!' in her turn interrupted Mrs. Eccles. 'He a gambler! he is the most exemplary young man in London—a pattern of every domestic virtue—kind, gentle, amiable, and passionately fond of his young wife!'

'My dear Mrs. Eccles, how can you say all this of a man whose conduct is the common talk of the neighbourhood; a man lost to every sense of shame, I should suppose; who causes home to his desolate wife at all hours; whose only ostensible means of living is gambling or something equally disreputable; who—'

'You have been most grievously misled,' again interposed Mr. Eccles; 'who can have so grossly slandered my excellent friend Williams! He cannot help his late hours, poor fellow. That may safely be called his misfortune, not his fault,' and the good lady warmed as she spoke, till she had to untie her bonnet and fan her glowing cheek with her handkerchief.

'His misfortune!' murmured Mrs. Bray.

How can that be called a misfortune which a man can help every day he pleases?'

'But he cannot help it, poor soul! He would be so happy to spend his evenings at home with his dear little wife, but you know his business begins when other people's is over.'

'Then what, in heaven's name, is his business?'

'Why, don't you know? He is the Editor of a Morning Newspaper.'

A Calculating Bridegroom.

I've known some very mean men in my time. There was Deacon Overreach; cow he was so mean he always carried a tea in his gig box, when he traveled, to pick up the oats his horse wasted in the manger, and lay an egg for his breakfast in the morning. And there was Hugo Hummelman, who made his wife dig potatoes to pay for the marriage license. I must tell you that story of Hugo, for it is not a bad one, and good stories, like potatoes, ain't so plenty as they used to be when I was a boy. Hugo is a neighbor of mine, though considerably older than I be, and a mean neighbor he is, too. Well, when he was going to get married to Gretchen Kalp, he goes down to Parson Rogers, at Digby, to get a license

'Parson,' said he, 'what's the price of a license?'

'Six dollars' said he.

'Six dollars' said Hugo; 'that's a dreadful sight of money! Couldn't you take less?'

'No,' said he, 'that's what they cost me at the secretary's office at Halifax.'

'Well, how much do you ax for publishing in church, then?'

'Nothing,' said the parson.

'Well,' said Hugo, 'that's so cheap I can't expect any change back. I think I'll be published. How long does it take?'

'Three Sundays.'

'Three Sundays,' said Hugo, 'well, that's a long time, too. But three Sundays, only make a fortnight after all; two for the covers and one for the inside ink; and six dollars is a great amount of money for a poor man to throw away.'

So off he went, a jogging toward home, feeling about as mean as a new sheared sheep, when all at once a bright thought came into his head, and back he went as fast as his horse could carry him.

'Parson,' said he, 'I've changed my mind. Here's the six dollars; I'll tie the knot to-night with my tongue that I cannot untie with my teeth.'

'Why, what is natur in the meaning of all that?'

'Why,' said Hugo, 'I've been a 'cypherring' it out in my head, and it's cheaper time publishings after all. You see, sir, it's potato digging' times; if I wait to be called in church, her father will have her work for nothing; and as beside are scarce and wages are big, if I marry her to-night she can begin to dig our own to-morrow, and that will pay for the license, and just seven shillings over; for there ain't a man in all Cincinnati that can dig and carry as many bushels in a day as Gretchen can. And, besides, fresh wives, like fresh servants, work like people at first, but they get mony and lazy after a while.'

Cincinnati as a Sender—Whisky and Water.

A quantity of whisky was destroyed in Cincinnati the other day, by throwing it into Deer Creek, from whence it found its way to the city hydrants. The effect is thus described by the 'Fat contributor.'

The democratic town which has resulted to the community from the mingling of that Deer Creek whisky with the hydrant water is almost beyond calculation. It was not known for some time why a beauty atmosphere seemed to hedge all about.—Men who never drank liquor in their lives, knowingly, went home for several days in succession so bloated that they were hardly to be recognized although they covered their weeping wives as they helped them off to bed—hadn't touched (hic) drop today ma'am—hop'n die'f have. Then walking up in the morning with throbbing temples and bewildered brain they tried in vain to recall any occasion during the previous day, when they had wandered away from the established principles of a lifetime and taken to the heat—what drugs, what charms, what conjurations and what al magility ague, had got them on a bust?

One aged and highly respectable citizen who never tasted liquor in his life, and some quantity could belong to a temperance society with impunity, was seen winding his way homeward the other day with his hat jammed down on the back of his head, and his face red-heat and jolly, while he was singing:

'Low'lord, Gin flowin' bowl,
Foo' balls, foo' (big) ball,
Old Uncle Johnny's marshla' house,'

His wife didn't know him at first, as he entered the house, his countenance was so changed, and then the ends of that white cravat which she always tied herself every morning with so much care were flying in the most outlandish manner about his collar; his clothes were disordered and soiled, and that hat! she had never seen such a sight on all her born or married days.

He pulled it off, slung it wildly around his head with a 'whoopee!' and then shied it with scientific exactness upon the bust of Douglass, giving a horribly grotesque leer to the late distinguished statesman as it dropped over his left eye. He offered to bet two dollars and a half that 'He knew who he was and could whip any man who wasn't—then looking round upon his family with a slight gleam of returning reason; he yelled: Oh I am a wreck!' and bursting into tears, besought the eldest girl to bring a gutter for him to wallow in.' He was lugged up stairs to bed, meanly shouting 'gutters for one!'

It unfortunately came out in the papers the next day (it would have appeared before, but the editors, who it is well known imbibe extravagant quantities of water, were incapacitated from work themselves,) that great quantities of whisky had become mingled with the hydraut water. It had floated down Deer Creek from a burning distillery to the river, where the city have the most complete and effective arrangement possible for stopping anything of a damnable order that finds its way down the creek and pumping it into the reservoir.

The excellent old gentleman above alluded to had determined to put an end to his worthless existence, when he came to a full realization of what he had done, but looking over the morning paper to see if it was going to be a very good day for suicides any how, he read about the Deer Creek whisky. That explained the whole business at once and gave him a renewal of life He danced wildly around the room; embraced his family with the most ecstatic joy and invited them to join with him in a glass of water all around.

Since it has become generally known that there is whisky in the hydrant water, there has been a wonderful increase in water drinking. People drink it now who haven't tasted it before in years. They get up in the night to drink it. At bars they call for 'Deercreek straight' The Water Works have been compelled to keep their engines at work pumping night and day to supply the demand. The old play says 'wine works wonder,' but it has recently demonstrated that water works wonders, also. Ask the Water Works if it don't. Men have been caught filling their flasks to take a long journey.

The effect among the female portion of the community was scarcely less terrible than among the men. What do you think of a company of nice old ladies getting hilarious at a tea party—the dear innocent creatures, unconsciously putting themselves outside of a glass of hot whisky in every cup. The hostess glows rubicund, hospitable, and presses her guests to 'try just one more cup,' which they can't refuse, it is such a temptation; where did you get it? Is it Long Arm Chop?

Old Sally remarked that she 'hadn't tasted such (hic) delicious tea'n for—r—y years. Half cup, 'f please.' That an evening were on they had toasts with their tea, and songs keeping time with tea-cups thumpingly on the table. It was a jolly old party. And then when the carriages came to take them home they sent word back to the 'old man' that they won't go home till morn'n;' and finally wound up by smashing all the tea things. Terrible thing, wasn't it? and the dear old creatures not knowing that her ole spon barrels of whiskey had been pumped into the hydrants.

Kitchen girls were great sufferers from the fumes of boiling water. Washerwomen all over the city bending over their wash tubs, which were nothing less than great wooden bowls of hot whisky punch dropped down in a helpless state of intoxication, and had to be put to bed and heavily dosed.

Temperance folks are dismayed. A lodge of these worthy people attempted to hold their regular meeting the other night, not having heard as yet of the Deer creek calamity. The meeting very nearly broke up in a row, each brother clamorously accusing some one else of coming there 'in a state of (hic) 'toxication.' One influential member offered a resolution to 'spel every one of us.'

It was a most unaccountable state of affairs, but they settled it at length by agreeing to forgive each other, if they wouldn't do it again. They instituted a new member, in honour of the occasion. He was finally moved to make a speech.—He said he, 'Gen'lemen, I'm delighted I'm happily disp'sited. Folks said it I 'Jood Sons couldn't have no fun 'S like I. Never enjoyed 'self s' much in my (hic) life.—Gen'lemen'—happiest day I ever experienced. I give a toast—Here's to sol' (hic) wat'r an' death of King Alkali!'

The toast was drunk in goblets of water, standing, except in the case of some who had retired. They then dispersed after singing—

'Col' water, col' water, hol' water for me,
An' wine for ev'rywhere' Dobereinbee.'

The Governments Inspector of Whiskey is about to-day hoisting two-dollars tax on all hydrant water.

How Shall the Ladies Wear their Hair.—

A lady correspondent in an exchange thus briefly discusses the above question:—Something must be done and that quickly or we shall have all our ladyships scudding under bare poles. The mandates of fashion have been over severe for three or four years and now we are paying the penalty of our devotion. Eugenie's hair is getting thin on the top of her head. Well, she has plenty of company in that reflection, if that is any comfort to her. The waterfalls, outreach rats, mice and a thousand other diabolical contrivances of hair dressers, tend to one object—to strain at the roots of the hair by tying and twisting in every possible way. The natural consequence is the downfall of women. What shall we do? Go back to the days of shepherd simplicity and wear our own ringlets over our shoulders.—Alas, for us who have locks like unto the needles of the pine tree, and whose tresses have as much spiral tendency as the most rigid of pokers! Who will come to our relief, for the waterfall oppresseth the brain, and headaches are prevalent among us.—Lest some hair dressers arise who will free us from this bondage, and great will be their reward.

An Inveterate Bad Habit.—

In a certain school in Springfield, Mass., the lady teacher a few days since, had occasion to punish one of the little boys for using profane language. There being a knot-hole in the floor, she conceived the idea to make him think he had to stand near by with a pair of tongs and watch until he caught a rat that should come up from below. Stationing him, she gave him strict injunctions to remain until he accomplished the feat, calculating, of course, after he had stood there a couple of hours, to send him to his seat. Judge of her surprise, when two minutes after he fastened the tongs to a genuine live fellow of the rat kind, with enormous whiskers and tail, and hiding him up, exclaimed, "By—I've caught him.

Before the days of chloroform a quack advertised tooth-drawing without any pain. The patient was placed in a chair, and the instrument applied to his teeth with a wrench, followed by a roar from the unpleasantly surprised sufferer, 'stop,' cried the dentist, 'compose yourself I told you I would give you no pain, but I only just gave you that twinge as a specimen to show you Curtwright's method of operating.' Again the instrument was applied, another tug, another roar. 'Now don't be impatient, that is Dumergo's way; be seated and calm, you will now be sensible of the superiority of my method.' Another tug, another roar. 'Now pray be quite, that is Parkinson's mode, you don't like it and no wonder.' By this time the tooth hung by a thread; and whipping it out, the operator exultingly exclaimed, that's my mode of tooth drawing without pain and you are now enabled to compare it with the operations of Curtwright, Dumergo and Parkinson.'

A school boy 'down east,' who was noted among his play-fellows for his frolics among the girls, was reading aloud in the testament when coming to the phrase, 'making the waste places glad,' he was asked by the pedagogue what it meant.—The young one—scratched his head—but could give no answer, when up jumped a more precocious urchin, and cried out:—'I know what it means, master. It means hugging the gals for Tom Ross is always huggin' 'em around the waste and it makes 'em glad as can be.'

"I stand," said a Fenian orator, "on the board platform of the principals of '98, and palsied be my arm if I forsake 'em!" "You stand on nothing of the kind," interrupted a little shoemaker in the crowd, "you stand in my boots that you never paid me for, and I want the money."

"Does the court understand you to say; Mr. Jones, that you saw the editor of the Augur of Freedom intoxicated?" "Not at all sir. I merely said that I had seen him frequently so flurried in his mind that he would undertake to cut out copy with the snuffers—that's all.

"I wonder," said a Scotch maiden, "what my brother John sees in the lasses that he likes them one well. For my part I wad nae gie the company 'o one lad for twenty lasses."

A shrewd and lively young belle was introduced a few evenings ago to a bombastic little youth about as diminutive in his person as a man can well be. After conversing with her for some minutes he turned to leave the room, when as he was on the point of opening the door, the young lady innocently observed: 'Pray don't trouble yourself, there is the keyhole.

A wealthy butcher was playing the game of euchre a few evenings since at the mansion of a city Alderman, when a lady who was betting on the game, leaned over the back of of his chair and innocently asked a friend opposite, 'How are stakes now?' Mr. ——, wholly absorbed in the game, quickly turned with the reply, 'Very cheap rump-steaks are now, madam, but ten cents a pound.'

POLITICAL.

We have been requested to state that Jas. Anderson, Esq., of Otonabee, is about to be brought out as a candidate for Legislative honors in the East Riding. A requisition to Mr. Anderson is in circulation for signatures. These is, already, a large number of names attached, and we understand that Mr. Anderson has agreed to the request. We may therefore say that he is in the field. He is an old and tried reformer, will battle for the rights of the people, and deserves their support. As yet there is no opposition to him.

To-day we give the resignation of Mr. T. G. Choate, which led to the requisition to bring out Mr. Anderson.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

The County Council met in half-yearly session on Tuesday. Several very important subjects have engaged their attention already, but we are unable to give the whole the week. One of these things is the erection of a House of Refuge. The Committee appointed to report on this has reported, but the report was referred back to them in order to get some definite scheme. The lands proposed and contemplated to be purchased, contain from 14 to 24 acres, and at prices from $90 to $150. The prices are high, and the quantities of land too small. They should not purchase less than fifty acres, as assuredly the land will be all required yet, for industrial purposes, and to afford employment for those who may be sent to it. It will prove a failure in not a few instances, if those sent to it, and who are able to work, are not made work for their living, and we trust that the Council will see to it, that there be abundant provisions made for affording employment for all the inmates.

Gravel Roads too, have engaged the attention of the Council, and a general scheme of gravel roads is to be submitted. One line goes to Mud Lake with a bridge across Mud Lake and a bridge also across Pigeon Creek, and continues to Bobcaygeon, also along the 6th line of Smith. The second goes to Buckhorn by way of Lakefield, with a branch to Burleigh. The third from Ashburnham to Weslaw through Douro, and then by way of Dummer Town Hall to the 5th or 6th concession towards Norwood. The fourth, the now travelled block road to Norwood to extend eastward to the east of Belmont, and also from Norwood to Hastings. The fifth from Ashburnham to Keene, and thence to Hastings. The thing is too grand to expect consummation. The whole must be submitted to the people, if they ratify the action of the Council all will be right. Of course it is proposed to extend the cost over 20 years, which would make the burden comparatively light.

THE TREASURERSHIP.

The City Fathers are at present agitated about certain matters in connection with the Town Treasurership, and according to appearances at last meeting do not appear like ly to agree. The difficulty arises not so much out of appointing a Treasurer as out of the division of labor proposed by the Finance Committee. The offices of Clerk and Treasurer are now held by one individual, and there appears to be a strong desire to separate the offices. The Finance Committee propose appointing a Bank Agent Treasurer, and getting him to have the principal part of the duties performed by the Clerk. The Committee also propose to have the Clerk appointed Police Magistrate, and thus dispense with the services of the Mayor in that way. They also propose to pay the Clerk for his services as Clerk, Magistrate and kind of Sub-treasurer, about $600 a year; the Mayor about $100; the sum to the Treasurer not yet mentioned, but as now talked of, a merely nominal sum. The expenses, however, would still be about $1,000; at present they are about the same amount. The only change would be the division of offices of Clerk and Treasurer; and if this would give satisfaction, it would be as much in the right direction. It is urged against it, that the Treasurer cannot easily appoint the Clerk to do his work, as to do so would be illegal; also, that such Treasurer might not appoint the Clerk of the Council, and, consequently, that affairs might not proceed amicably. This, we confess, there appears to be just reason to fear. But if the Finance Committee obtain a fit and proper Treasurer, who shall bind himself to carry out the proposition of the Committee, the Council should throw no obstacles in the way of a trial of the scheme. The Council, of course, cannot appoint a Police Magistrate; the Governor in Council does this, but it is reasonable to suppose that the position of the Council would be appointed, even appointed he would, as such magistrate, to independent of the Council. For the present, however, they might put some one who would act as Clerk and Police Magistrate; hereafter they might not be so fortunate, and then those would be two separate offices, those of Clerk and Magistrate, instead of one as at present. Perhaps the intelligence of the town requires the change even at the risk of increase of salaries; if so the change should be granted. All that there were crooked misgivings as to the goodness of the Committee in regard to an old and tried servant of the Council, but from the assurances made by the Committee on Monday evening, we should be ready to accept their intentions as declared, and insist on the fulfilment thereof. The Committee too should show that they can obtain a Treasurer who will carry out their intentions in good faith and who will bind himself to that effect. This would remove pre ent objections, and open the way to a settlement of the difficulty.—But the threats to give up any reform they deem really needed because they are met by opposition, is perfectly childish and will only remove a laugh and more determined opposition, which should be met by determination instead of childish temper, I won't do anything. Let some reasonable clue to the settlement of the matter be found and arranged; but if defeated let the best that can be done, be done to carry out the present system. The present agitation will do some good any way, and the proposed plan, if correct, will gain converts to it; if it be not correct, if the present opposition prevents it, all the better.

UNION SCHOOL.

The Board met in special session on Monday evening.

There has been some difficulty to obtain a quorum for some time, and even on Monday there appeared to be some fears of the old cry "no quorum," but the fears were not realized.

A communication was read from Miss Rutherford, teacher of the North West School, asking to be allowed to teach a month during vacation, in order to meet the views of some parents who wish their children to be at school instead of running the streets.

On motion of Mr. Graham, the request was granted.

A communication was received from Miss Kyle, tendering her resignation and wishing to be relieved by the 10th of August—the termination of the present quarter.

This resignation was accepted with regret, owing to the success and faithfulness which had attended Miss Kyle during the five years she has had charge of the department under her management. A complimentary resolution was put and carried unanimously.

Moved by C. Cameron, seconded by J.W. Gilmour,—That this Board accepts, with reluctance, the resignation of Miss Kyle, fully appreciating the able and faithful services she has rendered to the school, and the loss which it sustains by her departure. But while the Board regret their loss, they hope that she may long be spared to use her brilliant talents and amiable disposition in dispersing blessings to those who may be joined to her society.—Carried unanimously.

The Board agreed to attend the approaching examination and thus afford what encouragement their presence would afford to those who were laboring for the advancement of the school.

The property committee were directed to have the blackboards repaired, and the young trees lately planted, framed, to protect them.

Minden.

An accident, resulting in sudden death, saddened the hearts of the people in the vicinity of Minden Village, on Friday last, 7th instant. William Taylor, renting and working the saw mill on Gull River, near this village, about noon invited his wife to come to view certain logs as they passed over the rapids towards the mill, and which were to be used by him. Scarcely had they reached the bridge and he commenced to pry the logs up with a pike-pole, than one became fast and required a stronger effort from poor Taylor. From some cause it moved more easily than he expected; he lost his balance, fell backward beneath the boom he had stood upon, was carried under it by the current, and down the rapid, only appearing now and then as the impetuous waters forced him over the rugged rocks that form the river's bed, and so out of all sight and help. To the four or five persons near, the poor fellow seemed to be dashed against logs, &c. for some twenty rods till the foot of the falls was reached, and therefore began a search near in an eddy, but to no avail till Saturday noon, when the body was recovered, bruised terribly. On Sunday the remains were carried to the grave. The Orangemen, marshalled by S. S. Peck, Esq., Reeve of Minden, accompanied and shewed due respect to the departed as a brother. The Rev. Frederick Burt officiated. After the Church of England service at the grave was concluded, the chaplain of the Orangemen performed their accustomed obsequies, then neatly filled in the grave and returned in order to their lodge. A widow, and two sons by a former wife, are left to mourn his untimely end.

Sabbath School Convention.

There has been an interesting Sabbath School Convention, held in the Canada Presbyterian Church during the week.—Owing to the difficulty of attending it and the County Council on the same day, we have been unable to give particulars this week; will next.

A few remarks on a visit to the Marmora Iron Works have also been crowded out.

THE CANADIAN CONVEYANCER.—In another column will be found a notice of a book with the above title. It will be found a very useful book for all classes of business men. For the merchant and trader, the forms will be found such as are every day required. For the farmer, besides the instruction in the preface which will keep him from fatal mistakes, the book contains forms of leases, wills, &c., which in a moment of urgency, will safely answer his purpose and save him from loss and lawyer's fees. To lawyers it is needless to commend the work—the first edition was found in every law office, and the present edition, besides being suited to the times, contains a preface which, to the profession, is worth the whole price of the book. Indeed it is a treasure on the law of real property as it exists in this country, which can be found no where else.

GEO. F. BAILEY'S & Co's Quadruple Combination will exhibit in Peterborough on Monday next. See advertisement.

GREAT RAILROAD MEETING

IN VICTORIA HALL.

Three to Four Hundred Persons Present.

GREAT INTEREST MANIFESTED TOWARDS RETAINING THE LINE TO MUD LAKE.

On Wednesday, at the call of the Mayor, a large and influential meeting was held to discuss our general Railway communication, and the advisability of extending that communication to Mud Lake by way of Lakefield. The meeting was the largest that has been on any public matter for years, and from the interest manifested in the discussion of the present communication, and the apparent desire shown to extend to Mud Lake, it is very evident that the extension at least is always over to come, and that ere long. The meeting was organized by calling the Mayor to preside, and afterwards D. W. Dumble, Esq., was requested to act as Secretary.

Mayor Scott, on taking the chair, said that the meeting had been convened by him, at the request of several citizens, and its object he believed was to discuss railway matters, but he supposed that the committee appointed to arrange for the meeting had done so already, therefore, he would refrain from any discussion of the matter, but leave it for those who had been appointed to speak.

A. H. Campbell, Esq., moved the first resolution.

"That in order to secure for the Town of Peterborough the growing trade of the Back Country, it is essential that Railway communication with Chemong Lake should be opened up."

In moving the resolution Mr. Campbell remarked that he was glad to meet such an assemblage of citizens of Peterboro'. The object of the meeting was a most important one, viz:—the subject of Railway communication and the direction of the current of trade of a country. It had puzzled the heads of the wisest in the old world as well as in the new. One thing was found to be an axiom, that the current of trade always takes the channel that proves most advantageous to trade. The trade of the back country now demanded our attention. Peterborough was favorably situated—on one of the best water privileges in the Province—with stores equal to those of any town in the Province—her merchants honest and honorable—the farmers surrounding active, intelligent and industrious,—and the soil of the country fertile and well cultivated. There was also a fine back country. True, it was once held that there was no back country, but that was found to be false. There were tracts and large tracts of the back country well suited for cultivation and capable of producing abundant returns.—There was also a large water machinery in that back country now shut off from Peterborough, on which an immense carrying trade was now done, and this was capable of being extended. That trade legitimately ours, was taken from us, and proceeded by Lindsay, although that route was 40 miles longer than by Peterborough, and when at Lindsay was then 12 miles further from the front than at Mud Lake. The present direction of this trade retards the growth of manufactures, and will retard it so long as it continues. The building of a road to Chemong Lake would remove the only obstacles and then it must come this way. Nearly 26 millions of feet of lumber are manufactured there every year, at a cost of $240,000, and one a freight of $80,000. It was therefore evident that the expense of manufactures, &c., will be laid out in the line of trade. If that line should be by Lindsay, it will be there; if by Peterborough, no doubt it will be laid out around Peterborough. In the interest of Peterborough, therefore, it gave him much pleasure to move the resolution. It was no new idea; it has been long held as expedient, and the time had come that demanded that it should be carried out, and as the old proverb had it: "the gods help those who help themselves." Peterborough must do something; the people must be ready to put their heads together, and their hands in their pockets too. It would never do to let the trade go away from us—to build up another place. It would never do to build up Lindsay, while Peterborough is pulled down. Lindsay was not a place that attracted any one for the mere love of the place. Peterborough had been built up by the square timber trade, that was dying out, and would soon be replaced, and we should seek to secure the large trade of lumber goods, &c., that will follow. There would be a large trade of goods, as there was a large tract of country fit for settlement; this was the best route for it, and we should seek to secure this new trade as well as endeavor to retain our old one. We should endeavor to leave the country and town better than we find them.

Mr. Clinton was then called on to speak, but refused, reserving the right to speak at any future time during the discussion, if he deemed it advisable.

Mr. Carroll seconded the resolution, and in doing so was glad to learn that there was a back country. It used to be said by lumbermen that there was no such thing. This opinion was exploded, and he was glad to hear out of the mouth of even a lumberman. He (Mr. C.) was also glad to say there was a back country, capable of sustaining thousands of a population. In it there were now over 1000 families, this was equal to at least two Townships, and on this account he was ready to do all he could to advance that back country. To open up communication with the lakes would bring Burleigh nearer by 26 miles, would open up markets for the people back there, and annihilate a distance that was now impassable, and that at moderate expense. The Township, too, contains minerals and other productions very valuable in a commercial point of view.—There are large extents of Lithographic stone in Burleigh, such as was not in the world almost, and enough to supply the world; it would be advantageous to have a road to open this up, which was of inestimable advantage to the County in which it was found. Burleigh had water power too equal to any thing in the world, and nothing could be done to utilize it for want of a road. There could be manufactories in the County but the means of transit was such as prevented them. Believing that by getting a railroad to Mud Lake he would serve his constituents best; he would do all in his power to further the extension to Mud Lake. But Burleigh was not all the back country; there were immense countries east, west, north and south of it, and these were being settled, and the trade of the country must get out. There were large timber districts too, and he had just learned that a firm in Quebec had obtained five townships back there, and they had been in Town enquiring if supplies could not be got in by this route. Now, if this road was built, the supplies must go by it, and this would be a large trade for 20 years; but if not built, the supplies may go by way of Belleville or Lindsay, not by Peterborough as they should do.

E. Pearce, Esq., was called on to support the motion. He thought Peterborough had been remiss in regard to the matter of railways. The eastern shores should have been on the other form, then they would have known that they were interested in supporting railways, but now that their seats were being filled and that they were not prepared to say much. He was glad to feel that there was a division of feeling between the town and country at present. There had been a feeling of antagonism, but now it was to be given through, and it hoped they would work together more amicably in future. The town, once as a disinterested child had withdrawn, but now they would feel so to get back again. There was no doubt that there was unity of interest, and all the town wanted a road, he believed it would benefit the county also. He would have liked to hear what the town proposed and then the county could consider what it would do—now it cannot say—but he believed it would do its part. They had heard of the extensive country in our rear. It was not the lumber interest only that would be benefitted, there would be mutual interests, and he was ready, although from the tar case, to aid the work all in his power, as by doing so he believed he would be increasing the trade of town and county. Just now the Marmora company was working wonders in Belmont, their iron mines were being developed and worked with success, and a railroad constructed and employing more than $8,000 were paid out that month for labor alone. These mines, too, were in Belmont, in this county, and the trade thus commenced would benefit this county.

The resolution was then put and carried unanimously.

Col. Haultain then proposed

"That in order to obtain such communication, it is expedient to form, or enter into negociation with the Company for the purpose of purchasing the present Chemong Railway, or failing that, to construct an independent line to some point in Chemong Lake, with power to apply to Parliament for such legislative action as may be necessary."

In doing so he laboured under great disadvantage, not being acquainted with the nature of the general resolutions; but believed that the object was to form a connection with Mud Lake. This he had often over and over again urged, and wondered why we remained inactive, and thus allow the trade of the back country to glide away from us. He did not hesitate to say that we must extend the road, if we did not we must go down and sink into the insignificance of a small country town. He was glad to hear that we have such a country in our rear. We also had mineral wealth there, but what had we done to develope it? Americans spend thousands of dollars to develope and we ourselves never spent $100. We had marble only of the best quality, and this was the cheapest route to get the material out, but the water keeps us away from us; away from Peterborough. We were dreaming over ephemeral prosperity, asleep, and doing nothing. If we continue so our stores will remove from us and prosperity go, and the words will almost be legible on everything—"Away from Peterborough." Present supplies to the back country goe by way of Lindsay. The back people regret it, but cannot avoid it; and if we are to obtain any of that trade we must have communication with the waters. The timid might fear that villages would spring up and take our trade. He (Col. H.) did not fear it; Peterborough had the advantage and would retain it; we had prospered before by the building of roads. The Romans built roads the remains of which are yet to be seen, and but for them what would Rome have been? The people of every country endeavor to have the best means of communication, and they find in this their prosperity; and we must build this road or our trade will be lost. He had done all he could in Parliament to prevent monopoly in Railroads, and had prevented as far as the Chemong road was concerned, and both sides strove hard for the control; but he had done all he could against a monopoly, thinking that we should have a large interest in it. He does not blame Mr. Covert; Mr. Covert does all he can for Peterboro, not to injure himself, and being almost sole owner of the Chemong road, he can afford to keep it unless he get what he may ask, even $100,000; but better to pay that for it than be as we are. Here the speaker referred to the value of Lithographic stone, 10 cents per lb. The United States depended on Germany for this article, and yet we had abundance; she spent $100,000 a year in it, and this we might as well have, if we opened up communication, marble and mineral abounded, and the wisest heads of Peterborough, yes, and Cobourg too, should get to work to devise the best means of developing the whole.

Mr. Hilliard seconded the resolution in a few words; referred to the scheme of opening trade by Port Perry and Whitby, instead of Lindsay, and concluded by advising that something be done to agert it and drive the trade this way. The resolution was put and carried unanimously.

W. A. Scott moved the third resolution:

"That it is the interest of the various Townships and the Municipalities in the County to co operate in this Railway extension, and that the County Council be invited to take stock or give a bonus towards carrying it into operation."

Referring to the fact that £39,000 had been put into the branch unwisely, and that he then advised extension with it instead of doing so. Already there were about 56 millions of feet cut on the back waters, and if there was a railroad it would be 40, for four years to come. He could not help remarking that we had not a manufactory of woollen ware in the County. We had to import our pails, rakes, &c., while we had abundance of material cheap, and plenty of power. Our marble, iron, lead, &c., too, would form a large item of trade, but now there was no communication; and as Mr. Hilliard remarked, they had to look towards Port Perry for an outlet, while they all desired to come by way of Peterboro. If they had kept their money, they would now have it to build the road to Mud Lake

Mr. Fairbairn,—"Yes, but we would have no road now."

Voices everywhere,—"Yes we would."

Mr. Fairbairn—"Would like to ask Mr. Scott what would be the probable revenue of the proposed road?"

Mr. Scott,—"At least the freight of 35,000,000 feet of lumber for six years, and the trade of iron, marble, &c."

W. Hall, Esq., seconded the resolution with much pleasure, but would not trespass on their patience at the late hour.

The Mayor of Cobourg, Dr. Beatty, being present as a deputation from that town, was loudly called for, and on rising, said that he did not come to make any offers about the road to Mud Lake. He was sent to make offers in relation to the reconstruction of the Cobourg and Peterborough road. If this road was reconstructed, their opinion should be, (Mr. D.) the deposit power reserved by Government section. He came to hear what Peterboro' would propose to Cobourg, but had no offer yet, and consequently could state none. The great interest of Cobourg now was the iron, but he desired almost as much to come to Peterboro', and they would like to hear what offer would be made to aid the reconstruction of the road. If they made an offer, then, as Mayor of Cobourg, he would tell them what Cobourg would do. He would tell them that they must reconstruct the Cobourg road or Peterboro' will cause just as Cobourg had done. He admitted that Cobourg was selfish, and he thought they all must be selfish; but although they had granted, Cobourg was ready to do more.

Mr. Donnistown made a volunteer speech, in which he referred to the opposition he had given to putting money in the branch; it was done then to kill the Cobourg road, but in doing so we had lost the back trade. The present movement he could hardly support, as we can not contract a debt. The state of the Chemong road, too, is a legal point of view, was an obstacle in the way that the government would not remove unless Mr. Covert was paid in full. There was no definite proposition; he had some to hear, but had heard nothing definite. He (Mr. D.) had no sympathy with the extravagance of how long would the lumber of back lakes last; the square timber trade was fast dying out, and so would sawn lumber also. The lumber interest was all that would be served; of course they were liberal, honest men and would do their share. He did not fear the rival villages. Rochester did not suffer from Charlotte. But lumber did not do everything; London, C. W., lived and prospered from being in a fine agricultural country, and although the lumber trade removed Peterborough must prosper.

J. Dumble, Esq., of Cobourg, also one of a deputation, addressed the meeting. He said that although he had not heard as much of reconstruction of the Cobourg road as he would have wished, still he had heard much that pleased him. The rival road to Lindsay now carried $35,000 worth of freight while from Peterboro it was only $65,000. He had built and long lusted to obtain the Chemong road. He would now advise them to aid in reconstructing the Cobourg road and then the extension would follow. There were grave difficulties in the way, legal and other difficulties, but a united effort would remove all; Peterboro influence might not effect it, but Cobourg and Peterboro might. As to cost, if $150,000 built the road to Mud Lake, it would be done for less than any similar road in the province. But if built, how run? Port Hope might not do it, and then, how would they do? They would have to expend $100,000 more in rolling stock. He here referred to the Marmora company, their capital and energetic; they were millionaires; but an offer sufficient to induce them must be made, for they were Americans, and their interest was not in Peterboro, perhaps they never heard of such a place. He (Mr. D.) did not come prepared to make any offer for the company, but he believed as a director, he could prevail on the company to do something if a liberal offer were made. $200,000 would be required to rebuild the Cobourg road, and extend it to Mud Lake, and he would tell them what he believed would be accepted—that if Peterboro would give $100,000, $40,000 toward the reconstruction as soon as completed and $60,000 towards the extension to be paid as soon as completed, that if this were made the road would again be at Peterboro before the 15th of May next, and extension would also be made as soon as the legal difficulties are removed. He did not come to ask or beg, but merely as a citizen of Cobourg, but he would like to hear what offer they would make.

A. H. Campbell then moved:

"That it is most desirable that the railway connection between this town and Cobourg should be renewed and kept it in expedient, in consideration of the Cobourg and Marmora Railway Company undertaking to complete the same by the 15th day of May next with a permanent bridge across Rice Lake, to give assistance to that Company to the extent of £10,000, on condition of receiving from the said Company an undertaking to extend the line to Chemong Lake immediately on the necessary legislation being obtained, and an amount of £15,000 in stock in said extension being subscribed by the Municipalities or other parties interested in the County of Peterborough."

He did not wish to support it, but as it did not bind Peterborough to either Port Hope or Cobourg it could do no harm.

Col. Haultain seconded it. He (Col. H.) was obliged to Mr Dumble for the information, and he again reiterated that it would take the wisest head to go to work to ensure what Peterborough now required.

E. Burnham then volunteered a few words. He came to discuss the extension to Mud Lake. He would oppose giving $40,000 to the Cobourg road. Already the Town had lost $80,000 in the Port Hope road, and he would oppose the expenditure of any more. He was opposed to subsidizing Cobourg and then be met by impassible legislation in the Chemong road. Mr. Dumble had sold out his stock in the Chemong road and received his money, and if we went to parliament they would say, pay Covert first for parliament goes on principles of justice. He would like to see the County improve, but he would not give all he had away to improve it. He had now more property than he could pay for but he would do a little, with the hopes of being able yet to pay the whole. He would go for extension but nothing else. He would oppose reconstruction just as he knew how.

Col. Haultain would like a definite proposition how to get the extension. It would cost $250,000; tell us how to get this or how to do it cheaper before he would oppose.

Mr. Burnham had no definite way, but he would not give $40,000 to Cobourg. He would not waste all for nothing. If the town wanted a road to Mud Lake let them have it, but he would oppose giving $100,000 to Cobourg. He was opposed to the scheme.

Col. Haultain, thought Mr. Burnham should submit a way of getting the extension before he would oppose.

Mr. Clinton then spoke. He remarked that he approached the subject with fear. There had been two meetings, and all was arranged; but he feared when he heard Mr. Burnham, one of the largest property holders in town except Mr. Hall, expressed himself opposed to it. The town of Peterboro was as well managed as any town in Canada, and the railway was as well managed. As to himself, he had suffered as much, if not more than any other man in town. He bought grain on six points and therefore required more accommodation than many; but he never received a favor, not one; but had to pay as high as other men. The winds of this disastrous year out of the yard being ruined, and the absence of sufficient rolling stock; had the staff been efficient above there would be no fault. He might be asked why he advocated the Port Hope Road; he would get credit for truthfulness, and he could say that he had to by that road. Mr. Rogers, of Ashburnham, had also been hurt; and he (Mr. C.) received a severe lesson; but still he advocated the road because it had done all it could. In matter of tariff, the Cobourg Co. charged for, when the branch was constructed as 6d. for wharfage; the road now only charge 1 $1.76 and 25 cents of wharfage about Hope. Mr. Covert was also putting in road in proper state of repairs. This reduced $40,000 at Galloway's Bridge, and 1,00 tons of iron was ordered for the road. He would suggest, however, that some offer be made to Mr. Covert, and he was sure it would be met, and $100,000 secured. If the thing was carried now we would regret it, but would not prosper if the gun was not reproduced, but he felt sure that Mr. Covert was as patriotic and would build when he paid for. He (Mr. C.) was authorized to say that if the town would give Mr. Covert $50,000 he would proceed to Mud Lake, and that $50,000 more when the freight to exceed that from Lindsay now.

Mr. Clinton then moved an amendment as follows:

"That in the opinion of this meeting it is inadvisable at the present time, for the corporation of the town of Peterborough to assist to any amount whatever in repairing of the Cobourg and Peterborough railroad, and in the extension thereof to Mud Lake, the town being already much in debt and the taxes as high as the inhabitants can well bear."

Mr. Henthorn seconded it. Mr. Henthorn on rising, was received with groans and hisses. The Mayor, however, soon restored order, when Mr. H. proceeded. For 40 years he had been a resident of the town, and he came to warn them against putting taxes on themselves. Mr. Beatty and Dumble were there to get help to build their road, but if we want a road can we not build it ourselves—they ask $40,000. Now mind you carry home every word I say in your head. Don't vote a dollar; if you do you will ruin yourselves and others. What do the Cobourgers offer? nothing. We never got a dollar from Cobourg, nor never will. Mr Dumble wants $40,000. Do ye think he would then build the road; not a bit of it. The whole pack are nothing but knaves and slaves. They all made themselves rich after the last road, as Geo. Boulton told me. But, mind ye, keep cool; we're no fools; we won't give them a dollar; not one. Col. Haultain opposed his friend, Mr. Burnham, but what offer had been made.

Here the Mayor called Mr. Henthorn to the question.

Mr. Henthorn then resumed and ended by enquiring what Cobourg would do.

Dr. Beatty then, as Mayor, said that he had been empowered to say that Cobourg was ready to give the company $160,000 of preferential stock, worth in each $60,000, towards the reconstruction, if Peterborough did anything liberal.

Mr. Campbell remarked that he ought to open up the back country independent of the lumber trade. Mr. Covert was an honest man, but he would, no doubt, serve himself and his own interest. We must mind our interest, and that is to open up the country. If Mr. Covert's offer is the best we should take it. If not, we should take the best offer from whomsoever it may come.—Mr. Campbell moved to withdraw his motion to allow time for discussion again.

Mr. Clinton would if both motion and amendment should be printed.

Mr. Fairbairn moved adjournment to another meeting. Here confusion got up thro' the efforts of some one to get the adjournment put. But the Mayor put the amendment as they could not agree, and being lost, the motion was declared carried.

Moved by Mr. Dumble, seconded by Mr. Smickland:

"That a Committee be appointed to take into consideration the subject matter before this meeting, and to report on the different proposals offered to carry out the Railway extension to Mud Lake, and the most feasible plan affecting the same; and that the following be the Committee:—Messrs. Carnegie, Hilliard, Melville Millar, Jas. Campbell, William Hall, W.H. Scott, A. H. Campbell, H. Strickland, W. A. Scott, James Stevenson, Enos Burnham, Wm. Clinton, Robert Dennistoun, and D. W. Dumble."

The meeting then broke up, being about 12 o'clock.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

The Council met on Tuesday in half-yearly session. All the members were present.

The minutes of the last day of the previous meeting were read and confirmed.

The Warden addressed the Council as follows:

GENTLEMEN,—This being the most important meeting of the Council of the year, I deem it my duty to call your attention to some of the obligations that will devolve upon us during the session.

Our financial positions is not unfavorable, yet when the report of assets and liabilities is laid before you, it will require your most careful consideration, and provision will have to be made to meet the current liabilities and the growing wants of the country until the taxes are collected. The revision of the assessments of the several municipalities will take up our time, and it is important that a more satisfactory adjustment be arrived at. I am of opinion that the aggregate should be raised at least twenty-five per cent, as the present amount does not show a true statement as to value, and is unfavorable to the county.

The most extraordinary state of our roads, the damage caused by the large quantities of rain that fell during the last fall and spring, and the increased traffic, has rendered them (during the season of mud roads) certainly dangerous and almost impassable. I am of opinion that a different payment will have to be adopted, in order to make our improvements more permanent, thereby saving the outlay of the small sums (though in the aggregate large) that we are making from year to year upon our bad, and lanes and roads used in lieu thereof, for years to come. In connection our present mode of the work of making them pass next will have to be done, and in the meantime we are struggling on over our bad roads, and our money wasted.

With regard to the House of Refuge, &c., the Report of your Committee will be laid before you, and you will be called upon to make provision for its erection, which will be another and additional expenditure.

The planning of the Court House Grounds was undertaken by your Advisory Committee, conjointly with the Town authorities, at the suggestion made by County Property Committee of the late Council. I am happy to say that the work has been satisfactorily completed under the direction of A. C. Dunlop, Esq., who deserves the thanks of the Council for his attention.

Dr. A. McRea has tendered his resignation as Trustee of the Peterboro' Grammar School. You will be required to fill the vacancy.

I received a letter from the Warden of the County of Victoria, calling my attention to the state of Cowans bridge, used on County boundary, which he says is down and impassible. I did not reply, awaiting your instructions, and the meeting of Council being so near at hand.

According to your instructions, I have caused the notice to parliament in respect to the resurvey of the townships of Harvey and Burleigh, to be published according to law.

The bridge between Ashburnham and Peterboro has been satisfactorily rebuilt, a report of the same, &c., will be laid before you.

The bridges over the Otonabee at the Locks and Warsaw Mills are reported in a dangerous state; it will be necessary to take some action in the matter.

The work on the Drill Shed has been suspended in consequence of a defect in the plan of roof, but I am instructed that the Government will take immediate steps to have the defect repaired.

Since the last meeting of Council the Sheriff has been pleased to change the Jailor and Assistant, Mr. Norton having been removed, it will be necessary that you appoint another Care-taker of the Court House and Grounds.

Of course there are many other matters that will come before you, and I feel confident that they will receive that careful consideration that their nature and importance require,

P. M. GROVER,
Warden.

On motion of Mr. Pearce, seconded by Mr. Carroll, Messrs. Walton, Carroll, Choate, F. Peck, Miller, Clark, and the mover were appointed a committee on the Warden's address.

On motion of Mr. Choate, seconded by Mr Pearce, Messrs. Carroll, Pearce, Scott, S. S. Peck, Garbutt, Miller, and the mover were appointed a committee to equalize the Assessment Rolls for the present year.

The committee appointed last session to report on a House of Refuge required to be built, reported,—That they did not think it advisable at present to recommend the erection of a House of Refuge, complete in all respects, such as the Town and County must ultimately have, but they recommend that a building should be commenced, sufficient to the present needs of the Town and County, and that it should be built so that it could be added to when it was found necessary to do so. The committee referred to several sites viz., one the property of C. A. Weller, near the Rev. Mr. Gilmour's; one south of the Town on Town property; one north of the Town, property of Mr. Chalmers; the property of Mrs. Kilpatrick was also referred to, and a site in Douro just north of Ashburnham; but the two to several of these were not satisfactory.

The report also referred to the fact that at present there was no law to enable the Town and County to act conjointly in the matter, and to the necessity for an Act of Parliament to enable the Town to do so.

The Committee further recommend that the County Council advertize for statements of eligible sites and the prices of each.

The report further states that the Committee considers that as soon as the Town can do its part that that part should be one half of the cost of the site and building, and after that a moiety of the yearly expense of the support and maintenance of the establishment.

The prices of sites varied from $150 to $90 per acre.

On motion of Mr. Pearce, the Council went into committee of the whole on the report. After some discussion the report was referred to the committee again, with power to add to the number.

A communication from the Warden of Victoria was read, on the state of Cowan's Bridge, and referred to the committee on Roads and Bridges.

On motion of Mr. Pearce, the expenses account of the Board of Instruction for the eastern section of the County, was referred to the committee on Finance.

The Reeve of Belmont read a report of the timber sold by him off highways. The report was filed.

The resignation of M. S. Dean and Geo. Fitzgerald, as road commissioners, was received, their report being first read. The report was referred to the Road and Bridge committee.

On motion of Mr. Dunlop, Messrs. Carnegie was heard before the Council in reference to inviting the members of the County Council to the public meeting on Wednesday evening.

A motion of Mr. Pearce to accept the invitation, was carried.

The Reeve of Dummer presented a petition from his Council, requesting the Council to take action to compel Douro to spend a certain sum in opening up the boundary between Douro and Dummer. The petition was received and referred to the committee on Roads and Bridges.

On motion of Mr. Young, seconded by Mr. Carroll, a By-law to establish a statute labor division on the boundary between North and South Monaghan, was ordered to be prepared.

The Council adjourned.

WEDNESDAY.

Council met at 10 o'clock.

The minutes of yesterday were read and signed.

The Warden read a report from the county Engineer on the repairs of the Otonabee bridge, Locks bridge, and Nassau bridge.—The report was received and ordered to be filed.

A By-law to form a statute labour division between South and North Monaghan was then put through two readings.

On motion of Mr. Walton, the Committee on the Warden's address were allowed to report. The report was adopted.

The Council adjourned till 2 o'clock, p.m.

At 2 o'clock the Council met. All the members present.

It was moved by Mr. Walton, seconded by Mr. Carroll,—That Mr. Garbutt's name be added to the Road and Bridge committee.—Carried.

On motion of Mr. Scott, the committee appointed to report on the Chemong Lake and Pigeon Creek Bridges were allowed to report.

The Council went into committee of the whole on the second reading of the report. It was read in committee without amendment, and on motion of Mr. Pearce was adopted.

On motion of Mr. Lucas, seconded by Mr. Mellville, a committee of the Warden and Messrs. Scott, Dunlop and Walton was appointed to erect a flag staff at the court house.

Moved by Mr. Carroll, seconded by Mr. Pearce,—That this Council do issue debentures for the sum of ten thousand dollars for the purpose of constructing bridges across Chemong Lake and Pigeon Creek, providing that the Council of the Town of Peterboro will give a satisfactory guarantee for the repayment of one half, to meet payment of Debentures.

James Stratton, Esq., Secretary of the Reform Convention for the East Riding of the County of Peterborough.

DEAR SIR,

Upon mature consideration, I have determined not to be a candidate at the approaching election.

The reasons which have induced me to take this step are mainly as follows:—I find I cannot possibly devote sufficient time to make that thorough canvass of the Riding always necessary in cases of this kind, and I feel I should be doing the party an injustice were I, without having done so, to allow my name to go to the polls.

There are many in the Reform ranks more advanced in years than I am, and thereby more experienced, men who have spent their life in the service, whose ability far exceeds mine, and who, therefore, have larger claims, than I have, to the honor.

Aside from these considerations the fact that to the sections of the rear townships, whence interests any candidate should have at heart, I am a comparative stranger.

Any one of the foregoing is sufficient to dissuade me from becoming a candidate at this election, but all combined render it prudent that I should not be.

Regretting exceedingly that my indecision has rendered necessary another meeting of the Delegates, I remain, &c.,

THOS. GEO. SNDATE.

Over a Million Dollars Saved!

Gentlemen:—"I had a negro man worth $1,200 who took cold from a bad hurt in the leg, and was useless for over a year. I had used everything I could hear of without benefit, until I tried the Mexican Mustang Liniment—It soon effected a permanent cure."

J. L. DOWNING.

Montgomery, Ala., June 17, 1859.

"Banks Giauque is recommending the Mexican Mustang Liniment as a valuable and indispensable article for Sprains, Sores, Scratches or Galls on Horses. Our man all say it acts like magic."

J. W. HEWITT,
Foreman for America, Wells, Fargo's and Harnden's Express

"The Sprain of my daughters ankle, occasioned while skating last winter, was entirely cured in one week, after she commenced using your celebrated Mustang Liniment.

ED. NELLY."

Worcester, Mass., Aug 1, 1865.

It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man and beast, than any article ever discovered. Families, livery-men and planters should always have it on hand. Quick and sure it certainly is. All genuine is wrapped in steel-plate engravings, bearing the signature of "G. W. Westbrook Chemist, and the private U. S. stamp of Demas Barnes & Co. over the top.

An effort has been made to counterfeit it with a cheap stone plate label. Look closely!

Saratoga Spring Water, sold by all Druggists.

It is a most delightful Hair Dressing.
It eradicates scurf and dandruff
It keeps the hair cool, soft and glossy.
It prevents hair turning gray and falling off
It restores hair upon prematurely bald heads

This is just what Lyon's Kathairon will do. It is pretty. It is cheap. Durable. It is literally sold by the car-load, and yet its almost increasing, until there is hardly a country store that does not keep it, or a family that does not use it.

Heimstreet's Inimitable Hair Coloring is not a dye. All instantaneous dyes are composed of lunar caustic, and more or less destroy the vitality and beauty of the hair. This is the original Hair Coloring and has been growing in favor over twenty years. It restores gray hair to its original color by gradual absorption, in a most remarkable manner. It is also a beautiful hair dressing. Sold in two sizes 50 cents and $1 by all dealers.

SIR JAMES CLARKE'S

CELEBRATED FEMALE PILLS,

Prepared from a Prescription of Sir James Clarke, M. D., Physician Extraordinary to the Queen.

This well-known Medicine is no imposition, but a sure and safe remedy, for Female Difficulties and Obstruction from any cause whatever; and although a powerful remedy, it contains nothing hurtful to the constitution. To married ladies it is peculiarly suited. It will in a short time bring on the monthly period with regularity.

In all cases of nervous and spinal affections, pain in the back and limbs, heaviness, fatigue on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, lowness of spirits, headache, pain in the side, &c., and all the painful diseases occasioned by a disordered system, these Pills will effect a cure when all other means have failed.

☞ These Pills have never been known to fail, where the directions on the second page of the Pamphlet are well observed.

For full particulars, get a pamphlet, free, of the Agent.

N. B. Sent to any persons writing for it, or any authorized Agent will present, or deliver and take up Pills, by return mail.

LIFE AND WORKS OF
ROBERT BURNS,

BY THE
REV. D. HATELY WADDELL,
(Founder of the Caledonian Society in Hamilton, and Chairman at the "Centenary on the Centenary of his Birth).

This addition will be illustrated with Two Portraits of the Poet; with Frontispiece composed of five Scenes selected from the Works or Land of Burns; and with Twenty-five Pictures from Original Drawings—the whole produced in Sweet Oil Colours, from Engravings by eminent artists, in the highest style of the art.

The prominent Literary characteristic of this edition will be an entirely New Life of the Poet, in the form of a Spiritual Biography, by the Rev. Editor; with much valuable matter, still under reading the Poet—the Publisher having unpublished Fragments of the Poet himself, interesting original Reminiscences of his Life, original Notes critical and historical on his Poems, and an Essay on the Progress and Development of the Scottish Language up till his day.

In the department of Illustration, the distinctive feature of every Picture will be its originality in Design, and its absolute fidelity to nature in every detail of Scenery. The several spot referred to with all its surroundings, wherever locality constitutes a portion of the picture, will be scrupulously adhered to—so that readers at a distance, natives of Scotland, may recognise in these some treasured of the soil; and strangers may look with confidence on every Illustration as a reality. In the same Department, the Publisher has the highest satisfaction in being able to announce that he is in a position to reproduce an authentic and most wonderful Likeness of Robert Burns—from the Original Miniature unquestionably, which was painted the year before his death; and of whose Burns affirms that it is "the most remarkable likeness of what I am at this moment, that I think ever was taken of any body"—together with a most interesting and beautiful Miniature of his eldest Son, painted at the same time as a pendant to the Poet's likeness. These Portraits, which have been loaned by the young Baronet's family, are now in possession of the Rev. D. Hately Waddell; and cannot fail, when presented to the world, to excite universal admiration. No Portraits of the Poet known can compare for originality, in Sterling of force, with this miniature of Burns.

The work will be completed in Seventy-six Monthly Parts, Demy 4 to 48 pages, price Half a Dollar each. Printed from new type upon the finest printing paper.

The great care and beauty with which the above work is being got up will make it an ornament most suitable for the drawing-room alike of the prince and of the merchant; while the mode of publishing and the price charged will bring it easily within the reach of every tradesman throughout the world.

"Beyond the sea—beyond the sun;
Till then, and then I love thee!"

GRAHAM & STRATTON, sole agent for the County of Peterborough.

Who would not be beautiful? What would not add to their beauty? What gives the marble purity and alabaster appearance to the person? What makes the ladies the envy of all? It is no longer a secret. They use Hagar's Magnolia Balm. It continued use removes tan, freckles, pimples and roughness, from the face and hands, and leaves the complexion smooth, transparent, blooming and ravishing. FLAX GROWING.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.

If any Farmer wishes to try an acre or two of Flax, I will furnish Seed, with seed, and explain the mode of its cultivation and preparation for the Fibre. As I have established a Scutching Mill amongst you, I think it is the duty of every Flax-Grower to encourage me, and I will assure you that it is the best spring crop I will have seed to grow (Thirteen), and will give you the names of a few Farmers who grew it last year in their entire exemption from [illegible]

R. Brown, Esq., Otonabee, 2½ acres, 7 tons $102 50
R. Lush, Esq., Dummer, 2 acres, 5½ cwt., 17 60
O'Connor, Esq., Douro, 1 acre, 3 tons 1120 lbs. 40 32
J. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2½ acres, 7½ tons 105 00
A. [illegible], Esq., Smith, 2 acres, ½ acre, 110 lbs 47 27
T. Tully, Esq., Smith, 1 acre, 3 tons 36 00
Matt. Walton, Esq., Smith, 2 acres, 6 tons 500 lbs. 81 00
A. Mawhinney, Esq., Smith, 1 bushel, 2 tons 1500 lbs. 29 50
[illegible], Esq., Douro, 1 bushel, 3 tons 500 lbs. 65 50
G. McKeon, Esq., Otonabee, 2 bushels, 4 tons 1620 lbs. 63 85

These are a great many more I could give you the names of, but as these gentlemen are the most prominently known I refer to them only. In every other place in Canada where these Mill-owners have already been established, the Farmers have come forward and willingly hired themselves to raise from 200 to 300 acres the first year. If they will not pay, why do farmers in other places hire themselves to grow it? There was as high as one thousand dollars [illegible] last year. I will be happy to try a couple from Smith to find out what land is best suitable it will be for growing it. I have given you references from all the townships around here; you can [illegible] have all done equally well. Another great argument in favor of the Farmers growing it is that they should they could make, for it is only necessary after pulling the flax to allow it to dry sufficiently before selling it, when they can realize money to assist them in harvesting their other crops.

For further particulars see bills.

Being solicited by your Travelling Agent, or an expression of opinion of Dr. Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry. I with pleasure assert that it is, in my belief, the best remedy before the public for coughs and pulmonary complaints.

Having tested the article with myself and family, in cases of severe coughs and colds, for years, with uniform and unexceptionable success, I unhesitatingly recommend it with full confidence in its merits.

Peterboro', Jan. 30th, 1867. 5

This is to certify, that my sister-in-law was severely afflicted with rheumatism to such an extent that she could not move or turn herself in bed with t assistance from others. in fact she was as helpless as a child. She was attended by three physicians, who reside in this neighborhood, but all their skill was of no avail in relieving her pain. I was advised by Mr. John Archer to try Dr. Morris's Invigorating Fluid, as he assured me that it had done him good when all other remedies had failed. I bought two bottles, tried it, and found it had good effect, when I bought four bottles more. I am happy to inform the public that she is perfectly cured and able to perform her household duties, and advise all who have the misfortune to be afflicted with Rheumatism to try the Invigorating Fluid,
